At the New York line, near Salisbury, the road connects with the Westerly route through Millerton and thence direct to Rhinebeck and Rhinecliff, where the ferry crosses the Hudson to the Catskill Mountain resorts. From Salisbury north through New England is the direct route to South Egremont, Great Barrington and the Berkshire region to Williamstown.

Hits Direct Through Route

Among the organizations which are strong advocates of the memorial highway plan and its improvement are the Connecticut State Chamber of Commerce and the Connecticut Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

The easterly portion of the highway provides a more direct route for tourists from Hartford to Norwich, where a direct road leads to New London, and southeasterly by the Trumbull highway to Westerly. By improving this section from a point beyond South Manchester, starting from Bolton Notch to Yantic, the present branch route by way of Willimantic will be eliminated, thereby saving through tourists the annoyances and delays due to congested traffic on Main street, Willimantic. In addition, it provides for greater motor safety, as the dangerous corners of South Windham and the deadly railroad crossing known as Williams crossing will also be eliminated.

Commissioner Macdonald estimated in 1923 when the general assembly approved the memorial highway plan, that cost of constructing the twelve miles especially needed would be about $300,000. A portion of the expense would be borne by the towns of Andover, Columbia, Franklin and Lebanon.

Trumbull's War Services

Jonathan Thumbull was governor of Connecticut for fourteen years, from 1769 to 1783. He was born at Lebanon in 1710. He entered Harvard at the age of 13 years; entered the ministry after graduation and was pastor of a church at Colchester until 1731, when, on the death of an elder brother, he joined his father, who was a prominent shipping merchant in mercantile pursuits. He showed great business ability and his interest in public affairs led to his election in 1733 to the general assembly. For several years he was the governor's assistant and deputy governor for three years until his election in 1769 to the highest office in the state.

In his war office more than a thousand important meetings were held during the Revolution, as Trumbull was commander-in-chief of the Connecticut forces during the war. His earnestness in the cause of independence was shown in the promptness with which he furnished additional troops for the continental army. He was one of the earliest advocates of a strong federal government. It is interesting to note that, while Yale conferred upon him the degree of LL. D. in 1779, a similar honor was conferred upon him by the University of Edinburgh at a later date. He died in 1785.

Jonathan Trumbull's four sons were all prominent in the Revolution. His son of the same name was military secretary to Washington and also governor of Connecticut, while the youngest son, John T. Trumbull, after service in the war, studied painting under West in London and became famous as a historical painter. Besides his celebrated war scenes, as, The Battle of Bunker Hill, The Death of Montgomery and The Surrender of Cornwallis, Trumbull painted the portraits of many famous persons of his time, ten of which are in New York city hall, including those of Washington, Hamilton, John Jay and George Clinton.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

REAL SUCCESS

There is no success apart from character. One is profited nothing if he gain the whole world and lose his soul. The successful man must first of all be the manly man. Joseph is an illustration of one who attained this highest success. In the midst of corruption and in the face of the most severe temptation he maintained his purpose and integrity. With purity and fidelity he combined strength and courage. He could be neither seduced or frightened into wrongdoing.

Dangers did not daunt him, difficulties did not discourage him, adversity did not cast him down nor prosperity puff him up. Sold into slavery; cast into prison, threatened with death, he still kept a stout and cheerful heart; and then, when the wheel turned round again and lifted him to a position of honor and power, he remained the same, simple, affectionate, and magnanimous man that he had always been. Mark his bearing toward his brothers and his agen father, and you will see the token of that true gentility which makes beautiful conduct easy and natural.

He was successful in that other sense. He could do things. He was wise in planning and strong in executing. He was ready for all emergencies, and knew how to make himself useful under all circumstances.

The secret of this large success was contained in the statement that "God was with him," and God was with him because he welcomed the divine companionship and was reverent and obedient. God will be with us on the same terms. The companionship of God made all the best things real to him—made it worth while for him to be pure and brave and true and and magnanimous, and gave him strength to do and dare and conquer. It is quite certain that Joseph was a happy man. The Bible does not say this in so many words, but you feel it as you read the story. It is like a bath of verbal sunshine. It fills you with hope and good cheer. Of course there are dark spots in the picture. Joseph had his trials and his sorrows as all of us must. But the dark spots only emphasize the general brightness.

The joy of being a noble man, doing noble deeds, and of living on terms of friendship with God more than counterbalanced all the ills that came to him.

Sothern Routed by Stage Fright

Finally winning his father's consent to his adopting a theatrical career, Edward H. Sothern was so frightened upon his first appearance that he ran from the stage without speaking the one line assigned him.

Born in New Orleans while his father, E. A. Sothern, the famous English comedian, was touring this country, the boy was taken to England and educated in academies there. It was his ambition to follow in his father's footsteps, but the elder Sothern objected strongly and thought he should be an artist.

Trained to enter the art department of the Royal Academy Edward failed to pass the entrance examinations and again pleaded to go on the stage. Although deriding the boy's ambition, saying he never would make an actor, his father took him to New York and gave him the part of the cabman in the play of "Sam." And at 18 Edward made his debut at the Adelphi Theatre, but was so filled with stage fright that he could not utter a word. His father rebuked him in an undertone, and the boy ran off the stage.

The incident so impressed the elder Southern that he determined to make his son an actor, and retained him for a year, then obtain for him a small part in the company of John McCollough, a famous actor. A year later E. A. Sothern died, soon afterward McCollough suffered a mental breakdown and the young actor endured hardships until he obtained a minor part in "Mona," managed by Daniel Frohman.

Finding a play entitled "The Highest Bidder" among his father's effects, he was given the part of Jack Hamilton and became a successful star. Then followed other successes at the head of his own company. He was married to Virginia Harned, his leading lady, at 37, but they were divorced four years later.

Tiring of swashbucking drama, he essayed the part of Hamlet at 41, and scored another marked success. Returning to romantic drama, he soon was forced to go back to Shakespeare. He was married to Julia Marlowe and after giving elaborate productions of Shakespeare, they retired from the stage only to be recalled again. And today, at 54, Sothern is considered one of America's great actors.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Gutzon Borglum, central figure in the controversy over the completion of the Stone Mountain memorial, is a sculptor of acknowledged genius, an inventor as well as artist, and something of a political writer, too. He was born and grew up in Idaho, studied are in San Francisco and later in Paris. From 1890 to 1902 most of his time was spent in Europe studying, working at both painting and sculpture, and winning his way into the Paris Salon and exhibitions in other cities. After settling down in New York he executed some of the best commissions yet given in America to sculptors capable of dealing with the highest town of civic and ecclesiatical design. Probably he is best known to the masses of his countrymen by his colossal head of Lincoln to be seen in the rotunda of the capitol at Washington, and the statue of Lincoln in Newark, N. J.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

OYSTERS

Chicago has laid down a penalty of $25 for eating raw oysters because of a typhoid epidemic and the fishermen of the lower Chesapeake bay are rushing to Annapolis to get government assistance for their slumping trade.

Concerning oysters, Hugh M. Smith, former United States Commissioner of Fisheries, in a communication to the National Geographic Society says:

"Oysters are the most popular and most extensively eaten of all shellfish; economically, they are the most important of all cultivated water products and, with the single exception of the sea herrings, the most valuable of all aquatic animals.

"The oyster crop of the world at the present time amounts to over twenty-two million bushels and is valued at nearly $20,000,000. Of this output, the share of the United States is 79 per cent of the quantity and 63 per cent of the value. Of the remaining portion the greater part belongs to France.

"In any consideration of the world's oyster industry the United States necessarily receives first and most prominent mention, for there is no country in which oysters occupy a more important place. The output here is larger and more valuable than elsewhere, and the relative importance of oysters compared with the total fishery product is greater. Furthermore, among the leading oyster-producing countries the cost of oysters to the consumer is least and the per capita consumption is greatest in the United States.

"The seven leading oyster states, each of which produces over a million bushels annually, are Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island, New York, Mississippi and Louisiana.

"The body of water which produces more oysters than any other body of water in the United States, or, in fact, in the whole world, is Chesapeake bay. Late statistics of the oyster industry show the preponderating importance of the bay; an output of over seven and three-fourths million bushels, valued at $4,460,000 or 35 per cent of the quantity and 22 per cent of the value of the entire oyster crop of the United States for 1920.

"Oysters have been under culture longer than any other shell-fish and, indeed, than any other water creature. A simple type of cultivation, with the formation of artificial beds, flourished in China at a very remote period and probably antedated by some centuries the inception of oyster culture in Italy, about the year 100 B. C.

"At least one hundred species are known, with a rather wide range in size, shape, habits, flavor, and food value. Some excellent species exist in the equatorial and sub-tropical regions, but the best occur in temperate climes. The northern limits of their habitat are the Gulf of St. Lawrence and southern Norway in the Atlantic, and Hokkaido and Puget sound in the Pacific.

"Oysters produce an immense number of young in order to compensate for the heavy mortality that occurs at all stages of growth, but particularly in the early months. It is an astonishing biological fact that in some species of oyster each sex is represented by a different individual, as in the oyster of the Atlantic coast of North America; while in other species both sexes are united in one individual—the male stage alternating with the female, as in the common oyster of the Atlantic coast of Europe.

"The human animal is not the only one that looks with favor upon the edible qualities of the oyster. At every stage in its career it is attacked by a horde of dangerous enemies, some of which are most destructive after the oyster has put on its stoutest armor and would seem to be almost invulnerable. Before it becomes attached, the delicate oyster fry is extensively consumed by adult oysters, and various other shellfish, as well as by fishes like the Monhaden, which are able to strain their food from the water. When the oyster attains its shell, a new set of shellfish enemies, provided with drills, begin their attacks and extract the soft parts through minute holes. In some localities various snail-like mollusks do immense damage to the beds of oysters in their first year."

Stories That Recall Others

Radio For Neighborhood

Not content to sit in his cozy home and listen all alone with his family to his four tube radio set Fred places his loud speaker on the porch of his home every evening and gives his neighbors the benefit of the broadcasted programmes. He says persons have told him of hearing it three blocks away and there have been a dozen auto parties parked along the street to enjoy the concerts by the hour. One night more than 100 were listening in. He built the set himself and it cost him not over $20.

A Pretty Girl's Mistake

A pretty girl tripped into an establishment the other day, while some renovating was being done and asked to be directed to the ladies waiting room. She was given the directions but was informed the "place is undergoing changes."

That didn't register and she plunged in. "Are you sure you were to meet your party at ——— ?" was asked some minutes later.

"Oh," she exclaimed much disturbed, "I thought this was ———!" and the last seen of her she was breaking all speed laws for pedestrians on her way to the right place.

After months of suffering
Baby's skin trouble healed in one week

South Hills, Pittsburg, Pa., March 22:—"I certainly bless the day I started to use Resinol Soap and Ointment. I tried for four or five months to cure my baby of a skin and scalp trouble—tried nearly everything—but nothing did any good. Finally, a neighbor recommended Resinol and after using the soap and ointment on baby for three days, all the scabs fell off and in one week's time the trouble was entirely cured. I will never be without them. My husband uses the Resinol Shaving Stick—he thinks it's the best he ever used." (Signed) Mrs. J. J. Baumgarten, Box #50—R. D. #2.

MOVE TO TAKE CHAPMAN TRIAL OUT OF HARTFORD COUNTY

Hartford, March 13—A determined move to take the trial of Gerald Chapman, for the murder of Policeman James Skelly, of New Britain, out of Hartford county, was started today by Judge Frederick J. Groehl, of New York and C. W. Murphy, of Danbury defense lawyers.

With the filing of a motion for change of venue, it was announced by Judge Broehl that several residents of this section of the state will be subpoenaed tomorrow to testify at a hearing on the motion to be held before Judge Newell Jennings, of Bristol in the superior court here Tuesday. They have made affidavits, he said, that for the publicity concerning Chapman they have formed opinions prejudicial to him. He declined to name the witnesses or to give the exact number but said that they were representative citizens well known in the locality, who have been interviewed by Lawyer Murphy.

Representatives of several newspapers published in the county, including "the Courant" and "Times" in Hartford and the "Herald" in New Britain, are also to be cited to appear at the hearing, according to Judge Groehl. The particular officials of these newspapers who are to be subpoenaed were not named but it was inferred that circulation managers would be called to give sworn testimony as to the extent of their circulation in the county in which Chapman is now scheduled to be tried beginning Tuesday, March 24.

HELD FOR ARRAIGNMENT ON LIQUOR LAW CHARGE

New Haven, March 13—Peter T. Dumire of 45 Union street, Waterbury, who was arrested on a bench warrant after he had been discharged in the state court in Waterbury, was ordered held for the United States court here, April 6, after arraignment before United States Commissioner Bernard E. Lynch here. He is held on major law violation charges and waiver examination.

Dumire's arrest followed a raid on a home where a small amount of moonshine was seized. His arraignment in this city was made necessary because of the illness of the Waterbury commissioner.

At the Reichsbank in Berlin denial was made of the report from New York of New German gold purchases in the United States. It was said that, on the contrary, the Reichsbank was planning a gradual withdrawal of funds abroad designated as "uncharged gold balance abroad."

APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE MAKES VISITS HERE

Members of the appropriations committee of the legislature, with others, visited the Norwich state hospital and the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium Friday and became acquainted with the urgent needs for which these two state institutions are asking appropriations.

State Treasurer E. E. Rogers of New London, Senator Lee Roy Robbins of this city, Dr. J. J. Donohue and Capt. Charles A. Hagberg, two of the state hospital trustees, were at the state hospital to greet the committee, which was shown around the institution by the superintendent, Dr. F. S. Wilcox, who pointed out the special needs for $24,000 for a new bakery, $30,000 for a new power house and $85,000 additional to the credit of $175,000 to build a new ward.

The party arrived at the hospital by automobile about 11 o'clock and had dinner about 1 o'clock as guests of Dr. and Mrs. Wilcox at their residence, covers being laid for forty.

From there Dr. H. B. Campbell, who had been a guest at dinner, piloted them to the tuberculosis sanatorium. Here Dr. Campbell showed them this model institution and pointed out the urgency for a dormitory for women, to accommodate 60 patients, for which $60,000 is asked.

The members of the appropriation committee are, Senators Platt, chairman; Pierson, house chairman, Mr. Clark, Haddam; clerk, Mr. Osborn, Redding; Mr. Wadsworth, Farmington; Mrs. Vinton, Mansfield; Messrs. Brackett, Willington; Hubbell, Westport; Weatherhead, Windham; Bronson, Winchester; Bradley, East Haven; Brown, Colchester; Waters, Middlebury.

WILL ABANDON ICY-HOT PLANT IN CINCINNATI

(Special to the Bulletin)

Cincinnati, March 13—Whether the big plant of the Icy-Hot Bottle Co., Second and Elm Street, in this city with about 400 employes will be moved from Cincinnati to Norwich, Conn. depends upon developments after arrangements are completed for incorporating the American Thermos Bottle Co., of Ohio Gustave Mattman, president of the former company, said here late today. Some time ago the Icy-Hot Co., merged with the American Thermos Co., which owns plants at Norwich, Conn., and Huntington, W. Va. They all will be combined in the new company to be capitalized at about $3,500,000.

Mr. Mattman said it is planned to combine two of these three plants for greater efficiency, though it has not been positively decided which.

The strong movement now on foot contemplates the removal of the Cincinnati plant to Norwich, Conn., as the two plants, it is held, can be more cheaply operated in that combined way.

When the above special dispatch was referred to Vice President A. E. Payson of the Thermos company in this city, he confirmed it in substance, but said that the Icy-Hot plant in Cincinnati is to be abandoned and the manufacture of both the Thermos and the Icy-Hot will be concentrated in the Norwich plant. This can be done without any additions to buildings as the present factory is adequate, but it will mean an enlargement of the number of employes. The West Virginia plant referred to, he said, is the glass manufacturing division of the business.

OFFICERS SHOOT TO STOP RUM RUNNER AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

Fifty gallons of alcohol found in a Ford coupe at the fairgrounds about 8 o'clock Friday night were seized by county and local authorities and Michael Barso of New London, driver of the coupe, and Tony Fatone of No. 57 Lake street this city were arrested on charges of violation of the liquor laws. Suspecting that the machine used by Barsa was engaged in rum-running County Detective William Lewis, Police Sergeant Mathew Delaney and Officer Peter Sullivan lay in wait at the fairgrounds.

The coupe drove into the fairgrounds and a Buick runabout parked outside the fairgrounds, near the entrance. Officer Lewis went over to the Ford to investigate and ordered Fatone to throw up his hands. The officer's flashlight failed him just as he ordered Fatone to throw up his hands. In the darkness Fatone dropped his hands and Officer Lewis thinking he might have intended to draw on him fired a shot in the air to attract the attention of Sergt. Delaney. When the shot was fired Barsa started to drive away in the Ford intending to escape. Officer Lewis emptied his gun after the coupe and Sergt. Delaney ran in front of the fleeing machine and pointing his gun at the driver ordered him to stop. Both Barsa and Fatone were taken into custody. Ten five gallon cans of alcohol were found in the coupe and with the machine were taken to police headquarters. The Buick which it is said Fatone had driven to the fairgrounds was also taken in charge by the officers.

Barsa and Fatone were locked up in default of $5,000 bonds. The seizure was one of the largest made by the authorities in some time.

TRINITY EPWORTH LEAGUE MEMBERS GIVE PLAY

The Epworth League members of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church presented the play, Patty Makes Things Hum, Friday evening in the church vestry. The play was well given by the cast, the parts of Patty and Hyacinth acted by Mildred Perkins and Isabel Shearer, respectively, being especially well played. There was a good sized attendance and the play was enthusiastically received by the audience. The cast of characters was as follows:

Captain Braithwaite, who was not so slow after all, Herbert McNeely; Capt. Little, who had a little misunderstanding, Paul Chivers; Mr. Greene, who played the host, George Greenlaw; Mr. Smith, a neighbor worthwhile, Andrew Crowe; Mrs. Smith, who proved herself a true friend, Gladys Newberry; Mrs. Greene, Capt. Little's sister, who entertained under difficulties, Bertha Hahn; Patty, who managed to make things hum, Mildred Perkins; Helen Braithwaite engaged to Capt. Little, Susan McNeely; Hope Dunbar, who is still hoping, Mrs. George Greenlaw; Hyacinth, a loquacious colored girl, Isabel Shearer.

The stage directors were Andrew Crowe, George Greenlaw and Ben Covey.

The phonograph which was used in connection with the play was loaned by the Plaut & Cadden company, the hats worn by the characters by Maida Hat Shop and the flowers for decorations by Hawkins, the florist.

TELLS OF MISSION WORK IN WEST AFRICA

The usual monthly meeting of the missions department of the Woman's Federation of Park church was held on Friday afternoon. Miss Edith Bliss, chairman of the missions department, presided and the devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Samuel Smiley. Miss Bliss then introduced Mrs. William C. Bell of Africa, as the speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. Bell, with her husband, has been working for a number of years in Angola, Portuguese West Africa. She described conditions as they were when the American board opened its first mission station when there were no roads and very few white people in the district. In those days, through lack of communications mission work was very difficult. She then told of the great contrast in the present conditions of the country, through the building of good roads, a railroad and better government, and in consequence Christianity is spreading rapidly in the province. The slave traffic and the making of the native rum have been suppressed.

At the close of the address, tea was served by Mrs. Ingalls and Mrs Richard Lewis, assisted by Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Manley Eastwood, Mrs. Beatrice Eastwood Peterson, Mrs. Frank Crowell, Miss Ruth Loring and Miss Helen Clapp. Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn and Mrs. John S. Blackmar poured.

ST. PATRICK'S DANCE HAS ARMORY WELL FILLED

The state armory on McKinley avenue had a crowd that filled it comfortably Friday night for the St. Patrick's night dance which was the fourth annual given by the United divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. The stars and Stripes and the green and gold flag of Ireland were displayed on the walls at the end of the room.

With a fine programme by Herb Smith's orchestra which included modern dances and the square dances of other days for which Neil Crowley prompted, the evening was thoroughly enjoyed and the hours sped swiftly. A solo feature of the evening which brought loud applause was the Irish jig and reel dances by Mrs. Nellie Moore McHale, Mrs. Barney Keenan and John McCarthy.

Committees from Divisions No. 1 and No. 2 and from auxiliaries No. 18 and No. 54 were in charge. These included the following:

Auxiliary No. 18—Reception, Mrs. Mary McCormick, Mrs. Frank J. Murtha, Mrs. Chester Ryan, Mrs. Nellie Callahan, Miss Mae Kilday, Miss Margaret Monaher; arrangements, Miss Mary E. Hartie, Mrs. Dennis J. Sullivan, Mrs. James Delany, Miss Anna Edward, Miss Mary Maloney; Auxiliary No. 54—Reception Miss Margaret Caples, Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald, Miss Anna Connell, Mrs. Alice Shea, Mrs. Jane Moore, Mrs. Mary McCarthy; arrangements, Mrs. Julia Brock, Mrs. Nellie McHale, Miss Catherine Coughlin, Miss Nellie McCarthy, Mrs. Annie Bellows.

UNITED WOMAN'S GUILD HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

The Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church held its March meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Community House, Church street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Mrs. Charles Tyler Ladd, the president, presided at the meeting. After the usual routine business matters had been disposed of, the Misses Catherine and Betty Zumbro were heard in violin and piano numbers. Miss Amy Coggswell gave an interesting talk on Our Emblem, The Rose.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. John Kukla and Miss Mazie Caruthers poured.

Suspended Sentence For Peeper.

On a charge of breach of the peace, following his arrest for looking through a window in a Baltic street house Thursday evening, Joseph Mazzarelli was presented in the city court Friday morning and sentenced to ten days in jail by Judge Arthur F. Libby. The jail sentence was suspended for one year.

Mazzarelli, who is known as "Jack the Hugger" and "Peeping Tom" was caught in the act about 10 o'clock Thursday night, by John Keenan and Edward Gagnon, after they heard one of the Misses Donohue scream, when they saw a face pressed against the window.

Spring Birds Noted.

Two redwing blackbirds were seen Friday by a Norwich resident. The fox sparrow is among latest bird arrivals.

BOOST-NORWICH DAY WILL BE SPRING OPENING TIME FOR STORES

Forty representatives of Norwich retail stores of all classes took up with a bang the idea of a "Boost Norwich Day," through a general spring opening, when it was presented them Friday evening as they met for supper at 6.15 at the Wauregan hotel.

Instant decision was reached with enthusiasm to embark upon the plan for Friday and Saturday of next week, with a window dressing contest for Thursday evening as an introductory feature for the two opening days to follow.

When the business of the meeting was reached John M. Lee, who presided for a time in the absence of the chairman of the special committee, Abner Schwartz, introduced Paul Brown to explain the plan which the committee had to suggest. This Mr. Brown did very clearly and with strong conviction of its value to the Norwich retail stores and the community in general. He explained that the idea was to have all the retail stores of the city, big or little dry goods or hardware make next Friday and Saturday spring opening days which would be advertised in the newspapers in a co-operative way with page advertisements, so that the stores could send out the message to the territory around Norwich that the winter was over, spring is here and the stores have something interesting and seasonable to present for the attention of their patrons. Co-operation is the keyword. The newspaper advertising is to be extended to Danielson, Jewett City, Willimantic, Putnam and Moosup.

Attached to this idea is the window dressing plan for Thursday night, all store window shades to be raised at 8 o'clock that evening for the public to see. The stores are to be divided into three classes and nine silver loving cups will be given as prizes, three in each class, and three honorable mentions.

Class A—Department stores, furniture, Cranston's, Disco's.

Cordial endorsement of the plan was given by Abner Schwartz, John M. Lee, Alex Pasnik, Joseph M. Lahn, Max Hanover, Edward McEvoy and M. J. Kirsch, while various suggestions were made as to extra trolley arrangements, parking arrangements, band concert, and special attractions at the Palace theatre in which Manager McEvoy promised every cooperation.

The plan has been developed under direction of a committee consisting of Abner Schwartz, chairman, Paul Brown, John M. Lee, Alex Sharp, M. W. Kirsch and Joseph M. Lahn.

Business houses signing the subscription to the plan at the meeting Friday night were Schwartz Bros., Manhattan Ladies Shop Inc., Porteous & Mitchell Co., Simon Mandell (men's want shop), Model Booterie, Ideal Cotton Stores, Inc., Tanney Corporation 25c Store, Barney's Ladies' ready to wear, H. A. Bruckner, Trachtenberg's Eagle Clothing Co., B. Gotthelf & Co., Smith's shoe store, John & George H. Bliss, Inc., The Lee & Osgood Co., The Pasnik Co., Worth Specialty Shop, Inc., White Star Co., The Geo. W. Kies Co., E. L. McEvoy (Palace theater), L. O. Hawkins, Theodore Loewenberger Co., The Talking Machine Shop, Paul Brown, Savard Bros, Inc., O'Neil Electric Co., F. W. Woolworth Co., Reid & Hughes Co., C. K. Liggett Drug Co., Ableman's Shoe Store, Preston Bros.

It is expected the list will be increased to include practically every Norwich retail store by Monday.

NORWICH PETITION AGAINST SELLING G. & E. PLANT

Daniel T. Shea, a former member of the board of gas and electric commissioners and president of that body for several years, is the leading signer of a petition to the governor and the state legislature to have all proposed charters to conduct a gas and electric business in Norwich denied.

Those signing the petition are: Daniel T. Shea, A. C. Murphy, Herbert Leroy, A. Curland, William F. O'Neil, John J. Colerian, Chas. D. Yerrington, Jr., McGrory Bros., Lawrence McGrory, N. J. Spellman, P. F. Sweeney, United Metal Mfg. Co., Charles G. Wells, treas., James E. McCormick, William H. Aldrich, John T. Rogers, Jeremiah A. Desmond, James P. Hayes, J. Munz, John M. Lee.

In the matter of the hearing on Tuesday, March 17, 1925, before the Connecticut State Legislature Committee on incorporations regarding bills concerning applications and petitions of A. E. Fitkin and others, for a charter and authority to acquire the Gas & Electric Department of the City of Norwich, State of Connecticut.

The undersigned citizens of the City of Norwich respectfully petition that the Honorable members of the State Legislature should not grant any franchise or franchises, charter or charters to any corporations, company or firm to acquire and operate any Gas & Electric plant in the City of Norwich, State of Connecticut, or the right to furnish Gas and Electricity in the City of Norwich, State of Connecticut.

It is respectfully submitted:

1. That the City of Norwich now operates a Gas and Electric plant and furnishes Gas and Electricity in the City of Norwich.

2. That the granting of a charter to any company, corporation or firm to operate a gas and electric plant in the city of Norwich.

3. That the will of the people as duly expressed at a special meeting of the citizens of the City of Norwich was opposed to any proposed sale of its Gas and Electric plant.

That the views and intentions of the people were expressed at the aforesaid meeting by statements of Alexander H. Manes, who was appointed city auditor of the city of Norwich, on June 6, 1924 and who said as follows:

"The Gas & Electric Department has an income of about three quarters of a million of dollars. Is it any wonder that corporations are clamoring to buy it? It would seem that it is not the Gas & Electric plant that they desire to pay three millions for. It appears that it is the monopoly that they want. It is the monopoly to serve the people of the City of Norwich with gas and electricity without competition. If a monopoly should be secured for money three million dollars doesn't appear to be much. Let's drop it right now before it goes any further. It seems almost unbelievable but the more the city of Norwich is paid for its plant and monopoly, the greater will be the hardships and suffering of the people. The greater the price paid for the monopoly, the larger must be the return to the purchasers on the capital investment, which return must be paid by the gas and electric consumers of the city of Norwich. Let our slogan be "We will sell our gas and electric plant when, and only when, the United States sells its Post Office Department."

The details of the aforesaid meeting of the City of Norwich are set forth in the attached newspaper clipping of Jan. 27, 1925, of the Norwich Bulletin.

Wherefore the undersigned respectfully petition that as aforesaid, the expressed will of the people of the city of Norwich in the state of Connecticut be complied with by the Honorable Members of the State Legislature of the State of Connecticut and that all the proposed charters applied for be not granted.

WOMAN FOUND HELPLESS ON GRISWOLD LAWN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 13.—A young woman, about 22 years of age, was arrested shortly before midnight by Sergeant Gorgas and Officer Henry Albright of the state police when she was found intoxicated on the lawn in front of the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point, Groton. When taken into custody, the woman was too drunk to reveal her identity or where she resided. She was locked up at the New London police station and will be turned over to the state police for arraignment in the Groton town court tomorow. The woman, who came here with four sailors attracted the attention of neighbors on the grounds of the hotel and complaint was made to the state police, resulting in the arrest, but the sailors escaped when the officers approached.

THEFT OF JEWELFY AT BROADWAY HOME

Theft of jewelry, said to be valued at about $2,000, was accomplished on Thursday night from a bedroom on the second floor of the home of Mrs. F. S. Camp at 280 Broadway. The thief forced open a bureau drawer to get what he was after, but other valuables in the house were not touched. A screw driver, evidently taken from an automobile in the garage, was used to force the drawer and a piece of the screw driver was found broken off in the wood of the bureau drawer. The burglary was not discovered until Mrs. Camp went to her room to retire.

Jitney Driver Arrested.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 13.—William Parmelee, public service operator, was arrested tonight by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman William Babcock charged with violation of the liquor law and is being held in bail of $500 for trial in the police court tomorrow morning. Parmelee, it is alleged, sold a bottle of liquor to John Richmond, Waterford, the latter claiming, following his arrest on the charge of intoxication, that hepurchased the liquor from Parmelee.

Take care of your pennies and some one will come along with a scheme to take care of your dollars for you.

Eight New Members

Buckingham Council, No. 14, met in regular session Wednesday evening with Jr. Past Councilor Eddins presiding. The relief committee reports Robert Hill slightly ill.

Eight new members were obligated and twenty applications were referred to the investigating committee.

Regular business of the evening was transacted. The degree team is being put through its paces with fine success. Much credit must be given to George Faulkner for his help to bring this about.

Everything is all set for the banquet on March 25th at Buckingham Hall, where a fine turkey dinner will be served. Members of this order from all over Connecticut and Rhode Island will attend. About four hundred are expected to be at the banquet. The entertainment committee has secured some fine musicians and comedians for that night. That same night over one hundred candidates will be initiated. The meeting, which had no attendance of over one hundred and fifty broke up at a late hour.

Rebekahs Plan Social

At the next meeting of Hope Rebekah Lodge No. 21 to be held Wednesday evening, March 18 with Mrs. Ella Stapleton, noble grand in the chair, a social is being planned at which the members of Uncas and Shetucket Lodges are to be their guests. It is hoped a large delegation will attend. The Thames Past Grand Association will be entertained by Hope Rebekah Lodge next Wednesday.

Diamonds Get Reprieve

Governor Smith has granted a respite of one month and two days to Morris and Joseph Diamond and John Farini, convicted slayers of two Brooklyn bank messengers who were sentenced to die in the electric chair on March 26 at New York state prison, Ossining.

The reprieve will continue until the week of April 27. The governor said he granted it because the court of appeals, which recently affirmed the convictions of the Diamond brothers and Farini, had ordered a new trial for Anthony Pantano, who was also convicted in connection with the murder.

Morris and Joseph Diamond and John Farina apparently were somewhat disappointed when informed by Warden Lewis E. Lawes that Governor Smith had granted them a reprieve until April 27. The Diamonds said they had been led to expect ninety days, but Farina was grateful for what he got, saying: "I am pleased."

Knocked Down by Automobile

While walking on a crosswalk at Washington square about 6.30 Friday evening William Shelley of No. 14 Union street was knocked down and injured by a Ford touring car owned and driven by Charles West of No. 37½ West Thames street. Mr. Shelley's side and left shoulder were injured. He was attended by Dr. Louis Cassidy.

ARE TO STUDY INDUSTRIAL PROBLEMS IN FORD PLANT

New Haven, March 13—Through the efforts of Jerome Davis, professor of the Yale divinity school, the Ford Motor Car Company has agreed to establish a Ford industrial group for Yale men. Fifty Yale students will enter the Ford plant and endeavor to analyze various industrial problems at their source. At the same time these men will be gathering material for reports on industrial relations which are to be entered in a prize competition for Yale men, established by the social service department of the divinity school.

"DAPPER DON" COLLINS AGAIN UNDER ARREST

New York, March 13. — "Dapper Don" Collins, internationally known in the criminal world, was arrested by department of justice agents today and held in bail for extradition proceedings. The government said Collins is wanted in Atlantic City on a charge of conspiracy to smuggle liquor.

PLENTY OF OBJECTIONS TO THE BILL FOR A ONE-MAN COMMISSION

Hartford, March 13——The committee on the judiciary of the general assembly has the opportunity to become "sight fans" for at the close of a hearing on a bill to create a one-man commission instead of the present three-man state athletic commission, the members were invited to attend boxing bouts at Waterbury tonight, to go to New Haven when bouts are put on there and to accept hospitalities of a club in Bridgeport when at stages a good show. Not only would the committee members see the bouts but they would meet the present commissioners and ascertain just how boxing rules and regulations work out.

Senator Cronin, chairman, thanked the club representatives for the invitations but could not assure attendance.

The bill of Mr. Wheeler, of Stratford to substitute a one-man commission for the present commission was given a hearing, and the opponents of it had the first inning, ripping up the bill in numerous ways, calling it an undesirable bill and predicting that one-man rule would spell the doom of professional boxing and wrestling in the state.

Several clubs had an attorney to represent them who took the Wheeler bill and criticised nearly every paragraph in it, and then quoted statistics, newspaper editorials and comment, and news writers and sporting men to show that the present commission is doing good work and merits continuance in office. Several well known figures in boxing circles spoke against the Wheeler bill claiming that the present commission is holding discipline over clubs and boxers, and is securing for the state considerable income.

Mr. Wheeler, who spoke for his bill, said that he offered it merely to see if sport could not be placed on a better level, to see if sport supporters could not be better guarded against fraud and fake bouts and to see if those who want boxing well conducted could not get fair play. He intended to leave the matter with the committee, he said, and appeared for the principle which underlies the bill ——which is to make boxing and wrestling cleaner sports.

BULKELEY HIGH CUTS BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 3—Bulkeley High school basketball quintet will not be represented at the tournament which will be held at Storrs on March 27-28. Coach William R. Canty made this announcement today, and the schedule will be curtailed to allow a shorter finish than previously planned. Two teams will be dropped from the schedule, these teams being Deep River High and Bridgeport High. The latter was to have been played on March 21 at Bridgeport. The Park City High school is entering the Yale tournament and for that reason asked the Bulkeley management to suspend the contract which bound the two teams for a game on the 21st.

Springfield School of Commerce will be played on Saturday, the 21st of this month, filling in the date Bridgeport was released from originally. This game will be played at this city and will be the final game of the season. This game was previously slated for Friday, the 20th. The game with Deep River which was to officially close the season of the Orange and Black, and which was cancelled, will allow the Bulkeley mentor to devote much more time to the baseball candidates.

The decision to refuse the invitation to enter the Storrs tournament was received with a good deal of surprise, but the conscientious efforts of the Bulkeley mentor to begin early baseball practice is the reason for the change in the original plans.

Bulkeley is to go through its football season without a regularly appointed manager of football. For the reason that no one is filling the managerial position, Coach Canty has acted in that capacity and has been filling the dates for the coming season. He announces that there is a slight change in the plans of the grid iron slate for 1925, and that Fordham University freshmen will probably supplant Springfield Technical High as the team which will oppose the Orange and Black on November 21. This game will be played at home instead of away as previously planned. This makes the schedule complete with the one exception that the game with the Rhode Island State college freshmen is still pending.

Cicago, March 13——Jack Kearns, whose business is collecting a fortune for the ring appearance of Jack Dempsey, will meet Eddie Kane, manager of Tommy Gibbons, here tomorrow to consider the prospects of a match between the champion and the St. Paul challenger in Los Angeles or New York this summer.

Kearns is en route east as a result of several investigations, including one from the government, to appear as a witness in connection with transportation of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films in violation of federal laws. Rival New York promoters have invited Kearns to consider a select assortment of bids for matches between Dempsey and Gibbons and Dempsey and Harry Wills, the negro challenger.

Kane said tonight that Gibbons is anxious to box Dempsey any place, provided the championship would be involved in a contest to a decision.

"Gibbons has been assured of more money to box Wills than we expect to get for meeting Dempsey, but we are willing to take less in order to get another shot at the championship," Kane said. "We are ready to box any place, New York or California, but it must be to a decision.

PLAN TO DEVELOP JUNIOR TENNIS PLAY

New York, March 13—Plans for the development of junior tennis play in the east were made public tonight by Louis E. Bailey, Jr., chairman of the junior tennis committees of the metropolitan and New York state associations.

The proposals include the organization of junior teams, drawn from New England, New York and the middle states to represent their respective sections in a tri-city junior competition, matches being played in New York, Philadelphia and Boston during the spring. The tournaments are to be modeled after the seniors Church cup inter-city play.

WANDERERS NO MATCH FOR PLAINFIELD CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

Plainfield, March 13—At the Plainfield Community House Friday night the Army and Navy club defeated the Baltic Wanderers in the second game of the series 39 to 29. The first half opened with neat and fast basketball by both teams. Normandin practically had his own way in tonight's play and looped baskets at will. Benson, the lanky guard, had three of the visiting men playing him. Norris jumping at center was too much for Red Charon. Dessinger played his little own game of neat basketball. Provost held his man down to two baskets. The half ended 25 to 15 in Plainfield's favor.

In the second chapter the Wanderers changed their tactics and started in playing the rough and tumble battle with the home. Foul after foul was made by the visitors. The Army and Navy team although disgusted played real basketball. Benson was the target of the Baltic team and after being knocked out smiled and came back for more. The crowd razzed and yelled, disgusted with the play.

In the preliminary game the Buddies defeated the Bantams by the score of 17 to 11. Jack Mercier featured for the home club while Sewart was the shining light for the Baltic team. The score:

MISS COLLETT DEFEATS MRS. STERRETT TWO UP

St. Augustine, Fla., March 13—Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, Hutchinson, Kas., medalist of the qualifying round, went out of the Florida east coast women's championship golf tournament today when she was defeated by Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, 2 up. Miss Frances Hadfield, of Milwaukee, beat Mrs. Alex Smith, of New York, one up in the other match of the semi-finals.

Mrs. Sterrett was out in forty, but despite three putts necessary to hold the sixth, Miss Collett made the outward journey in 39 strokes, the lowest score ever made by a woman over the course.

The struggle on the return trip was more strenuous than the first nine. Miss Collett through a good break made the green after her ball bounded out of a trap at the twelfth hole. Mrs. Sterrett required three putts and lost the hole, giving Miss Collett the lead, two up. The Kansan rallied however, and won the next two holes, Miss Collett requiring three putts on the sixteenth.

On the fifteenth Mrs. Sterrett planted a full iron shot six feet from the pin but missed the putt for a birdie four. The sixteen was halved and on the seventeenth, Mrs. Sterrett stymied and lost the hole. She missed her second and third shots on the 18th losing the match.

EFFORT TO RAISE MONEY FOR COAST GUARD QUINTET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 13—With the Coast Guard Cadets in the midst of a possible trip to Detroit, to partake in the National Y. M. C. A. tourney, which will be held at that city, in the near future, they must, in order to get the Connecticut nomination, brush aside the strong Greenwich five which visits the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night. It will determine the future of the undefeated Coast Guard five which in one sense of the word is really representing the local Y. M. C. A. Those who are interested in seeing the Coast Guard five make the trip to Detroit, are endeavoring to raise the necessary amount which will get the quintet to the automobile city. The amount which is expected to carry the team through the campaign is $700, and an effort will be made to raise this money shortly if the team is to compete in the national tournament.

SCHAEFER TO OPPOSE ROGER CONTI IN FRANCE

Boston, March 13—Jake Schaefer, world's 18.2 balk line billiard champion, will sail for France early in June to oppose Roger Conti, Parisian star, in a contest for the French title, he announced here today. The match will probably be at 4,000 points, the champion said, but the world's title will not be at stake. Schaefer intends to return to the United States in September to defend the title which he won recently at Chicago.

WESTERLY HIGH LOSES TO KINGSTON HIGH 25 TO 19

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Wasterly, R. I., March 13—In Majestic Hall, on Coggswell street, Pawcatuck, Friday afternoon, the South Kingston High school basketball team defeated the Westerly High school basketball shooters by a score of 25 to 19.

In the state armory on Dixon street Saturday evening, the Armory five will have for their opponents, the Milford, New Hampshire, basketball team.

Perkins Meets Lawrence in Finals

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 13—N. B. Perkins, of Williamsburg, Ky., will face J. E. Lawrence, Pittsburgh amateur star, in the 36 hole finals of the annual championship of the Volusia golf tournament tomorrow. Perkins with a round of 73, overwhelmed W. S. Bann, Scarsdale, N. Y., six and five today. Lawrence defeated A. E. Hedstrom, Buffalo, 3 and 1.

BULKELEY RUNNERS GO TO HARTFORD TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 13—The Bulkeley detachment of relay runners will leave this city eight strong today, with the coach and manager, for Hartford, where the Orange and Black runners will engage in a relay race with Hartford Public High, Weaver High, Crosby High, New Haven Hillhouse, Bridgeport High, New Britain High and Torrington High. Although much interest is apparent to find out what Bulkeley track men can do against such strong opposition which is outlined above, the real attraction at the meet which will be held at Hartford on this (Saturday) night is the great Finn runner Paavo Nurmi. Besides Nurmi, Ritola and several of the other best runners of the present day are on the same card. It will probably be the only opportunity that the Nutmeg fans will have in viewing the marvelous Finn "strut his stuff."

CONN, AGGIES, WESLEYAN AND TRINITY MEET TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

Storrs, March 13—The Connecticut Aggies relay team will meet Wesleyan and Trinity tomorrow night at the state armory, when they participate in the Weaver meet that is bringing both Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola to Hartford. Connecticut's team is made up of Quigley, McCarty, Smith and Atwood, with Captain Jacoby in reserve. The distance will be 352 yards, and the natural rivalry existing between the three entering colleges should make the race a good one.

BERLENBACH SCORED TECHNICAL KAYO; GARCIA GOT DECISION FRIDAY NIGHT

New Yok, March 13—Battling Siki, former world's light heavyweight champion, tonight was knocked out on his feet in the tenth round of a twelve round bout at Madison Square Garden by Paul Berlenbach of Astoria, New York. Siki admitted defeat only after terrible punishment throughout the battle, the American administering vicious blows to head

His face swollen and bleeding the but he would not go down. Even when Sengalese totted about the ring under a volley of punches to the head in the ninth, Berlenbach stood away and battered the almost defenseless man merous men for the count of ten. Referee Eddie Purdy stepped in and suggested an end to it all, the negro threw his arm about the official's shoulder and discussed the matter. When he left the ring he danced to the cheers of the crowd.

After the first few rounds all the honor went to Berlenbach who made his way to victory with a steady, powerful onslaught that could not be denied. His opponent fought carefully, evidently with respect for Paul's slugging right, which has sent down nuand body with both hands.

Crouched, the negro stepped in doggedly, but received two or one whenever he opened up the fighting.

As the battle progressed it became a question of how long the African could withstand such methodical hammering as that delivered from the hands of Berlenbach, but at the end of each round Siki either patted his opponent on the back or eyed him questioningly. It was so one-sided that the crowd several times demanded action. Pushing and hauling each other around, there seemed to be little activity.

The tenth, however, offered the American the opportunity he had been seeking and his tired arms went forth to one more effort. Swinging left to Siki's body, Berlenbach stepped back and drove a right straight to the jaw, and the Sengalese sank, but did not fall. Staggering about the ring, the beaten man attempted to defend himself, but his opponent's smashes reached through to his swollen eyes and nose. The referee saved him from the impending fall.

Joe Roggie, New York, 185 3-4, knocked out Floyd Skinner, of Jersey City, 178 1-2, in the fourth round of as vicious a battle as the Garden has seen in years. Both men were red from waist to hair when they finished and Skinner fell twice in trying to climb from the ring after he regained consciousness.

Frankie Schoell, Buffalo, middleweight, scored a 10-round decision victory over the New York negro, Larry Estridge, tonight in the semifinal to the Paul Berlenbach-Battling Siki bout. Schoell was the aggressor and kept his fists in his opponent's face throughout, successfully warding off a furious attack in the final round. Schoell weighed 156 1-4, Estridge 157 1-4.

Waterbury, Marc 13—Bobby Garcia, of Baltimore, won a close decision over Babe Herman, of New York in a gruelling 12-round bout here tonight. Garcia's aggressiveness and dodging won him the award over his more clever opponent. The shell-like defense of the winner puzzled Herman, who resorted to every trick known to boxing to make his opponent open up, but the Mexican opened only when there was an opportunity to lay in his wide swinging rights and lefts and these punches won him the decision.

Young Emmons, of this city, won a close decision from Sammy Cooper, of New Haven, in a six rounder.

WILLIAM T. TILDEN ADDS TO VICTORIES

Palm Beach, Fla., March 13—William T. Tilden, national tennis champion, added another title to his long list when he defeated Manuel Alonso, Spanish Davis cup star, in the finals of the men's Florida singles tennis championship tournament here today. The scores were 6-3, 7-9, 6-1, 6-4.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

FEEDING PROCESS FOR BABY CHICKS

In feeding baby chicks a clover chaff litter should be put into the brooder house at the start it not only acts as a little, but also is good as a green feed. Next, thick, sour milk or skim milk should be fed before any other foods are made available for the chicks. Dip the beaks of a few into a dish of milk and the others will soon copy. Semisolid buttermilk or powdered milk may be used if skim milk is not available. Next, scatter a little chick feed around the brooder stove and have grit and fine charcoal handy. Feed no dry mash the first week; if the chickfeed is to be mixed at home use equal parts of fine cracked corn, fine cracked wheat, steel cut oats or cut oatmeal. Remember, it is best to underfeed the first week than to overfeed. Feed about five different times a day and what they will eat will clean up in about 15-minutes periods.

The second week chick dry mash should be given in small amounts, but not more than what they will clean up each day. It is best at the start that they do not fill up with dry mash in the latter part of the afternoon as it may cause sour crops and then indigestion, so do not feed dry mash after 3 o'clock. The following dry mash mixtures should be used. One part bran, one part middlings, one part cornmeal, one part oatmeal, one half part fine meat scraps, one quarter part bonemeal. It is advisable to keep water, as well as milk, in front of the chicks all the time, changing from milk to water because a lack of supply may cause a lot of deaths.

Green feeds are beneficial even with raw cod liver oil. They may consist of raw potatoes, cabbage, or germinated oats cut up fine until they know what it is. Be sure that the brooder stove has been going for at least three days before the chicks are placed under the hover, so that the room is thoroughly heated. It is best to stay up late and watch the chicks closely the first night, as habits proved by the chicks the first night will remain with them for some time. Place a ring of building paper about three feet from the outer edge the first night to keep the chicks from crowding. This should be removed the next morning and used again for a few nights until the chicks stop trying to crowd.

REDUCING LOSS IN THE POULTRY INDUSTRY

The losses sustained recently by the poultry industry of the United States because of infectious bronchitis and European fowl pest; and the consequent state embargoes, quarantines and shipping regulations, have emphasized the supreme importance of maintaining the flocks on the farms and in commercial poultry plants in as healthful a condition as possible, says the United States department of agriculture. The unhampered shipment of birds from state to state is dependent upon healthy fowls. The prevalence of infectious bronchitis and European fowl pest in certain centers necessitated restrictive measures to protect the flocks in other centers.

The question of immediate and, it might be said, constant concern, is how to maintain the flocks in a condition of good health. Factors that stand out as being of equally vital importance, says the department, are: (1) Stock of sound constitutional vigor; (2) the maintenance of sanitary surroundings.

Laying and breeding stock that is not only healthy, but also possesses abundance of constitutional vigor is the only kind that should be kept. The removal of birds from the flock at the first indication of a debilitated condition or sickness is a necessary precaution against loss. In case of an apparent outbreak of disease, consult a qualified veterinarian or pathologist or send affected specimens with a complete description of the symtoms to your state agricultural college or the state sanitary authorities.

Since the welfare of the healthy members of the flock is of far greater importance than that of a few sick birds, it is important to look after the healthy birds first. The thing to do after the sick birds are culled out of the flock is to clean out and disinfect the poultry house, spray with disinfecting solution any possibly contaminated parts of the poultry establishment and cleanse thoroughly all feeding and drinking utensils.

If treatment of sick is advisable, keep them confined while being treated. Quarantine birds suffering from contagious disease until all danger of contaminating the rest of the flock is passed. In many cases in an outbreak of disease it is better to kill the affected birds at once and burn them or bury them deeply. In no case should diseased or exposed birds be sold.

One factor contributing to the somewhat aggravated disease conditions prevalent in poultry fattening stations, live poultry cars and live poultry receiving centers, appears to be the raising of late-hatched chicks. Last season the early hatches in many parts of the country were poor and chick mortality was heavy; resort was made to hatching late and this situation undoubtedly had some influence on the general vitality of much of the young stock raised because late-hatched chicks rarely do as well as early-hatched chicks.

THE WINTER OF 1924-1925 AND ITS RESULTS

Early last summer, and from time to time subsequently, there appeared in some of the agricultural journals predictions of a so-called "longrange" forecaster to the effect that the winter of 1924-25 would be unusually severe. One of the agricultural weeklies published, for example, the following statement in its issue of June 28, 1924.

"The winter of 1924-25 will set in early and last long. There will be much severe weather, and winter grains will suffer from the lack of sufficient snow cover, especially in the northern states."

Another journal published as recently as February 15, 1925, the following announcement emanating from the same forecaster:

"Cold waves on an average of once a week are predicted  for February, with prolonged and dangerous series of cold waves running late into spring."

Since the winter of 1924-25 has passed into history, it will be interesting at this time to review some of its outstanding characteristics, a summary of which has been prepared by the weather bureau.

Contrary to the forecast, the winter weather began late and ended early. It was not until the middle of December that severe weather began in Montana and other northern boundary states whence it spread to other parts of the country. Temperatures remained low until the close of the month, moderating somewhat in January, although in the Atlantic coast states and Florida and the east gulf states the mean temperature for December was above the normal.

The January mean temperature was above normal over about three-fifths of the total area of the country and below in the remaining two-fifths. Higher temperature set in over almost the whole country in the last week of January and continued without interruption throughout February, except for the two days at the close of the month. Real wintry weather persisted, therefore, but six out of 12 weeks of the winter season.

Snowfall for the country and the winter as a whole was below normal, except for the region from the upper Ohio valley northeastward to New England, where the fall was slightly greater than normal.

The grand upset of the forecast came, however, in the month of February—a month during which, according to the forecaster, cold waves were to be of weekly occurrence. As a matter of fact not a single widespread cold wave occurred during February, 1925, and there was a remarkably small number of purely local, cold waves and those were confined mostly to the northern boundary states.

The warmest February experienced during the 55 years of record was that of 1890, when the monthly mean was 5 degrees above normal. February 1925 is a close second with a departure of 7.8 degrees.

As a result of the mild temperatures experienced during the month, fruit buds in the southern states advanced prematurely and some early varieties of fruit began to bloom as far north as South Carolina and to swell in the interior portions of the country.

ROTATING THE CROPS

Rotation planting is an important factor to consider in a garden and one of the main points to consider in a garden plan. In fact, it is almost a necessity to have garden plans on file to keep track of the rotation of crops. The same crops should not be planted in the same place in succeeding years.

Each kind of plant has its particular form of food it takes from the soil, and the soil becomes exhausted for that one plant if it is grown continually in the same place. Only one vegetable seems to be indifferent to being grown in the same spot year in and year out, and that is the onion.

There are several botanical orders that include a large portion of the vegetables, the cress or mustard family, legumes, the umbel bearers, and the nightshades. To the first belong radishes, turnips, cabbages, cauliflower, kohl rabis and kale. To the second belongs all the peas and beans. To the third belong parsnips, celery, parsley and carrots. The fourth includes tomatoes, potatoes, egg plants and peppers.

It is a good plan to group these plants according to family relation and see that a legume does not follow a legume in successive seasons, or a member of the mustard family (mustard—that is to say, cabbages follow turnips. The same rule applies to all these groups.

Not only is this true for annual succession, as the groups should be moved to different sections of the garden each year, but in following planting the same season, beans should not follow peas nor peas beans. Late cabbage should not follow early cabbage or turnips cabbages.

Plant a member of a different family as a follow crop, as peas to follow radishes or cabbage potatoes. Beans may follow radishes. Turnips may follow beans. Turnips may follow peas. Tomatoes may follow young onions or spinach. A little study as to these groups will greatly add to the success of the garden and the main idea in follow planting and rotation is to make the soil yield the highest rental in vegetables to its owner.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck Hears a Rumor

Alas! Alas! 'Tis true, I fear,
That rumor finds a ready ear.
—Sammy Jay.

Johnny Chuck was obstinate. Polly Chuck was obstinate. Johnny had said that he was going down on the Big River and he went. Polly Chuck, that he was going down on the Old Orchard and she went. They had had a most unpleasant falling out over the matter. Yes, sir, they had.

"If Polly Chuck thinks I care because she wouldn't come along with me she is greatly mistaken," muttered Johnny Chuck, as he made his way across the Green Meadows. "I don't care a fit of my tail. And if she thinks that I will follow her up to the Old Orchard she has made a second mistake. If she wants to live up in the Old Orchard she can live there alone." My, but Johnny was cross!

"I don't care what she's done," grumbled Johnny

Polly Chuck wasn't cross. She chuckled to herself as she headed for the Old Orchard. "Johnny thinks he is going to stay down on the Green Meadows, but he isn't. I know him," said Polly to herself. "He'll stay down there a while, and then when he finds that I really meant what I said and am going to stay in the Old Orchard he'll come back. It will do him good to be away for a while. It will do me good not to see him around all the time. There is such a thing as two people seeing too much of each other."

For a week Johnny Chuck wandered about on the Green Meadow. He went way over to the Big River. But somehow he was discontented. Nothing was as he had thought it would be. There wasn't much sweet clover over there, and what there was somehow didn't taste as sweet as that he used to find up in the Old Orchard. He did his best not to think of the Old Orchard and not to wonder what Polly Chuck was doing up there. But despite all he could do he did think about the Old Orchard. He wondered if Polly Chuck had gone back to that old home under an apple tree in the far corner of the Old Orchard, or if she had dug a new home in some other part of the Old Orchard.

"I don't care what she's done," grumbled Johnny. But he did care. If he hadn't have cared he wouldn't have kept thinking about it.

Then one morning, just as he was poking his nose out of an old hole where he had spent the night, he heard voices in the trees over his head. One was the voice of Sammy Jay. The other was the voice of his cousin, Blacky the Crow.

"I hear Johnny Chuck and Polly Chuck have separated," said Blacky. "I saw Johnny down here on the Green Meadows yesterday, but I didn't see anything of Polly."

"She's up in the Old Orchard," replied Sammy. "I see her every day. She seems very well satisfied up there. Yesterday I discovered another Chuck up there. I dont know where he came from, but he certainly is a big, handsome fellow. He seemed to be very much interested in Polly Chuck. They are not exactly friends yet, but I guess it won't be long before they are. I noticed that Polly watched him, whenever she thought he wasn't looking. He certainly is a handsome Chuck, and worth looking at."

You should have seen Johnny Chuck as he listened to this. It was all he could do to keep from rushing right out and saying that he didn't believe a word of it. But not for the world would he have had Blacky the Crow and Sammy Jay know that he cared. So he kept quiet until they had flown away.

Canned Childhood

Beneath the label Oysters, shrimp,
Or beans, or peas, or corn,
Is canned a pound of frolic mixed
Upon a summer morn.
Lost fun and frolic soldered tight
Where no child finds them morn or night.

A pound of health, a pound of strength
From cradles snatched we find,
A pound of young intelligence
Robbed from a childish mind.
Packed here together, snugly fit
Theresa's eyesight, Tony's wit

And wasted sunshine here is canned,
With wasted smell of flowers;
The wasted sparkle of green fields,
Washed bright by early showers,
And pleasant scampers never run,
And shouts unheard in breeze and sun.

Yes, in the cans are voices hid,
Of little sons and daughters,
That should be singing London Bridge,
I spy and Sally Waters—
Where, oats, peas, beans and barley grows,
'Tis you nor I ner nobody knows.

Come buy, my fellow-countrymen!
Canned childhood's selling cheap,
And what though little Jack should tire,
And fall too fast asleep?
There's work for little Marianne.
Come, buy sweet childhood by the can.

ATHEA MAY: Your name has been placed on the Social Corner list.

A CERTAIN PARTY: Your name has been added to the Social Corner.

QWAISSA ARIES, INTERESTED READER, PATICA: Letters sent as requested.

HELPER: A delightful surprise and there is certainly a treat in store. Many thanks!

RED CEDAR: You have never sent in your full name and address. Two cards are awaiting you.

CLUB NO. 1—Truly a delightful anniversary reminder, as delicious as it was attractive. Many thanks.

H. A. W.: Name is ready for enrollment as soon as you decide on permanent. The one picked belongs to another.

FIDELITY: Your name has been listed as a Corner member. Name selected conflicts with another. Make another choice if desired.

CORNER CLUB NO. 2: The surprise was exceeded only by the excellence of the generous donation. It is easier to understand why people like to take the cake.

NOT SORRY TO MISS HOUSE-CLEANING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am very much interested in the Social Corner and I attended the last meeting with one of the sisters. I was greatly interested in the poem that Joan read at the last meeting. I tried to remember it so I could tell it to my boys but all that I could remember was the last few lines of it. I am very busy just at present as we are to move by the first of the month. But one thing I am glad of is that it will let me off on house cleaning and I now all of the sisters are interested in that.

This is all I will write now.

GREETINGS FROM NEIGHBOR EVEREADY

Dear Members: Greetings to all.

Rest Awhile: Glad to hear you feeling better since son was out. Thanks! It was not I that deserved credit of flowers as you wrote but I.....

Jane: I'll said last night, I'd like to go Friday. Tell him I've not forgotten letter.

Savilla: Haven't forgotten you.

Last Rose of Summer: Remember what I told you about representative again.

Thirty-two: You sure are a busy one these days. Ever seen our Worcester friend, Bess? Would have called her when there in December but must have lost address.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

THE SEWING BIRD

Social Corner Sisters: As I take the Corner I don't get the Corner page until the middle of the week, but a neighbor who has the Bulletin, told me one of the sisters wanted to know about the sewing bird.

Now, Free Air, if I lived near you I would bring my bird to let you see it, but you are too far away. If I were an artist I would draw a picture of it, but if I tried it you would have something to laugh at the rest of your days.

It would be equal to the picture which you have heard of, which a little girl made, and her mother said she didn't know whether it was a cow or a rosebud.

I think you are fond of a joke, but the sewingbird is no joke.

It is made of metal and clamps on to a table to hold the work in its mouth. It doesn't sing, but I'm the bird that can sing, when the sewing bird gets on the job. Now that I have started the subject perhaps we may hear of more sisters who have one.

N. O. T.: I think I've got your number. I once lived in Y.

Best wishes from

TWO FRIENDS

Dear Cornerites: Go slow! For those who want to clean house early, let them. But for myself I prefer warmer weather and when the real warm weather comes the house will look fresh and clean.

I had two friends—one was the kind that wanted everything "spick and span." She would have the children's clothes ready for fall and would spend her summer evenings sewing. In the spring he would have their summer clothes ready, begin house cleaning in March and when in May we would be busy up to our ears it would be her delight to come and say, "I am all through."

The other friend wears this world as a loose garment, takes her rest afternoons, sits out on the porch evenings during summer, fixes the children's clothes when needed and cleans house when her husband is home so he can help and is thought much of. It is a question with me, does it pay to be so particular, so "spick and span?" I am thankful to say I belong to the happy medium. I do not intend to be so uncomfortable about having everything in "apple pie order" nor do I believe in being so poison dirty.

In relating this same story at one time I was asked: "Where are these two friends?" I answered the first mentioned is dead, became a nervous wreck and lost her mind. The other is like a sixteener and one has to look twice to tell her from her daughters.

Some time ago I read a letter on Preparedness. I fully agree with the writer. A good way is to have a shelf in the pantry closet and call it the "emergency shelf." From time to time buy one or two articles and put on the shelf. It will be only a short time until you will have quite a supply. It avoids the habit of borrowing. It's a great trouble to have some one always borrowing and it's a trouble to borrow too. Remember, "The least borrowing makes the longest friends." If any one asks you who told you all this, just say

A CERTAIN PARTY.

USEFUL BAG SUGGESTIONS

Dear Sisters: A bag for string for bundles hung on the pantry door is very necessary at many times during the day.

A bag for paper bags also being in a handy place is most necessary. Fold or roll bags.

A bag hung in the back hall for old newspapers is one of the handiest bags there is. A housekeeper needs a newspaper many times a day some days for one thing or another.

A bag of clean white cloth to use for cooking. Every good cook puts a piece of white cloth strip around an apple or berry pie before she puts it in the oven. She also should handle all her cooking with clean cloths or holders. Hang in the cellarway a bag for old stockings.

Ball fringe ripped off of an old curtain and dyed with red crepe paper in water, with a little borax added, looks just like new. You will be surprised if you fix your old fringe at the effect the (new) trimming gives to the curtains.

Into the water they are washed add 1 cup of salt and a cup of vinegar to prevent running color.

Should a knob come off the lid of a pan or kettle, a good substitute may be made by a screw slipped through the hole with the head on the inside of the lid and a cork screwed in the protruding end. This will make a knob which will not get hot and can be removed when it is dirty.

To prevent shrinking when you wash your door panels of lace or net applique make them fit the door glass, wash, starch, and stretch and tack on the door while wet. In doing this you will not have the disappointment of having them inches too small when dry.

Take two or three thicknesses of woolen carpeting or any heavy woolen fabrics; tack on to a piece of wood of convenient size to handle. Use this for dusting the kitchen range. It will brighten up the polish and keep the hands clean.

When blankets become too thin for ordinary use put two or three together and cover with pretty satteen to make quilts. You can button them down like matresses.

You can take a double gray blanket or two single blankets, put newspaper between and tie them as you would a quilt to 10 to 12 thicknesses of papers. This makes a very warm cover for a porch bed.

She will perhaps avoid falls when she goes down cellar if she will paint the bottom celler stair so she can beeter see it.

To take shine from men's serge suits sponge with hot vinegar and press in the usual manner. No odor of vinegar remains and most of the shine will disappear for a time.

When frying doughnuts drop slices of potato in. It will keep them from burning.

When making codfish cakes if you add 1 teaspoon sugar and a little mustard it adds to the flavor.

ETHELYN.

NICE TIME AT CLUB NO. 2

Dear Social Corner Friends: When Club No. 1 celebrated its anniversary I planned to be with them in person but it was such a dark morning and I am quite a distance from the station so I decided I had better postpone it until another meeting. But I was with you in thought, I think I could hear the hum of your voices hear the dishes rattle, hear the doxology and hear Biddy's cackle, etc. I attended the anniversary at the Buckingham last week of Club No. 2. We did have such a nice time. So many new members, too. Did not see Aunt Jane there but saw Bug and Ma of Greene Gables, and Capitola and so many I had not seen in a long time.

Ma of Greene Gables has been doing the same kind of work I have been doing, sewing rags for woven rugs. I have had ten rugs woven, and each two yards long. I think they were made in the same loom that hers were wove in. I can recommend that loom and the one that has charge of it to do good work. I have also pieced one bed quilt with over 2,000 pieces in it and tied it, and made two braided rugs. Have tried to get my rags used up before housecleaning but it is impossible to keep ahead of rags and dirt. Could some of the sisters tell me how to make hand soap?

My sympathy goes out to all the sick ones and all the afflicted, and all who are in trouble. I must cut my letter short and give room to some one else. Best wishes to one and all.

COMFORT.

ENJOYED CLUB MEETINGS

Dear Social Corner Friends: It is a long time since I have written to the Corner. When it was first started I wrote a few times and also wanted to attend some of the club meetings but I never got there. To the last one and the February meeting I went. I met some of the sisters and they certainly try to make it pleasant for every one. Strangers most of them were to me but I found the sister from Lisbon was very good company.

Silent Partner: I am glad that you got your bird. Years ago I spent the evening at your house. I was a stranger to you all. Your sister Fanny played on the organ and you and your brothers all sang. You lived in the P. house in the village of P. What a large family yours was then. I often pass your home.

If the editor doesn't throw this in the waste basket I will write again.

CLUB NO. 1 CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Social Corner Friends: There is quite a change in the weather since yesterday, when we celebrated the fifteenth birthday of the Social Corner. The large crowd made plenty of work for Theoda and her helpers. After a minute of silence in memory of our sister C. E. S. the doxology was sung and our guests, and all others that could, sat down to three long tables filled with a most bountiful and tempting array of food.

Every thing passed along very pleasantly, as it always does with Club No. 1, until an unfortunate accident happened to one of the Norwich sisters. I hope it will not be as bad as it was thought to be.

Nema: Received your card. Thank you for letting me know.

Mary France, So sorry to hear of your illness. Hope you will soon be better. We missed you yesterday.

Black Eyed Susie: I think your name just suits you.

Olive, Jennie and Priscilla: I thought you were planning to come to the anniversary.

Here are some unusual diseases that people died with in the past if papers just uncovered in the state health department at Albany are to be taken seriously.

One person must have eaten a great amount of celery because one death certificate said that particular death was caused by "celery mobris."

Another person died of paralysis of the hart."

One woman was worried to death by troublesome neighbors, while another's death was due to serving God and living with her husband and children. What was regarded by the health department as probably the most "outlandish" reason given for the cause of death was "a decedent named Anna Kidney died of hart failure as certified by two nabors."

"Tired of living (99)" was the reason given on the death certificate of a man who had lived to within one year of the century mark.

Suicide was not uncommon in the olden days, but at times it was "self inflicted," the cause of death on one of these old certificates read: "Suicide, self-inflicted."

Some other causes of death according to the old certificates were: "Why nobody knows." "Erly rising and marriage," "natural causes," "visitation of God," "double broncopneumoina," "taking Dr. Bostwick's medicine", "Amediate caus of deth sleeping paralesis."

At least one thing is shown by those old certificates, that they were not always signed by physicians as is required today.

LENTEN DISHES

Dear Corner Members: Greetings to the Corner Members.

Crimson Rambler: Not long ago "a little bird" told me that Interested Reader resides not far away. I looked in the telephone book and "got her number". Called for that number and made sure I had the right party. Took her right off her pins—Surprised! I should say so. Asked her if she is interested in the Social Corner. O! such a gleeful "Yes," she wanted to know who was speaking. I did not tell her at first but told her if I was a good thrower I could throw a stone right in her door. O such a thrill! Laugh! Well, you should have heard her. Finally I told her who was speaking and would be glad to see her. Every time I intended to go it would either storm or be so cold. I was out her way one day and had the house pointed out to me.

Tatting: I shall ask to see those quilts and fancy work.

Bee: I have often been called a bird but never a flea before. Always make my accuser understand that I am a blue bird but not a chippie.

As Lent is here I would like the members to try this:

Manhattan Mouse Salad: Mix together one teaspoon ground mustard, two teaspoons flour, 1-2 teaspoons powdered sugar, a little cayenne, one teaspoon melted butter, yolk of one egg, one half cup of vinegar, one teaspoon salt. Cook in double boiler until well thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire an add one third tablespoon of granulated gelatin which has been soaked in one and one half tablespoon of cold water. Let it get set slightly. Season highly with salt, cayenne and juice of one half lemon. Add fish to the prepared dressing with half cup of whipped cream. Mold, chill serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. Garnish with lemon and stars of beets.

Scalloped Clams: Chop rims, save liquor, grease baking dish, roll twelve crackers (lunch) cover bottom of dish well with cracker meal, put in layer clams(rims and bellies) with bits of butter and continue until all crackers are used; pour clam liquor over top with a little milk, add pepper. —clams may produce salt enough.— put in oven and bake until brown. Serve with baked potatoes.

SHORE LINE CLUB SUGGESTED

Dear Social Corner Members: I think I must be renewing my age as I find myself writing to the Corner quite often after being silent for a long term of years. I think one's interest in the Corner page increases when we find out who is who as we once in a great while do. I am especially interested in reading of the clubs but as near as I can make out they are nearly all around Norwich and Willimntic. I find among the pen names R. I., Rhody Louise, Noank Brownie and a few other names that gives one an idea that they live in that direction, so don't you have any clubs down that way? Some years ago I had occasion to meet quite a number of people down that way and found them a very sociable and hospitable lot so why don't you get busy and form a club along the shore line?

Red Cedar: I wonder if your wonderful Duz will take out the stamped lines on embroidered pieces. I have a piece of work where the lines show outside the work but have found nothing that will remove them, so thought I would try Duz and will let you know results.

BEE.

FRIENDS

Dear Social Corner Friends: First of all I wish to extend sincere thanks to all the sisters who have so kindly remembered me with cards and letters. Several of you are known to me by pen name only but it may be that some day I may have the pleasure of knowing you personally.

Theoda and E. K R. surprised me by coming in to call on Social Corner day. I was so very glad to see them both. It was too bad that on that Wednesday when I was not at work that fate should will it that I could not even go across the street to enjoy the dinner and social time with the sisters.

Since I have been obliged to stay quietly at home on several "perfectly good" working days, I have had plenty of leisure for meditation. I have had many subjects for thought, but the most insistent has been, Friends.

During one's busy round of every day duties one does not always stop to appreciate her friends or if we do appreciate we do not often enough express our appreciation. But let misfortune lay us aside for a season and the wonderful friends cannot be overestimated and then one has time to understand and be thankful.

It is a comfort that we all wish to do our utmost in the line of kindness toward our friends, sometimes because we care much for them and again because it comes in the duty line. Some one has aptly said, "It is possible to give without loving but it is not possible to love without giving. In some way or other we will reach out and share our best with those for whom we have a sincere regard. Always, I am thankful for my many dear friends but not for a long while have so many kindnesses been showered upon me by real friends. I need them always but especially have I needed and appreciated them during the last few weeks. Good sisters of the Corner let us tell our friends how much we appreciate them and all their kind deeds.

SOME MEATLESS DISHES

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: It has been a long time since I have written to the Corner, so thought now would be a good time to do a little bit of writing. Have been watching every Saturday to see if the Butterfly had lit on the page, but failed to see her.

Butterfly: I was thinking of you Jan. 24 the day of the eclipse and of what a nice chance you would have to see it without going outside your yard. Suppose you have been busy as ever this winter braiding mats. I was hoping to get down to the Buckingham Memorial to one of the Social Corner meetings before this time, but have not been out of the house for six weeks now. But am still hoping to get there before long. I have been very pleased to see he Social Corner page full and overflowing lately. The letters are so interesting too, that I hate to lay the paper down until I have read all the latters. Although have enjoyed the winter, and the snowstorms and the trees covered with snow, still it does seem good to see the green grass again, and hear the birds, telling, by their songs, how glad they are to see the spring time once more.

Mackerel Baked in Milk: Remove head and tail from mackerel, and bone if desired. Dip each fish into slightly salted milk, then into breadcrumbs. Put into well greased pan, sprinkle with a little cooking oil or melted shortening. Pour one cup milk around fish and bake in hot oven (375 degrees fahrenheit). 15 minutes.

Lima Bean Loaf: One-half pound dried lima beans, 1 medium sized onion chopped fine, 2 tablespoons melted shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, dash of cayenne. Soak beans 6 to 8 hours in water to cover, cook in water in which they have soaked, until very soft, adding more water if necessary. Drain and rub through a sieve. Then add onion, melted shortening, salt, paprika, and cayenne and mix well. Pack into a well-greased loaf tin and bake in moderate oven (360 Fahrenheit) 20 to 30 minutes or until loaf is firm and brown on top. Turn out on hot platter, garnish with hard boiled eggs, and serve with Cheese Sauce: Four tablespoons shortening, 4 tablespoons rye or white flour, 2 cups milk, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 cup grated cheese. Melt shortening, stir in flour, add milk slowly stirring constantly. Add seasoning and when mixture thickens stir in cheese and cook just long enough for cheese to melt.

Baked Eggs a la Tomato: 1 cup canned tomato, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 6 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoonful salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon parika. Pour tomatoe into a greased quart-sized baking dish. Add 1 cup crumbs. Mix well, break the eggs whole into the dish, melt butter and stir in the remaining crumbs. Sprinkle buttered crumbs, salt, pepper, and paprika over eggs and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) 15 to 20 minutes.

Guess I had better stop if I do not want this to go into the waste basket.

NABBY.

GRAND TIME AT ANNIVERSARY

Dear Sisters of the Corner: After attending the anniversary meeting at the Buckingham March fourth and enjoying myself so much I thought I must write and tell you all. It was worth while to go. Bug and I were real smart and got a good early start and did the few errands we wanted to and were in the hall before 11 o'clock, hats off and ready for a good time. And we had it and so did every one I guess. How tongues did wag! If there is anything that can make more noise then a hall full of women when they get together I would like to see it. But never mind they enjoyed seeing each other and all had something to say, and all wanted to say it at once, but they all understood one another and that seems a mystery to me, and I am a woman, and talked as much as any one. But, oh, we do have nice times! Everybody seems so pleased to see everybody and one always feels so much at home right away Lots was said to me about my cleaning house so early. Now, sisters, I'm so glad it is all done and I wish yours was, and you know way down in your hearts you wish it too. Now it is ever comes warm and sunshiny I can go out all I want to and not be thinking I ought to be inside cleaning. Next week we expect 3,000 little chickens and then there will be work for some one all right.

It is raining and blowing hard tonight. Last Sunday night it blew so hard it blew the cupola off of our barn, even such a big affair as it was with lumber enough in it to build a small shed. What in the world such big things were put on top of a barn for I dont know. It has been there many years. People don't do those things that way now-a-days. A neighbor said that he used to watch the weather vane from his house to see which way the wind was and now he has to guess at it. Never the less I guess he knows there has been wind and lots of it lately.

Hoping to meet you all again in the near future, I am as ever.

MA OF GREENE GABLES.

GREETINGS FROM EARLY BLUE BELL

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I want to thank a Social Corner Member for the pretty calendar I received. I was very much pleased to get it as it was the first one I ever got.

I feel sorry for the shut-ins and sympathize with those that have had to part with loved ones the past year. Best wishes to the editor and Social Corner the coming year.

EARLY BLUE BELL.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner Editor: I have enjoyed reading the Social Corner page in the Bulletin for many years and would like very much to become a member. Won't you please add my name along with the rest?

Will take for pen name

ALTHEA MAY.

A NEW MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: I would like to join the Social Corner. I have read many of the Corner letters and recipes and have enjoyed them very much.

FIDELITY.

SEEING THE PRETTY PLACES OF FLORIDA

Dear Social Corner Friends: We are having some cool weather for Florida, but of course not really cold, for there is a profusion of flowers and blooming shrubs everywhere, and the air is full of fragrance from the orange trees. We are gadding about a good deal, trying to see as much of Florida as possible.

We recently attended the state fair at Tampa which is similar to our northern fairs excepting the display of fruit, which of course is of a citrous variety. We went to St. Petersburg over the new Gandy bridge which connects Tampa with St. Pete and saves a distance of 22 miles. The bridge is 6 1-2 miles long, three and one half miles are of built up road, and three miles of concrete bridge, but the whole is like one long toll bridge and is wonderful.

St. Pete is growing rapidly with its many subdivisions, one is called Passadena and is very pretty with its streets and walks bordered with trees and flowering shrubs, and as it borders on Tampa bay the drives about it are lovely.

Passa Grille is just beyond it, over a toll bridge, and is very attractive, with its tropical scenery and the long stretch of white sand and the blue water of the Gulf of Mexico.

We returned through Clearwater, another very pretty little city on Tampa bay. While there we drove out to Tarpon Springs, the sponge fisheries. There is a Greek colony near the wharves and they earn a good living going out into the gulf and diving for sponges and coral. It is interesting to see the big piles of sponges of all sizes and shapes. They are cleansed and bleached and arranged attractively in little booths all along the harbor. As we were leaving that town we met a house car which bore the sign, South Conentry, Conn.

It looked good to us, but as it was traveling at a good speed and we were also, we did not stop to say "howdy," but I guess from the description that it belonged to John E. who is Sister Wrinkle's son.

Our latest trip was a delightful ride as it was over, what is called here, a rolling part of the state.

Florida is usually so flat that many drives are uninteresting.

We went about 70 miles northwest of here through Plant City and then to Dade City which is described as the city in the mountains, and it really seemed so, for many of the hills were as high as our New England hills and we could see for miles, and with the white farm houses with green background here and there in the distance and pretty lakes at the foot of the hills, it made a charming picture.

Zephyrhills was a pretty little village and the name suited it, and then we came to Brooksville and the natives describe it as sitting pretty among the hills. Then we drove out to a new subdivision called Edgewater on the banks of the Withlacooche river. To get to it we had to follow a trail through the woods dodging trees and stumps for a distance of eleven miles, but it was worth the trip, when we saw the place. It reminded me of the Willimantic camp ground only that it was on a picturesque river. There were 60 cottages and a club house being built, and for a starter to a new town, a 50x100 foot lot with a two room cottage, unfurnished were to be sold for $400 and the company agreed that by July they would have a good road finished to the state road.

Everyone who took the strenuous ride over the trail, agreed that it was a good proposition and worth the trip to see the place, even if they did not care to invest.

We shall all miss C. E. S. for she was always ready to help in the Social Corner, and very hospitable in her own home. I sympathize deeply with the family, and with all others who have lost dear ones.

Maine Lover: Yours received. I am very glad that Trottie is with you, and hope to see her when I return.

Greetings to all.

HULDY.

GOOD RECIPES

Dear Sisters: Here are a few suggestions for the cooks.

Poverty Stew: Peel and cut turnips in small pieces, quarters potatoes, peel 2 onions, cut up small. Boil all together until soft, add a piece of butter, salt and pepper.

Orange Soup: Juice of 4 oranges, 2 cups of boiling water 2 1-2 teaspoons of sago, 1-2 teaspoon salt and sugar, all level measurements, add salt and sago to boiling water, cook until clear add orange juice and sugar, do not merely heat. With graham crackers this is an especially nice luncheon.

Tuna Fish Salad (requested): One can tuna fish, shredded, 4 cups diced cold potatoes, 3 hard boiled eggs, 1 cup celery, cut in very small pieces, 6 small sweet pickles chopped and stuffed olives cut in slices. Mix with mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce leaves, garnished with slices of olives.

Tuna Fish Loaf: And all who have tried this recipe are very fond of it. One pound can tuna fish, 3 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 3-4 teaspoon salt and pepper. Mix well then add milk, mixing all thoroughly, put in a bread pan and bake 35 minutes. Cook a can of peas five minutes, pour off water.

1 Onion, 1 Orange: Free pulp from orange, cup up one onion with orange and serve on crisp lettuce leave with mayonnaise. If you haven't lettuce use apple cut up with it.

Cream Potato Mail: Make a pint of cream sauce and stir into it a pint of chopped potatos cooked cold boiled ones will be all right turn into a well buttered pan (frying), cover and cook until the sauce is nearly absorbed. There should be just enough to hold the potato together. Roll from one side to another, sprinkle with chopped parsly and serve at once. Do not brown it.

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER.

GREETINGS FROM 1492

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: First of all I want to thank a member for that dainty little calendar and apolgize for not doing it before. Procrastination must be my middle name as I am always waiting for a more convenient time which never comes.

If Caro hasn't got the stain out of her table cloth I advise her to send it down to our deacon and let him try it. That's what I did and it came out all right.

Zany: You ought to write and tell the cornerites your name for the flappers. It certainly fits the case.

Harrie E: Do you ever here from N. J. now? I have had two letters since Christmas.

Was sorry to hear of the death of C. E. S. I remember meeting her at North Windham. Some of the sisters tell about the Shaker bonnet. I am not sure whether I ever had one or not but have seen plenty of them. I used to wear the slab sunbonnets and how I hated them as I could only see in front of me.

I wonder if Caro remembers the time we sat on the stairs and discussed the question, which was the better cook her mother or mine. I am sure she hasn't forgotten the earthquake, I won't tell what year it was.

As the sisters are discussing the pin question I'll air my personal views. The editor will get so many views he won't knew what to do. In that case he must do as he thinks best. My own idea would be a simple little pin about the size of the red cross only a pretty shade of yellow. Or one a little larger perhaps white with a yellow chrysanthemum on it, no letters on either. They could be bought for a few pennies and I am sure more would buy those than more expensive ones.

Y. O. T. wrote about the evil of divorces. I wonder if she ever read Mary Marie by Eleanor H. Porter.

What has become of Tildy? I am afraid she has been too busy with the carving knife.

Keziah D.: I saw Diogenes twice lately but as he had no lantern I judge he has either found the object of his quest or given up in despair.

No, Barbara, my yellow bow wore out and I shall have to get another.

Our sympathy goes out to the sorrowing ones. I know they will be brave through the trial. Very few are privileged to keep their mother so many years. They have that to be thankful for.

GREETINGS FROM U. C. E.

Dear Corner Sisters: How are you all this beautiful spring morning?

It has been a long time since I have written a letter but have taken much comfort this winter in reading the many interesting letters. Am always glad to see so many new members joining our Corner, and some day hope to find out who is who. Was very sorry to have missed the March meeting at the B. M. I wish to thank you all for the kind remembrance sent me. Was very much surprised, as well as pleased. I also thank all the sisters who sent me cards, also the one who sent the calendar.

Queen Elizabeth: Thank you very much for the useful gift at Christmas time. Enjoyed the letters and cards from your daughters. Thanks for same.

Golden Glow! How are you these days? Come over sometime.

Crimson Rambler: Did you receive my card? Do not stop to write, but take the first trolley and come along.

Esmaralda: Hope to hear from you soon.

Zoda: Glad to hear you are better.

Grace: Always glad to hear from you.

Bumblebee: Take care of yourself and do not work too hard. Should not know what to do without your smiling face and helping hand.

Water Lily: Be more careful in the future.

Yours for success of the Corner, and hoping I haven't wearied the editor's patience will close with this verse:

Where is Heaven? Not afar,
Hid away behind a star
Not beyond the sculptured granite
Not upon another planet
Not in some celestial clime
After centuries of time
Not a million miles above us
But among the hearts that love us
Not among the distant places
But among familiar faces,
Any time and anywhere,
We can find our heaven there!

U. C. E.

MORE MEMORIES OF YANTIC

Dear Social Corner Folks: I don't always read the Corner letters but Rebecca called my attention to In Other Days at Yantic written by N. O. T. and it just touched a kinder tender spot and brought back pleasant memories.

Something over a half century ago in one of the little houses on Sunny Side of Yantic I made my first appearance and spent over 20 years there. I lived at one time near Cryer's store. Many a time have I been in the little house which stood on the corner of School House hill, opposite the Kelly house, where lived an old couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Jennison. There was one house then between the Kelly house and the little chapel and that was back on a hillside near the site of the well which is there now. This was occupied by the village shoemaker "Dummy Coon" and his wife, both deaf and dumb. On one side a long sand bank reaching to the school house, on the other a pasture with the brook running down to the road, now all filled in, the bars to the pasture being just opposite the mill. Near the depot stood an old house then occupied by the Bennetts and Collins, both old Yantic families, the house long since torn down. I peddled the morning paper of that time The New London Day. That was before the Bulletin got into Yantic as it sold for five cents then and "it couldn't be done" when the Day sold for two. I wouldn't wonder but I left a paper at your house for I used to sell 50 or 60 a morning.

Those were the days of Dr. Phenney and his noted blue Pills, of Jo. Perkins, David Waterman, William Backus, E. Winslow Williams, men who made Yantic at that time.

Think I will have to attend a Social Corner gathering sometime.

UNCLE CHARLIE.

MORE EPITAPHS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank all of the sisters who so kindly remembered my mother's birthday by sending cards. She was surprised and pleased to receive such friendly words of greeting at the age of 89.

I have just been reading two epitaphs which pleased us, so here they are for you.

"Patience Randall was my name
America my nation.
Foster was my dwelling place
And Christ was my salvation.
When I am dead and in my grave.
And all my bones are rotten,
Christ the Lord will think of me
When I am quite forgotten."

The above lines are on a stone in a burying yard in Foster, Rhode Island and the following is in Essex, Connecticut:

"Here under these trees lies the body of Jonathan Pease.
He is not here but only his pod,
He's shelled out his soul and gone to his God."

Years ago an old lady in Mansfield was to be given a life lease of her property. She said she didn't want a life lease, she wanted a lease to all eternity."

The soap which I made from Crimson Rambler's recipe came out very nice. It is fine for all sorts of uses and does not make the hands crack in cold weather as most soap does.

Wishing the Corner editor and members a happy anniversary time. I will close as my letter is quite long.

ROSARY. (Aug. 18th.)

Storrs, Conn.

ACCIDEN TO RED CLOVER

Dear Cornerites: To the sisters and friends of the Social Corner that witnessed the accident that happened to Red Clover will say that she is in the Backus hospital Norwich with a splintered bone. For her also for myself I want to thank all the sisters of both clubs 1 and 2 for being so kind and thoughtful.

RED ROSE.

A NEWSY LETTER AFTER A LONG SILENCE

Dear Editor and Sisters: It has been a long time since I wrote to the Corner so I will say "present" to the roll call. I meant to have written before but some times silence is better than speech. Since I wrote last two sisters and three brothers-in-law have passed on to the great beyond. We have laid them away in His keeping till the light of that morning shall dawn and the shadows no longer shall gather and loved ones be borne to the tomb. A dear little grandson has been added to my family, which helps keep me busy making rompers and knitting sweaters for him and taking care of him evenings so his father and mother can go to the pictures and O. E. S., as they do not live far away.

E. L. M.: Yes, I am still making pretty and useful things but as we have so many visits over the wire I needn't say more, only my hat is getting full.

Crimson Rambler: Are you the one who let the "cat out?"

Tatting: I am glad you dropped the shuttle and dug up that rusty old pen. What did you do with the baby while you were writing?

Pansy: Do stop singing and dancing long enough to say present to the roll call.

Chic-a-dee: Where are you?

Jennie: I am glad you have joined the ranks of Grangers. I joined over 20 years ago.

Ma of Greene Gables: Next time I am in Plainfield I am going to look for Greene Gables.

Delilah Deal: Hope you received my letter. I was through Jewett City a while ago and wanted to call but it was so near dark we had to keep going.

Silent Stranger: Please don't lose any more letters in your grip.

O. D.: May I ask if you lived in Willimantic at one time?

Billie: Why so silent? Are you throwing stones or shooting arrows?

Noank Brownie: Do you live near the trolley? I think we are on the same line.

Historian: Where are you? I think we have met in the grange.

Balsam Fir: Just received four cards. Glad you were pleased. I think I had better close or this will find the waste basket.

Best wishes to all.

INTERESTED READER. (March 16.)

ILLNESS MAKES US APPRECIATE GOOD HEALTH

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: As the anniversary days of the Corner are being celebrated this month, I hope it will bring together large numbers of the sisters. It was my intention to be present at Club No. 1, on March 11th, but owing to a recent illness, I was disappointed in not being able to attend this time. I have been a Corner member nine years last October, have always enjoyed the meetings and the many friendly acquaintances I have found. Those of us who must bear our disappointments can hope for future opportunities, and that the sun may shine again for us! Sometimes I think these ing dreary days and nights of illness help us later on to better appreciate good health. We are all glad, I am sure, that bright spring days are coming soon. We shall enjoy the song bird, the opening buds of the tree, and the blades of green grass, and the returns of nature's beautiful flowers. We cannot choose our path through life. We must submit to those conditions which come before us, and the alternative is only to make the best of it. Patience is a wonderful help, if we can abide with it. Our dispositions being so varied it is easier for some and harder for others to be reconciled to adverse circumstances. My sympathy goes out to all sisters of our Social Corner, who in any way are troubled, or in ill health.

Hoping our Corner friends may be helpful to each other in the future, as they have been in past years, and long continue their friendships.

Best wishes to all.

JENNIE.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION FROM BRAVE

Dear Editor and Sister: I will write just a little to thank A Corner Member for the very pretty calendar that was sent to me in the hospital. If there is any one thing I want to see when I am there it is a calendar, to keep track of the days, so I appreciated this one as it was the first one I have had. And I also want to thank all who were so good to send me cards and letters the four weeks I was in the hospital. I had 90 cards, letters and valentines. Many thanks to all those that helped all that wonderful "comfort box." I can't express my appreciation and gratitude to you dear sisters in Club 1. You can't think the joy it gave me as I opened my daily stint and I am still enjoying looking it over.

There are two sisters in the hospital here now—Anne Marie and Rutherford.

R. D.: That was some letter.

BRAVE.

CLUB THREE MEETS NEXT WEDNESDAY

Social Corner Sisters: The meeting of Club No. 3, will meet at the Baptist church parlors, Lebanon, March 18.

Please bring plate, cup, fork, knife, spoon and food for the table. Come one and all and make this a good meeting. Please be prepared to read or in any way help to make a pleasant day.

The HOSTESS and her helpers.

LOOKING FORWARD TO SUMMER

Dear Editor and Sisters: I wish to thank Corner Member for little calendar. I will answer to the roll call for they say it is better late than not at all.

Dorinda: Thank you for card.

Whirlwind: I thank you for card.

E. A. G.: Do you remember Aunt Mary making a cake and bringing it to the Buckingham for my birthday? I also thank you for card.

Mavis: We are thinking of coming to Hartford in rose time. Will try and let you know. Would you come to the park and do you come to the Buckingham? Thank you for card.

Next winter we hope for a better road and a bus. Then I think we can all go if we want to.

We have had so much mud, it will be nice when it is dry and warm.

Wishing you all as nice a summer as ever.

WILD FLOWER.

GREETINGS FROM "L. M."

Dear Corner Sisters: To the editor I want to say thank you for my prize money which was a nice surprise, and, I'll tell you what I shall do with it—buy cards and stamps to send to Corner sisters who are sick or in sorrow.

Uncle Sam's Daughter: Your rice cakes sound good. I am very fond of rice and use it as a vegetable especially with chicken and lamb.

Ormandine: I use squares of old bed blankets for dish cloths. They are the best ever. Sometime you had with your cake. When you find

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Ice on the Thames river was over two feet thick a half century ago today, but a thaw had set in and the ice and snow were fast disappearing. Sleighing was good up until Thursday and upper Washington street was the scene of fine racing.

Items of interest as taken in part from the files of the Bulletin of 1875, are as follows:

Monday, March 8, 1875—E. H. Peck of Yantic has in his possession the original deeds given to Benjamin Peck by George and Micah Rood, of the property in Peck Hollow, dated 1699 and 1702. Micah Rood, according to tradition, killed a man at the foot of an apple tree in his orchard and the fruit thereafter was marked by a clot of red at the core. The apple is known as the "Mike" or "Rood" apple to this day.

A large party gathered at Foster's billiard parlors Saturday evening to witness the game between him, and Frank Adams of this city, Adams to use his fingers and make 1,000 or no count. The match was won by Mr. Adams, after which he gave a demonstration of many foreign fancy shots.

According to the report of Charles P. Cogswell, cashier, the resources of the Second National bank, at Norwich, on March 1 1875 were $649,564.86.

Tuesday, March 9, 1875—At a special meeting of the trustees of the Otis Library, George Pratt was chosen trustee in place of the late Senator Buckingham. Rev. Mr. Dana was elected president of the board, the position held for many years by Senator Buckingham. It is proposed that a history of Norwich together with lesser publications and pictures pertaining to Norwich, be gathered by the Library and be sent to Norwich, England.

Traveling on country roads is extremely difficult as the snow and mud is about two feet deep at the present time. A snow slide on Trinity church yesterday carried away one of the chimneys. Morning trains into the city are being delayed by the snow.

An absent minded lady went down street yesterday without her bonnet. Discovering this after she had gone nearly a half mile she rushed back home to properly dress before continuing her journey.

Wednesday, March 10, 1875—The tree on the Wauregan corner was protected yesterday from attacks by uneasy hack horses, by the erection of a wooden frame around it.

The trotting yesterday was not as good as usual and there was fewer out to enjoy it. The snow is soft and there are many bumpy spots that spoil good racing.

The heavy wind this week has opened the ice at the head of the sound and sailing vessels can now get in to make their trips to inside ports.

C. B. Rogers & Co. are getting up a lot of machinery for the South American exposition next summer.

Ledyard residents report feeling an earthquake yesterday, claiming that there was a distinct movement of the ground.

Thursday, March 11, 1875—It is reported that the freight agents of the trunk railroads to the west have held a conference in Philadelphia in connection with the Pennsylvania Central, to make agreements on rates to prevent the diversion of so great an amount of west bound freight as recently has been transported over the Vermont Central and Baltimore & Ohio railroads.

Some neighboring towns have adopted the signal of a bell as the means of informing parents that there will be no school for the children. This system might well be started in Norwich for use on stormy days.

Snow drifts on the road between Norwich and Preston are so deep in places that walls have been taken down and paths dug around the drifts, in order that vehicles might pass through.

When thawing out water pipes on Pequot avenue, New London, yesterday, the workmen found that the frost was four and one half feet deep.

Friday, March 12, 1875—For the first time in many moons wheels are beginning to take the place of runners and several teams were seen about the city yesterday. The ground is not free fro msnow by any means but the travel is about as good one way as it is the other, owing to the softness of the snow.

A gentleman of this city has invented a machine for milking cows, which is operated by clock work and an air exhaust.

William F. Bidwell, son of Postmaster Bidwell of this city, sails today on the brig George, bound for Porto Rico.

Saturday, March 13, 1875—P. D. Murphy has been named chief marshal and C. A. Kingberger, Daniel Malone and John P. Murphy, aides, for the big St. Patrick's day parade to be held in this city by our residents of Irish birth. Societies from Westerly, New London, Willimantic and Jewett City will participate in the big parade and enjoy the banquet to be served at Breed hall.

The Methodist Episcopal church at Versailles was totally destroyed by fire yesterday, at a loss of about $2,000. The building was owned by S. L. & T. D. Sayles.

The snow went off so rapidly yesterday that a farmer, who came to the city in a sleigh in the morning was forced to put wheels on his cart at night, in order to make the return trip.

SOCIAL CORNER

but the correct way to make the fasting do send the recipe to the Corner as it must be good.

Kitty Lou: Your way of getting children to take naps was fine. I have heard of several ways of getting children to take milk but recently heard of a new one to me. The children fought against it so that the mother added a bit of chocolate syrup and now it is so wonderful a taste it has to be saved for father. I thought the poem on the Devil was great.

O. D.: Thanks for your words of congratulation but you know it does not pay to be too sure about anything. Wonder if there are enough members in your section to form a club. Come up to the B. M. some time and really get acquainted.

Tatting: Am glad you have woke up and hope you'll arouse your neighbors and please remember it is no farther from your house to mine than from mine to yours.

For all you smart folks who have so much house cleaning done, I am glad, but you make the rest of us poor mortals who are not so speedy feel quite discouraged. When it's a nice fine day I'll think, now I ought to start cleaning today then I hustle around with the everyday work and keep thinking what a nice day to go somewhere and pretty soon I rush into some glad rags and start what ought to be a Rolls Royce and away I go. But some day, I'll surprise myself and stay at home and make things shine.

Ormandine: The pieces of old bed blankets make splendid cleaning cloths too and old turkish towels are fine to put in the handle mops for floor washing.

This letter is much longer than I meant to have it so will stop.

FINE TIME AT CLUB ONE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I must write and thank the sisters of Club No. 1 for the good time they gave us March 11. The dinner was fine. It would make one hungry just to look at the tables with the good things.

Peggy Anne: I missed you. Yes, am looking forward to our visit in M and H.

Billie: Do you live in Lebanon? If so, I may live near you.

Remember Me: Looked for you in W. March 11 and was disappointed.

Dom Pedro: I think it is nearly eleven years since you joined the Corner. Did you live at 761 Montauk avenue then?

Tiny: How are you feeling? That was "some supper."

Social Corner Member: Thank you for calendar. How did you know I loved the old house and the country?

Best wishes for the Corner.

AUNT SARAH. (Club No. 3.)

A PEN AND INK TRAY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Get a ten cent picture frame remove the common picture and substitute a pretty piece of cretonne. This makes a novel and delightful pen and ink tray. The glass surface keeps the cretonne from being spotted by ink and getting otherwise soiled.

Here are directions for a writing desk combination home made. An old fashioned wash stand had its possibilities. It was given several coats of white paint, the last with some gloss to it. The doors and drawer had been lost, but this did not matter as it suggested denim curtains to hide the cavern. I bought inexpensive cretonne and a piece was nailed on the back and sides to give a panel effect. The cretonne was held in place by brass headed nails, which also made a neat finish. Another piece of cretonne was nailed on the top and finished with a binding of narrow gimp.

The converted desk seemed a little too high for writing with comfort, so an old box lid was brought into service and secured by hinges a few inches below the level of the top. It was allowed to slope a little and was made adjustable so that it would let down to hide the place where a draw had been once. A shelf for this was hidden by the green denim curtain. The bottom made a convenient resting place for the feet.

KITTY LOU.

GREETINGS FROM CRIMSON RAMBLER

Dear Corner Sisters: As I have not written for several weeks thought I must be up and doing or I will be called a slacker. I don't want to be called that.

Eca: Did you get tired reading that letter? I hope you did not, but I felt just like writing it.

Sunshine No. 2 that used to be: I won't give you aawy to your hubby and hope you will know who I mean. Yes, tell your hubby I still live in this same town, and I know who he is when I meet him. Am sorry you are not feeling extra and if nothing happens I'll try when the roads are settled to give you that promised call. I have wondered why I haven't heard from you in so long. At least you may write me a letter. You know you used to and at one time we did a big correspondence.

I wish to thank all the sisters who sent me letters, booklets and cards for my birthday, Mavis, A Social Corner Member, Whirlwind, Interested Reader, W. C. E., Billie, Anastasia, True Blue, Primrose, Savilla, Necia, Anna Mell Dom Pedro, Black Eyed Susie, Balsam Fir and Mr. Balsam Fir, Joan, Anna Z., Lorna and Maple Leaf. It was awfully nice to be remembered by so many and quite a number of cards had crimson rambler roses on them also.

Mavis: I will write you a letter soon.

I was more than delighted to receive a card from Anna Mell. It is so long since I have heard from her in person.

Dom Pedro: Your nice letter as well as birthday card received.

Joan: Your letter at hand. You had better think things over and grant my request, otherwise there will be some disappointment. Cast the "handy nuisance" one side. There will be some one to coach you. Say yes, I understand all the circumstances, etc., but just for once. You will not be sorry.

J. E. T.: Awake from your Rip Van Winkle sleep. Get busy and write that letter. It has been a long time coming.

Amy: Your letter of earlier days was rather amusing I know some one else to whom the same thing happened once upon a time in identically the same way. Where did you live in Preston? Some time when I feel just like it I am going to write an incident that happened in my life. Am rather shy for fear I will be given the ha ha over it.

Yours for the good of the Corner and wishes to all the members.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

MACCABEES

S. C. C. Ward, of Portland, will head the New England branch of the Maccabees automobile caravan in which 10,000 members of that fraternal order will drive to Washington in July, it is announced by A. W. Frye, supreme commander.

The New England caravan will start at Bangor and follow the Atlantic highway. Portland, Providence and New Haven will be mobilization centers for Maccabees in their respective states, and at these and other points all along the route a continuous stream of cars will join the caravan till it numbers 1,500 or more people when Washington is reached.

A number of branches have been laid out over which local delegates will drive to connect up with the main route. Vermont Maccabees will meet at Brattleboro and driving through Springfield and Hartford, join the caravan at New Haven, and another branch starting at Montreal and crossing eastern New York state through Albany will unite with the main party at Newark. There will be other larger additions at Philadelphia and Baltimore, the latter the junction point for two large branches of the caravan starting at Syracuse and Buffalo.

Maccabee clients all along the routes are planning celebrations when the caravan passes through and are making arrangements for the commissariat and accomodations of all kinds.

Mr. Ward has been active in Maccabee work for twenty-five years and is supervising deputy in charge of the New England states and Quebec. He is a resident of Portland, and is well known in fraternal circles throughout New England and holds the office of supreme lieutenant commander of The Maccabees. The organization of the New England caravan is largely due to his efforts, and it is expected to be one of the largest of the five caravans which will drive to the capital from different sections of the country.

HADASSAH

The sixth annual Purim masquerade ball of the Norwich chapter of Hadassah was given Monday evening at Roseland hall. A large crowd was present and many were dressed in gay costumes which lent color to the evening. Dancing for which the Harmony Sextette played, was enjoyed from 8:30 to 12.

During the intermission prizes for the best costumes were awarded. The first ladies prize of two dollars was awarded to Miss Madeline Thune, who appeared in a picturesque Robin Hood costume. The second prize, also of two dollars, was jointly awarded to the Misses Fannie Sadinsky and Evelyn Moyel, who were dressed as two old ladies. A third prize of one dollar was awarded to Miss Ruth Clark, dressed as Uncle Sam, and also to Mrs. Max Belt attired as Queen Esther. The gentlemen's prize of man's silk shirt was awarded to Joseph Heine who was cleverly dressed as a Chinaman.

During the intermission exhibition dances of buck and wing and novel acrobatic dancing were given by Gerald Goldfadden, who was forced to respond to numerous encores. Joseph Heine also gave an exhibition of the shuffle.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

Saturday, April 11, will be a day for southern New England commercial travelers to remember as the date has been set for the pow-wow and joint ceremonial by nine councils, including Worcester, Hartford, Holyoke, Bridgeport, Springfield, Providence, New Haven, New Bedford and Norwich.

The gathering place is to be Roseland Hall, Norwich, where nourishment will be served from 5 to 6 p. m., there will be a street parade, with full brass band, at 6 to 7 p. m. and the ceremonial will follow in Olympic Hall. Springfield's crack degree team will exemplify the work and a silver loving cup has been offered by the Norwich Chamber of Commerce to the council having the largest pro rata attendance based on the membership of Jan. 1, 1925.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

A movement was started at New Britain Wednesday night for a state home for the Knights of Pythias of Connecticut. The plan was announced at Past Chancellors night of St. Elmo Lodge of New Britain and was received with enthusiasm. A number of the Grand Lodge officers including Grand Chancellor Fred M. Persons of Seymour were present, and the project was first advanced by Past Supreme Representative Manlius J. Norton.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

The first neighbors' night for Norwich grange, No. 172, for the year 1925, was held in Steiner's hall Wednesday evening.

The usual reports were read and accepted. It was voted that Worthy Master Arthur W. Avery and Worthy Secretary Mrs. Cora Spencer draw up some resolutions in favor of Bill S. B. 443 in the legislature and submit them to the state worthy master, Allen B. Cook and also send them to the senator and representatives of Norwich urging them to pass the bill. It was also voted that if possible a committee would be appointed to go to Hartford to represent the grange at the hearing on this bill.

Worthy Lecturer Lewis E. Aldrich announced the following programme which was enjoyed by all:

Singing of a Grange Song, everyone present; reading, The Old Man at the Gate, Mrs. Charles Dodge, Plainfield grange; reading, As Easy as Pie, Ralph Marsh, Norwich grange; vocal solo, Somewhere a Voice is Calling, Miss Helen Gardiner, Plainfield grange; reading of an original paper, Authors I Have Been Privileged to Hear, Worthy Lecturer Miss Agnes Edwards, Konomoc grange, Waterford. Miss Edwards was assisted with reading from the different authors by Miss Ella Philips and Miss Margaret Wright, both from Konomoc grange. Piano solo, Up in a Swing, Miss Florance Brown, Norwich grange.

At the close of the programme the feast committee served refreshments of sandwiches, cake, and coffee. Remarks were made by Worthy Master Leroy Forsythe, of Konomoc grange and Worthy Master Charles Dodge of Plainfield grange.

The attendance were as follows: Plainfield grange 17, Ekonk grange 3, Pachaug 4, Preston City 7, Konomoc 7, Ledyard 5, Norwich 72.

The next meeting which is on March 25 is the last when new applications can be brought in for the April initiation. The first lesson in the basketry class will be given in Grange hall on the afternoon of March 25. Those wishing to join should communicate with Mrs. Herbert Richardson, chairman of the home economics committee.

March 25—Camp Fire Girls.
April 8—Indian Night. Lemuel Fielding in costume.
April 22—First and second degrees.
May 13—Third and fourth degrees.
Sept. 23—Neighbors Night. Preston City, Franklin, Lebanon, Bozrah.
October 14—Home Economics. State Board of Health speaker.
October 28—First and second degrees.
November 11—Third and fourth degrees.
November 25 — Pilgrim Fathers Night. Stereopticon.
December 9—Election of officers.
December 23—Christmas program.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS.

At the regular meeting of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, held on Friday afternoon at Buckingham Memorial, the usual reports were given and approved and the general orders were read. The meeting was opened at 2.30 o'clock, which hereafter will be the time of the meeting, by the president, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, and there was one initiation.

Announcement was made of receiving from the National Relief corps a memorial for Emma Stark Hampton, senior past president of the National Relief Corps, who died Februry 22, 1925. She served as senior president from 1887-88. It was also nnounced that the National Relief Corps had on February 12 presented two beautiful flags to the Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland. Refreshments were served.

Next Thursday at the Buckingham Memorial the Sewing society of the W. R. C. will meet for sewing and on the 21st of the month a supper will be given at the Buckingham. The meeting closed in the usual form.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

With an attendance that taxed the seating capacity of Steiner's Hall and included visitors from New London, Taftville, Baltic, Willimantic and Sterling, Court City of Norwich, No. 63, Foresters of America, observed its third annual past chief rangers night, with Sub-chief Ranger Joseph R. Portelance, Jr., in the chair. After the meeting opened it was turned over to the past chiefs and the following occupied the different offices: Chief Ranger Frank H. Quinley; Sub-chief Ranger George B. Fox; Past Chief Joseph R. Portelance, Sr.; Lecturer James H. Casey; Sr. Woodard George H. Dolan and Jr. Woodard Donat Simeauno. There were about twenty other past chief rangers present. Routine business was transacted and seven applications read and two voted on. They will form the nucleus of a class to be known as Past Chief Rangers Class, and which will travel through the mysteries of the forest during the early spring.

The following grand court officers were escorted to seats upon the platform by Chief Ranger Joseph Callahan and members of the entertainment committee who acted as a reception committee: Grand Chief Ranger John G. Fitzgerald of Ansonia; Grand Sub-Chief Ranger William H. Dunlavey of Waterville; Grand Secretary Thomas O'Loughlin of Naugatuck; Grand Recording Secretary Henry A. Congdon and Grand Junior Beade William Smith of Taftville. In well chosen words Brother Callahan introduced each of the grand court officers and each responded and told of the condition of the order in his section. Grand Chief Ranger Fitzgerald told of the growth that has been made during the past year and of the outlook for the coming year. He likened the principles of the order to those for which Washington fought at Valley Forge and the Revolution, as well as those for which Lincoln delivered that memorial address at Gettysburg. Stagnation, he said, has been the cause of the downfall peoples, organizations and mighty empires, but as long as we do not let its talons engulf us we will continue to prosper and grow. The benefits to be gained through membership in the Foresters of America were fully explained and all present were asked to do their best to make the coming year the greatest in our history.

It was stated at the meeting that the local degree team is to go to Moosup on April 5th, and initiate a class of 30 candidates and are now hard at work to smooth out all of the rough spots that have been caused by the addition of several new members.

After the meeting a social time was enjoyed until a late hour and old friendships were renewed as well as the making of new acquaintances and all had the opportunity of meeting the Grand Chief Ranger. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee as well as cigars and cigarettes were passed by the entertainment committee.

B'NAI BRITH

Regular monthly meeting of the Rose of New England Lodge No. 898, Independent Order of B'nai Brith was held on Thursday evening. A large attendance responded to a notice sent out by Max Hanover, the secretary of the lodge, promising a special treat for all the members. This promise was carried out by the president, Abner Schwartz, who invited all the members present, also the ladies of the Rose of New England Auxiliary No. 40, I. O. B. B., to be the guests of the officers at an entertainment prepared for all at the Broadway Soda Shoppe.

In explaining the object of this treat Max Hanover dwelt upon the fact that the Bruckner family possessed the mark distinction of having three generations belonging to the B'nai Brith; hence, it was the object of the officers of the B'nai Brith Lodge of encouraging the Bruckner children in their new venture and thereby exemplifying real B'nai Brith spirit.

The members of both organizations were agreeably surprised and much delighted by the invitation and the entertainment that followed was a grand success.

B'NAI BRITH AUILIARY

A meeting of the Rose of New England Auxiliary, No. 40, I. O. B. B., took place at the Buckingham Memorial Thursday evening with 25 members present. Sister President Mrs. Alex Pasnik opened the meeting in due form.

It was decided to do something for a needy family. It was also voted to send $10 to the Home for Aged in Yonkers, N. Y. Mrs. Herman Sears was appointed to take charge of the next cultural program which will take place March 26.

The president, Mrs. Pasnik, offered her home for a whist Wednesday afternoon, March 18 at 2:30.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, after which a joint social was held. The men's lodge, No. 898, invited the auxiliary to the Broadway Soda Shoppe where a pleasant hour was spent.

HOUSE VOTES MILITARY HIGHWAY AS PART OF TRUNK LINE SYSTEM

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, March 13.—Today, as is usual on a Friday, the attendance was small. The judiciary committee was the only one holding hearings.

Next week several matters of interest to eastern Connecticut are in the bulletin for hearings. On Tuesday, March 17, at 1.30 p. m., the committee on incorporations will have before them house bill No. 807, (Mr. Averill.) Amending the charter of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company. House Bill No. 805. (Mr. Averill.) Incorporating the Thames Power company. House Petition No. 24. Petition for a charter for the Thames Power company. House Petition No. 12. A. E. Fitkin and others for a charter for authority to acquire gas and electrical department from city of Norwich. House petition No. 22. Petition of the Norwich Gas and Electric company to general assembly, January session, 1925, for amendment to its charter. House Bill No. 803. (Mr. Averill.) An act amending an act incorporating the Norwich Gas and Electric company. House petition No. 23. Petition of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, to general assembly, January session, 1925, for amendment to its charter. Senate Bill No. 114. (Senator Doty.) An act amending the charter of the Eastern Connecticut Power company.

There promises to be a large attendance of the various interests at these hearings.

On the same day the judiciary committee will have before them the bill introduced by Mr. Sisson of New London, that would forbid the holding of athletic and other sport contests on the forenoon of Memorial day.

On that same day the committee on cities and boroughs will consider the bill annexing a part of the town of Preston to the town of Norwich. It is rumored that the bill will be withdrawn. They will also hold a hearing on S. B. 372, an act concerning electors in the city of New London, and H. B. 737, an act creating a third voting district in the town of Waterford.

A bill passed in the house today is for the purpose of strengthening the law concerning the admission of an elector, which in some sections has been somewhat loosely conducted. Without change in the old law, which is contained in Section 566 of the General statutes, the following is added:

"Before any person shall be admitted as an elector in any town in this state he shall be asked by, and state to, the board of selectmen and town clerk, when and where he last voted in this state, if at all, and by what name and in what town in this state he was last admitted as an elector, and if it shall appear that such applicant shall have previously voted, or shall be registered as a voter, in any town in this state, said town clerk shall, within one week, notify the town clerk of the town where such applicant last voted, or was so registered as a voter, and the town clerk of the town in which such applicant last voted or was registered as a voter shall forthwith notify the registrars of voters of that town, who shall thereupon erase the name of such applicant from the voting list of such former town, provided the same shall not have been erased therefrom.

H. B. 677 which was taken from the calendar today and was passed, has caused considerable speculation among the assembly members as to how this got by the committee on roads bridges and rivers, when every other bill of like character has fallen by the wayside.

This is what is known as the "Military Highway" and was built several years ago, except a strip of about 950 feet which passes through the Base property. It is and for a long time has been, in a dangerous condition. The bill as passed will remedy this and make the road safer for travel.

The highway from Groton to Norwich on the easterly side of the Thames river, beginning at a point about one hundred feet southerly from the point where a spur track crosses the improved highway at the United States submarine base and extending northerly approximately parallel to the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company passing the passenger station and making a junction with the present travelled way at about the point where the present travelled way makes a short turn at the corner of said United States submarine base property being a distance of about nine hundred and fifty feet, is included in the trunk line system of highways.

THE HOUSE.

The house was called to order at 11.30 by Speaker Darbie and prayer was offered by Rev. A. F. Lewis, the house chaplain. He asked that divine favor be shown to Minority Leader Bransfield of Portland and that he might be restored to health.

The use of the hall of the house was voted the committee on finance for Thursday, March 19th. Reports from the comptroller were accepted and ordered to be placed on file in the secretary's office.

The bill concerning the state board of pardons was again reported and passed as corrected.

Bills unfavorably reported by the judiciary committee were H. B. 645, concerning that notices of increases in assessment by assessors shall be sent by registered mail; by finance committee, on H. B. 775, providing that no property owned by one municipality and located in another town shall be exempt from taxation; H. B. 34, concerning the issuance of bonds for the third district school of Bristol; by roads, rivers and bridges committee, on H. B. 34, including in the trunk line system roads, in Morris, East Morris, Thomaston and Watertown; H. B. 414, providing for maintenance of additional bridges; by railroads, H. B. 669, including in the highway system a road in the town of Hamden and Bethany.

Favorable reports were received from the judiciary committee on H. B. 381, amending the charter of the borough court of Greenwich; H. B. 441, concerning the succession tax, providing that certain property shall be taxed under section of 109 of chapter 190 of the general statutes, certain additional property exemplified and items formerly charged as expenses eliminated; H. B. 14, concerning the qualification of jurors, providing for examination of jurors in civil and criminal actions; H. B. 634, concerning jurisdiction of court of probate, providing upon application of any interested party, the question of where a decedent was domiciled shall be decided by the probate court; H. B. 86, providing for appointment of chief deputy sheriff who may exercise the power of sheriff in certain cases; H. B. 572, providing that ambulances, and fire apparatus shall have right of way enroute to hospitals with any patient or enroute to or from any fire, over other traffic and providing penalties for violations.

Concurrence was voted with the senate on all bills that had been passed or rejected by that body. Several bills on the calendar were tabled owing to the absence of committee chairman.

An act amending the charter of the Hartford accident and indemnity company, was passed. The provisions of this are as follows:

The Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company may make insurances guaranteeing and indemnifying merchants, traders and those engaged in business and giving credit from loss and damage by reason of giving and extending credit to their customers and those dealing with them and may make insurances guaranteeing any federal land bank against loss by reason of defective title or incumbrance on real property on which any such federal land bank may make a loan secured by a mortgage; may insure persons or corporations against loss or damage to goods or premises caused by steam, gas, electricity, oils chemicals or any similar substances including loss or damage occasioned by breakage or leakage of containers, pipes, conduits, wires or apparatus used in connection therewith and may issue policies of insurance upon electrical and mechanical machinery, motors, generators, structures, apparatus and appliances against breakage, explosions and accidents of all kinds and against loss or damage to life and property resulting therefrom, including loss for legal liability, for damage or injury caused thereby; may make inspection thereof and issue certificates of inspection thereon; and said corporation may, in any other state, territory or country in which it may transact business, also insure against loss or damage to any and all kinds of property and valuable interests therein caused by any hazard or contingency against which corporations authorized to transact casualty insurance, liability insurance or surety business may be in such state, territory or country permitted to insure.

Adjournment was taken at 12.30 o'clock until Tuesday, March 17th, at 11.30 a. m.

SENATE.

The committee on finance reported unfavorably on the bill to repeal the personal tax law. The bill was rejected.

The committee on railroads reported favorably on the bill extending the time within which the Waterbury and Milldale Tramway company may organize its lines; and on the bill extending the time within which the Waterbury and Bristol Tramway company may construct lines and amending its charter. Calendar. The committee made an unfavorable report on a bill relating to the authority of the public utilities commission in the operation of busses by electric street railway companies. The bill was rejected.

Bills passed were as follows: Authorizing towns to acquire property and erect buildings for trade schools; dividing the second voting district in the town of Enfield into precincts; increasing the sinking fund for the maintenance of highways from $200,000 to $500,000; authorizing the Sharon fire district to borrow money for the purpose of procuring fire apparatus.

The committee on executive nominations reported favorably on the following nominations by Governor Trumbull and they were confirmed: Frederick T. Simpson, of Hartford, to be consulting physician, at the state prison.

Frank W. Rowley and Henry B. Harrison Hurd and Frank B. Quinley, to be members of the board of harbor commissioners for New Haven harbor.

S. E. Overlock, of Pomfret, and Rollin U. Tyler, of Haddam, members of the board of pardons.

The bill to prevent bulls from being at large without being in charge of a competent caretaker was explained by Senator Child, the chairman of the committee on agriculture, and passed.

The nomination by the governor of John J. Walsh, of Norwalk, to be judge of the criminal court of common pleas for Fairfield county; Eugene F. Farley and Sheridan T. Whitaker, to be judges of the city court of New Haven, were referred to the committee on the judiciary.

The senate adjourned to Tuesday next, at 11.15 a. m.

PIMPLES ON FACE AND BODY

Could Not Sleep From Irritation. Cuticura Heals.

"A few months ago I noticed that my face and body were breaking out with small pimples which grew larger each day. At night they were most bothersome, causing me to scratch, and I could not sleep on account of the irritation.

"I used different remedies but none proved successful. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in a week's time I noticed that the pimples were drying up. I continued the treatment and now I am completely healed." (Signed) Miss Catherine Connors, 1552 Concord St., Saxonville, Mass., Sept. 5, 1924.

Use Cuticura to heal itching skins.

STORING VITAMINS

The average healthy person stores up within the body several days' supply of essential vitamins. This explains why a well-nourished person of any age is less susceptible to germ-infection than those who are malnourished.

Scott's Emulsion

is a safety-factor that helps keep you well-nourished. A very little used daily to complement the regular diet, activates with essential vitamins and helps build resistance.

Store up a reserve of essential vitamins—take Scott's regularly.

POETRY

A BURIED ROMANCE

A little lass I used to know—
I did not know her well;
If I had known her longer, oh,
I might—but who can tell?
Often, although long years have flown—
And don't you think it's queer?
Sometimes, when I am all alone,
I see her face appear.

That little lass of long ago—
O why was I so dull?
While, charmed, I watched the blossom blow
A bolder came to cull.
Alah, though beauty's to beguile,
No man should just adore:
She gave me once a tearful smile—
What maiden could do more?

Since that far day, ah I have seen
Fair faces, and admired;
But when her sweet face came between
No more were they desired.
O Memory, O Memory!
I do not think it's kind;
'Twere better to forgetful be
To older pictures blind.

But no, ah no, I'd not forget
That face that used to thrill,
For spite of all my vain regret
Its beauty spells me still;
And though I've never seen her since,
Unknown to me her lot
I hope she found a fairy prince—
And me she has forgot.

Life, life it is the strangest thing,
With hours to laugh, to pray;
One gathers snowdrops in the spring,
And lilacs in the May;
Not long on flowers the dewdrop gleams,
Ere noon the bloom may blight—
Because I fed my youth with dreams
I'm lonely here tonight.
Samuel Minturn Peck in Boston Transcript.

Love in the Winds

When I am standing on a mountain crest,
Or hold the tiller in the dashing spray,
My love of you leaps foaming in my breast,
Shouts with the winds and sweeps to their foray;
My heart bounds with the horses of the sea,
And plunges in the wild ride of the night.
Flaunts in the teeth of tempest the large glee
That rides out Fate and welcomes gods to fight.
Ho, love, I laugh aloud for love of you,
Glad that our love is fellow to rough weather—
No fretful orchid hothoused from the dew,
But hale and hardy as the highland heather,
Rejoicing in the wind that stings and thrills,
Comrade of ocean, playmate of the hills.
—Richard Hovey

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Stopping an "ad" to save money is like stopping a clock to save time.—The Progressive Grocer.

"Why he's even been filing her old love letters."

"Gee, were they as rough as that?"—Annapolis Log.

He—Yes, I loved a girl once, and she made a fool of me.

"Talk about torture—"

"Yes?"

"Nothing is worse than sitting in a barbers chair with your mouth full of lather, watching the boy trying to give another customer your new Panama hat."—Dartmouth Jack-o-Lantern.

An old farmer was carrying a pitcher of milk down to the cellar, when he slipped and fell to the bottom, jarring himself from head to foot. His wife called anxiously:

"John, did you break the pitcher?"

"No," replied John, earnestly and profanely, "but darned if I don't."—Everybody's Magazine.

The young mountaineer was interrogating a stranger.

"You got a brother?" he inquired.

"I had one but he died."

"Got shot?"

"No, he wasnt shot."

"Drink himself to death?"

"Certainly not."

"I know you are a liar," exclaimed the boy triumphantly. "There's only them two ways of dyin'."—University of Iowa Frivol.

Records of production in both quality and quantity were established by the pineapple industry of Hawaii during 1924, according to the annual report of the association of Hawaiian pineapple canners, which showed a total production of 6,825,904 cases. This yield exceeded by 838,922 cases the output of 1920, the previous high record year, and was 920,167 cases more than the 1923 production.

The fan, like gunpowder and the compass, is supposed to be of Chinese origin, the first record of a fan appearing in the annals of the Chow dynasty. The emperor of China, Chao Wang (1502-1091 B. C.), received as tribute two magnificent specimens of tropic birds. The birds not surviving, their beautiful feathers were made into a fan by a courtier. Fans are made today throughout China, different parts being known for different varieties—feather, palm-leaf, stretched silk gauze, folding fans (Hangchow), woven grass, straw braid or wheat straw. China still makes them all, says the New York Times.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY.

New York, March 13.—Stock prices turned reactionary after a firm opening today with most of the selling apparently inspired by the sharp collapse in grain futures. Net losses in the active industrials ranged from 1 to 6 1-2 points while many of the rails sold off 1 to 3 points. The decline, with few exceptions, was an orderly one, with trading in reduced volume, which was construed in some quarters as an indication of underlying strength.

Selling pressure was directed chiefly against American Woolen, which was hammered down nearly three points to 43 1-2, the lowest price in eight years: Radio Corporation, which was depressed to 54 1-8, a new low for the year, and the St. Paul issues, which sold within small fractions of the record lows established earlier in the week. American Woolen rallied two points from its low figure and Radio closed at 57 3-4 for a net loss of 1 3-4.

Most of the so-called pivotal industrials lost ground but they did not break through the low prices established last week. United States Steel common closed more than a point lower at 122 5-8 and Baldwin showed a net loss of 2 3-8 at 134 3-4. American Can closed fractionally higher at 178 after being bid up to 181 in the early trading. General Electric and Utah securities, both of which scored sensational gains yesterday, broke 6 1-2 and 4 points, respectively, on profit taking.

Heavy accumulation of Texas and Pacific, which was bid up 5 points to a record top at 58 3-4 in anticipation of an early dividend declaration, was the feature of the railroad group. Further heaviness cropped out in Western Pacific, which closed 3 points lower at 43 1-4. Atchison dropped 2 points to 121 1-8, closing just above that figure, and net losses of a point or more were recorded by Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago Northwestern preferred, Lackawanna, Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Norfolk and Western and the St. Louis Southwestern issues. Seaboard Air Line common and Chicago and Eastern Illinois common sold at their highest prices of the year.

Independent strength was shown in the industrial list by Laclede Gas, American Water Works common and 6 per cent. preferred, Advance—Rumely common and preferred, St. Joseph Lead, Allis Chalmers, Loew's and Texas Gulf Sulphur, all of which attained new 1925 peak prices. Hayes Wheel broke 3 5-8 points to 32, a new low record for the year. Other outstanding weak spots included Air Reduction, American Car and Foundry, Famous Players, General Asphalt, Goodyear preferred, Loose Wiles Biscuit, Postum Cereal, Pressed Steel Car, Savage Arms, Sears Roebuck, Stewart Warner, United Cigar, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Worthington Pump, all of which showed declines of two points or more.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent. despite the announcement of large governmental withdrawals. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

The foreign exchanges displayed a firm tone. Demand sterling ruled 3cent 3-4 of a cent higher around $4.79 3-2, and French francs were again quoted above 5.15 cents. The rise in European rates was attributed in some quarters to the selling of dollars to German account. Japanese yen touched a new high on the movement by crossing 41 cents.

PROJECTED ZONING OF NEW LONDON BIG PROBLEM FOR CITY COUNCIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 13.—The city council appears to be perplexed as to what course to pursue in the establishment of zoning sections in New London, or rather they are not of one opinion as to how the plan of zoning shall be carried out. It became known today that 320 municipalities in the United States have adopted the system by which the building and establishment of manufacturing and industrial establishments shall be located, and other sections where only residences are to be allowed. Connecticut has the zoning law effectual in but one city. It has been claimed by Councilor Whiton that to properly provide for zoning here an expert on city planning should be employed and the plans made with a view to continuing them for all time. That would require a considerable outlay, perhaps more than the city council would recommend to the taxpayers. There has been authority obtained from the legislature to issue some $300,000 of city improvement bonds and it is said that the zoning and city planning was in contemplation when that authority was sought. The movement to establish building lines along the west side of Bank street between State street and Tilley is also said to be a step in the direction of preparation of zoning. There seems to be quite a general opinion that New London should have an ordinance that will stop the erection of little buildings at random—wherever the owner of land shall decide he can make a profitable venture in that direction. Recently land on Montauk avenue was bought by the abutting owner because the owner of the land contemplated the erection of a one-story building to be rented to a grocery store company on terms that would make monthly payments that in a few years would pay the cost of the property. There have been many similar cases in this city. The memory of the older inhabitants extends to the time when the late John Jeffery bought land in Federal street and contemplated placing undesirable negro tenants there to force the abutting property owners—the Billings brothers—to buy. Cases of a similar sort are told about, and for that reason the zoning ordinance is desired. If after the property lines on Bank street are obtained and the city decides that it wants the land which the owners have for years allowed to be used as sidewalks, that land will cost a sum of money that will astonish some of the wise ones who have an idea that the widening of Bank street will be an easy matter. Bank street property owners said today that the council was starting what The Bulletin all along declared will be the hottest contest the city has ever known over land values.

The trial of William C. Bartlett Jr., 24 Henry street; John J. Woods, 23 Ocean avenue, and Michael A. Day, 29 Cottage street, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Miss Dolly Wench, 21 years old Hartford telephone operator at the home of Woods, Feb. 15, will be held in the police court tomorrow morning. Bartlett and Woods are prisoners at the New London jail in default of their respective bonds of $10,000, but Day is at liberty, having furnished a surety on his bond of $2,500 in his father, Patrick F. Day.

This afternoon County Detective William Lewis and Sergeant John J. Cavanaugh were busy serving subpoenas on a score or more of witnesses, included among whom are the girl's mother, Mrs. Catherine Wench, and brother-in-law, Morris Spector, of Hartford, two Hartford detectives and several taxicab drivers.

The officers, who have been investigating Bartlett's acts prior to the alleged commission of the illegal operation upon Miss Wench, have obtained added information, which, it is understood, has revealed that Bartlett committed at least two other abortions in this city, one of them at a well known hotel.

Henry J. Weldon, 73 Riverview avenue, was of the opinion for a short time today that his automobile had been stolen for after parking the machine in front of his house, he returned to drive away and found his car missing. Later Weldon found his machine two blocks from his home undamaged. It is believed by the police that a friend of Weldon drove the car away as a joke.

William A. Buckley, about 45, died in a New York hospital yesterday following a brief illness with pneumonia. He was a son of Mrs. Elizabeth and the late John R. Buckley, and besides his mother, he is survived by his wife and sister, the latter being Miss May Buckley, a teacher in the public schools. Mr. Buckley was a nephew of the late Bryan F. Mahan and at one time was a railway postal clerk and later was employed as clerk in the office of the highway department. He had been employed in New York about a year.

Miss Marion Corcoran, teacher in the public schools and daughter of Patrolman and Mrs. Michael Corcoran, Crystal avenue, who was removed to Lawrence hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment for an abscess in the head, was operated upon last night and today. Her condition is regarded as serious

Englebert J. Sauter, well known insurance agent, who was removed to Lawrence hospital several days ago following his developing brain affection, has been transferred to the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane, his condition having become worse. Mr. Sauter's recovery is considered doubtful.

Mrs. Narcissus Sims, of Vauxhall street extension; Ira Palmer, Waterford; Mrs. Frederick Bowen, Westerly; Mrs. John Killeen and infant daughter, Montville; Ewald Walther, Groton; Miss Belle Green, Montville; Philbert Hendel, Truman street, and Joseph Taleno, Westerly, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed today.

Luther G. and Louise N. Stebbins today sold a dwelling house, corner of Montauk avenue and Avery court, to Ella A. Ward.

Three New Londoners today lost their right to operate automobiles for that privilege was denied them by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, as a result of the machines they were operating being involved in accidents, two of the drivers being implicated in fatalities. Those to have their licenses suspended are Mrs. Ruth Heikel, 611 Broad street. Robert C. Dodge, chief petty officer, stationed at the submarine base, and George Halbwachs, 302 State street. Mrs. Heikel's automobile ran over Sophie Goldstein, 6, on Jefferson avenue, the child dying at a hospital 15 minutes after her admission there for treatment. Dodge's automobile struck Miss C. Isabelle MacKenzie, Groton, on Thames street, Groton, ten days ago, Miss MacKenzie dying of a fractured skull three days later.

Patrolman Howard Sloan, injured when the automobile in which he was riding was wrecked at Marlborough two weeks ago, will be able to resume duties in another week, although he still experiences a soreness as a result of the severe bruises and contusions he sustained.

Mrs. Roger Dennis, of Colman street, a former employe of the city at which time she was in the office of Purchasing Agent John W. Sheedy, is to reenter the city's employ as typist in the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran. Mrs. Dennis will begin her new duties Monday.

Joseph Baude, 123 Jefferson avenue, returned to his home today, after having been under treatment several days at a local private hospital.

Richard Bunnell and Walter Eastman, soldiers stationed at Fort H. G. Wright, Fisher's Island, will be given a court martial tomorrow morning, as a result of their conduct and arrest in New London a week ago.

Bunell, Eastman and a third soldier were in Williams Memorial park last Saturday afternoon and their conduct was so annoying to pedestrians that complaint was made to the police, the soldiers having insulted several women and hurled stones at male pedestrians. Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolmen Braxton Hill and William Corcoran were sent to the park and upon their arrival there the soldiers attempted to get away, one of them succeeding in doing so. Bunnell and Eastman were turned over to the provost guard the following day and sent back to Fort Wright. Late this afternoon officials at the fort requested an affidavit of the arresting officers and this will be sent to the fort tomorrow morning on the first transport leaving port.

The funeral of Miss Lillian Belgrade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Belgrade, was held this noon at the residence of her parents, the service being conducted by Rabbi Hyman Balitsky. Burial was in the Hebrew cemetery, Jordan.

CORONER EXONERATES DODGE IN MACKENZIE FATALITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 13.—Coroner J. J. Desmond, Norwich, this afternoon rendered his finding in the case of Chief Petty Officer Robert C. Dodge, submarine base, whose automobile inflicted fatal injuries upon Miss C. Isabelle MacKenzie, of 64 Latham street, Groton, in that borough ten days ago. Miss MacKenzie was run down by the car. Coroner Desmond completely exonerates Dodge from all responsibility for Miss MacKenzie's death. Dodge is at liberty on bail of $500 charged with manslaughter and he is scheduled to be given a hearing in the Groton town court next Monday morning.

IMMENSE THRONG ATTENDS CATHOLIC MISSION SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 13.—An immense throng of worshippers attended St. Mary's Star of the Sea church this evening and listened to the sermons delivered by the mission fathers, who have conducted a two weeks' mission there, the first week being given over to sermons for women and this week to sermons for the men. Tomorrow night Holy Hour will mark the closing service of the week, although Sunday afternoon a farewell service will be conducted at the church. The church has been crowded to capacity every night since the mission started, many nights parishioners being unable to gain admission to the church.

SUPPOSED COTTAGE BURGLAR WAS MERELY DOWN-AND-OUT

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 13.—Isaac Malcolm, 40, of Providence, was taken into custody this evening by Patrolman John Hogan when Malcolm was found acting strangely at Ocean Beach and apparently attempting to gain entrance to a cottage. At the police station Malcolm stated that he came to New London this afternoon, riding a freight as far as Mystic and getting an automobile ride the remainder of the distance. When he reached New London Malcolm stated that he started to walk to New Haven and believed he was on the state highway when he reached Ocean Beach. Being tired and hungry Malcolm declared that he was seeking a place to go to sleep, when he was found by Officer Hogan.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday, March 14, 1925

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

Pressure is high off the Middle Atlantic coast and over Quebec. Temperatures have fallen decidedly over the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains.

Advisory warnings have been issued for increasing easterly winds on the Atlantic coast from Sandy Hook to Eastport.

The outlook is for rains on Saturday in all states east of the Mississippi river and for clearing on Sunday in the North Atlantic states. It will be slightly warmer on Saturday along the Middle Atlantic coast. Temperature will fall on Sunday in the Atlantic states.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Increasing southeast winds coming strong by Saturday night and weather overcast, with occasional light showers Saturday.

Forecast.

Eastern New York: Rain Saturday, slightly warmer in central and south portions; Sunday fair and much colder.

Northern New England and Southern New England: Rain Saturday; Sunday clearing and colder.

Observations in Norwich.

GAS & ELECTRIC BILLS DUE FOR HEARING IN STATE LEGISLATURE

Considerable interest is being manifested over the outcome of the hearing scheduled for next Tuesday before the committee on incorporations on the petition of A. E. Fitkin, et al., for a charter so that they may be authorized to purchase from the city the municipal gas and electric plant. It is said the hearing will be attended by a large number of local people. Four other matters of local interest that will come up at the hearing are an act amending the charter of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., empowering that company to purchase or lease the local municipal gas and electric plant; a petition from the Norwich Gas and Electric company asking that its charter be amended so that it may be empowered to purchase the city's plant; and an act incorporating the Thames Power Company. Another bill of interest in this section and which will come up at the hearing next Tuesday is an act amending the charter of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company. The petitions and bills are as follows:

To the honorable general assembly of the state of Connecticut at its session to be held at Hartford on the first Wednesday following the first Monday of January, A. D., 1925.

The undersigned respectfully request that they, with their associates and assigns, be granted a charter so that they may be authorized, including all the assets of said department, its buildings, real estate, plants, machinery, equipment, generators, pipes, mains, meters, gas holders, also its electric generating and transforming stations, ditributing wires and systems, poles, feeders, transformers, and all assets of aid department including it accounts receivable and cash on hand and in banks and all other property of said department, excepting such assets of said department as have been set aside for a sinking fund on account of certain bonds of the city issued in aid of the Gas and Electric Department and due in 1951, amounting to approximately $16,000, including in the property so to be acquired all property acquired from the Norwich Gas and Electric Company now owned by the City with all the powers, rights, and privileges acquired and now owned or enjoyed by the City in respect to the said department; the property to be transferred subject only to the current liabilities of the department, which are to be assumed, and to bonds issued by the Norwich Gas and Electric Company of $400,000 face value, due in 1927, which will remain outstanding. Such charter to provide, for the assumption by the petitioners or the Company to be chartered of all contractual obligations of the City on account of said department or of said department, existing at the date of transfer in the ordinary course of business, excepting all obligations on account of money borrowed by said City.

The undersigned further petition that the City of Norwich may be empowered to make such sale of its Gas and Electrical Department and assets as stated in this petition upon such terms and upon such conditions as may be approved by the Mayor and Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, subject to the approval of said City by a majority of its electors voting thereon, said vote to be taken either by ballot or on machine in the same manner as in the election of city officers as determined by the Mayor and Court of Common Council of said City.

The undersigned further respectfully petition that when they have so acquired from said City of Norwich the gas and electric properties of its said department, the Company be granted a proper franchise to operate the gas and electric properties so acquired and that at such time they be further authorized to manufacture, purchase, sell and distribute gas and electricity in the City and Town of Norwich and adjoining towns, except in the Town of Montville.

Dated at Norwich, Conn., this 4th day of December, 1924.

J. J. DESMOND
A. E. FITKIN
ANGUS PARK

The Mayor and Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich hereby approve the granting of the foregoing petition of A. E. Fitkin and others and join in the same; the resolution of approval adopted at a meeting duly held December 11, 1924, being as follows:

Resolved, That the Mayor and Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich approve of the petition of A. E. Fitkin and others dated December 8th, 1924, a copy of which was submitted to this meeting and is now on file with the Clerk and said Court of Common Council requests that the General Assembly grant said petition; and the Mayor and Clerk on behalf of said Court of Common Council are hereby authorized to join with said petitioners in signing said petition and are further authorized to appear before the General Assembly in favor of the granting of said petition.

Section 2 That upon said purchase or lease, as hereinbefore provided, said Company be and it hereby is authorized and empowered to sell and distribute gas and electricity within the territory in which said City of Norwich or said municipality operated said plant so purchased, and for said purposes said Company may purchase, receive and hold all necessary real and personal property, and may erect, lay and maintain wires, poles, structures, pipes, conduits, fixtures and apparatus of every kind for the purpose of conducting, transmitting and distributing gas and electricity, or either of them, over and under any highway, street, avenue or public ground in any municipality in which it shall operate or over which it shall conduct such gas and electricity, or either of them, or under or over private property by agreement with the owners thereof.

Section 3. Said Company shall have power to include in any mortgage provided for by its charter any property, rights and equipment purchased as hereinbefore provided.

Section 1. The Norwich Gas & Electric Company, a specially chartered corporation having its office and principal place of business at the Town of Norwich in said State, hereby respectfully petitions your Honorable Body that its charter be amended so that it may be authorized and empowered to purchase all the property, rights and equipment of the Gas and Electric Department of The Municipal Gas & Electric plant of the City of Norwich, upon such terms and conditions as the Board of Directors shall arrange with said City.

Section 2. That upon said purchase said Company be authorized and empowered to make, buy, distribute and sell gas and electricity for lighting, heat, power or any other purposes for which the same now or may hereafter be used in the City and Town of Norwich, and the Town of Preston, in New London County, and may transmit electricity through the Towns of Bozrah, Franklin, Sprague, Lisbon, Lebanon and Ledyard, New London County, and the Towns of Canterbury, Scotland and Windham in Windham County, for sale to any company which is now or may hereafter be authorized to sell and distribute electricity in any of said towns, and is hereby authorized to purchase and to convey electricity purchased from any such company.

Section 3. That upon such purchase said Company may erect, lay, and maintain wires, poles, structures, pipes, conduits, fixtures and apparatus of every kind, for the purpose of conducting, transmitting gas and electricity, and adapted to the use herein required, over or under any highway, street, avenue or public ground in any town, city or borough in which it shall operate or through which it shall conduct such gas and electricity, or under or over private property by agreement with the owners thereof.

Section 4.—Said Company may purchase, receive and hold such real and personal property as may be necessary to carry out its purposes, and may mortgage, sell, lease or convey the same, together with its rights and franchises, to any other company within the State of Connecticut, engaged in similar business, or may merge or consolidate with such company; and in the event of such lease, purchase or consolidation, all the rights, privileges, franchises and property of the selling, leasing or consolidating companies shall pass to the purchaser, lessee or consolidated company.

Section 5. Said Company shall have power to change the location of its office by a vote of its Board of Directors, and by filing within ten days after such vote, with Secretary of State, a certificate of such change of office.

As in duty bound your Petitioner will ever pray.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 22nd day of December 1924.

Its President.

Be in enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Section 1. —An act incorporating the Norwich Gas & Electric Company approved May 25th, 1897 is hereby amended by striking out section three thereof and inserting in place thereof the following. The capital stock of said corporation shall be $54,140.00 divided into shares of the par value of $10.00 each and which shall receive non-cumulative dividends of not more than seven per cent (7%) per annum and the stock of this Company may be increased from time to time hereafter by a two-thirds vote of all of its then outstanding stock to an amount not exceeding 50,000 shares and such additional stock may be common or preferred or both, with or without par value and having such priorities, participations, calling clauses and other rights and limitations as may be prescribed in the respective votes creating such stock; the outstanding stock of said corporation shall forthwith be surrendered to the Company in exchange for the ten dollar ($10.-00) par given by registered mail when the Company is ready to receive the surrender of the now outstanding stock. Said notice shall be addressed to the last known residence of each stockholder as the same appears upon the records of the Company and at the expiration of said thirty days (30) notice all of the now outstanding stock of the corporation shall be null, void and of no effect and as to any certificates not surrendered new certificates shall be issued to any Trust Company designated by the Directors of this Corporation and held by such Trust Company, together with any dividends paid thereon, until due proof of the ownership thereof is made to said Trust Company, provided however, that at the expiration of six years from the date of the deposit with said Trust Company of said certificates, any certificates then remaining in the hands of the Trust Company together with all dividends paid on account thereof shall be the property of this corporation and may be dealt with as the Directors of the Corporation may determine.

Section 2. Section 4 of said act incorporating The Norwich Gas & Electric Company is hereby amended by striking out said section 4 and inserting in place thereof the following-Section 4. Said Company is authorized and empowered to issue its bonds to an amount not exceeding at any time the amount of the capital stock actually paid in which bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding seven per cent. (7%) per annum and the company may make and execute a mortgage of and upon its franchises and real and personal property to secure the bonds so issued and such mortgage may include after acquired property.

Section 3. Said act incorporating the Norwich Gas & Electric Company is hereby further amended by adding thereto the following,—Section 13. This Company is hereby authorized and empowered to purchase all the property, rights and equipment of the Gas and Electric Department and the Municipal Gas and Electric Plant of the City of Norwich upon such terms and conditions as the Board of Directors shall arrange with the City and upon such purchase, this Company is authorized and empowered to make, buy, distribute and sell gas and electricity for lighting, heat and power and any other purpose for which the same now are or may hereafter be used in the City and Town of Norwich and the Town of Preston in the County of New London and may transmit electricity through the towns of Bozrah, Franklin, Sprague, Lisbon, Lebanon and Ledyard in New London County and the towns of Canterbury and Scotland in Windham County and may sell electricity to any company which is now or hereafter may be authorized to sell and distribute electricity in any of said towns and to any company which is authorize to do a like business and this company may purchase and convey electricity purchased from any such company.

Section 4. Upon the purchase of said Gas and Electric properties from the City of Norwich this company may erect, lay and maintain wires, poles, structures, pipes, conduits, fixtures and apparatus of every kind for the purpose of conducting, transmitting, distributing and selling gas and electricity over and under any highway, street, avenue or public ground in towns in which it shall operate or through which it shall conduct such gas and electricity and also under or over private property by agreement with the owners thereof.

Section 5. This Company may purchase, receive and hold such real and personal property and may erect and maintain in any of the towns where it is authorized to do business generating plants with all convenient appurtenances and substations as may be necessary to carry out its purposes and may mortgage, sell, lease or convey the same together with its rights and franchises to any other company within the State of Connecticut engaged in similar business or may merge or consolidate with such company and in the event of such lease, purchase or consolidation all the rights, privileges, franchises and property of the selling, leasing or consolidating company shall pass to the purchaser, lessee or consolidated company.

SIXTY CHURCHES INVITED FOR YOUNG PEOPLES RALLY

A great young people's rally of all the young people of the Baptist churches of Eastern Connecticut is to be held next Thursday evening at the Central Baptist church. The young people of sixty churches have been invited and there is to be a surprise presented to the largest out-of-town delegation and to the delegation coming the greatest distance.

The gathering will open with a social hour from five to six-fifteen, at which the different societies will present stunts, and games will be enjoyed. During the supper hour the orchestra will render selections and cheers and songs by the different groups will enliven the occasion.

The speakers for the evening will be Edwin Phelps of Chicago, executive secretary of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Finn of Philadelphia, representing the American Baptist Publication Society.

A man deceives himself oftener than he does the other fellow.

TUNE IN WITH GOD IS LENTEN MESSAGE

The larget attendance thus far greeted Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London at the local Y. M. C. A. Friday noon in the third meeting of the series of Lenten talks. After the lunch during which the fellowship was enjoyable, the men filed the parlors and John W. McKinley, acting as presiding officer, announced the hymn, "Out of my bondage, sorrow and night," after which Herbert B. Cary offered a fervent prayer, this being followed by a vocal solo "When I survey the wondrous Cross" rendered feelingly by Hugh Kinder. Dr. Danforth was then presented and in his unique and interesting manner gave one of the most practical and spiritual messages he has ever given at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. His topic was, "The Fires of Elijah". Dr. Danforth spoke in part as follows:

We are all of us interested in radio. It is still a mystery how it all is done. You turn a little knob and you begin to hear something. You turn one more and it sounds better. A third turned brings you just what you want and you can sit back and listen. You have tuned in to the desired sending station.

The world is as full of opportunities as the air is full of ether waves. You have only to tune in to have all you want. Without tuning in you get nothing. Then discouragement comes.

Elijah found so much of "interference" that more than once he wished he was dead. It was by tuning in so that he could hear the still small voice that life regained its value when he regained his motive for existence.

In his life there were two mountains on each of which a fire came to him and in each of which the great God was revealed to him. The one was Carmel and the other Horeb. The one was by the sea, and he gathered a multitude about him to make choice of the God whom they would serve. The other was by the desert and he was alone in abject misery of loneliness desiring to die.

When he was faced by a hostile crowd Elijah was brave enough; when he was all alone then God only could give him courage. Think of the two scenes. A king and his host on Carmel. The priests of Baal on the one side with their altar all ready for the fire but no fire there. They cry aloud and cut themselves and raise all the furor of pagan devotion to induce Baal to answer by fire. There is no voice, no recognition. Was there a Baal?

Then Elijah stands up all alone. His altar is also prepared. Even water is poured on it to make the firing exceedingly hard. A few strong words of his prayer and he is in tune with the Infinite God. The fire descends and the offering consumed. The sign has been given; the answer received. Then comes the flight of the adversaries and their daughter. Life was the prize and death the penalty in such a contest. Elijah won.

His own flight followed the next day. He who stood before Ahab was a fugitive from Jezebel. It has often been so. And in the gall and bitterness of his sense of failure, even after Carmel, he fled until he reached the mountain of God where the law had thundered in the past for his fathers. Earthquakes and winds passed by the cave where he hid. God was not in them. A fire came bursting from the rocks, but God was not in the fire. Then came the still small voice, "The sound of a gentle stillness," and God was speaking to his servant, that servant who was so tired of life.

Again Elijah was in tune with God. Life regained its value. There was much yet for him to do. There were many who were still with him. And there was a rest which awaited him, that long, long rest where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest.

Daily we hear men asking one another what stations they got last night. And when they ask they have just a bit of a boast of their own performance to give in return. They heard the Living Buddha from the cloisters of Thibet or someone else from somewhere else. And I do not wonder they are proud. It is little short of miracle. But how about the greatest tuning in after all? Have you caught the still small voice which Elijah heard? There is the great message after all. There is the great and everlasting source of all that is most worth our hearing. Whether it be with the multitude too often hostile, or by yourself in unendurable solitude, tune in with God. Let the fires of great devotion burn as a beacon on the mountain tops of life and send a gleam beyond the stars, and down through the centuries as well, for other men's guidance in the great pilgrimage that leads us from the levels of time to the everlasting heights.

ORANGE AND BLACK FOR 1926 NUMBER PLATES

Connecticut "pleasure car" marker plates for 1926 will be a combination of black numerals on a chrome orange background according to specifications given by the state motor vehicle department of the Connecticut Reformatory, manufacturer of the markers for the state. A new font of numerals, slightly bolder than those of this year though not as heavy as those used on the 1924 markers, has been ordered.

The second installment of the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Register for 1925 has been issued by the department, listing about 43,000 passenger cars and about 13,000 commercial car registrations, in addition to 21,156 passenger car registrations listed in the first installment issued in February and making a total of approximately 77,000 registrations of all kinds printed to date, not to mention several thousand transfers listed in the second installment.

Owing to the great number of registrations perfected in December and the early part of January, the department announces that it is not feasible to publish them all by March 1st. It is anticipated, however, that by April 1st all registrations issued up to that date will be printed in the series in which the register is being issued. A greater proportion of the 1925 registrations have now been printed than were printed in the corresponding period of any previous year.

HAS MEMBERSHIP LIST OF 1832 LEGISLATURE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 13.—Representative Elliot B. Bronson of Winsted while looking over some old papers recently found a list of the membership of the general assembly for 1832. The way the list is prepared is in strong contrast with present day methods, economy evidently being the chief consideration. The names of the state officers, senators and representatives are printed on one side of a sheet, 8x13 inches in size. This was at the time when two sessions were held each year, the May session being held at New Haven.

At the 1832 session Norwich was represented by William H. Law, and Charles P. Huntington and their boarding place was given as at the Franklin house.

Miss Tyler's seems to have been a favorite place for New London county members to stay.

Other boarding places are given as Mr. Shipman's and Mrs. Thompson's.

Changes in transportation have now made it possible for most of the members to return home each night.

The senatorial district in which Norwich was placed consisted of Norwich, North Stonington, Preston, Griswold, Lisbon and Franklin.

The state at that time was divided into 21 senatorial districts, Norwich being the eighth and was represented by Roger Huntington.

SENATE WILL VOTE ON THE WARREN NOMINATION TODAY

Leaders of both Sides Predict That the Nomination Will Fail of Confirmation—Vote is to be Taken at 2.30 P. M.—Will Attempt to Hold the Senate in Session Long Enough to Give President Coolidge an Opportunity to Submit Another Name For the Attorney Generalship.

Washington, March 15.—Accepting President Coolidge's challenge of a recess appointment for Charles B. Warren, as attorney general, leaders of the opposition in the senate lined up their forces tonight in a plain to bring about a second rejection of the nomination tomorrow and then attempt to hold the senate in session long enough to give the executive opportunity to submit another name.

Leaders on both sides were agreed today that the president's latest move in his fight with the new senate had not served to increase strength for the Warren nomination and its rejection by from 3 to 6 votes on the ballot to be taken at 2.30 p. m. tomorrow, was forecast.

Those directing the opposition forces take the position that the president's announcement late yesterday regarding a recess appointment in the event of a second adverse action by the senate raises a question of constitutional authority which transcends in importance the original issue.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader was said to have voiced the sentiment of the opposition with his declaration that, while senators could not tell the executive whom to nominate, the executive likewise could not tell the senators whose nomination they must approve under the constitutional authority reposed in the senate to advise and consent with respect to presidential appointments.

There was no further statement today from the White House, nor was there any information as to whether Mr. Warren would accept a recess appointment in the event his nomination should be rejected again. President Coolidge remained in Washington over the week end with Mr. Warren, who is his guest.

The present situation, without a parallel since the administration of President Tyler, was viewed by some at the capital as one that might have far reaching effect in the future relations between the executive and the present senate.

Should Mr. Warren accept a recess appointment, he could serve only until the senate again assembled. His nomination then would have to be acted upon by the senate, and unless it was confirmed he could draw no salary for the period during which he had served.

Four hours have been set aside tomorrow for debate in the senate before the vote is taken, with the time equally divided between supporters and opponents. President Coolidge, in re-submitting the nomination, made it clear to republican leaders that he desired Mr. Warren's qualifications to be fully spread upon the senate record.

In the discussion yesterday, Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, made an extended argument on behalf of the president's nominee, and Senator Reed, democratic, Missouri, an opposition leader, replied in even greater length.

There were indications tonight that much of the debate tomorrow would revolve around the constitutional questions which democratic senators insist has been raised by the president's pronouncement.

SIMPLICITY WILL MARK THE FUNERAL OF WALTER CAMP

New Haven, March 15.—Simplicity in keeping with the funeral tomorrow of Walter Camp, the founder of modern intercollegiate football, who died in New York yesterday. Services will be held in his home here at 2.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and will be private to the members of the family and a few close friends attending.

The services will be conducted by the Rev. Roy M. Houghton, pastor of the First Church of the Redeemer. There will be no honorary pallbearers. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery. The body of Mr. Camp was brought to New Haven this morning.

There was an air of sadness about Yale campus today and all who knew the famous coach and athlete spoke in the highest terms of his work in connection with Yale and his personality that made that work stand out so prominently.

It was the wish of Mrs. Camp that the funeral services be private.

"The sudden and unexpected death of Walter Camp brings a shock of grief to all who knew him. A man of most extraordinary ingenuity, energy and enthusiasm, he had made for himself an altogether unique place in American life. He saw in exercise, in sports and outdoor life, a gateway to health and happiness through which he tried to induce an ever increasing number of his countrymen to pass.

His success in this undertaking was only rivaled by his success in promoting high ideals and sound standards for amateur competitive games, especially in the field of intercollegiate sports, which he valued not alone for the physical development they afforded, but chiefly for their worth as moral discipline.

Yale has lost one of the most loyal of her sons to whom she owes a great debt of gratitude. New Haven has lost a high-minded citizen, and the country one of its most powerful influences for the promotion of clean, and simple living."

FIRE RAGING IN COAL MINE IN WEST VIRGINIA

Morgantown, W. Va., March 15.—Fire is raging in the Bertha mine of the Berlin Consumers Coal company at Maidsville, three miles from here, and it is estimated by officials of the company that hundreds of tons of coal have been burned since the fire started early this morning. A fire-fighting crew of one hundred men is in the mine, which is one of the largest in the Monongalia county coal fields of West Virginia.

The explosion of a battery motor started the fire, which is reported to have spread rapidly since this morning. No predictions have been made as to how long the fire may burn.

REVOLT IN KURDISTAN CONTINUES ON LARGE SCALE

Constantinople, March 15.—The commander for the Turkish press in an interview today admitted that the revolt in Kurdistan was on a large scale. He said the revolt was growing and that the Turkish authorities probably would need three months to quell it.

The latest news received, the commander said, was that the rebels were retiring from the Diabekir region and now apparently were awaiting a Turkish attack in their southern fastness, where the advantages of terrain were in their favor.

DANBURY MAN FOUND DEAD IN HIS DOOR YARD

Danbury, March 15—Frank Widkoski, 45 years old, was found dead in the door yard of his home in the King street district, about five miles north of Danbury, this morning. He was a retired farmer.

Mr. Widkoski left home yesterday afternoon and had just reached the door of his home last night when he died. The body was not discovered until this morning. Death was due to natural causes, according to the medical examiner.

DECREASE IN EARNINGS OF NEW YORK CENTRAL

New York, March 15.—Earnings of the New York Central Railroad company and its affiliated lines, including the Michigan Central and the "Big Four" last year failed to equal the record returns of 1923.

Net income of the New York Central company declined $6,089,026 to $39,250,399, according to a report made public today, while gross operating revenues fell from $426,034,733 to $369,606,930. The year's surplus of $18,300,761, compared with $27,744,777 for 1923.

The other roads of the New York Central system reported correspondingly lower earnings. Net income of the Michigan Central was reduced $548,914 to $13,627,533 and that of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis ('Big Four") dropped from $11,617,354 to $8,080,931. Net income of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad was more than cut in half, declinning from $13,170,106 to $6,165,154. The Rutland railroad closed the year with a surplus of $407,309, which was $56,600 below that of 1923.

The greatest progress made during the year was in the reduction of operating expenses. The New York Central alone cut its operating costs $45,947,078 as compared with 1923, and reductions of about $3,000,000 each in this item were effected by the Michigan Central, "Big Four" and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie.

IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITION OF SENATOR REED SMOOT

Washington, March 15.—Further improvement in the condition of Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, ill at his home here, was noted today by his physicians. He spent a restful night, and was able to sit up for a short time.

The senator became ill Friday in the senate, and was immediately removed to his home. Physicians attributed the breakdown to overwork, and have advised a 10 day rest for him, although he will be permitted to go to the senate tomorrow to vote on the Warren nomination.

SEEKING THE INDICTMENT OF WILLIAM D. SHEPHERD

Chicago, March 15.—Four witnesses will appear before the grand jury here tomorrow in an effort to bring about the indictment of William D. Shepherd, foster-father and heir of William N. McClintock, "millionaire orphan" who died from typhoid last December.

This action developed late today following a conference of attorneys and witnesses in the office of Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney.

STOCK OF LQUORS WAS CASHED IN GRAVE YARD

Charleston, S. C., March 15.—A stock of liquors, valued at more than $30,000 was found cashed in a grave yard near here today by state and federal prohibition agents.

The cache contained 4,274 quarts of champagne, and imported whiskies packed in burlap bags.

Although the agents remained hidden near the spot for a number of hours, no one appeared to claim the liquor.

The Abadesa, which is a vessel of 4,239 tons net, sailed from Montevideo, Uruguay, February 17 for Liverpool.

MOVEMENT TO STIMULATE PARTICIPATION IN POLITICS

New York, March 15—A movement intended to stimulate participation in party politics by all American citizens in order to perpetuate and strengthen the governmental system of this country, was announced today by the National Civic Federation.

That body has formed a non-partisan department of political education supported by prominent leaders of the democratic and republican parties in various parts of the United States, with Ulihu Root as honorary chairman and Alton B. Parker as active chairman.

Its effort will be to perpetuate the two party political system, in opposition to the development of a multiplicity of parties here, and to encourage all citizens to take a more active part in either of these two parties. A national conference for discussion of the subject is planned soon.

A statement announcing the formation of the department, says that 10,000,000 qualified American voters did not vote in the 1924 general election and suggests that this indifference may destroy party government in the United States, result in the substitution of the "group" or many party system of Europe and thereby imperil the American system of government.

The statement refers to the improvement that would soon be brought about in the quality of all our legislative bodies," if the active participation of citizens in political party machinery were urged by all the chambers of commerce, business men's organizations, women's clubs, churches, labor unions, the American Legion, social, fraternal and patriotic societies of the country.

OVER 2500 MEN ATTEND CLOSE OF CATHOLIC MISSION

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 15—The mission that has been in progress at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church two weeks, came to an end this afternoon when a throng that completely filled the big church attended divine worship and listened to the closing remarks of the Dominican priests. The assemblage included men only, and it is estimated that about 3,000 were in the edifice when the services were started. Prior to the commencement of the services about 500 men parishioners of the church assembled in front of the Cronin building, State street and marched in a body to the church.

It developed the latter part of this week that an imposter was working among parishioners of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church representing himself to be the agent of a Catholic periodical and soliciting and receiving subscriptions for the book. The imposition was discovered by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of the church, and the fellow made a hasty get-away, although his fradulent methods were not reported to the police.

The fellow represented himself as being "M. J. Ripple," 839 Lexington avenue, New York and made a practice of visiting cities where Catholic missions were in progress. He appeared bearing a recommendation from Garrett Fallell, chief of police of Bridgeport, and Philip J. Smith, chief of police of New Haven, obtaining such a recommendation of character from Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney. He then sought permission from Rev. Fr. Crowley to solicit among Catholic members of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, but that permission was refused him. However, "Ripple" sought out Catholics and from many of them he received contributions. His acts were discovered after he started soliciting and he departed from the city in the shortest possible time.

The fire alarm system went on a rampage for half an hour this afternoon when irregular blasts of the fire whistle were sounded. The cause of the trouble was a crossed wire. The trouble was finally located and repair perfected by Chief Charles Rose.

COSTELLO WOMAN ONCE RESIDED IN MONTVILLE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 15—Winifred Rose Deshon Costello, who claims to reside in Boston and who was arrested Friday night at Eastern Point by Sergeant Clifford Gorgas of the Groton state police and Officer Henry Albright, charged with intoxication following the young woman being found on the lawn in front of the Hotel Griswold, was not prosecuted in the Groton borough court Saturday morning. She was released in custody with orders to get out of the city, the Groton authorities not desiring to prosecute the woman. It developed that the accused originally resided in Montville, but had not lived there for several years.

BODY FOUND IN NEW HAVEN ON THE RAILROAD TRACKS

West Haven, March 15.—The body of an unidentified man was found on the railroad tracks between First avenue bridge and Sanderson's fertilizing plant here this afternoon. How The Garland Fortune Was Grown

Connecticut Library Association

Gifts and Loans Have Been Overcome by Increase in Value of Stocks.

New York, March 15.—The tidy fortune of more than $900,000, which Charles Garland inherited and refused to accept three years ago because he objected to the manner in which his father, a Wall Street broker, had acquired it, has grown to $1,200,000 in spite of continued large expenditures.

This was shown today in the second annual report of the American Fund for Public Service, to which Garland left his fortune to be spent "to the advantage of all." Outright gifts totalling $117,782 and loans amounting to $26,738 for the year ended June 30, 1924, says the report, were not large enough to offset the fund's growth, due to a "recent phenomenal rise in the market value of its securities."

Garland, then living at Buzzard's Bay, Mass., startled the country a few years ago when he refused to accept the money his father had left him. Later he recanted, accepting the money to provide for his wife and two children, but a few months later he renounced the remainder, then amounting to $901,556, which was given in charge of a group which organized the American Fund for Public Service, Inc., to supervise its expenditure in the aid of desperate causes.

Forty-four different movements were represented in the $117,782 in gifts for the year ended last June, the report shows. In the first year of the fund's administration, the gifts totaled $75,345. The largest gift sum last year, $40,000, was given to the New York Leader, a labor daily paper which suspended publication after a few months of heavy losses. Other large gifts were to the Federated Press, a national labor news service; to the legal defense of labor and radical cases, and to workers' education.

Gift applications totalled 153, one-third the number received the first year. This decrease and the increase in the proportion of those favorably considered, the report says, is due to the fund's purposes being better understood. The amount loaned the second year, $26,738, was far under the first year's total of $115,175.

The fund's directors, the report adds, themselves initiated and financed several research jobs, including studies of "American imperialism" and "injunctions in industrial conflicts" and the publication of several directories, including "Who's Who in the Labor Movement" and "labor year book."

Of the gift appropriations made, nine went to ordinary operating expenses of organizations and 35 to special work, most of which was of national scope. Fifty-eight per cent of the gift money went to publications, 12 per cent to workers education, 12 per cent to civil liberty and legal defense, 8 per cent to research and 10 per cent for other purposes, the percentage of the cost of administration for the money appropriated was 3.3 per cent., the report shows.

Most of the larger loans, the report adds, went to publications, including the Minnesota Daily Star, the Oklahoma Leader, the Seattle Union Record and the Polish People's Publishing company. Large loans also were made to the labor defense council, and to the general defense committee, Chicago. A revolving loan fund was put at the disposal of the American Civil Liberties union for legal costs in free speech cases.

The report was made public by Roger N. Baldwin, secretary of the fund.

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE DIED IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Cal., March 15—Sergeant Sam Breben, 45, soldier of fortune and American war hero, picturesque figure of Mexican and Central American revolutions and a friend of General Pershing' died here today.

Breben collapsed in a doctor's office yesterday while undergoing treatment and died early today without regaining consciousness.

Breben fought on scores of battlefields, sometimes as an American soldier, some times as a free lance.

Perhaps his greatest exploit was the world war feat that won him the distinguished service cross. In October, 1918, in the last great offensive, of the war, Breben was sent out at the head of a small detachment of volunteers to dislodge a force of Germans blocking the American advance near St. Etienne, before he led his men back they had killed 58 Germans, captured four machine guns and taken two prisoners. Of his own men, not one was wounded.

Breben also was awarded the Medaille Militaire, the Croix De Guerre with palms and an Italian decoration.

General Pershing honored him by inviting him to American headquarters in Paris as his guest and on one occasion referred to him as "the finest soldier and one of the bravest men I ever knew."

Born in Russia, Breben came to the United States as a young man of 20. He enlisted in the regular army and saw service in the Philippines, later going to China, with his regiment and participatng n the defense of Peking, participating in the defense of Peking.

Later in Honduras, he joined General Lee Christmas. He took part in the Madero revolt against Diaz in Mexico, and afterward became a follower of Villa.

MAN KILLED AT COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATION IN BERLIN

The Juilliard Musical Foundation announced that it was prepared to award 100 fellowships to American music students for study in singing, piano, violin, violincello and composition. The fellowships represent a tuition value of about $1,000 each.

Favorable Outlook For Tax Reduction

Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee is Optimistic.

Washington, March 15.—The outlook for a reduction of $300,000,000 in the nation's taxes for the fiscal year 1926 is "now favorable," Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, said today, adding that he saw "nothing to prevent" reducing the maximum surtax to 25 per cent, and again lowering all other income rates.

"It is the intention," he said, "to have the new tax law passed in time to apply to taxes payable next year, and if this is done the administration will have the unprecedented record of having reduced taxation three years in succession."

A surplus of $373,000,000 has been estimated for the fiscal year 1926 he said, and the exact amount will be known by the time the committee starts work on drafting a new tax bill about October 15, so that much work on the proposed measure will be well under wa yby the convening of congress in December.

"The original treasury estimates of the surplus for the fiscal year of 1925, which ends on June 30th next, was about $68,000,000," he declared. "The receipts from taxes have been larger than were anticipated, principally by reason of the improvement in business generally. Some expenses also will be less while, on the other hand, some are likely to be larger than was anticipated, of which the refunds of taxes is an instance. On the whole I think I am safe in saying that the surplus at the end of this fiscal year will exceed $100,000,000

FALL GOING TO CHEYENNE TO CONSULT ATTORNEY

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 15—The first intimation as to whether Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, will or will not testify for the government in the Teapot Dome suit here was made today by Mr. Fall's personal attorney, Henry A. Wise.

Asked by newspapermen if Mr. Fall would have any statement to make when he arrives here late tonight from Denver, Mr. Wise declared nothing would be forthcoming until they had conferred.

"Will the government have Mr. Fall on the stand for any length of time, or will his examination be brief," Mr. Wise was asked.

"The government will have him on the stand but not for long," he replied.

This was taken by Mr. Wise's hearers to mean the former secretary will stand on his constitutional right and refuse to testify on the ground that he might incriminate himself. Mr. Fall now is under indictment in Washington in connection with his execution of the Teapot Dome lease to Harry F. Sinclair's mammoth oil company.

The main interest in the case itself today remained on what Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy's ruling would be on the question of admitting into the evidence the bank account records of the former secretary, by which the government seeks to prove a financial connection between Mr. Fall and Mr. Sinclair.

The defense has objected on the grounds that such is not competent evidence. Judge Kennedy will rule tomorrow on the question.

WENT TO SLEEP IN FIREBOX OF LOCOMOTIVE

Syracuse, N. Y., March 15—Horace Harris, 40 years old, of Syracuse, employed as a locomotive boiler inspector by the New York Central Railroad, after making his rounds early this morning decided to take a nap. It was during his tuck on duty, and he thought the firebox of the locomotive would provide a safe and undisturbed couch he stretched out in the farthest corner of the firebox and went to sleep.

About an hour later, a fireman was ordered to put the locomotive in readiness for immediate use. He threw oil-soaked waste and other kindling in the firebox and tossed in a few shovels full of coal. Harris slept soundly through all the noise. The fireman applied the torch.

Harris awoke to find himself trapped in the farthest end of the firebox with a wall of flame between him and the door.

Fortunately for him, the fireman had left the door open. Harris threw up his arms to protect his eyes and plunged into the flames. He had to crawl over six feet of blazing waste to reach the opening. The firemen and other workmen beat out the flames enveloping him as he fell unconscious on the floor of the engineer's cab.

Harris was reported in a serious condition at a Syracuse hospital tonight.

TEN PRISONERS ESCAPED FROM MISS. STATE FARM

Clarksdale, Miss., March 15—Ten prisoners who escaped from the state prison farm at Parchman, near here, late today, were believed to have been located tonight in Woods near Drew, Miss., to which they fled when two automobiles in which they escaped were stalled on muddy roads.

A posse was formed to join prison guards in an attempt to recapture the fugitives, who are known to have eight revolvers. All of the escaped prisoners are white men. Among them is L. O. Nixon, sentenced to life about seven years ago for the murder of a Vicksburg, Miss., policeman.

The men escaped shortly before they were to be taken from the prison stockade to supper tonight. Eighty five were in the stockade at the time, and three of the men produced pistols, disarming J. M. Gilbert, sergeant of the prison guards and an assistant.

They forced them to call in four other guards stationed around the stockade, from whom the convicts took pistols. The convicts then fled from the stockade. Only 10 escaped.

FUR STORE IN NEW YORK LOOTED BY TEN ROBBERS

New York, March 15.—Ten robbers early today looted the fur store of Benjamin Marks and company, in the heart of the dry goods district, and escaped with between $10,000 and $15,000 worth of furs after a running gun fight with police and private detectives.

GOVERNMENTAL EXPENSES APPROPRIATED BY CONGRESS

Members of House Appropriations Committee Report That Appropiations Have "Practically Reached the Pre-War Low-Water—Declare From This Year on We Are Likely to Have Increases Rather Than Decreases.

Washington, March 15—Conflicting views of the financial accomplishments of the last session of congress were set forth today by Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee and Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking democrat on the committee.

Mr. Madden said governmental appropriations have been reduced until they have "practically reached the post-war low-water mark, "and expenses have been so curtailed that from this year on, we are more likely to have increases than farther decreases."

Mr. Byrns, however, declared the appropriations for the fiscal year 1925 show a "large increase for peace-time governmental operations," and that the reductions were brought about by the decreasing cost of "disappearing" war agencies and not as "the result of economies."

The total appropriation of $3,986,921,000 for 1926 Mr. Madden asserted, was $25,921,000 less than the current appropriation, and he described the sessions of the sixty-eighth congress as being approximately $500,000,000 less than was appropriated by the sixty-sixth congress.

Discussing separately the departmental appropriation bills, Mr. Byrns said, the navy was allotted an "actual cash" for 1926, a total of $318,402,328," as against $278,175,460 for 1925, and $150,000,000, the largest amount ever spent in time of peace for the maintenance of the navy of the navy, back in 1924."

"This huge sum," Mr. Byrns continued," when considered in connection with the fact that there is a balance of authorizations of $152,560,000 for alterations and increases in the navy, emphasizes the importance of another more effective conference of the limitation of armaments, and that the former conference failed to accomplish what the people believed."

Pointing out that congress had reduced by $11,125,000 the budget bureau estimates for 1926, Mr. Madden said he wished to call attention to this because of a "more or less widespread misapprehension that congress does not and has not stayed within the limits of the amount requested by the president."

Mr. Byrns concluded his statement by declaring that 97 per cent. of the estimated reductions for 1926 are "either automatic or a deferred appropriation, and cannot be claimed or classed as an economy on the part of the administration." The reduction of the "cost of ordinary peace-time activities," he asserted, is "essential for the relief of the people and is the acid test of true economy."

A FLEEING BURGLAR DROPPED HIS LOOT

New Haven, March 15.—The clothing store of Charles M. Brown, 363 State street was entered by a burglar early this morning and three suits of clothing and an overcoat were taken. The man gained entrance through the railroad cut which is at the rear of the store.

Railroad Policeman Fraher discovered a man walking along the tracks with a bundle under his arm. When ordered to stop, the stranger started to run. Officer Fraher fired a shot in the air and then fired five shots at the fleeing man. The stranger dropped his bundle but kept on running and left the tracks at Water street.

The railroad policeman found that the bundle dropped by the stranger contained clothing and two of three bullet holes were found in the garments. It is not known whether the man was hit.

The clothing store entered is but four or five doors from the Guarantee Watch company store which was robbed a short time ago by Michael (Big Mike) Ricciteli.

The stranger chased along the railroad tracks this morning is described weighing about 150 pounds, five feet five or six inches tall and about 25 years old.

ISLE OF PINES TREATY GRATIFYING TO CUBANS

Havana, Cuba, March 15.—President Zayas, commending today on the approval of the United States senate on the Isle of Pines treaty, said:

"The news has made me rejoice as a Cuban, but it has not surprised me by any means, as I am fully aware of the spirit of justice of the American people and government."

President-elect Machado said:

"I never had any doubts regarding the ratification of the Hay-Quesada treaty by the United States senate, which has always been inspired by sentiments of cordiality and friendship to the Cuban people. I am especially gratified and glad that my administration will start with this important problem solved."

Mayor Ramon Soto Llorca of the municipal district of Isle of Pines, who has arrived here, said:

"At last for the Pineros the restlessness in which we lived has ceased. The Isle of Pines, Cuba by nature and Cuban by sentiment, will not be separated from the Cuban state, in the name of the inhabitants of the isle I express my heartfelt gratitude to the people and government of the great American nation."

LEARNED "ART" OF SAFE BLOWING IN PENITENTIARY

Baltimore, Md., March 15.—Declaring that he had learned the "art" of safe blowing and lock tumbling while he was serving a term in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Charles Thornton Bean, 32 years old, is being held at the central police station for investigation.

He was taken in custody early today by police when he was surprised in an alleged attempt to force an entrance into the Parkway theatre. The lock was drilled almost through.

The man had in his possession, police say, sufficient explosives and the necessary preparing and igniting paraphernalia to destroy several buildings. He was unarmed otherwise and surrendered without a struggle.

According to records, Bean was one of the best high school hurdlers, quarter-milers and football players ever developed here.

SUCCESS OF NEW HAVEN R. R. HUGE BOND REFUNDING ISSUE

New York, March 15.—The success of the New Haven railroad's unique plan of selling a $23,000,000 refunding bond issue directly to New England investors, without the aid of underwriting banks, has far surpassed first expectations. Officials of the company announced today that subscriptions so far had totaled $30,500,000, an oversubscription of 34 per cent allotments on orders for over $1,000 will be cut to 75 per cent.

In selling its new bonds to refund a European loan which falls due on April 1, the New Haven had the organized support of New England banks and industries, as well as numerous commercial organization.

THREE OF FAMILY BURNED TO DEATH IN NEW MILFORD

New Milford, March 15.—Mrs. Louis Estipee, wife of a farmer at Still River, and their son, Gerald, 21 years old, were burned to death before they could be reached when a fire of unknown origin destroyed their farm house at about four o'clock this morning. Mr. Estipee, terribly burned in attempting to rescue his wife and son, is in New Milford hospital where his condition is considered precarious. Another son, Louis, 16 years old, is also in the hospital suffering from minor injuries caused by the fire.

The scene of the fire was at Still River or Laneville about a mile and a half from New Milford Center. There are not many houses near Mr. Estipee's, the only one with in a half mile being that of Fred Whipple, directly across the road. No one knows how the fire started, but it is apparent the origin was in one of the back rooms of the second floor. There was no stove on that floor of the house, the only one being in the kitchen where Mr. Estipee slept.

Mrs. Estipee slept by herself in one of the upstairs rooms and her son, Gerald, who was also burned to death, slept in the adjoining room. The two other boys, Joseph and Louis, occupied a thord room. They escaped by jumping out the window, their first intimation of danger being when the entire second floor was in flames and escape by the stairs was cut off.

Mr. Estipee slept in the kitchen and his knowledge of the fire was when he was awakened by the great heat and cracking of the flames. He attempted to reach the second floor to rescue the rest of his family but was nearly cosumed by the blaze. When he finally gave up he was so badly burned by the flames that he collapsed. Neighbors who had arrived had him and his son, Louis, immediately taken to the hospital. Mr. Estipee's serious condition is not only due to his severa burns about the face and hands, his hair being entirely burned off.

ALL INCOME TAX RETURNS DUE AT MIDNIGHT TODAY

Washington, March 15—With all income tax returns for 1925 due to be filed by tomorrow midnight, treasury officials are making plans to undertake an immediate analysis of the results of the new revenue law with its reduced tax rates. They expect to be able to calculate the funds the law will produce by the end of this week.

Officials contend while the law was under consideration that reduction of rates in the higher tax brackets would encourage business. It was said today, however, that this phase of the law's effect could hardly be observed fully in the returns now being filed, since the anticipated business expansion has not had time to materialize and show an added volume of taxes.

Taxpayers this year have an added day in which to complete the making out and filing of their returns. While the law specifies March 15 as the last date, the solicitor of internal revenue has held that the government could not compel the filing of returns on a holiday or Sunday. Announcement was made today, however, that strict application of penalties, provided by law will be applied from the stroke of twelve o'clock tomorrow night.

COAST GUARD TO CURB RUM RUNNING ALONG GULF COAST

Washington, March 15.—The United States coast guard, having practically worked out is programme for the policing the North Atlantic seaboard, has turned its attention to curbing rum running and other small operations along the Gulf coast. Under convoy of the cutter Tallapoosa, it was also announced today that the first patrol boats have been dispatched from Mobile to San Juan in a campaign to combat smuggling into Porto Rico. Rear Admiral Billard, coast guard commandant, has gone to the Gulf coast for a personal study of the situation.

Although the North Atlantic rum fleets still exceed any known to be riding 'outside American' territorial waters, coast guard officials let it be konwn that they have an eye on the activities of the fleet loitering in the Gulf of Mexico. It was evident, they said, that this fleet seeks to take away some of the trade now caried on from islands off the Florida coast.

WILLIMANTIC

Progress in completing the financing program was the only notable development over the week-end in the strike of the American Thread Company which rounded out its first week Saturday. The mass meeting Saturday was omitted and weather conditions were such that the gatherers at the mills in the morning and at noon were considerably smaller in number than on previous days. A committee of pickets had been appointed to do regular duty at the mill gates but many of the operatives so desiring may join them. The noon-day procession from the plant to Labor Union Hall has proven a means of manifesting enthusiasm and according to Miss Kelleher the parades will be continued. As the first week of the strike drew to a close the strikers devoted practically all their attention to perfecting their financing system. Collectors are to be sent out this week to canvass throughout the state. Towns which will be first visited include Stafford Springs, Rockville, Putnam, Manchester, Middletown, Plainfield, Danielson, Norwich and New London where textile concerns are located. Several of the operatives have donated the use of their automobiles for this purpose.

John P. McQuillan, president of the American Thread Athletic association has called a meeting of the officers and authorized delegates from the various departments for this (Monday) afternoon to take action on the disposal of $3,300 now in the treasury of the association. It is believed that all, or part, of this sum will be diverted to the strike fund.

Additional contributions received include a check of $15 from the firm of Benedetti & Laha who conduct the Wood Smoke Shop and contributions of $19.90 from employes of a construction company engaged in building at the Mansfield State Hospital and Training School. The strikers were loaned to come to Mansfield to collect the money.

Two announcements made relative to the week's plans by Miss Mary Kelleher, organizer and assistant to Miss Amy Hooker in conducting the local strike were that another mass meeting would be held this (Monday) morning at the Gem Theatre and that Thomas F. McMahon of New York City and Providence, national president of the United Textile Workers, was expected to arrive here Tuesday. President McMahon will hold a conference with the strikers' committee to assist in completing the program. Arrangements are to be made to engage speakers, who will address members in Polish, Russian and French. Methods are being taken to determine which of the operatives would be most likely to need help in the event the strike was of long duration and the request has been made that anyone in need apply for assistance to the finance committee.

Gene Bernard, a local young man, was picked up from the gutter on Valley street Saturday night by Rev. F. C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church after he had fallen in a semi-conscious state from an overdose of what appeared to be kitchen brewed whiskey. Rev. Mr. Williams carried the man to the steps of the rectory and notified the police. Officers Orlando and Lariviere responded. Bernard will be charged with intoxication, at the session of police court this (Monday) morning.

Poultry Diseases and Their Remedies was the subject of a fine address delivered last week at the meeting of the Windham County Poultry Association by Professor Adolphe Goodhart of Providence, R. I., a member of a grain and marketing company of Chicago, Breeding of Chicks was the topic of another address delivered by D. Cavanaugh of Clarks' Corner, and official organizer of the association. Charles C. Locke of Chaplin was elected secretary for the second time and D. D. Cavanaugh assistant secretary. Mr. Cavanaugh was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for the next meeting to be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Windham Friday in April. A decision to vote will be taken later on the project of holding a poultry show in this city next winter.

George L. Ladd, 80, died at his home, Pinecrest Hill, North Franklin Friday night after a long period of illness. He was highly respected in the community of Franklin. He spent twenty five years of his life as a teacher in Windham and Franklin and in later years followed farming. He was born December 25, 1844, in North Franklin, a son of William L. and Abigal Robinson Ladd. Besides his wife he is survived by two nephews, L. L. Starkweather of Uncasville and George E. Starkweather of Spottswood, N. J., and one niece, Mrs. Mary R. Rose of Norwich. Funeral services were held at the family home Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Joseph F. Cobb of South Windham conducting the services. Burial was in Pautipaug cemetery, North Franklin. Arrangements were in charge of The J. C. Lincoln Company.

The death of Mrs. Charlotte E. Vinton occurred at her home in Coventry last Friday. She was the wife of Winfield S. Hoo-doo Night was observed on the evening of Friday, the 13th, at the Congregational church in Windham Center, with an entertainment and a chicken pie supper given and served by the men of the church to over two hundred and fifty. Arrangements were in charge of William Maine, and the supper committee was in charge of Alfred Abbe. The tables were attractive with decorations of green crepe paper, green carnations and tall green candles in glass candlesticks. The favors were tiny shamrocks. The supper was served by the men of the church, whose white coats were fearfully placarded with "Friday the thirteenth." Each guest entered the room beneath a step ladder and under an umbrella. A radio concert was given by Morris Palmer of Willimantic, who had installed an instrument there specially for the occasion. The supper was cooked by Mrs. Henry Bingham. A program arranged by Mrs. Michael Farrell of Storrs was given under the direction of the program committee, in charge of the pastor, the Rev. James F. Graham. Mr. Farrell sang The Cruiskeen Lawn, and Requiem, by Homer; two piano solos were given by Miss Celia Cohen, of Willimantic, a student at Connecticut Agricultural College; Mr. and Mrs. Farrell sang Waking, by Leo Croke, and Mary of Argyle, by C. E. Shattuck; a sextette of girls from the college glee club sang Echo song by Cuthbert, and The Young Girl and Lady by Charles Spoit, accompanied by Miss Margaret Demander; Miss Florence Tenny gave two readings in negro dialect; Mr. Farrell sang La-To-Do, a jazz number by Ray Kennedy, and gave a whistling solo; and Connecticut, a college song, written by Mrs. Irving Davis, of Storrs, was given by the sextette. Mr. and Mrs. Farrell were accompanied by Mrs. Lewis Tenny.

DUNCAN PEACOCK STRICKEN AND DIES INSTANTLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 15—As he was about to step into an automobile driven by Albert E. Welch, a neighbor, Duncan Peacock, widely known resident of this city, was stricken with a sudden attack Saturday afternoon which caused his death as he was being carried from where he had fallen in front of his home, 74 Pleasant street into the house. Mr. Peacock had been in failing health for some time and last October was forced to abandon work at the American Thread Company where he had been an operative for over thirty years. He had slightly recovered Saturday and about 2 o'clock in the afternoon started on his way to a barber shop. The attack came as he was about to accept the ride.

VOTERS OF TOWN OF HEBRON REDUCE TAX TWO MILLS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 15—At a meeting of the voters of the town of Hebron held Saturday afternoon in the town hall, R. S. Porter was moderator and Helen Gilbert clerk. It was voted to lay a tax of 25 mills to defray expenses for the current year. This is a reduction of two mills from last year's rate. A committee consisting of Charles Sloan, Earl Parks, and Wilber Wills was appointed by the selectmen to make a re-valuation of the taxable property in the town. Upon Mr. Hill's refusal to serve power was given the other two members of the committee to appoint a third, the selectmen to fill any further vacancy.

OLDEST LIVERY STABLE, N. LONDON, PUT OUT OF BUSINESS BY AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 15—The oldest stable in New London has gone out of business—the automobile was too much, or too many, for it. More than fifty years ago Griswold G. Avery came from his farm in Waterford and remodeled the building that was for many years used as a Universalist church, corner of Main and Church streets. It was a big wooden structure and fire had damaged it. Rev. Mr. Waldo, father of George Waldo, who was the editor of The Bridgeport Standard, was the pastor of the church for many years. Then the support of the church was of an indifferent sort and it withered. Mr. Avery supplanted the pews with stalls for horses and went into the livery business. His death left George G. Avery, his son, in possession of the property and he retained it till fire again destroyed the structure. Then the son erected a brick building and extended his business, but it would not go with the automobile coming along so rapidly, and George Avery gave up the business. He is a director of the New London County Agricultural society and interested in horses and neat cattle, etc., but he is now, for the first time in 41 years without a horse. Saturday he was driving, but he says he is to be deprived of even that pleasure now. He auctioned off his horses, etc., the past week and is now out of business.

William Parmelee, a taxicab driver, discovered yesterday that he did a job with his machine Friday night that was the most expensive he had ever performed. He sold a bottle of liquor to a couple of youths and when they became intoxicated they made known the fact and Parmelee was arrested and prosecuted for the offense. He was fined $200 in the police court and obtained the money with which he paid the penalty with $110 of his fare attached. The story goes that some other taximen are in the business of furnishing booze to their patrons at times and that the business is of no small proportions.

About two score sensation seekers were in the police court Saturday, anticipating salacious testimony in connection with the arraignment of William C. Bartlett, John J., (Pete) Woods and Michael A. Day, the last named employed at the Bloom silk mill plant, each charged with manslaughter in having caused the death of Marian Wench, a Hartford telephone operator, by abortion. The crowd was disappointed for there was no testimony taken, the defense deeming it unwise to disclose what was to be contended in meeting the charge of the state. John Cleary, counsel for Day demurred to the complaint in his behalf, and Clayton B. Smith, representing Bartlett and G. C. Moran, appearing for Woods, followed the same course. The demurrers were overruled, and bonds were fixed for the appearance of the accused before the May term of the superior court, the bail for Bartlett and Woods being fixed at $10,000 and that for Day being placed at $200. Day's father qualified as surety for him but neither Bartlett nor Woods could secure any one to provide a bond. So they are in the county jail where they find themselves. The story of the crime with which these young men are charged has been told in these columns. It remains to be seen whether the mother of the Wench girl will be brought into the case in other relations than as a witness, for it is said that she was a party to the arrangements by which the crime was committed. The state is said to be in possession of information that discloses what arrangements were made for the coming of the Wench girl to New London and is cognizant of the appearance perfected for her conveyance here in an automobile. The tail is not likely to be a long one, nor will the volumn of testimony as great as might be expected. It is for the state to introduce the evidence that will convict and the attorney for the commonwealth is not apt to call for evidence that is not of the most convincing nature. Then he will not have to defend the testimony he introduces. It is not believed to be likely that the young men held can secure a bond that will release them for jail before the first Tuesday in May and that they will remain in confinement till that day comes around.

Trout fishermen are already getting their tackle in condition for the 1st of April when the law that prevents them from whipping the brooks will be off. They anticipate a great season this year because of the absence of snow and ice in the brooks during much of the winter and because the weather has not been of the severe sort. The trout bury themselves in the mud during the winter so they are expected to be in fine condition at the time the law is off.

Rev. Chester H. Howe has done a great deal to popularize the services at the First Baptist church during the few years he has been the minister there. He has arranged services to attract the young people of the city and has been successful in his endeavors. It is the young people that are sought. The older people will get into the church where the younger ones are attracted by diversions outside. This evening at the Happy Hour service preceding the sermon a program of music including a Te Deum by Dudley Buck, was rendered that filled the church nearly. The organ music was Shubert's compositions. The sermon was on the Ten Commandments.

Michael Baldassaro, who escaped a serious crime conviction when he was charged with having shot Mrs. Verdi at her home in Brewer street a month ago, and who then was found not guilty because Mrs. Verdi and other witnesses would not assist the state, if they could, in showing that Michael shot Mrs. Verdi, will be in the police court Monday, charged with carrying a concealed weapon without having written permission from the mayor or chief of police. So far as has been revealed yet no one saw any pistol in the possession of the accused and from other evidence than the fact that a bullet struck Mrs. Verdi in the body and that it came in contact with a steel in the corset she wore and that the bullet dropped to the floor and was picked up there, no evidence has been produced that Baldassaro was the possessor of a pistol. Mrs. Verdi, at the trial for attempt to kill, told the court that she was knocked down by the contact of the bullet on the floor. How convincing that sort of testimony will be remains to be seen. There are facts yet to be brought out if a conviction is secured.

Mrs. Hadlai Peabody, of Waterford; Miss Hilda Shepard, Hamburg; Miss Eileen Lewis, Raymond street, and Mrs. Fred Semmelrathom and infant daughter, of Perry street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed Saturday.

Four drunks were taken in the police dragnet Saturday afternoon and night, one for being annoying pedestrians on State street by persistent begging. He identified himself as Don C. Cahill, of Monson, Mass.

The funeral of William A. Buckley, formerly of New London, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Buckley, of 45 Blackhall street, whose death occurred in New York of pneumonia several days ago, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger, with Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley deacon and Rev. Raymond O'Calla as subdeacon. The bearers were Leo R. Noyes, Frank Fitzmaurice, John J. Kelley, William T. O'Connor, John D. Burns and Samuel Carkey. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Wollschlaeger.

Mrs. Ella Daniels Gray, of Gilead road, Waterford, wife of Edward E. Gray, died at Lawrence hospital early Saturday morning, having been under treatment at the institution several days. Besides her husband, Mrs. Gray is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Maynard and Mrs. Emma Decker and two brothers, Tillston and William Daniels, both of Waterford.

Five youths have been rounded up by Sergeant John Cavanaugh for forcing entrance to the garage of Daniel J. Lucy, Garfield avenue and removing some articles in storage there. The boys have admitted the break, but declare that the articles they stole were of little or no value. The boys have been turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield and will be given a hearing in the juvenile court.

Louis Richman, a North Bank street youth, is scheduled to appear in the police court Monday morning on a charge of the reckless driving of an automobile of his employed, Benjamin Parker, 76 Truman street. The automobile ran down a child named Baludy on Main street, near Federal, the child sustaining, among other injuries, concussion of the brain.

Hyman Coopersmith, 159 Connecticut avenue, and proprietor of a mattress manufacturing industry, Lincoln court, is of the opinion that an arson fiend is intent on destroying his establishment. A few nights ago Coopersmith informed the police that an attempt had been made to fire the property, but when an officer arrived there it was revealed that a box of excelsior had been discovered afire close to the building by a youth residing in the neighborhood. About 1:30 o'clock this morning Coopersmith communicated with the police, stating that he had discovered a man loitering about the establishment and that Coopersmith chased the alleged intruder half a hour. Patrolmen George McCaskey and William Babcock were sent to Lincoln court and made a search of that vicinity for thirty minutes without locating any strangers.

William E. and Edith Steeley have sold a three story residence on Gorton street to Harry Libby. The price paid was $12,000.

Frank Almeida has sold a house and lot on Wall street to Tony P. Piscitello and Guiseppe Grillo.

Joseph Carolla, 21 Shaw street, who has been a patient at Lawrence hospital for a fortnight as a result of a knife wound in his chest was discharged from the institution this forenoon and returned home. Prior to his dismissal from the institution Carolla was served with a subpoena by Sergeant Nelson Smith for his appearance in the police court on the 18th inst., as a witness against Joseph Pozzella, 71 Woodbridge street, charged with assault with attempt to kill, for it was Pozzella who wielded the knife that inflicted the wound which resulted in Carolla's admission ot the hospital. Pozzella and Joseph Spadera, also of Shaw street, the latter charged with assault, are at liberty on bail for their appearance next Wednesday.

Carolla, Pozzela and Spadera, it is alleged, engaged in a quarrel in the store of Pozzella and a fight resulted, Spadera beating Carroll and Pozzella sending the blade of his pocket knife into Carolla's chest.

Mrs. Howard E. Fuller, and infant son, of Mystic, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday afternoon.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Joseph Langhammer, whose place in Willington was raided by state police officers, March 6th, pleaded nolo contendere to the charge of violating the liquor laws, when prosecuted in the borough court Saturday. Judge Heald imposed a fine of $100 and costs, a total of $117.31 and ordered that the liquor secured by the officers be destroyed.

George J. Gary has been awarded the contract for carrying the mail between Stafford Springs and Staffordville. Beginning July 1st, the mail will be carried by the Gary jitney. Frederick S. Sanger of Staffordville has carried the mail over this route for many years. The contract is now awarded to Mr. Gary because he was the lowest bidder.

Now that the new highway between Stafford and the Massachusetts state line has been completed, the town must find a way in which to pay for it. A bond issue of $70,000, which was the amount appropriated by the town for building the road, has been suggested and a town meeting will be held in Warren Memorial hall Wednesday afternoon to see if the town will vote to issue bonds carrying this amount. The road extends from Orcutts to the state line and is one of the so-called state aid roads. The state will eventually re-pay 75 per cent of the cost of building the road but until it does, the town will have to carry the burden.

The hostesses at the supper and entertainment to be given by Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church this week will e Mrs. William Symonds, Mrs. Gordon Charter, Mrs. M. E. Eaton and Miss Edith Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tuthill of Hartford were recent guests of relatives in the borough.

DR. ALBERT H. SPICER, 81, DIES AFTER ACTIVE CAREER

Westerly, March 15.—Following a long life of activity and with a fulness of interests greater than characterizes the average lifetime, Dr. Albert Hamilton Spicer, 81, died Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock at his home, 51 Elm street, Westerly. He was the oldest of Westerly's dentists and long and prominently connected with professional, civic, fraternal, and church interests. Vocational activities were almost equalled by avocational accomplishments, for Dr. Spicer in frequent respites from a busy profession sought out and visited remote parts of the world—"Globe Trotting King of this section of the country" was the distinction accorded him.

Born in Hopkinton City, February 20, 1844, the son of Col. Joseph and Content Potter Spicer, he was the youngest and outlived all of eleven children, among whom the following lived to advanced age: George Henry, Edward D., and Noyes of Ashaway, and Joseph of Plainfield, N. J. The only sister, mother of Col. Everett E. Whipple, town clerk of Westerly, died many years ago. His boyhood days were passed in the town of Hopkinton, where he attended the Ashaway Academy. He entered the Potter and Champlin drug store on Main street in Westerly at the age of 17.

Leaving the drug store in 1864 he became a dental student in the office of Dr. Azro N. Lewis on the same street. In 166 and 1867 he continued his study in the New York College of Dentistry and on his return to Westerly engaged in the dental profession for thirty years with Dr. Lewis in offices in the Langworthy block on Main street until it was burned, and then in the Babcock block before moving to the Briggs building in 1884. When Dr. Lewis moved to California in 1894 the dental partnership of Lewis and Spicer was dissolved. Under his own name Dr. Spicer continued in the practice of destistry until 1905 when Albert H. Spicer, Jr., his only son, was taken into partnership with him. Their offices were removed to the new Washington Trust Company building recently completed.

Dr. Spicer was a member of and frequent attendant at the meetings of the Connecticut and Rhode Island Associations of Dentists, as well as the Northeastern association.

In the many years of his busy, professional life Dr. Spicer found time for public service. He was a member of the Westerly town council from 1883 to 1892, inclusive, and its president from 1890 to 1892. He became a member of the Westerly school committee and gave the school affairs of the town his diligent attention from 1890 to 1915, acting as clerk for much of that period. He was president of the Westerly Savings Fund and Loan Association from 1890 up to the time of death.

In Masonic circles Dr. Spicer held many memberships and was long and prominently connected with them. He was raised in Charity lodge, No. 23 of Hope Valley, R. I., in 1866, and became affiliated with Franklin lodge, No. 36, F. & A. M., of Westerly in 1867 and was its worshipful master in 1879 and 1880. At the time of his death he was treasurer of the lodge, an office which he held for years. In the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island he was second district deputy master in 1882 and at the time of his death was representative of the Grand Lodge of Arizona near the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island. A member of Fairbe chapter, No. 28, R. A. M., of Pawcatuck, Conn., and its high priest in 1882; a member of Mystic council, No. 29, R. & S. M., of Mystic, Conn., and a Knight Templar in Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, R. I., and its commander in 1883 and 1884. In Providence he was affiliated with Palestine Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., and the Scottish Rite bodies there. Westerly Masonic club, No. 176, had him as a charter member.

Dr. Spicer in his early years was a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in Hopkinton and following his marriage became a member of the Pawcatuck Congregational church, its clerk and a member of the society committee for ten years. Politically Dr. Spicer was a republican.

July 28, 1866, at Roxbury, Mass., Dr. Spicer married Miss Helen Adelaide Torrey, of Portland, Me., daughter of William and Eliza Morrell Torrey. His residence at 51 Elm street was completed in 1873 and he has resided there since. The death of Mrs. Spicer occurred May 23, 1907. The surviving children are, Helen, Mrs. W. G. Latbrop of Mt. Carmel, Conn.; Louise, Mrs. Morton H. Hiscox, Oak Hill Ill.; Jennie, Mrs. Seth Thomas, Thomaston and Dr. Albert H. Spicer of Westerly. A daughter, Hannah, died in infancy. Also surviving are nine grandchildren.

Dr. Spicer made more than fifty trans-Atlantic trips. It was in 1901 that his journeyings became world-wide, but previous to this time he had "seen America first" by visits to California, the south and to Canada. He was at Martinique, in a visit to the West Indies and Panma, at the time of the volcanic eruption there and in 1903 again visited these countries. Five years later he went to Egypt, explored Jerusalem and Palestine and proceeded through the Aegean to the Isles of Greece, the Dardanelles, Constantinople and the Black Sea countries.

The ambitious trip of 1910 was a globe-circling one, on which he witnessed the Passion Play in Oberammergau, Germany, and two years later his wanderings listed Panama, Havanna, Jamaica and Costa Rica. South America was visited in 1915 with a return by way of Seattle and across the continent. His itinerary in 1922 included a visit to the West Indies and the Hawaiian Islands and on board the steamship Orca, he celebrated his 80th birthday at sea. The cold countries of Iceland and the North Sea ports were explored on his next neighborly call.

While on a return from his last trip to southern waters, rough weather was experienced and shortly after his return to Westerly he went to the Jane Brown Memorial hospital in Providence for a surgical operation and was there many weeks. Returning to his home in Westerly his health gradually declined until the end.

MYSTIC

William L. Main has a force of men working on the property formerly known as the Gilbert block, which now has the name of Main. Mystic is proud that it had a man with the courage to buy this property, which had remained in its ruined condition since it was burned years ago. The new owner is to restore it to its original fine appearance the only good sized brick building in the village.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church gave the entertainment. The Beantown choir Saturday evening at the parish house. The same play was given by the Eastern Star with other aids on Tuesday night. It drew a good crowd and was full of wit and humor. Those taking part were Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Tyler, Mrs. C. S. Patterson, Misses Alice Harrison, Rosamond Holmes, Doris Rainer, Ellen Noyes, Margaret Boggemus, Walter Jackson, Trefly Morin, Theodore Anderson and Spicer Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Billings of Washington street have announced the engagement of their second daughter, Esther Miriam to Jack N. Macy. Both are popular young people and active in the Baptist church. Miss Billings is a teacher in the town of Stonington.

The Monday club is to meet with Mrs. Charles H. Davis. The members will continue the study of South America.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Packer of Orchard street are boarding with Mrs. Grace Hammond at 125 Vauxhall street, New London, at present.

C. H. Eldredge of West Mystic avenue returned Friday from Fishers Island, where he was called by the serious illness of his brother, Ralph Eldredge.

Rev. Arthur T. Fowler, D.D., preached in the First Baptist church of Stonington sunday morning and in the evening commenced a two weeks' series of meetings in the Baptist church here.

The Christian Endeavor social in the Baptist church Friday evening was well attended.

THREE BOROUGH MEN HOLD UP WHITE ROCK MAN FOR $5

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, March 15—Deputy Sheriff Dolan was called by telephone from F. H. Gilbert's on the Pachaug road, Sunday afternoon, about 1 o'clock, the call given by Dave Lockwook, of White Rock, R. I., stating that a fight was going on between the occupants of two automobiles. Three Jewett City men, Tony LaFiamme, Henry Willett and Frank Parent, in a car from Moosup, had help up the White Rock car and tried to get $5 from the two men Lockwood and Ray Earl, of White Rock, to pay for the Moosup automobile.

The parties had decamped when the officer arrived. Later he arrested those who had been engaged in the fracas. He found the White Rock men had no license, no registratino and no permission to take the automobile. All the arersted men were intoxicated. The three Jewett City men got bail and will appear in court Monday morning with the White Rock men, who spend the night in the lock-up in Jewett City.

Officer Vegiard has five drunks on the docket for court Monday morning.

School journeys for pupils, under the care of teachers of the London schools, are valuable from an educational point of view, and the number has greatly increased. They are carefully planned and carried out and last usually from a week to a fortnight.

Breed Theater

A brilliant array of screen celebrities is seen in Miami, the great society drama now playing at the Breed theater.

Betty Compson, who has the leading role, is one of the most popular actresses in pictures. She began as a Christie comedy girl and graduated into features. Her work in The Miracle Man establishes her reputation as a dramatic actress. Since then she has appeared in a great number of films, her latest being The Rustle of Silk, The Woman With Four Faces and The Stranger.

Hedda Hopper is known equally well on the stage and the screen. She has appeared in stage productions of Selwyn, Henry Harris, the Shuberts and Arthur Hopkins, and in photoplays of Paramount, First National, Vitagraph, Selznick and others.

J. Barney Sherry is another veteran screen actor. His latest pictures include: Burn Em Up Barnes, The Lotus Eaters, Shadows of the Sea, A Woman's Woman, What Fools Men Are, and The White Sister.

Lucy Fox has appeared in Vitagraph, Paramount, American Releasing, First National and Pathe productions.

Benjamin F. Finney, Jr., Miss Sompson's leading man, makes his picture debut in Miami. Mr. Finney is the son of the president of the University of the South and is well known in Dixie society circles. His work in this production amply proves his talent and gives promise of a brilliant future.

Advance showing of fur models in natural colors, the Pathe news and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Motion Picture "Power"

Manufacturers, engineers, mechanics and others interested in power plant operation are invited to see the three reel picture "Power" at the Community House, Church street at 8 p. m. tomorrow (Tuesday) night. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

After failing for months to figure in the news Dark Lantern hill asserted itself Saturday afternoon and evening by turning in a series of accidents none of them involving the serious injury of persons, but playing havoc with the cars that figured in them. Rain and a slippery road surface may be held accountable for the accidents that happened.

The first machine to come to grief was an open car bearing a New York registration. It ran up the embankment at the south side of the highway and overturned, after skidding around on the slippery highway. Shortly after this accident John B. Bassett, of Broad street, came along and stopped to offer such assistance as he might to the people who had been in the overturned car. While his macaine was parked away over at the right hand side of the road a new closed car driven by Thomas Murray of 29 Pearl street, Willimantic, came along. The Murray car took to skidding and eventually sideswiped Mr. Bassett's car, knocking it partly off the highway. Rocks at the edge of the paved gutter were torn out as the result of this crash, in which no one was injured. Mr. Bassett managed to run his car back to Danielson, but it was so badly damaged that it will have to go to the repair shop. It has a twisted axle, broken wheel, broken fender and probably a twisted frame. Mr. Murray's car was also badly battered in the crash. An adjustment of the damages to Mr. Bassett's car will be made by Mr. Murray.

Later on Saturday another car skidded, while coming west and went into the embankment on the grade coming from Dark Lantern Hill toward South Killingly. Excepting for minor cuts or bruises no one was injured in any of these accidents.

It was suggested Sunday that the condition of Dark Lantern hill might be improved, in so far as safety from skidding is concerned, by covering the surface of the highway with coarse gravel and rolling it in with a heavy roller. The hill has been gravelled time and again, but traffic and the wind have taken this safety covering away after a time. It is believed that heavy gravel rolled in so that it would penetrate the oiled surface would hold for a considerable time and so rough up the surface of the road as to make it less dangerous.

The first theft of an automobile in Danielson for months was reported Saturday evening when someone got away with a Ford coupe owned by Herbert Hopkins and left parked near the Palace laundry on School street. Discovery by Mr. Hopkins of the fact that his car had gone was promptly followed by reports of the loss to the police and a broadcasting by telephone of a description of the equipment of the machine and the registration number. Up to early Sunday afternoon no trace of the car had been found. Since the parking regulations in the center of the business section have been effective it has been customary for many persons to park their cars in School street, near the foot of Center street. It is not recalled that any car has been stolen from the locality up to the time the Hopkins car was taken, early Saturday evening.

A dog owned by Earl Wilbur died suddenly a few days since under circumstances indicating that he had picked up some poisoned morsel, such as has put a number of dogs away in this town in the last few months.

PUTNAM

A short calendar session of the superior court is to be held in Putnam Tuesday with Judge Frank P. Haines on the bench. All of the criminal business was concluded when the case of Wilfred Breault was disposed of Thursday and probably no other criminal cases will be heard until the May term.

Miss Helen Mason, who took poison when arrested by Worcester officers in Woodstock, Saturday, Feb. 27, and who has been a patient in Worcester City hospital, had so far recovered as to be able to appear in the Central district court of Worcester. The complaint against the woman was one of misconduct. She was sentenced to one year in the house of correction and, although she pleaded guilty to the charge, took an appeal.

Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Landry and Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Gendreau and son, Rene, of Fall River, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bonneville of Woodstock avenue last week.

The County League of Women Voters is to hold a meeting at the home of the Misses Dyer in Brooklyn, March 18, at 2.30 o'clock.

Charles Gilbert and family of North Attleboro, Mass., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Jodoin and Mr. and Mrs. Ulric Beausoliel, of Woodstock avenue.

Woodstock Academy played its last home basketball game, defeating Killingly High, 40 to 22. A Woodstock spurt in the second half decided the game. Captain Walter Anderson of the home team scored 25 points on ten field goals and five fouls. Brennan made 13 of Killingly's points.

When the second annual ball of Quinebaug Lodge of Masons is held in Odd Fellows' hall, as the floor space is limited the guests will be confined to members of the craft in the local and other lodges. During the evening supper will be served in the hall across the corridor. The same excellent music, which was a feature last year, has been secured by the committee.

Ray C. Bosworth has been chosen vice president of the Rotary club of Putnam by the board of directors of that organization to succeed the late John Ash of Pomfret. Mr. Bosworth will serve until the next regular election of the club.

At the business meeting of the Rotarians, the project of sponsoring a play to be given by members of the Brown Dramatic Society at the Bradley theater was brought up. The proposition was for the club to make necessary arrangements for the production of a play at the theater by the Brown club, sell the tickets and turn the profits over to the Day Kimball hospital. The board of directors will consider the matter.

The secretary, Henry S. Lyon, was elected delegate to the district Rotary convention, to be held at Pittsfield April 16 and 17. There is an "On-to-Pittsfield" committee in the club, endeavoring to persuade a large proportion of the members to attend the annual convention.

Mrs. F. T. Baldwin of Sunnyside avenue, who has been a patient at the City hospital, Worcester, for several weeks and has undergone several operations, is expected home this week.

A meeting of Putnam Red Cross chapter was held, at which the final report of the roll call workers was given. According to a previous report when the campaign was partially completed, $215 had been raised. The sum of $126.50 has been secured since that time, making total collections of $341.50. Amounts turned in by the various workers at the meeting were: Mrs. Eddie Girard, $16.50; Mrs. Leo Delisle, $5; Mrs. Fred Gilman, $3; Mrs. Marion R. Robillard, $6; Mrs. Stett MacDonald, $10; Mrs. Graydon Sharpe, $5; Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, $33; Mrs. Fred Wells, $3; Miss Emma Kinney, $21; Misses Alice and Florence Devine, $8; Miss Gertrude Perry, $9; Mrs. William Rafferty, $1 added to previous report.

Joseph Pominville, 42, and his son, Arthur Pominville, 17, observed their birthdays on the same date to the Pominville home Friday evening. There were nearly 35 guests. During the evening cards were played and there was vocal and instrumental music. Prizes for whist were awarded as follows: for the highest scores, Mrs. Samuel Lucier, a box of handkerchiefs; to Albert Gagne, pack of playing cards; consolation awards to Mrs. Beaudelie Tetreault and Theodore Gagne. One of the guests, Theodore Gagne, 16, was also observing his birthday. He is a friend of the younger Pominville and both attend Putnam High school. Refreshments were served. There were birthday cakes for both father and son.

A very profitable meeting of the Workers' Council of the Baptist church was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Thompson. Each one brought a suggestion for the betterment of the school.

At the last meeting of Putnam grange a large class was initiated, the degree work being in charge of D. D. G. M. Arthur Tourtelotte. There was a large attendance of members and following the meeting an appetizing luncheon was served. A social hour of music and dancing was enjoyed. The third and fourth degrees will be exemplified on the candidates at the next regular meeting. A novelty in this degree work for the local grange is being arranged.

At a meeting and luncheon of the directors of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce at the Putnam Inn, a representative of the Interstate Express company was prsent. The representative, Mr. Bishop, outlined a plan for a motor express service from Boston to Putnam, by way of Woonsocket.

Arthur Cordier was before the city court again, charged with drunkenness, being a common drunkard and resisting an officer. He took an appeal from a sentence of eight months in jail.

Patsey Perillo, charged with being drunk, assault on his wife, breach of the peace and non-support, was sent to jail for six months on the last charge, the other counts being placed on file.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Ross, of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been visiting at the home of Mr. Ross' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Ross on Main street.

The Latest Balloon Tire Development — The New U.S. "Low-Pressure Tread"

and How Its Flat Contour Prevents Early and Uneven Tread Wear

The First Tread Ever Designed to Properly Meet the Requirements of a Balloon Tire Operating at the Low-Inflation necessary for Real Balloon Cushioning

IT IS the result of an exhaustive study by U. S. Tire engineers into the causes of early and uneven tread wear on Balloon Tires.

This study demonstrated very clearly that the ordinary round tread is impractical for Balloon Tires.

Due to the peculiar shape a round-tread Balloon Tire takes when under load and moving, and to the consequent working of those parts of the tread on which the weight is concentrated, the tread wears unevenly and quickly in two bands. (Note Tire A.)

The new Flat "Low-Pressure Tread" cures all this. Its flat contour and the larger area of road contact greatly reduces the weight carried per square inch of tread.

There is much less tread distortion and tread movement.

There is better traction.

There is also better non-skid protection because the flexible outer row of tread blocks is in full contact with the road, and steering, too, is easier.

But above all, the new Flat "Low-Pressure Tread" permits running the tire on the low inflation necessary to give real Balloon Tire cushioning—without causing early, uneven and disfiguring tread wear.

Why U. S. Royal Balloon Cords present "The Balloon Tire principle at its Best"

Here is the tire that combines more exclusive points of superiority than any other tire you ever used or heard of:

Latex-treated Web-Cord—the only cord construction in which the individual cords are webbed together with pure rubber Latex. Not only strong but extremely flexible, permitting the tire to flex freely without injury even at extremely low air pressures.

Flat Band Method of Building—insuring uniform position and tension of all the cords in the tire.

The New, Flat "Low-Pressure Tread"—adding 22 per cent more tractive surface on the road, doing away with uneven wear, and giving you many more miles out of your tire investment.

* * *

BOTH of the... tires have run approximately the same number of miles, under the same load, and with the same inflation.

Tire A has the old round tread. Look how it has worn down on each side.

Tire B has the new U. S. Flat "Low-Pressure Tread." Note the slight and even wear over the whole tread, although it has gone over a 1000 miles more than Tire A.

OUR LIGHTING PLANT.

Norwich interest in legislative matters today centers chiefly in the hearings on the petitions of several applicants for the right to purchase and operate after purchase the local gas and electric plant now owned and operated by the city.

This situation has developed from the disclosure some months ago that Norwich was paying a much higher price than it needs to for the electricity it produces and distributes. Offers to effect a saving of $40,000 or more a year for the lighting department, permitting of a reduction in rates, resulted in the presentation of a proposition to buy the plant. From this situation others became interested and now seek the right to take over the lighting business now conducted by the city if the city is willing to sell.

Before any sale could take place the people of Norwich have the right to say whether a sale should be made. As yet that is a matter which has not been submitted to them. They have heard much about such an idea, as well as about the purchase of electricity, but they have not been given a chance to vote on the plant's disposition. As the matter now stands it has not been referred to them in the manner set forth in one of the petitions providing for an individual expression on the part of the owners.

Norwich has been supporting its municipal plant and paying high rates for its products for many years. It has received nothing from it in the shape of profits and it has reached the year when it had been told that the plant would make it a taxless city. Taxes have increased instead of decreased. Norwich pays more for its light than many other communities, a chance to save a production cost of $40,000 yearly has been turned down and it has gotten to the point where the legislature is being asked to charter a successor without the city having had the proposition of selling submitted to them.

BRAKES AND HORNS.

Over in Waterbury there has been started the spring test of automobile brakes and horns. We will say that it is an excellent idea and one that is needed in order to guard against the undesirable effects of the accident rate been suffered by individual or pocketbook, and too often it is the case that it was known in advance that the brakes were not holding but there was neither the disposition nor the time for having them tightened or re-lined.

As for the auto horn there is invariably the complaint that they are used too much rather than judiciously, and that they are too loud for the purpose. Many are the endeavors that have been made for reducing the amount of noise by auto horns and placing greater dependence upon the exercise of proper care. And yet it can be appreciated that there is a real need of having an auto equipped with some kind of a device that will warn others effectively of impending dangers.

Along with the testing of lights, there is much to be said for the check up of the brakes and the horns. Just as long as the auto driver understands that there is no effort made to have them proper brakes and proper horns there will be a certain number who will impose upon that neglect. When it is realized that a demand is ready to be made for a demonstration of the effectiveness of either the brakes or the horn there will be sufficient concern manifested in advance to provide a satisfactory demonstration.

Waterbury is engaged in something which might well be done by every community. It may be said that it might not always be necessary, and ought not be put on a condition which is found and the problem is to exercise an ounce of prevention before being called upon to explain serious accidents and possibly fatalities. There will be enough bad brakes and horns even under such a system of inspection.

FIGHTING FOR PUBLIC SAFETY.

In connection with the attitude which is taken by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin of Massachusetts relative to the peril which is created on the highways by the reckless and the law breakers, and his attacks upon the courts for their failure to give the public the protection to which it is entitled, the Boston Herald says that "He does at times use extreme language. Occasionally he makes statements that may seem inexpedient, possibly indiscreet, but not necessarily untrue."

He is in a position to see and does see where the efforts that are made in behalf of public protection and highway safety are nullified by those who are looked upon to aid in the execution of that protection. He believes those who are a menace to others should be kept off the highways and that the reckless who keep repeating such performances should not go unpenalized, and he puts his fingers on plenty of cases to show that they have, one man who had been before the courts 34 times in ten years, including three times for the larceny of cars and twelve other times in auto cases, has served only part of one jail sentence.

Mr. Goodwin is making an uphill fight. Naturally those attacked, those who have no regard for others in the highways and those who play on his leniency of a court do not like his methods. The Herald, however, wished "a lot more men would get excited about this problem of safety in our streets and roads. Does anybody doubt the need of action? Look at the awful record of accidents and fatalities caused by careless, reckless, incompetent and drunken driving of motor cars—and not a particle of such doubt will remain. Mr. Goodwin has a tough job. We do not wonder that he uses strong language at times. He has public sentiment back of him."

One who is so courageously and openly fighting the battles of the public is certainly entitled to all the support the public can give him, and that should be enough to accomplish the protection he aims at and which is so seriously needed.

MAKING A SUCCESS.

We read with interest of those boys from the farms who rise to positions of great prominence and to those of poor families who make their way up the ladder of success through their own determination.

We also learn of those who come from abroad, locate in this country, work for a living, see the opportunities, make the most of them and become men of wealth and men of big affairs. Not so long ago there was the head of a New York concern who distributed his business among a handful of faithful employes. He had come here as a youngster, worked as a boy and by attention to details and come to own the business and had amassed such a fortune before he was 50 that he could give the establishment to others.

There is another from southern Europe who in a quarter of a century has made so much of the opportunities that existed that he is the second highest officer of a banking institution with $60,000,000 of resources.

These do not exhaust a long list of persons who worked as boys, insisted upon being independent of others and got to the top. They got there through personal endeavor and close application to business. They saw opportunities and made the most of them. Their aim was to work and not to dodge it. They were not satisfied to live off of others but were out to do something for themselves. Such examples as those deserve far more attention than they are likely to get in these days when there is too much of a disposition to expect someone else to provide the wherewithal for a life of ease and extravagance.

WALTER CAMP.

For years the name of Walter Camp has been closely and prominently identified with athletics. He had in fact become an authority, so that his sudden death means the passing of a widely known and highly respected master of sports. He was a leader in his chosen line and his views were based upon sound judgment and the best interests of sports.

Perhaps none has done more in the interest of clean sports, or proved a greater inspiration from the sidelines than this man who has written and taught for many years the rudiments of athletic training and set a high standard for the amateur. He labored in the interest of athletics that were straightforward and above board, established high ideals and his endeavors were always for such a goal.

He had visions of the benefits that were obtainable through athletics and he devoted his efforts in extending them to others. And in this undertaking he was most successful. He was bent upon making good athletes, but he was equally desirous of making good sportsmen—men who not only knew the rules of the game but lived up to them.

That he should have been an influence is not surprising. His devotion to athletics was unqualified. He aimed high and he accomplished much and in athletic history the name of Walter Camp is bound to hold a conspicuous place and his influence will live long after him. He is dead but his record will live on.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Serve a fruit syrup with cooked cereal.

Serve jellied sweet cider with whipped cream.

Serve fruit dumplings hot with heated fruit syrup.

Serve lima bean souffle with tomato sauce.

Ammonia will generally remove iodine stains.

Oysters are now in season. Try them sauted with bacon.

Grilled apples are particularly nice served with veal sausages.

A very thin slice of lemon is attractive floating in a cup of bouillon.

Serve creamed spinach on squares of fried bread.

Sprinkle broiled tomatoes with finely chopped chives.

Serve frozen pineapple sherbert with marshmallow cream.

If you wish your mayonnaise dressing to be very bland, do not add any mustard.

THERE ARE EGGS AND EGGS

Don't deceive yourself and think the slightly musty egg will not be noticed if cooked. It will spoil any dish in which it is used. Put it in a cup and show it to your dealer. If you buy first class eggs, your farmer will give you a good egg in place of the musty one.

SYSTEMATIZED MOVING

When preparing to move, get a number of boxes and number them. Then as the boxes are packed write the articles put there in opposite the number of the box in a little note book. This is mighty convenient when you do not care to unpack all the boxes at once.

MILKY SAUCEPANS

The saucepan in which milk has been boiled frequently is an obstinate article. Try this: After pouring out the milk, cover the pan with a lid before the steam escapes. Allow the pan to cool and then fill with cold water. It will wash out easily for you.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

One relief for hiccoughs that is considered pretty good is to moisten some granulated sugar with vinegar and eat it. It is said to bring instant relief.

In cases of frostbite no warm air, warm water or fire should be permitted near the parts affected until the natural temperature is nearly destroyed. Rub gently the affected part with snow in a cold room, and make applications of ice water.

One cannot always take time to rinse out baby's bottle with boric water and sterilize it just when it is finished drinking from it, but it only takes a second to fill it with cold water and then let stand until convenient to wash it. This will prevent the milk from souring on the sides of the bottle.

Nothing depresses and worries a sick person more than an untidy sickroom. He may not know the cause of the depression, but it is a fact nevertheless. Keep a sickroom clean, well aired and pleasant, prepare your patients' food carefully and the sickroom will always be a pleasant place.

HIGH IN NUTRITION

That the pecan is high in nutrition is a known fact. This nutritive value is the result of its fat and protein content. The pecan offers a high food value in a concentrated form, and for that reason food authorities recommend that it be eaten in conjunction with bulkier foods to secure proper assimilation.

ABOUT CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM

Chocolate ice cream is difficult to make on account of the chilling of the melted chocolate causing tiny particles of chocolate that will not smooth out. To prevent this, melt the chocolate and mix it with a little hot water before adding it to the custard.

A GAIN OF FIFTEEN MINUTES

If in a hurry to get the baked potatoes done, wash and boil them for about 15 minutes. Drain and place in the already heated oven. In about 10 minutes they will be ready to serve, and lovely and tender in the bargain.

CHANGE OF ATMOSPHERE

Don't expect to boil cauliflower, cabbage, onions, etc., and make an odorless job of it without some ventilation in the kitchen. Have the window down at the top and up at the bottom of a couple of inches and create circulation.

TO FRESHEN GILT FRAMES

Dust carefully, then wash gently with one-half ounce baking soda beaten with the white of one egg. Touch up scraped places with gold paint.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The majority of the new silk spring dresses have their beauty enhanced by jabots, collars, cuffs or pockets of lace. Irish laces are especially popular.

The vogue for the ensemble now has reached jewelry. It is expressed in matching rings and bracelets composed of three rings of different colored gold.

Evening dresses all seem luminous. The dark colored crepes or velvets are embroidered with colored stones, gold beads or crystal.

Flame tones of red, intense yellow, elusive pinks and sumptuous purples are among the shades which reflect the tendency toward Spanish colors that is evident in the modes of spring.

The new skirts are barely knee length and those with the tailored costumes are narrow and straight. The sport models and afternoon frocks have much more of a flare, attained by circular or plaited flounces across the front.

A cameo inclosed in filigree gold is one of the latest fads for fastening side draperies and girdles on day and evening gowns. Many an heirloom is getting another airing in society as a consequence.

Streamer ties are a feature of many of the blouses and frocks worn with ensemble costumes today. The streamers are long and the knot may be either close up to the throat or looped loosely as low as the waistline.

BEJEWELED TURBANS

What is more appropriate than jeweled embroidery on a gold turban? That effectively describes one of the new spring hats. The foundation is of exquisite gold embroidery covered with a lattice work of paste or semi-precious stones. The shape is absolutely round and very close-fitting.

EVERUSEFUL CHIFFON

Chiffon today is to dress what the utility infielder is to baseball! It can be placed anywhere. Even on the straight-line slim, plain, satin frocks, it is used as a fichu, adding grace to the neckline and a contrasting color note to the costume.

NARROWING MARGINS

The Paris designers of the highest grade are narrowing the margin between coat and skirt length in ensemble suits. Three-quarter coats are favored and these with the curtailment of skirts are cut to come not more than two inches above the skirt hem.

MEDICI COLLARS WORN

Medici collars, high, flaring and stiff, are being worn in the daytime with round-necked frocks. They are kept standing by a chain or string of beads wound tightly around the neck and allowed to fall down the side in the form of a long pendant.

SEWING HINTS

When stockings wear out, cut the feet off, split each stocking leg, then sew the two pieces together. These make splendid dust-cloths and are easily washed.

When crocheting edges on underwear, first sew tape around the edge, allowing a small part to extend beyond the edge of the garment, crochet on this tape and when the garment is worn out the tape may be ripped off and the lace edge used in another garment.

It is a great convenience to keep in the sewing-basket, several rolls of good tape of different widths for mending small holes or tears in white garments. This makes a much neater "patch" than cloth because the selvage needs no turning under.

It will be smooth and it can easily be stitched on by machine.

If you want some hemstitching done and haven't much time, pull the threads as if you were going to do it by hand, then machine-stitch down the center of your threads, and slip this stitching as close to one side as you can. You will never be able to tell the difference without very close attention.

SHAPE YOUR OWN HAT

Dent or shape your own. That is the advice smart milliners are giving their patrons in selecting sport hats today. They emphasize that the felt shapes now being turned out lend themselves to the individual twist of brim and denting down of crown which give them character and individuality.

SHORT SKIRTS USHER IN LACEY HOSE

Both for evening and daytime wear, debutante and dowager alike, have adopted the straight and severe hem line that falls mid-way between the knee and ankle. As a natural result, hose become a conspicuous essential of a costume. For daytime there are a sheer transparency of black or gun metal while for evening they are fashioned of delicate cob-webbed lace in a pattern that runs in its entirety from top to toe with only a narrow hem of silk as a finish.

FIG PUDDING RECIPE

Children always like puddings and, fortunately, physicians regard simple puddings as a rational and very valuable part of the diet of children. Fig pudding comes under the list of "simple" puddings and will prove a favorite with the younger members of your family. And the others will like it too.

Mix together one cup shredded suet, two cups bread crumbs, one level cup brown sugar and one cup figs cut into small pieces. Then add one well-beaten egg and milk to consistency. Place in double boiler and boil for three or four hours. Serve with hard or cream sauce.

THE CARVING KNIFE

It is wise to make a special operation of the washing of the carving knife. Don't put it in a dish with the silver and then cut yourself on its sharp edge while searching for it in the sudsy water.

WELL GREASED

Before inserting casters, dip the shank into vaseline and then slip them into the legs of the furniture. You will be surprised how easily and quietly you can move the heavy pieces about.

TO DARKEN THEM

Brown shoes that are too light in color may be darkened by rubbing with a solution of milk and ammonia. Then polish with a soft, dry cloth.

RECIPES

Pumpkin Biscuits: Beat up one egg until light, then add to it one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of salt, two tablespoons of baking powder and two cupfuls of sifted flour. Then add two-thirds of a cupful of drained and stewed pumpkin and three tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Beat well together and bake in buttered and floured gem pans for thirty minutes in a hot oven.

Codfish Balls: Two cups pickled codfish, two cups mashed potatoes, a quarter cup cream or top milk, one tablespoon butter and a little pepper. Pick fish in small pieces, cook in cold water half an hour, drain and add boiling water to cover. Simmer 15 minutes, drain, press out water, mix with potatoes and other ingredients. Form in balls, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry in hot lard.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gas and Electric Hearing at Hartford

Mr. Editor: It takes a colossal gall on the part of any citizen of the town of Norwich to appear before the legislative committee in Hartford in opposition to the gas and electrical bills pending before that committee. Those bills simply give the citizen the right to say whether or not they wish to sell the plant and they give all the citizens that right.

An important matter of this kind should not be decided by a handful of picked "workers" of the K. K. K. variety assisted by a few ill-informed allied K. of C. associates. The recent city meeting is no expression of the will of the citizens of Norwich. Any man who goes up in opposition to these bills takes the position that the citizens of Norwich have not the intelligence to decide their own affairs. Champion Shea says he will be satisfied whichever way the matter is decided by the people. If that is true why is he trying to prevent the people from having the opportunity to vote upon the matter? A wonderful consistency in his remarks. The people are able to decide this matter without anybody's assistance.

The philippic oration on municipal ownership of Mr. Manes seems to be oft quoted by Champion Shea. Why wouldn't Mr. Manes be interested in the plant? He is getting part of his living for the work he is doing for the plant. The writer of this article is one who believes in the rule of all the people and believes all should be given an opportunity to express their will.

TAXPAYER.

Norwich, March 14, 1925.

Well Impressed by Legislators

Mr. Editor: On Friday, March 13, 1925, a committee of Norwich merchants consisting of Abner Schwartz, C. I. Smith, J. Lincoln Crawford, Max Rabinovits, Lee Clegg and myself, went to Hartford to appear before the senate judiciary committee to protest against a bill intended to prohibit canvassing from house to house.

We arrived at the capitol at 1.30 and we found the senate judiciary committee in session with Senator Cronin of New London, presiding. As a citizen of the state of Connecticut, I felt very proud of the able and conscientious manner in which our legislators conducted the hearings relating to various bills. Having had some experience with the New York legislators at Albany, I compared the calibre of the men, who made up the committee of law makers in Connecticut and I feel proud to make known to our citizens that I found the judiciary committee a body of very high class, conscientious American citizens, sincerely devoted to the duties before them.

When at 5 p. m. our bill was not reached, we were despairing of accomplishing anything by our trip to the capitol. I then walked up to Senator Cronin, inquiring whether our bill would be called. I must confess that I expected to be met with official contumely, with the usual curtness and stiffness as is characteristic with those in authority. But to my surprise I was met with kindness and courtesy, and with a gentlemanly refinement which thrilled my innermost soul. The senator assured me that the hearing of the bill would take place before the committee adjourned for the day.

The bill in which we were interested was finally called and was immediately supplanted by a substitute bill which made it apply only to corporations and individuals outside of Connecticut, who are doing business in our state in competition with local merchants without paying tax in our state. This substitute bill, however, was found to be faulty in its construction and in no way fit to become the law of the state.

At 5.45 our task being accomplished we left the capitol with the senators still in their seats. Our committee returned with the satisfaction that the destiny of our state is entrusted to the care of as fine a body of able American gentlemen as is to be found anywhere in the United States. I trust that you will have the kindness to publish this letter so that our fellow citizens of Norwich may learn of our committee's experience with the men who make their laws.

Very respectfully yours,

MAX HANOVER.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William Lawrence Saunders, upon whom has been conferred the honor for 1925 of being the most distinguished alumnus of the University of Pennsylvania, is a prominent manufacturer of New York and also chairman and director of the Federal Reserve Bank of that city. Mr. Saunders, who is a Georgian, was trained for the engineering profession at the University of Pennsylvania, graduating in 1876. Now he is one of the leading manufacturers of tools and implements used in mining and excavation processes in the United States. Not a few of these implements are of his own devising, notably an apparatus for underwater drilling now in general use. Mr. Saunders has served on many national and international commissions assigned to investigate problems of commerce and navigation. He has been a member of the naval consulting board since 1915 and twice has been mayor of Plainfield, N. J., where he makes his home.

Cooper's War-Time Business Was Killed

Possessing little education and abandoning the trades he learned as a boy, Peter Cooper tried various fields of enterprise with but indifferent success.

One of nine children of a poor hatter in New York he began to help make hats when very young, attending school but one year and then only at the half-day sessions. At 15 he could make a good beaver hat, but his father moved to Peekskill on the Hudson, where the boy had to help in the brewery and in a brick-making plant.

At 17 he gained his father's consent and went to New York where he apprenticed himself to a carriage builder at $25 a year and board. Books puzzled more than enlightened him and after seeking in vain for an evening school he employed a teacher in arithmetic.

Although he perfected a machine for mortising the hubs of carriage wheels he did not like carriage making and, at 21, quit the business. Then came the war of 1812 and with it a demand for home-made clothing. He invented a machine for sheering cloth, business boomed and he soon was far behind orders. Now 21 he married. The war ended three years later and his business collapsed.

Next a cabinet maker he did not succeed. He built up a grocery business only to find the field too limited. With his entire savings of $2,000 he bought a glue factory. For 20 years he worked long hours each day, acting as manager, bookkeeper, clerk, salesman and agent.

Success came, he bought 3,000 acres in Baltimore, saw its value jeopardized by threatened failure of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and perfected a locomotive that made operation of the road possible. He built an ironworks on the tract, narrowly escaped death by burning while experimenting, but made the first rolled-iron beams for building purposes. While experimenting with nitrogen gas he was severely injured.

At the end of 50 years in the glue business he gave his entire savings of $750,000 to found Cooper Union in New York. He served on the New York Common Council and Board of Education received the independent nomination for president of the United States and became one of America's greatest men.

Tomorrow — Auer's Dreams Shattered at 73.

An inscription in a recently excavated Roman temple in Trier, Germany, states that the builder was "a soldier in the Roman fleet and a dealer in beer."

Stories That Recall Others

The Gavel Won

The club was having a heated debate over a certain matter concerning new rules. It became so good naturedly acrimonious before its conclusion that the president had to terminate one speaker's remarks with his gavel.

"These fellows, A. and B.," Fred started, "don't know what they're talking ab—"

"Beg pardon, Mr. Chairman, but what I meant to say is," Fred resumed, "they're crazy when they say—"

Another bang.

"Sit down and stay in your seat," barked the chairman, and the rules were adopted.

LIFE OF CHRIST
PICTURES AT Y. M. C. A.

A large number of people completely crowded the parlors Sunday afternoon at the local Y. M. C. A., many being obliged to stand during the service. The occasion was the showing of moving pictures feature "From the Manger to the Cross." The opening exercises consisted of the singing of [illegible] scripture reading and prayer. Hugh Kinder rendered two solos in a very impressive manner. The pictures showed in realistic portrayal the events of the life of Jesus Christ, including the last supper, the garden experience, the arrest and trial and crucifixion. All the scenes were true to the scripture narrative.

During the reels, Secretary Hill gave a brief talk and among other things, said:

"Christ was denied by one of His disciples betrayed by another, and forsook Him and fled, and He [illegible] I cannot understand how anyone can live a low, mean life so far below their best. [illegible] gone so far [illegible] offering that we might live with Him. He allowed cruel men to lead Him to the cross, and He suffered, died and died on Calvary as our Saviour. How can we ignore Him. The only way to make life right is [illegible] to enthrone Christ in the heart. Do you want to do away with [illegible] Then enthrone Christ in your heart. Do you want to banish the [illegible] Then somehow enthrone Jesus in the [illegible] heart, and the life will be [illegible] changed. Let us first of all see to it that our hearts are given to Christ and then let us [illegible] our power to help others to [illegible] into their lives. The meeting was an impressive one. It was brought to a close by singing one verse of Nearer, My God to Thee. Emerson Frink operated the moving [illegible] and Lewis E. Church acted as pianist.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frank C. Cutler

Mrs. Marion Raymond Clark Cutler, wife of Frank C. Cutler, secretary of the Winthrop Trust company, died on Sunday at her home, 456 Ocean avenue, New London after an illness last for the greater part of a year. She is survived, besides her husband, by a son, Russell C. Cutler, of this city, and by a brother, Charles P. Clark of Pawtucket, R. I.

Mrs. Cutler was the daughter of the late George R. and Mary Perkins Clark of Norwich and had resided in New London about three years, Mr. Cutler and his family moving to this city from Boston when Mr. Cutter's services were secured by the Winthrop Trust Company.

Mrs. Cutler's father was a merchant tailor in this city thirty years ago and the residence of the family was at 10 Huntington Place.

WEDDING.

Arnold—Ver Steeg.

Saturday evening at 6 o'clock a very pretty but quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Arnold, 90 Cliff street, when their son, Richard W. Arnold, was united in marriage with Miss Madeline Margaret Ver Steeg, of Stamford, formerly of this city.

The couple was unattended and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt of the Central Baptist church. The bride was charmingly gowned and the house was prettily decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns.

Following the ceremony, a delightful wedding supper was served by the groom's parents, for the wedding guests, who numbered about thirty relatives and friends.

The groom is the son of Frank L. and Gertrude F. Milliken Arnold, and holds a responsible position with the Southern New England Telephone company, and is located in New Haven as a telephone engineer. He is a graduate of Carnegie Tech, class of 1922, being president of the Connecticut alumni. He is also a member of Somerset lodge.

The bride is the daughter of the late Peter and Margaret Verhoeff Ver Steeg, and resided in this city until the death of her parents about one year ago. Her father was superintendent of Mohegan park at the time of his death and was a well known landscape gardener. For the past year she has resided in Stamford with her sister, Mrs. Frank Shea. Miss Ver Steeg was employed as an adjuster for the Conde-Nast people in Greenwich, publishers of Vanity Fair, House and Garden, Vogue, etc.

The newlyweds left for Boston and other places for their honeymoon, following which they will reside at 89 Prospect avenue, West Haven, and will be at home to friends in their newly furnished apartment after April 1.

THEATRE SUES RIVAL FOR DAMAGES FOR LIBEL

On the allegation that two certain advertisements used by the Broadway theatre have been libellous against the Palace theatre, suit for $7,500 damages has been brought in the superior court. The plaintiffs are the Norwich Amusement company, operator of the Palace theatre, and Edward L. McEvoy, president of the company and manager of the theatre. The defendants named are Abraham Davidson, John Quinn, Max Levine and Virtume P. A. Quinn, the writ stating that Davidson is lessee of the Broadway theatre and that he operates it in conjunction with the other defendants.

On March 10, 1925, the defendants published in a newspaper called the Norwich Bulletin the following words: "We give what we advertise and advertise what we give" followed by the words, "We don't have to lie, fake and misrepresent to the public." The defendants meant thereby that the plaintiffs in their business aforesaid and in their relations to the public in and about said Norwich through their advertising of the attractions shown at said Palace theatre were liars, distorters of the truth, fabricators, fakers, frauds, boastful pretenders, deceivers of the public, swindlers and tricksters.

The second count contains the following:

On Dec. 31, 1924, the defendants published in a newspaper called the Norwich Bulletin the following words: "A message to the dear old ages! The Bible says:—Ye shall not steal.—You shall not lie or misrepresent. The defendants meant thereby that the plaintiffs in their business aforesaid and in their relations to the public in and about said Norwich through their advertising and displaying and offerings of attractions and entertainments at said Palace theatre were thieves, liars and frauds and practiced deception of the public in the operation and management of their said business.

Both of these publications, it is claimed by the plaintiffs, were false and malicious.

Davidson Sole Proprietor

Abe Davidson in a statement made Sunday said that V. P. A. Quinn, John Quinn and Max Levine, named with him as defendants on the action, have no voice in the operation of the theatre or the preparation of the advertisements. Mr. Davidson stated that he is the sole proprietor of both the Broadway and Strand theatres.

DEATH OF H. A. CROCKER KNOWN TO YACHTSMEN

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 16—Henry A. Crocker, 75, well known New London resident, died today at his residence, 94 Howard street after an illness of about two months. Mr. Crocker is survived by his wife, who is an invalid, a son, William A. Crocker, and three sisters.

He was a marine engineer but for a number of years had conducted a yacht storage basin in Shaw's Cove, a place where many steam yachts were moored for the winter and where these craft were fitted out annually for summer cruising.

SERMONS EXTOL ST. PATRICK AND CHOIRS GIVE MUSIC OF IRELAND

The story of Erin is one of which her sons will never grow weary, said Rev. Ernest Wilson, of Bridgeport, who preached the sermon at the St. Patrick's service at St. Patrick's church, Sunday evening. There was a very large attendance at the service which opened at 7:15 o'clock with a fifteen minute programme of Irish airs by Prof. Frank L. Farrell, organist. The soloists were Mrs. Frank L. Farrell, Miss Loretta Bellefleur and Frank R. Murdy. The Mercadante Vespers were given.

Rev. Father Wilson preached an inspiring and inte[illegible]steraTHT spiring and intensely interesting sermon on St. Patrick. The story of Erin is one of which her sons will never grow weary, he said. No day brings back so tenderly to the sons and to the daughters of Ireland the inspiring history of her heroes as March 17th. We extol the man who makes himself, who is not made by others, who is not bolstered up. Such praise and homage are the just due of St. Patrick. As the soul of St. Patrick was strengthened by trials and sufferings for his gigantic work, so evil days have not been able to crush his people. There is no better way of understanding the designs of God than by a comparison of St. Patrick and the history of the country he loved and served so well.

The preacher spoke of St. Patrick as a captive and of his deep seated resolve to give Ireland to Christ. St. Patrick knew but one resolve, he said, to convert the Irish. He saw God in majesty of the mountains, the beauty of the lakes and rivers, he heard Him in the rushing of the winds, in the breaking of the waves upon the shore, in the hush of the caves and valleys. The tiny spray of shamrock seemed ever calling to him to explain to the people the mystery of God.

There is no more radical change in the heart of man than in his conversion from infidelity to Christianity. What this means when applied to a nation only those who have lived in non-christian lands can appreciate. The Irish love candor, zeal, gentleness and modesty in those who would serve at God's altar. The soul of St. Patrick was so filled with these that the Irish people would be false to their very nature if they had failed to be captivated. St. Patrick and the religion of St. Patrick have ever been the glory of Ireland.

Oppression gave the people a choice of oppression with their religion or a certain freedom without it. Ireland's answer was from the soul. Invasion, oppression, outrage, brutality, even death if God so wills, but turning from the religion of St. Patrick, never! They have suffered long and deeply in Ireland but now—it could not be otherwise—the dawn is breaking through Ireland's long night of darkness.

St. Patrick's success lay in the greatness of his soul. He laid securely his foundation of a deep faith. He built upon a rock and the tempest and storms of centuries have not been able to destroy his household.

At St. Mary's Memorial Church

The annual Irish concert with an edifying sermon on The Life of St. Patrick drew out a congregation of over 800 to St. Mary's Memorial church on Sunday evening in recognition of Ireland's patron saint, St. Patrick.

Following the concert, which opened the services, the sermon was delivered by Rev. J. J. McCabe, pastor of St. Mary's church, Jewett City, who called the attention of his hearers to the inscrutable ways of Almighty God in selecting from the ranks of the lowly his priests who were to win souls to their Maker. Pen and ink fail to describe the labors of St. Patrick in bringing about the conversion of Ireland.

Born in Scotland during the fourth century, of noble parents, St. Patrick spent his early childhood on the hillsides of Scotland as a caretaker of sheep until the vision of an angel appeared before him and bade him prepare for the priesthood, in which he had such a glorious record. In one single century Ireland won the name of the land of saints and scholars due to the labors of St. Patrick. The preacher placed before his congregation the glorious labors of St. Patrick. God has seen fit to try the Irish people of the faith preached by St. Patrick. He has permitted foreign powers to invade that country, but how well did the Irish priesthood and people for over 800 years keep the faith of St. Patrick. How well did America profit by the invasion of the Irish people in the various sections of this country. Their labors as church builders were without a peer.

The annual Irish concert was musically, a delightful and inspiring performance. Singing with a fine sense of rhythm and interpretation, the choir brought out in full the exquisite sentiment that characterizes the Celtic folk songs. Seldom in volunteer choir work is found such an array of trained vocal soloists, whose singing was a feature of the evening's enjoyment. The choir had the assistance of Charles J. Dyer, who gave a splendid rendition of Balfe's Killarney, as an extra number.

Preceding the vocal concert Organist LaFontaine in St. Patrick's Day music made a fitting atmosphere for the songs to follow.

Following was the program:

Irish Airs, Organ
Hail, Glorious Apostle
Miss Driscoll and Chorus.
Come Back to Erin
Miss Elinora Donovan
Believe Me
Edward T. Connelly.
The Harp That Once Thro' Tara's Halls
Chorus
Would God I Were the Tender Apple Blossoms,
Nicholas J. Spellman
Kathleen Mavourneen
Miss Sadie A. Driscoll
Wearin' of the Green
Horace Corning
The Minstrel Boy
Chorus
Killarney
Charles J. Dyer.

The service closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament which was given by Rev. F. M. Coholan.

BURNED TO DEATH UNDER AUTO THAT UPSET ON JEWETT CITY STREET

(Special to The Bulletin)

Jewett City, Marc 15—John Gaska was burned to death about 12 o'clock Sunday night when the Ford coupe in which he and Wicenty Asgo were riding ran into a pole upset and was burned. The accident happened on Slater avenue near William Hogges house. Officer Vegiard turned in a fire alarm and Dr. J. H. McLoughlin was rushed to the scene in an automobile but the man was dead when he arrived.

Osga was badly burned on both legs and arms. The Backus hospital ambulance which was on its way to Packerville but was stopped and took the injured man to Norwich. Medical Examiner George H. Jennings was out of town on a sick call, and Coroner J. J. Desmond of Norwich was summoned.

Gaska has a wife and a large family of children, his home being on Hill street. He is well known here where he had been employed as barber by Lionel Boucher. Osga is an insurance agent.

When the car overturned after striking the pole, Gaska was caught and pinned beneath the machine which almost instantly caught fire. In a few seconds the car was a mass of flame and Gaska being unable to free himself from the wreckage was burned to death. Osga, who it is thought, was thrown out of the car was burned while trying frantically to save his companion. What caused the car to crash into the pole is not known.

Coroner Desmond will conduct an inquiry as soon as Osga is able to talk. It is not known whether the dead man or Osga was the driver of the car at the time of the fatal accident.

PARENTS' ANNIVERSARY AND SON'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marsh of Peck street, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Friday evening, when a company of relatives, friends, and neighbors assembled at their home.

Six tables of whist were in play and later music and dancing were enjoyed, the pleasant occasion closing with piano and violin selections.

In whist Mrs. Howard Smith won first ladies prize and the consolation trophy went to Miss Etta Walker, while first gentleman's prize was taken by Hugh MacDonald, Charles Duerr, coming in for the consolation. At the close, Mrs. Marsh was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Hugh MacDonald and Mrs. Alfred Smith, also Mrs. Howard Smith, in serving fruit-salad, rolls, cake and coffee.

Among those present were several members of the Neighborhood Whist club, of Norwich Town, where the Marsh family formerly resided for five years, and where they are still esteemed by their many friends.

In recognition of this anniversary which correct date fell on Saturday, Mrs. Marsh received some very beautiful gifts as follows: Silver bread tray, gold lined silver nut dish, silver meat fork, berry spoon, pie knife and napkin rings, also six sherbert glasses and a handsome potted fern.

The guest of honor of the evening was Mrs. Marsh's father, Henry Cross, 81, of Mechanics Falls, Me., who is passing the winter at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. Cross entered into the spirit of the company and enjoyed playing whist as well as those many years younger.

Another important feature in connection with the anniversary was the 21st birthday of Mr. and Mrs. Marsh's eldest son Ralph, who was also born on March 14th. He was presented a handsome green gold ring, with ruby set in white gold, by his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Marsh who have resided in Norwich Town and Norwich for the past 13 years, were united in marriage in Boston, March 14th, 1900. Before her marriage, Mrs. Marsh was Miss Alice Cross of Merrimack, N. H., Mr. Marsh at that time resided in Reed's Ferry, N. M., where they made their home for a number of years after their marriage, later living in Nashua, N. H.

There are five children, Mrs. Hugh MacDonald of Greenville, Mrs. Alfred Smith of West Main street and Ralph, Charles, Jr., and Thelma Marsh residing at home.

It amounts to the same thing whether we eat in the kitchen or cook in the dining room.

POLICE CAUGHT SAILOR IN AUTOMOBILE CHASE

After a chase from Franklin square over the Laurel Hill road, Officer Patrick Shahan overtook a Ford coupe, driven by a sailor from the submarine base and arrested the driver on a charge of reckless driving about 11.30 o'clock Sunday night. The sailor gave his name as Carl Angele and his age 24. During the evening police headquarters was notified by a local man that a machine was being driven about by a driver who was evidently intoxicated.

Officer Dunion noticed the Ford coupe parked on North Main street and thinking it might possibly be the machine that had reported in at police headquarters started towards the Ford to investigate. Just as he got near the machine the driver started away, headed for the city. Officer Dunion stepped in front of the machine and ordered the driver to stop, but the driver failed to heed the order and the machine just grazed the officer as it shot down North Main street.

Officer Dunion followed the coupe in another machine. At the coupe went through Franklin Square Officer Shahan ordered the driver to stop but he kept going and turned over Shetucket street, evidently heading for the submarine base. Officer Shahan gave chase in a machine and overtaking the coupe placed the driver under arrest. Angele could not produce a driver's license. He was booked on a reckless driving charge and locked up in default of bonds. There was another sailor and a woman in the coupe. Angele showed no signs of intoxication.

Salvation Army Special Music

In addition to the services Wednesday evening at Salvation Army headquarters, 10 Cliff street, a special musical program has been arranged and will be given at 8 o'clock when a large attendance is expected to be present. Adjutant Mehling, noted trombonist, with Mrs. Mehling and Major Severs, who is the new supervisor of the children's work carried on by the Salvation army in the Southern New England district, will take part in the program.

Gave Birthday Dinner

In recognition of the birthday of Ralph H. Marsh of Peck street, Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb of Norwich Town, entertained a company of young men at dinner Sunday, which included Ralph and Charles Marsh and Theodore Sterry.

FR. MAY MADE MONSIGNOR— SIGNAL HONORS FROM POPE

A cable message to St. Patrick's rectory Saturday evening conveyed the surprising news that during the day, at Rome, the rector of the parish, Rev. Michael Henry May had been signally honored by Pope Pius XI, having been advanced to the dignity of domestic prelate at the Vatican. This honor carries with it the title of Monsignor.

REV. M. H. MAY

When the news was announced at the three masses Sunday by the assistant pastors, Rev. Fathers Galvin and Reilly, it created a profound impression of pleased satisfaction. Father May is in Rome for the solemn ceremonials of Holy Year. While all admitted his eminent fitness for such advancement, because of his sanctity, learning, executive ability and worthiness in his high calling as a priest of Christ through Apostolic authority, the honor had not been anticipated, consequently the delight of his devoted people was intensified. At once the sentiment was expressed that Monsignor May must be given a manifestation of that delight in a public welcome on his return, whenever that shall be. Father May now ranks with the high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church in every country of the world; and it is felt that in thus honoring him the Holy Father has incidentally honored the parish as well

BILL WOULD INCORPORATE THAMES POWER COMPANY

At Hartford Tuesday there will come up for hearing before the committee on incorporations, a bill to incorporate The Thames Power Company. The company is seeking permission to sell gas and electricity in Norwich and towns surrounding Norwich. The following is the text of the bill:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Sec. 1. Philip Z. Hankey, Milton J. Warner and Howard N. Whiting and such persons as may be associated with them, their successor and assigns are hereby constituted a corporation by the name of the Thames Power Company, with its principal office at Norwich in this State and by that name said corporation is empowered to sue and be sued, to make and carry out all such rules, regulations and by-laws as may be necessary or convenient for the government and management of the Company and which are consistent with the laws of this State and of the United States.

Sec. 2 The capital stock of said Company shall be 20,000 shares, which may be of the par value of $100.00 each, or which may be without par value, which may be increased from time to time hereafter by a 2-3 vote of its stockholders to an account not exceeding 50,000 shares and said capital stock shall be transferred by such rules and commence business when 100 shares of the capital stock have been subscribed for. The corporators named in Section 1, or any two of them, may open books to receive subscriptions to the capital stock at such times and places and under such regulations and upon such notice as they or a majority of them for organization, choice of directors and other necessary business upon such notice and at such time and place as they shall deem advisable.

Sec. 3. The government and direction of said corporation shall be vested in a Board of not less than three nor more than seven directors, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The directors shall be stockholders and shall hold office for one year and until their successors shall be chosen and qualified. Such directors shall elect from their number a President and a Treasurer and may appoint such other offices and agents as they deem advisable and prescribe their duties.

Sec. 4. Said corporation is authorized and empowered to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding at any time the amount of capital stock actually paid in; such bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding 7 1-2 per cent per annum and said company may make and execute a mortgage of and upon its franchises, real and personal property to secure the bonds so issued which said mortgage may include after acquired property.

Sec. 5. Said Company is empowered and authorized to generate, buy, make, transmit, sell and distribute gas and electricity in the towns of Ledyard, in New London county and in the towns of Canterbury, and Scotland in Windham county, for the purpose of illumination, heat, power and for any other purposes that electricity and gas now are or hereafter may be used and sell such gas and electricity to private consumers and corporations within said territory and to other corporations authorized to engage in the same business under the laws of the State of Connecticut. For said purposes, said company may build plant may pipe and conduits, erect and maintain wires, poles structures and fixtures necessary and appurtenant or convenient in said business under or over any highway, street, avenue, alley or public ground in said towns or, by the agreement of the owners thereof, under or over private property. Provided however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as conferring any rights to sell any electricity or gas in the towns or Norwich or Preston other than to a municipality or to a corporation duly authorized and sell such gas or electricity in one or both of said towns unless and until the corporation hereby created shall have acquired by lease, purchase or otherwise the municipal lighting plant of the City of Norwich.

Sec. 6. Said corporation is authorized and empowered to purchase or lease under such terms as the owners and the directors of the Company may agree upon, all the property, contract rights and franchises of the Norwich Gas & Electric Company, of the gas and electric department of the City of Norwich and of any other Company authorized under the laws of this State to engage in a similar business and may operate the same. It may sell or lease the whole or any part of its franchises and property, including leases and franchises hereafter acquired, and may merge with and consolidate with any other corporation authorized to engage in a similar business within the State of Connecticut and, in the event of such purchase, merger, lease or consolidation, all the rights, privileges, properties and franchises of the selling, leasing, merging or consolidation company shall pass to the purchasing, lessee or consolidated company.

Sec. 7. Said Company is hereby authorized and empowered to buy, lease, hold, sell and convey such real estate in any of the towns in which it may do business, as it shall deem necessary or convenient and may erect and maintain, lease, sell and convey generating plants with all appurtenances and substations and such buildings as it may deem necessary or convenient.

Before the same committee Tuesday there will come up for hearing an act amending the charter of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company. The text of this proposed act is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Sec. 1. The Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company, a corporation chartered by the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut and having its office and principal place of business in the town and county of Windham in said State, is hereby authorized and empowered to generate, buy, sell, transmit, adapt and deliver electric current for, light, heat, power or any other purpose in and through the towns of Bozrah, Norwich, Sprague, Lisbon, Lebanon, Franklin, Preston, and Ledyard in New London county and the towns of Scotland, and Canterbury in Windham county and for such purpose it may erect, construct, and permanently maintain poles, wires, fixtures, structures and apparatus of every kind and description necessary or convenient for the purposes in said towns and for such purposes may place and maintain any such poles, wires, or structure, under or over any highway, lane, street, alley or public ground in any of said towns, and by agreement with the owner thereof, under or over any private ground in such towns. The said purchase and sale of electric current herein provided for may be to or from any person or corporation now or hereafter in existance provided however that nothing herein contained shall be construed to confer any rights to sell electricity in the towns duly authorized to distribute electricity in one or both of said towns unless and until The Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company shall have acquired by lease purchase or otherwise the municipal lighting plant of the City of Norwich.

Sec. 2. PRINCETON TAKES CROWN IN THE INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL PLAY

New York, March 15.—(By The A. P.)—Pennsylvania's victory over Princeton Saturday night at Philadelphia, 29 to 28, proved a sensational climax for an interesting season in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League.

The victory gave the Quakers a tie with Dartmouth and Columbia for second place, Princeton winning the title with nine victories and one defeat under the coaching of Al Wittmer. Last year the Tigers tied with Columbia for second place. Yale, which won three and lost seven in 1923-'24, lost every game.

Lemon of Princeton, by a remarkable finish in which he scored nine points in a vain effort to conquer Penn and make a clean slate for his team, captured the individual honors but his totals were far behind those of the brilliant Yale forward of a year ago, Sammy Pite. Lemon scored 27 field baskets and 12 four points for a total of 66, against Pite's 23 field goals and 21 fouls for 99 points.

Six of the eight players who were among the first fifteen last season appear in the select class—Carmack of Penn, who obtained second place this year by counting 13 points in the final game; Cleaves of Princeton, in third place after leading the league for several weeks; Hynson of Princeton, one step behind his third place of a year ago; Friedman of Dartmouth, who improved his standing by gaining fifth position; Suisman of Yale and Drake of Cornell.

Seven of the 1923-4 first fifteen, Pite of Yale, Strom of Columbia, Klaess of Princeton, Wedell of Cornell, Caphron of Cornell, Edwards of Dartmouth and Furer of Columbia, were not playing in the league this season.

Lemon's rise to leadership was somewhat of a surprise as last year he played only 31 minutes throughout the schedule, scoring one point in six contests.

BOXING SHOW IN NEW LONDON IS CALLED OFF

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 15—New London with prospects bright for fine boxing cards, suddenly dropped out of the limelight in this respect, when Promoter Lou Sobol postponed the intended show for March 24th indefinitely. Inability to sign boxers with ability to oppose those who have already signified their intention to fight in the proposed show and exorbitant prices that must be paid for top notch boxers, are some of the reasons for the postponement of the show.

The best the local promotor can hope to take in at the gate will be a trifle over $1,800. This means that the 1,052 seats in the Lyceum theatre, where the proposed show was to take place, would have to be filled to capacity. Expenditures in securing boxers an further incidentals which are incurred for putting on the show would amount to approximately $2,-000. The balance in the way of profits would be nothing, with a loss of at least $300 to the promotor. Unless some benevolent person would care to take the managerial reigns, the this state, Young (Sheik. Leonard prospects of this city having boxing bouts is very slim indeed.

The boxing card included some of the best boxers in this state, with Frankie Busch of Norwich, also scheduled to appear on the same card. Georgie Day, leading lightweight of who spends a good deal of his time in Norwich, Kid Lopez and Matt Baldwin of the Submarine Base have all signified their willingness to appear on the card for reasonable amounts. The difficulty arose when the boxers who were to appear opposite Day and Leonard asked fabulous sums to appear in the show. Leonard and Day both were to work on a percentage basis.

For the reasons outlined above, the proposed show which was intended to revive bouts here after a lapse of several years, had to be abandoned.

BALTIC'S VERSION OF PLAINFIELD-BALTIC GAME

Although Baltic was defeated Friday night at the Plainfield Community House, they were not outclassed. For the first five minutes of the game, play was fast and clean but after that, the referee showed himself incapable of handling a fast game. Although in the game but ten minutes Cauty of Baltic showed himself to be as clever a player as any on the floor.

Mermandin was the flashiest player on the floor and played a clean spectacular game, this can be said of no other player on the court. Benson the Manchester "whirlwind" playing forward the first half was unable to score on Ralph Robitaille and was moved to guard at the next half.

Baltic was handicapped in the early part of the game by the loss of their star running guard "Snowball" Swanson through an injury to his knee. Up to the time Swanson was taken out of the game Baltic led in scoring, when Cauty was sent foward and W. Robitaille relieved Swanson as guard. Plainfield managed to gain the lead they maintained to the end of the contest.

The second half of the game was a farce and could hardly be called basketball, and should have been played on a gridiron. It looked as though the referee, gradually loosing control of the game, decided the whistle was of practically no use so he wouldn't use it. Neither team played any rougher than the other, yet during the entire contest Baltic was allowed but four free-trys to Plainfield's fifteen. Baltic had as many injured players on the floor as Plainfield, there being three lame at one time. The series so far seems to bear out Baltic's statement that a neutral referee should be obtained for all the games.

Baltic players are a little discouraged after playing the strict game Ellison has referred at Baltic all season and having to play on outside courts with referees who apparently know very little about the game.

Plainfield had a statement in the Bulletin before the second game of the series between Plainfield and Taftville that: "they hoped Taftville would not have to beat the referee as well as the players."

According to the players, fans, and management of the Baltic five, no game has ever been played in the state of Connecticut that was worse refereed than Friday night's contest, night's contest.

Nevertheless, the best games of the series are still to be played, as Taftville and Baltic will play with local players only, this fact alone should prove a greater satisfaction to the fans.

AGGIE FRESHMEN HAVE GOOD PROSPECTS FOR BALL TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, March 16—Baseball practice for the Connecticut Aggie freshmen will get under way at Storrs in earnest this week, when Coach Alexander will have his squad report daily for workouts in Hawley Armory. Already two practices have been held, and with over thirty candidates reporting, the freshmen should be represented by a good team this season. A schedule of 7 games has been drawn up, 5 of which will be played on foreign diamonds, and 2 at Storrs. The team will be managed by Assistant Managers Brockett and Eyre.

Numbered among Alexander's squad are several former high school players of experience, and it is expected that they will prove valuable to the yearling outfit this spring. For pitchers, Alexander has Eddy, Brooks, Bergren, Heagrave, Randall and Adams. Eddy formerly played with the Simsbury High nine, Brooks played with Torrington High, and Bergren with East Hartford. It is too early to predict how these men will shape up for the Aggies, but it is hoped that this group will yield one or two men that can perform with a fair degree of consistency. For catchers, Alexander has Logan and Harrison, both of whom have had previous backstopping experience. Last year, while a student at Fordham, Logan did some of the catching for the New York nine.

The infield will see a merry scramble for positions, with 12 candidates working to make berths, Donahue, short stop for the Crosby High team last season will make all others step to win the berth, though Scanlon is certain to make a strong bid for the position. Hadley, basketball captain, and third sacker for the Wilby High team in past seasons will be out for that position on the Aggie team. First base candidates include Brown of Hartford, Burton, Cummings and Sweaton. Other infield candidates include Gulliver Horne, Emmerson, Bitgood and Sullivan.

Among the outfield candidates, Salad, former Hartford High regular, should have a good chance of making the grade. Heller of Willimantic is another can be counted upon. Others trying out for the outfield niclude Mimbi, Birch, Kelley, Murphy, Kennedy, Schaeffer, Down, Osterling, Whitney and Litsitz.

The freshmen schedule: April 29, Suffield at Suffield; May 2, Williston Academy at East Hampton, Mass.; May 9, Rhode Island State freshmen at Kingston, R. I.; May 23, Springfield freshmen at Storrs; May 27, Roxbury Prep at Cheshire; May 30, Norwich Free Academy at Norwich; June 3, Rhode Island State freshmen at Storrs.

TILDEN LOST DOUBLES MATCH TO RICHARDS

St. Augustine, Fla., March 15.—William T. Tilden, II, America's greatest tennis player, paired with Howard Voshell, north and south champion, today went down in defeat for the second time in successive days when the couple were beaten by Vincent Richards, second ranking player in the United States, and T. Harada, Japanese Davis cup star. The score was 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Tilden came through the Florida singles championship matches at Palm Beach with east, winning the title Saturday. He was defeated yesterday however, when paired with A. L. Weiner, in final round of the doubles by Howard Voshell and Manuel Alonso, Spanish Davis cup star.

In an exhibition singles, immediately after the winning pair emerged from the doubles, Richards defeated Harada by 6-2. The entire party left tonight for Jacksonville to participate in the southern championship matches next week at the Florida Country club.

MISS COLLETT TO DEFEND HER NORTH-SOUTH TITLE

Pinehurst, N. C., March 15.—Miss Glenna Collett, fresh from her victory in the Florida East Coast Women's championship golf tournament and present holder of the North and South title, will defend her title here in the North and South championship tournament March 25 announcements said here today.

The annual tests include the open and amateur championships for men and women and entries include some of the best known golfers in the country.

Walter Hagen, twice winner of the open event here, will seek the title again; officials of the tournament said, while reservations also have been made in the open for Fred Knight, of Philadelphia, Tommy Armour, Leo Diegel, and Bobby Cruickshank.

NEW RECORDS MADE IN BUFFALO TOURNEY

Buffalo, N. Y., March 15.—New leaders were heralded in the two-man event of the American Bowling Congress silver jubilee tournament this afternoon when Joe Fulton and Fred Mounts of Indianapolis scored a total of 1,345 pins, topping by a single pin, the 1,244 mark set high by the Fischer brothers of Chicago on Saturday.

Fulton and Mounts in establishing the new high score, also set a high team single for the two-man event, counting 493 for their first game, Fulton scoring 255 and Mounts 238. They totaled 377 and 375 in their next two games. Fulton was high for the set with 663 pins, Mounts scoring 593 for his three games.

NURMI IS SUFFERING FROM SEVERE COLD

New York, March 15.—Paavo Nurmi, peerless Finnish middle distance star and Olympic champion, has been suffering from a cold and his temperature was high on Saturday, it was learned today.

He will be in condition to meet Joie Ray and Lloyd Hahn in a mile race and Willie Ritola in a 500-metre event on Tuesday at the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden, it was said, but has requested that the long race be staged first, and the management of the meet has consented to the arrangement.

Hugo Quist, who managed Nurmi's American tour said today that he had a docter's certificate to the effect that the champion's illness would not permite him to appear in Hartford, Conn., last Saturday night.

RABBIT MARANVILLE BREAKS LEG IN PRACTICE GAME

CONN. AMATEUR ATHLETIC UNION TO ASK FOR SUSPENSION OF NURMI

Hartford, Conn., March 15.—The Connecticut Amateur Athletic Union will petition the National Amateur Athletic Union for the suspension of Paavo Nurmi following the Finnish runner's failure to appear at a track meet here in which he was to participate yesterday. This announcement was made today by Thomas Tracey of New Haven, secretary of the Connecticut body.

Although Hugo Quist, Nurmi's manager gave illness as the reason for the runner's nonappearance, the Connecticut A. A. U. is skeptical, in that there have been reports that Nurmi wantsd to save himself for his appearance in New York Tuesday and that he did not want to run in Hartford in the first place.

A social meeting of the Connecticut A. A. U. which is to be called this week is expected to develop discussion regarding the failure of the committee in charge of the meet to announce before the doors of the hall were opened that Nurmi was not coming, as Secretary Tracey said that committee was aware of the fact in time to notify the crowd.

WALTER CAMP, NOTED FOOTBALL AUTHORITY, DEAD

New York, March 15.—Walter Camp, former Yale player, coach and critic ate football, died yesterday while sleeping in his room in the Hotel Belmont of East Forty-second street. He was in his 66th year.

Coming to New York Friday afternoon to attend the conference of the intercollegiate football rules committee, of which he was secretary, the the founder of modern intercollegi- succumbed to angina pectoris, which overtook him in his bed after he had returned Friday night from the committee's first session at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The body was found by William W. Roper, Princeton's head gridiron coach, and W. S. Langford of Trinity, who were sent to the Belmont by the committee after Mr. Camp had failed to appear for Saturday morning's meeting. Getting no response to repeated knocking at the room door, they summoned hotel officials who forced an entrance. Mr. Camp, in his pajamas, was in bed, apparently asleep. An examination however, showed that he was dead.

When the time arrived for yesterday's session, which was to approve changes in the intercollegiate playing regulations, the secretary was not in his place. E. K. Hall of Dartmouth, chairman of the committee, waited several minutes in the belief that Mr. Camp would soon arrive, but when he did not come the meeting opened without him. At 10.30 o'clock Mr. Hall decided to investigate and, after a telephone call to the Belmont brought the report "Mr. Camp's room does not answer," Mr. Roper and Mr. Langford were sent in search of the secretary.

Getting no response from Mr. Camp's room, Roper and Langford hurried to the office of J. R. Clark, assistant manager of the hotel. Together the three men forced the door and found the body on the bed. Dr. J. R. A. Lang, house physician, was hastily summoned and said that Mr. Camp had died in his sleep of a heart attack. This was confirmed by Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, assistant medical examiner who viewed the body this afternoon previous to its removal to an undertaker's.

Mrs. Camp was notified by telephone at New Haven, but it was decided that she should not attempt the journey to New York. Her son, a New York business men, together with Roper and other members of the rules committee, took charge of the arrangements.

When the news reached the coaches in session at the Pennsylvania, the meeting was immediately adjourned and the members of the committee offered their services to assist in funeral preparations.

KEARNS BRINGS DEMPSEY'S ANSWER TO COMMISSION

New York, March 15.—Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey, arrived here today bearing a letter which will be in the hands of the New York state athletic commission tomorrow. Kearns explained that the champion will meet any man in the world under acceptable conditions.

The letter is in answer to a telegram sent to Dempsey more than a week ago carrying the news that Harry Wills and Tommy Gibbons had challenged him and requesting him to accept or decline within 24 hours. Later the commission admitted that under the law Dempsey had fifteen days in which to make his decision.

Kearns' letter, made public by him tonight, says that three years ago Chairman Muldoon of the commission ordered Dempsey to defend his title against Harry Wills, who had filed a challenge and posted a forfeit of $2,500.

"The champion might reasonably have questioned the authority of the chairman of the New York commission at that time," Kearns wrote, "but instead it is a matter of record that he accepted the challenge and signed articles. In other words the match was definitely made. He did this in all good faith and at an expenditure of both time and money.

Then Mr. Muldoon specifically forbade the meeting, between Dempsey and Wills in New York and informed me personally that it would not be permitted.

"None the lass Dempsey stands ready to meet either or both of these men or any other man in the world at any place in the world under conditions in which he has the recognized rights and perogatives of a champion."

"He declines, however to concede to the New York state athletic commission any authority in dictating matches, or any authority beyond that of any other government."

BULKELEY FINISHED THIRD IN HARTFORD RELAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, March 15—Bulkeley's relay team composed of Le Blanc, Olsen, Locke and Sheflott finished third in the four cornered relay race held at the Hartford Armory Saturday evening. Running on the same card with Willie Ritola, the Orange and Black quartet finished fifteen yards behind Springfield Technical High, the team which finished first. Sheflott, anchor man for the Bulkeley runners, finished a scant five yards behind the anchor man from Hartford Public High which was second. Bulkeley was third while Weaver High was the fourth to finish. The time of the winner was 2 minutes, 57 seconds.

Le Blanc the first runner for Bulkeley was but two feet behind the lead off man for Springfield, ultimate winner in the event. But Olsen and Locke the next two Bulkeley runners in the order named lost the most ground. The last minute change in the quartet of runners for Bulkeley in which Henkle was unable to run probably cost the Orange and Black team a possibility of finishing second in the meet. Sheflott running the anchor gained considerably on the two other leading runners, and left the last representative from Weaver far behind him.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Seattle won its fight for the services of Charles W. Johnson, rated the best semi-pro pitcher in California, President Williams of the Coast League, awarding the pitcher's contract to the Indians. Johnson was also claimed by Los Angeles.

John W. Norton, former owner of the St. Paul club, has set to rest rumors that he and Mike Cantillon, former Minneapolis owner, were dickering for the Vernon Coast League team. "If I wanted a ball club, I would have kept the one I had in St. Paul," said Norton.

Johnny Patton, former star athlete of the University of Tulsa, and later Arkansas University, has signed with Fort Smieth of the Western Association. He is a catcher. Fort Smith has also signed Lloyd Miller, a 21-year-old youth who pitched for the House of David team last year.

Ernie Landgraf and his Allentown club lost two of the first three games played on their trip to Porto Rico. In one of the games the home club shut out the invaders from the states, Landgraf was so highly impressed with the playing of Pitcher Davis that he signed him to a contract and will bring him back with the Allentown team when it returns home.

The board of directors of the Watereloo, Mississippi Valley League club for the ecoming year will be A. C. Willford, W. A. Read, Sam Frank, Frank Fish, Frank Lawson, M. H. Kelly, W. J. Atkinson and Harry Weister.

The St. Louis Browns have sent Infielder Sylvester Simon to Tulsa of the Western League. He will be expected to fill a vacancy at third base. Business Manager Friel of the Browns tried to turn him over to his brother, J. R. Friel, who acts in a similar capacity for Tulsa, last season, but couldn't get the necessary waivers. The two-year waiver rule makes it possible at this time. Simon is a good hitter and may develop into a star.

Italy-Austria Freight Rates.

An agreement between Italy and Austria with regard to the establishment of through freight rates for railway shipments between the two countries was signed on Jan. 22. Special facilities will be granted to shipments in transit across Italian territory from Venice to the Vorarlberg and Western Tyrol. Italy has been improving this line, and as a result of the through tariff that will now be applied it is hoped to attract Venetian traffic that has been passing over other trade routes.

Vaporized Quartz

A beautiful opalescence may sometimes be observed in the glass globes used to diffuse the light of the electric arc particularly after such globes have been in use for a long time. Close examination shows that the opalescent effect is due to the presence on the glass of minute spheres of silica, which have evidently been formed under the influence of the electric arc. The effect is in accordance with the experiments of various chemists, whose electric furnaces have produced some surprising results.

The essential feature of the furnace used in this relation is an electric arc of great intensity. When rock crystal, broken into fragments, is placed in the furnace it simply melts, like so much ice, and in a few minutes the liquid thus formed begins to boil. The vapor rising from the liquified crystal is condensed into a little bluish-white cloud, from which tiny spheres of silica, glimmering with opalescent hues, are deposited. These spheres, as already remarked, are similar to those found on arc-light globes. The latter, of course, are the product of a very slow and gradual process, while in the electric furnace the volatilization is effected with astonishing rapidity.

Finding Ambergris.

Tramping over Nantucket with his dog, Edward Davis skirted the shore Wedged between two rocks, washed now and then by the waves, was a sticky, waxy mass. Mr. Davis did not [illegible] the [illegible] hunting dog [illegible] and persisted in calling attention to it. Mr. Davis scraped the substance together and took it home. He later brought it to New Bedford and submitted it to Capt. Benjamin D. Cleveland, a retired whaling master, who pronounced it ambergris. If so, the hunting trip nets Mr. Davis $15,-192.

Naples' Sample Fair.

The fifth Naples Sample Fair is to be held in September, 1925, reports Vice Consul J. C. Dodd. The success of these fairs has been increasing, and the forthcoming exposition will be marked by added efforts and greater expenditures. The importance of Naples lies in the fact that it is the largest commercial centre in southern Italy and that the entire region may be most conveniently reached from the city.

Indian Duty on Iron and Steel.

The import duty on iron and steel designed for the reinforcing of concrete other than bar and rod or expanded metal (formerly dutiable at various rates) has been fixed at 10 per cent. ad valorem by a notification of the government of India dated December 23, 1924.

Bulgaria Petroleum Deposits.

Petroleum deposits have recently been discovered near the village of Kostenitz, Bulgaria, and the ministry of commerce has granted a credit of 50,000 leva for an investigation.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Nathan Hale

To drum-beat and heart-beat
A soldier marches by;
There is color in his cheek
There is courage in his eye,
Yet to drum-beat and heart-beat
In a moment he must die.

By starlight and moonlight,
He seeks the Briton's camp;
He hears the rustling flag,
And the armed sentry's tramp;
And the starlight and moonlight
His silent wanderings lamp.

With slow tread and still tread,
He scans the tented line;
And he counts the battery guns
By the gaunt and shadowy pine;
And his slow tread and still tread
Gives no warning sign.

The dark wave, the plumed wave,
It meets his eager glance;
And it sparkles 'neath the stars,
Like the glimmer of a lance—
A dark wave, a plumed wave,
On an emerald expanse.

A sharp clang, a steel clang,
And terror in the sound!
For the sentry, falcon-eyed,
In the camp a spy hath found;
With a sharp clang, a steel clang,
The patriot is bound.

With calm brow, and steady brow,
He listens to his doom;
In his look there is no fear,
Nor a shadow-trace of gloom;
But with calm brow, and steady brow,
He robes him for his tomb.

In the long night the still night,
He kneels upon the sod;
And the brutal guards withhold
E'en the solemn word of God!
In the long night, the still night,
He walks where Christ hath trod.

'Neath the blue morn, the sunny morn,
He dies upon the tree;
And he mourns that he can lose
But one life for Liberty;
And in the blue morn, the sunny morn,
His spent wings are free.

But his last words, his message words,
They burn, lest friendly eye
Should read how proud and calm
A patriot could die,
With his last words, his dying words,
A soldier's battle-cry.

From the Fame-leaf and Angel-leaf,
From monument and urn,
The sad of earth, the glad of Heaven,
His tragic fate shall learn;
And on Fame-leaf and Angel-leaf
The name of Hale shall burn.

—Francis Miles Finch.

The Skylark Caged.

Beat little breast, against the wires
Strive little wings and misted eyes,
Which once wild gleam of memory fires,
Beseeching still the unfettered skies
Whither at dewy dawn you sprang,
Quivering with joy from this dark earth, and sang.

Beat little breast, still beat, still beat,
Strive misted eyes and tremulous wings,
Swell little throat, your Sweet! Sweet! Sweet!
Through which such deathless memory rings—
Better to break your heart and die
Than like your gaolers to forget your sky

—Alfred Noyes in Our Dumb Animals.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Last week we talked about certain rules governing the displaying of the American flag. There are some things however that were not covered in the rules given. For instance, not all of us know that the flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset. It should be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously. The flag should be displayed on all national and state holidays and on historic and special occasions. However, as it is the emblem of our country it ought to fly from every flagpole, every day during the year, weather permitting. At all forts and naval stations and at all army camps the flag is hoisted at sunrise and lowered at sunset every day.

Another thing to remember is when the flag is carried in a parade or procession with another flag or flags the flag of the United States should be on the marching right, that is, the flag's own right, or when there is a line of of other flags the flag of United States should be in front of the center of that line. When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States should be on the right, that is the flag's own right and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

When the flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When the flag is in such a condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display it should not be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the national colors, but should be destroyed as a whole, preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem that represents our own glorious country.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

The Teeth

Dear Uncle Jed: A person has two sets of teeth, the first and the second teeth. There are twenty first and twenty two second teeth. There are four kinds of teeth. The eight front wedge shaped ones are called incisors. There are twenty double back teeth called bicuspids and molars.

A tooth is divided into four parts. The outer part, which one can see, is enamel. Under the enamel is a layer of dentine which is softer than the hard white enamel. In the middle of the tooth is the pulp cavity containing the nerves and blood. The outside of the root is called the root cement. If the enamel becomes decayed the dentine decays rapidly and if not properly filled the dental cavity is reached. Then the tooth aches for the nerve is exposed.

The incisors and canines are used to bite off food and the molars and bicuspids are used to grind the mouthful of food into small particles.

One should take care of the teeth properly, so they will not decay. They also look better, food will taste better, one will not suffer with tooth ache, and one will be healthier. To take care of the teeth one should do the following, go to the dentist twice a year; second, brush the teeth after each meal because the heat and moisture cause decay and make bacteria grow fast; third, don't bit hard things; fourth, don't pick the teeth with a pin; fifth, brush the teeth up and down; sixth, eath things that will make the teeth strong.

A Little Boy Named Peter

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide Awakes; I am going to tell you about a little boy named Peter. He lived in the country. One night he was very hungry. Two or three times he woke up saying, "O dear, I am so hungry." At last his father heard him and said, "Peter will you go and get me a piece of cake?" Peter could not refuse his father, so he went down stairs and got him a piece of cake and took it to him. "Now eat it for I heard you say you were hungry."

I have four pets two dogs and two cats. I live on a big farm and go to school every day. I am in the fourth grade.

The Golden Eggs

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you a story about the golden eggs. Once upon a time, there was a man who had a golden goose. But this goose was not at all like some of your grandfather's geese. This goose was very handsome and every day she laid a big golden egg. Then the man sold the eggs at market. When he saved money he was slowly getting rich. One day he said to himself, I wish I were rich now. Every day my goose lays a golden egg. He said, she must have a mass of gold inside her. If she hasn't how can she lay golden eggs? He said, if I could have all the gold at once I should be very rich. So the man killed his goose and tried to find some gold.

Alas! There was no gold to be found. This goose was like other geese. But when he killed her he didn't have any more eggs to sell at market. The foolish man had lost the good that he had, without getting the riches which he wished.

A Narrow Escape

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide Awakes and hope you will find it interesting. It was a dull day in July except for the machines going to and fro and all at once the fire engines were heard dashing up the street. The road was clear but a little child was so frightened and dazed he could not move. The engine was approching and "Bob the Fire Dog" jumped from the front seat and dragged the child to one side. He was called the Hero of the Day. This is a true story.

Feeding the Birds

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you and I hope you will like it. I want to tell you about the birds near my house and how I feed them in the winter.

Every morning before I go to school I throw out a lot of bread crumbs and the sparrows all come to the ground to get them, but the bluejays come and frighten the small birds away. Then I throw out some large pieces of bread and the blue jays pick them up and fly away to eat them. I also feed scratch feed to the starlings and sparrows. How they chirp and chatter while feeding. I love to have the birds around in winter and so I take good care of them and feed them every day.

What My Rabbit Did

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my radishes and lettuce. I planted them in the middle of February in a box in the house and they came up good and were looking fine. One cold night I took them into the sitting room and put them on the floor under a stand. I have a white rabbit. It's name is Snowball. I went out in the kitchen and took it into the sitting room with us. First thing I knew my mother told me that Snowball was into the radishes and had dug out some of the dirt on the floor.

Health

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you about health. Health is one of the things people must help as much as possible. No matter what your work is, you cannot do your best if not well. Health is the basis of all happiness.

If you do not feel well go to the doctor and see what the trouble is and he will give you some kind of medicine to cure it. Some troubles cannot be easily cured such as deafness and tuberculosis. Many people do not know they are sick and go to work day after day. Some people think they work too hard and that what causes the trouble, and they carry on their task. Later they become ill and die. If people obey these rules as follow they would not be any trouble.

Don't wait until everything else has failed.

Take medicine daily if told to.

See the doctor if not well. When these rules are observed many people will have good health and much pleasure.

How I Spend my Vacation

Dear Uncle Jed: As it is a rainy day today, said I have nothing to do I am going to write a story to you. Usually every summer vacation I stay at home. I can tell you that we have lots of fun too. I live on a large farm where there is lots of room to play. Near our house there is a a large lake called Amas lake. In summer I have loads of fun bathing and rowing. I like it best on the hot days. Then I have real good times swimming. One time last summer my cousins, sisters, and I had a spendid time. We took our lunch and went down to the lake. First we batched and then we had our lunch. I tried to learn to swim but found it too difficult.

I also have much fun going hayriding. My dad takes me along when he goes after some hay. He loads the wagon top full. Some times I fall down, but I never mind it.

I have so many things to do and play that I am never tired. I wish some of the Wide Awakes could come and share the fun.

The Wounded Rabbit

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a little wild rabbit. One day I went walking with my father in the woods. We saw a little rabbit. My father went over and picked it up. To our great surprise he had a broken hind leg. We took him home and bandaged his leg. We put him in the shed and fed him carrots and cabbage for a few days until he was able to walk on it. Then we let him loose in go home to his burrow. He was glad to get his leg fixed

The Story of Coal

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. I will tell you about coal. Coal has been made from trees and grass that have decayed during many centuries.

The hard coal is found in high mountains because the pressure is so heavy that it presses down on it and that's what makes it hard.

The soft coal is found in low mountains and not in high mounjains where the hard coal is found. There isn't as much pressure and that's why it is soft.

The miners dig it out with drills, shovels, etc. They each have a horse that pulls a little car that hold a ton or more. After it is taken out it is passed through rollers and broken to pieces. It is then dumped into cars and sold to dealers. From the cars it is dumped into bins where we buy it.

The Banana

Dear Uncle Jed: Of course you all know what the banana is, because you have eaten more or less of the fruit. Perhaps you have had your feet slide out from under you on the sidewalk, when you stepped upon some peel that had been carelessly thrown there.

The banana is not grown to any extent in this country, except in Florida. Most of the fruit sold here comes from the West Indies and the Central American countries.

The fruit is very nutritious, and is now sold in almost every town in the United States. As the fruit has to be transported a long distance, it is harvested before it is fully ripe. It is not so delicate as when it is permitted to ripen on the plant.

The leaves of the banana grow from 12 to 18 inches in width, and the intire plant frequently reaches a height of ten or twelve feet. The plant is propagated from suckers, that spring up from the roots, and not from seed. These suckers are set out in trenches about three feet wide and 18 or 20 inches deep. The plants are set about six feet apart each way. The plants will bear fruit in from nine to 19 months from the time they are set.

The banana is very productive, and according to the estimate made by an investigator, a piece of land will grow 133 times as much nutriment in bananas, as would be found in wheat grown upon the same land. Or the land that will bear sufficient for one man, would produce enough bananas for food for twenty-five men. The fruit grows upon the top of the stalk, and when reaching maturity is borne down by its weight.

Comrade

Dear Uncle Jed: This is a true story about my pet dog I once had, but no longer can be seen.

About a year ago I had a shepherd dog which I dearly loved, and had named Comrade. He was black with four brown feet, a collar of brown around his neck, and brown eyes, which showed kindness, and faithfulness in them.

Comrade was always kind and I enjoyed playing with him. We used to play see-saw together, play ball, jump a board, that was fixed on a box, and go into the woods for a walk.

On Easter Sunday I saw Comrade running home through the fields, and I knew there must be something wrong. He went to the back door, pushed it open, and put his head in. He layed down for a few minutes and then got up and went to the side of the house, where I gave him some milk.

After half an hour of suffering he rolled off of the bank, and hurt his back. We all knew he was poisoned with strychnine, for it paralyzed him. He soon died and I have mourned for Comrade more than once, for he was my very best friend.

An Icy Bath

Dear Uncle Jed: One late afternoon last December my brother, a friend and myself were skating on Beach pond. We were playing various ice games and had a jolly time.

Finally in the midst of our fun we noticed some friends waving their hands at us. We decided to race to the shore. My brother and friend making a bee line left me behind as my skate had fallen. Having fixed my skate I started on again but not the way they had gone. After skating a few rods. I was going at a great rate of speed and before I could check myself I felt the ice buckle beneath me. In another moment I was splashing in the icy waters to keep myself afloat and calling for help.

My brother heard my calls and hurried to my assistance. He had a hockey stick and thrust it out to me for himself if what Sammy Jay had said was true.

At last Black and Sammy flew away Johnny waited only until he was sure they were so far away that they would not see him. Then he came out of that hole. He had been hungry before he overheard Blacky and Sammy talking. But now he hadn't any appetite. He had quite forgotten that he hadn't had any breakfast. It was a long way across the Green Meadows up to the Old Orchard. Johnny repeated to himself that he wasn't going up there. Just the same, he headed in that direction and he kept right on going. He didn't stop to rest.

"Handsome is he!" he muttered. "Big and handsome, is he! Well, if ever I meet him he went be so handsome after I'm through with him." Of course, Johnny was talking about the strange Chuck up in the Old Orchard.

The nearer he got to the Old Orchard the angrier he became. Johnny Chuck was jealous and growing more and more jealous every minute. His eyes fairly glared with jealousy. He didn't give possible danger a thought. Not once did he sit up to look about, as it his habit. The result was that he came face to face with Reddy Fox. Even then he didn't stop. He drew back his lips and showed all his teeth, and he kept right on. Reddy stepped aside. Reddy wasn't particularly hungry. He had already had a good breakfast. He knew by Johnny's looks that Johnny was fighting mad, and Reddy had no desire to feel those sharp teeth that Johnny was showing.

"Phew!" exclaimed Reddy, as he watched Johnny out of sight. Johnny certainly is in a bad temper this morning. He looks as if he were perfectly willing to fight any one. I wonder what ails him." He started to follow Johnny, but thought better of it. He didn't care to be seen too near Farmer Browns in bread daylight.

Meanwhile Johnny Chuck kept on. Every once in a while he ground his teeth. "Big, is he! Handsome, is he!" he kept muttering. And so at last he reached the old stone wall on the edge of the Old Orchard.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Jealous Johnny Chuck

For jealousy there's slight excuse,
Though sometimes it may be of use.

Polly Chuck.

It seemed to Johnny Chuck that Blacky the Crow and Sammy Jay were going to spend the whole morning in that tree under which he was hiding in an old hole in the ground. He didn't want them to know that he was there. He didn't want them to know that he had overheard what they had been saying. Not for anything in all the Great World would he have had them know that he was jealous. But he was jealous. He tried to tell himself that he wasn't, but he was.

"Phew!" exclaimed Reddy, as he watched Johnny out of sight

"I don't care if there is a strange Chuck up in the Old Orchard. I don't know how big or how handsome he is. I don't care how friendly he and Polly Chuck may me," he muttered to himself.

But he did care. He cared more every minute. That was why he was so impatient for Blacky the Crow and Sammy Jay to fly away. He was in a hurry to start for the Old Orchard. He kept saying over and over to himself that he wasnt going up there. But right down in his heart he knew that he was. He knew that he was going up there as fast as his short legs could take him. He wanted to see when a few feet away. As soon as I had hold of it he skated away pulling me with him. As soon as I was safe on land I took off my skates and ran home.

The Connecticut Canal

Dear Uncle Jed: We have been studying in school a very interesting story. May I tell it to the Wide Awake boys and girls? It is a Connecticut story that begins in the state of New York.

Many years ago the people of the state of New York had a governor whose name was DeWitt Clinton. He was a good man and wished to do something to benefit the people of New York. Governor Clinton believed it would be a splendid thing to dig a canal from Buffalo to Albany connecting Lake Erie with the Hudson river.

People began to jeer at Governor Clinton and make fun of him as they always do when a man tries to do some new thing. But after a long time Mr. Clinton got the New York legislature to provide some money and the canal was begun. After eight years of hard work it was finished.

There was no more jeering! It had been costing one hundred dollars a ton to move freight from Buffalo to Albany in wagons. Now it could be done for ten. The farmers of Ohio found an easy market for their wheat and an easy way to get tools from New York. New York City grew by leaps and bounds and soon became the largest city in America as it has been ever since.

Now the people of Connecticut were watching the work of the Erie canal and when they saw what a success it was they wanted a canal too. So the people of Connecticut began to dig a canal across Connecticut. It was to begin at New Haven to meet the Connecticut river at Northampton passing through the towns of Hamden, Cheshire, Southington, Plainville, Farmington, Avon, Simsbury and Granby. The Connecticut canal was never finished. It was given up when our people learned how to build a railroad. But its ditch may still be seen in these towns.

The Water Jar

Dear Uncle Jed: One day Weha and her mother went for clay to make a new water jar. They climbed the steep mountain till they came to a place where good clay was found. The mother hoed the hard ground till she had a great lump of clay. The clay was pound into powder and mixed with broken pieces of jar. Then she kneaded it so it would not stick to her fingers.

First, a shallow bowl was made, it was for the bottom of the jar. Then she made strips of clay long enough to go around the bowl. Every strip was pressed and joined by quick fingers. How fast the jar grew! It was growing larger and larger. Weha watched her mother eagerly.

When the big jar was finished it was put in the sun to dry. The next day it was painted and put in the oven to bake. Weha will not forget the day when the beautiful jar was taken from the oven.

The Dark Day

Dear Uncle Jed: Listen, and I will tell you of the famous dark day in Connecticut. It was in the month of May, more than a hundred years ago. The sun rose bright and fair, and the morning was without a cloud. The air was still. There was not a breath of wind to stir the young leaves on the trees. Then, about the middle of the day it began to grow dark. The sun was hidden. A black cloud seemed to cover the earth. The birds flew to their nests. The chickens went to roost. The cows came home from the pasture and stood at the gate. It grew so dark that the people could not see their way along the streets.

Boy's Home is Beauty

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter I have written to you. I will not write much, but I must tell you about my puppy. She is four month's old. My father bought it Christmas for my sister and I. She is a very smart dog. She plays with us and I have taught her to roll over and to go and bring a rubber ball. Her name is Beauty. I am nine years old and in the third grade. I hope to see my letter in print.

My Little Brother

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my baby brother Martin. He is four months old. I think he is very pretty because he has nice big black eyes, and a round little face. He likes to take a teething ring in his mouth. I like to rock him to sleep because he goes right to sleep when I rock him.

One time baby fell out of his little bed. He didn't hurt himself, because he fell on a pillow. Wasn't that lucky Uncle Jed?

Baby brother was born on Armistice day, and mamma says we will take him to the parade on his birthday.

I wish all the Wide Awakes could see my baby brother.

My Vacation

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you about my vacation. I went to Ekonk Hill and stayed there a week. When I came home I was glad to see my mother.

Going After Nuts

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write you a story about going after nuts. When I went after nuts last fall I went with my father in a truck We took Leo and his father. We'd go way up in the country and have a nice time picking them. Sometimes we would go farther up. Leo would climb a tree and shake it. We'd come back and bring Leo's nuts to his house and mine to my house.

Facts About South America

Dear Uncle Jed: I am in the fifth grade. We recently studied about South America. There are three states in South America that are called the "A. B. C." states. They are Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

Three of the most important cities are Rio Janeiro, Valparaiso, and Buenos Aires. Also Para and Bahia are important cities.

Guiana is a country of South America. It is divided into three parts. One third belongs to the British, another to the French, and the other to the Dutch.

The big rivers of South America are Plata river, Amazon river, and the Orinoco river.

The three islands near South America are Trinidad island, Falkland island, and the one at the southern end of south America is Tierra Del Fuego.

I hope all the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story.

Our Girl Scout Club

Dear Uncle Jed: I received the book entitled Witch Winnie in Venice, and find it to be very interesting, and wish to thank you very much for it.

As we are organizing a girl scout club up here, I thought you would all like to hear about it. Our teacher Miss Goodwin, is in charge of it and the officers are already elected.

Eight girls have joined and others are expected to soon. We have recently taken our tenderfoot test and expect to be organized by a scout leader in Hartford. We all seem to like the girl scouts very much, and we all have very good times together.

During the summer vacation we are planning to go on hikes, have picnics, and also go out camping. The scouts are going to have uniforms. The money for which we must earn ourselves.

We also are given badges for passing tests and by doing acts of kindness, etc. Besides having very good times together the girl scouts is a very useful and active organization.

Mr. Reed, principal of Wheeler school, North Stonington was a caller here Tuesday.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—dizzy headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

New York, March 16.—With the exception of the foreign exchanges, which displayed a firm tone, reactionary tendencies prevailed in all the principal securities and commodities markets this week. A sharp break in wheat prices, which carried May futures nearly 40 cents a bushel below the high mark established two months ago, overshadowed all other developments and drew attention to the speculative excesses that have been taking place in the grain markets since last fall.

The break in wheat also contributed to the decline in the stock market because of the fact that many speculators, who trade in both markets, found it necessary to liquidate stocks in order to protect their positions in grain. The approach of tax day, the growing uneasiness over the St. Paul situation and the high total of bankers' loans, and inability of professional operators for the rise to attract much of a public following also were factors in the reactionary trend of securities prices. Rallying tendencies were in evidence, however, when the week closed.

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL TO HOLD "VERMONT NIGHT"

Tuesday evening, March 17, promises to be an eventful occasion for the members of White Cross council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus, as a group of members has decided to provide an entertainment at the Knights of Columbus home on Broadway on that night, that will be unique as well as entertaining.

It will be known as "Verment Night" and it has been arranged that several of the members who have been prominent in the affairs of the council and who are natives of Vermont, will be the hosts of the members of the council on next Tuesday night and furnish an entertainment that will show conclusively that not only can the "Green Mountain State" use men of presidential calibre but that it likewise numbers amongst its native sons, men, who in whatever community their migrations may call them they are noted for their hospitality.

While there will be a number of features of an entertaining nature the one thing on the programme that will be the most satisfying will be a supper provided by the "Vermonters," prepared and served in true Vermont style, even to including on the menu the maple syrup for which that section is noted and which has especially been secured for the occasion.

The group of Vermont men who will be the hosts of the members of the council on next Tuesday night includes, John P. Lyston, William W. Carrigan, Patrick H. Mumford and Francis T. Diggins. The affair will be informal and as every member of the council will be welcome, it is expected that there will be a large turnout of the membership of the council to accept the hospitality and enjoy the entertainment which will be provided by these self-styled "Vermonters."

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY PLANS FOR ANNUAL MEETING

The last month seemed rather an uneventful one in the annals of the Backus Hospital Auxiliary, but underneath a quiet exterior, there has been plenty of steady, intensive planning among the various committees.

During the latter part of March, or early in April, the annual meeting will be called, at which a general resume of the women's work will be presented. An out-of-town speaker of note will be the address of the evening, and this is certain to be an interesting event, which, it is hoped, will be largely attended by the local public, and all friends of the hospital.

Growing interest is manifested in the hospital auxiliary assembly which is scheduled for the Tuesday after Easter, April 14 to take place at the Armory.

The donation committee reports during the month, jelly, fruit and grape juice have been received from the ladies of Franklin. On Valentine day eighteen loaves of cake were furnished by the following ladies of the Universalist church: Mrs. C. A. Gager, Mrs. Walter Bussey, Mrs. Nellie Bailey, Mrs. Theodore Pike, Mrs. Charles Parsons, Mrs. David Cushman, Mrs. Ashley T. Boon, Mrs. William Young, Mrs. Peter Wilson, Mrs. William Stevens, Mrs. John Bell, Mrs. George Fillmore, Mrs. Bert Peck, Mrs. Albert Comstock, Mrs. Joseph McKenzie, Mrs. Charles Barnes, Mrs. Sumner Armstrong, Mrs. Arthur Crowell.

On Washington's birthday, the ladies of the German Lutheran church contributed twelve cakes.

On Marsh 17th Saint Patrick's day the patients are to be regaled again with cake and ice cream, furnished respectively by Division 54 of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H., and the Knights of Columbus.

The flower committee is already planning to make the wards attractive with seasonable plants for Easter Sunday.

The religious services have been in charge of the German Lutheran church, February 22; the A. M. E. Zion church, March 1; the First Congregational church, March 8 and 15. A change is reported in the committee of the Mt. Calvary church, which now consists of Mrs. Frances Evans, chairmen, Mrs. Grace Vera, Mrs. Eudora Randall.

Further donations have been received from the Norwich Branch of the Needlework Guild, Trinity Episcopal church, Mrs. Arthur Crowell, Mrs. William G. Park, Epworth League Oneco, Connecticut Council Catholic Women, Mrs. Goodenough, Women Universalist church, visiting committee German Luthran church, Mrs. E. Earhart, Mrs. Paul Calande, Mrs. P. G. Rice, the Elks, Mrs. Allan Latham, Mrs. R. D. Washburn, Madame Helen Stanley, Mrs. H. E. Higgins, Mrs. J. J. Donohue, Mrs. Manville. Over 300 donations have been received during the year.

Loyal circle of the King's Daughters have contributed to the good cause by doing some practical sewing and hemming of necessary hospital linen, which is gratefully acknowledged at this time.

The nurses' recreation committee reports a delightful musical treat, through the kindness of Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, of course tickets for the sacred concerts at the Palace theatre on three consecutive Sundays this month. Each nurse was given a ticket, and as many as possible will attend.

The library at the nurses' home has been enlarged by the gift of eight handsomely bound volumes of Munsey's magazines, given by Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, which will be much appreciated and enjoyed.

Gifts of current magazines, and those of the older date, are always acceptable for use of the patients. The picture supplements of the Sunday papers invariably find a ready welcome, and many of the foreign patients who have not yet mastered English sufficiently well to read, enjoy them especially. There is always room for more reading matter, both for nurses and patients, and an increasing supply is solicited by the litrature committe.

LEGAL NOTICE
SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

The inhabitants of the town of Plainfield, who are legal voters in said town are hereby warned, to meet at the town house in said Plainfield on Saturday, March 21, 1925, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon for the following purposes, viz:

1. To lay a tax on the assessment list of 1924 for the purpose of defraying the expenses of highways, public schools, bridges, paupers, present indebtedness and other necessary expenses of said town for the ensuing year.

2. To see if the town will vote to authorize and empower the selectmen of said town to sell and convey a certain tract of land (formerly used as a gravel pit) situated on the easterly side of the state highway leading from Central Village to Wauregan, in said town, and fully bounded and described in a deed from Walter Palmer to said town, recorded in Vol 33, page 476 of the land records of said town of Plainfield.

HENRY J. BESSETTE,
LOUIS GENDRON,
PETER L CHAROT,
Selectmen

Dated at Plainfield, this 14th day of March, 1925.

CANTERBURY TAX NOTICE

Notice is hereby given to all persons liable to pay taxes in the Town of Canterbury on the Grand List of 1924 that I have a rate bill with warrant attached for the collection of thirty (30) mills on the dollar; also for the collection of a personal tax of $2 on all persons from the age of 21 to 60 years.

Said taxes become due March 17, 1925. I will meet the taxpayers as follows:

At the Town Clerk's Office, Tuesday, March 17, 1 to 3 p. m.; Saturday, March 21, 1 to 3 p. m.; also Saturday, April 26, 1 to 3 p. m.

SEEK LARGER QUARTERS FOR NORWICH MUSEUM

Now that the summer is approaching, interest is increasing in the collection of ancient and historic articles housed in the old silversmith shop on the Norwich Town Green, both among the members of Faith Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R. under whose charge the museum is, and also among residents of the town who appreciate its value and importance from a historical point of view. This small building, loaned by the Children's Home committee of the United Workers, is becoming so crowded with articles of interest, that it is impossible to display them in any suitable manner.

A movement is on foot to secure larger and more adequate quarters. The Metropolitan Museum of New York has recently completed a new section especially designed for the reception of articles of the Colonial period. The Morgan Art Gallery in Hartford arranges for special displays of this kind. Historic houses throughout the country are being used as homes for such collections. There are numerous examples of these all through Connecticut and New England. New London, has the Shaw mansion filled to overflowing. All of these instances go to show how much hold such displays have taken on the public. There should be some place, either old or new for housing and displaying relics of Old Norwich and its citizens. That a collection which would be of intense interest and value could be made, if a suitable place could be obtained for it, is without question and the future residents of Norwich would not find it necessary to go out of town to see that which had since been the property of its own citizens.

The project is in the hands of Faith Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R., and is heartily endorsed by the Sons of the American Revolution.

BILL WOULD INCORPORATE THAMES POWER COMPANY

At Hartford Tuesday there will come up for hearing before the committee on incorporations, a bill to incorporate The Thames Power Company. The company is seeking permission to sell gas and electricity in Norwich and towns surrounding Norwich. The following is the text of the bill:

GREENEVILLE

Putnam, March 16—Mrs. George Perry, 70, died at the Day Kimball hospital here Saturday afternoon after a long illness. She has been a patient at the hospital for two weeks preceding her death. She is survived by her husband and three children, Mrs. Charles Jennings of Providence and George H. and James of this city.

Mrs. Perry was born in Greeneville, Conn., in 1853, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Morse. Her marriage with Mr. Perry took place in 1872 and with the exception of three years spent in Danielson they have lived in Putnam since that date.

TAFTVILLE

Taftville Division, A. O. H., held its regular monthly meeting Sunday afternoon with a large attendance, in their rooms in Parish hall.

Watson Wermelle of the Ponemah house spent the week end in Attleboro, Mass.

Sunday being Camp Fire Sunday, the members of Ocowasin Camp and Aswaklya Camp attended the morning service of the Taftville Congregational Church in a body. The flowers at the church were given by the members of both camps. In the evening there was the usual meeting of the Young Peoples Christian Endeavor Society in the vestry of the church.

While marbles have been the principal sport, not only of the youngsters but of many of the adults of the village, for the past few weeks, it is gradually giving way to top spinning.

William Fepin has resigned his position with the weaving department of the Ponemah Company.

Mr and Mrs. Joseph Lemire are moving to a house on North A St.

CHRIST CHURCH FILLED TO HEAR BISHOP BREWSTER AT UNION SERVICE

Christ Episcopal church was taxed to its limit Sunday evening by the congregation attending the service to hear the sermon by Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster, of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut, one of the few times, Bishop Brewster has preached in recent years. The service was a united one, members of all the Protestant churches of the city attending, and was held under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association and the Norwich Minister's union.

Bishop Brewster selected for his subject, Courage of Faith, and during his sermon, laid particular emphasis on the demands Christ had always made, that His followers be courageous, ready to do daring things at great risks, having the faith that cannot accept defeat.

In beginning the service Bishop Brewster expressed his sympathy in the loss of Judge Gardiner Greene, senior warden of the church, and also expressed a desire that the pastorate of Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong might meet with success, introducing the speaker of the evening Rev. Mr. Budlong first extended the welcome of Christ church and said that he deemed it a great privilege to welcome the united congregation to his new parish, and expressed a desire that such cordial relations might always exist.

Before speaking upon his subject for the evening, Bishop Brewster spoke on the World Conference and how it was bringing people together. In such a conference, he said, we seek to understand each other, learning that we agree on more things than are fundamental than we differ on trivial things. It is good for us to worship together he said, and we should come nearer to each other as we come nearer to Him, for in Him we have represented the center of the circle toward which we are all working. Spiritual unity should ever become visible.

In his sermon for the evening Bishop Brewster mentioned that our age is characterized by restlessness. This is not strange, he said, for we have suffered from a great concussion and there is a reaction from war, bringing perplexities and making people ask hard questions and seeking a solution to the problems which face us.

Now, to the people of this temper of mind, comes the special appeal of Christianity. Christianity calls for daring adventurers. Remember the answer of Christ to the wealthy young man, first, love thy neighbor as thyself; second, dispose of what thou hast and follow me. Christ asked for an adventure, He asked any man to give up much to follow him. The Lord puts dauntless daring into the hearts of men when they are tried by fear. He asks of them some hard things, more dangerous than that which caused them to be afraid.

Life is essentially a romance, said Bishop Brewster, it is a romance of opportunities, but for opportunity we must take risks. It has been written that manhood is eager for danger, willing to take risks when opportunity faces them. The meaning of Christian faith is the courage that dares.

The Lord put faith against cowardice. Faith is courage in face of mystery. Turn your mind in any direction you wish and not far along you will face mystery. Living is not limited to the things we understand for he ventures farthest who knows not where he is going. Life is more than belief in the possible. That is only the easy way, the courageous are those who tackle what is believed impossible, and do it. Faith goes into the deep, it asks of us to believe that which we cannot see and cannot prove. Faith demands courage of us. Truth is so big that error begins when one denies something he cannot see. Christian Science is right in many things. It is right when it teaches the power of mind over matter and the power of the spirit to exercise control over the body. The error of its teachings comes in its denials, when it denies the reality of things. Errors creep in when one denies the fact of something that he cannot see.

Christianity appeals to youth. They have the kindling ardor the desire to do something worthy. The call of Christianity is to all of you. Christian faith means to follow into great adventures under the cross which teaches you to forget your limitations and remember your possibilities. Christianity demands of us all a faithfulness, a steadfastness and a willingness to fight under its banner, not caring what the dangers may be. Faith demands courage, that courage which is never beaten by any defeat, but stands ready to fight on no matter what is ahead. It means having the faith in faith. And now, as we are under the cross in this Lenten season, as we come into its shadow, it becomes a banner asking loyalty at any cost and a spirit and a faith which will never give in. It is courage of faith that Christianity demands of all who follow beneath its banner and the cross.

FINDS WAY TO MAKE MUNICIPAL PLANT PAY TAXES

Two chief reasons for making a success of its municipally owned and operated water and electricity plants are given by the Mayor of South River, N. J., in a letter in answer to an inquiry from Charles F. Wells of this city. Mr. Wells was moved to write to the New Jersey mayor when he saw a newspaper dispatch that the 10,000 residents of South River would have no local taxes to pay this year, due to the success of the municipally owned plants.

Mayor William Alligair writes that this happy result is probably due to two important reasons, viz: keeping politics out of the management and installing a Diesel engineering plant instead of a steam turbine.

The New Jersey Mayor's letter follows:

South River, N. J.,
Jan. 23, 1925.

Dear Mr. Wells:

Concerning the success of South River in operating its own municipal plants, I can advise that this is probably due to two important reasons.

In the first place, it has long been recognized that it is quite impossible to operate anything successfully under political administration, as it is in the ordinary course of business.

The utility companies use this as propaganda to advise municipalities to abandon the idea of operating utilities themselves and advocating the purchase of power from private corporations.

Fifteen years ago South River conceived the idea of operating municipal plants and it was recognized at that time that in order to make this a successful affair, politics would have to be eliminated in some way. The legislature of the state of New Jersey was thereupon asked to enact a law allowing boroughs to create non-partisan boards of public works, which organization could operate and carry on public utilities municipally owned. Several of the boroughs in New Jersey availed themselves of this act and since it was passed especially for the benefit of the borough of South River, a board of public works was immediately created.

The municipal plant in South River has been a consistent moneymaker since the day it was started. The earnings have raised from a few hundred dollars a year to eighty-five thousand dollars per year, net.

The board of public works is an appointive one, usually consisting of citizens who are interested in seeing the community progress, and its constitution here has been non-partisan. As a result there have been very little changes in the personnel.

This board has all the powers of the municipal governing body with the exception that it cannot bond the town. They engage a superintendent whose duty it is to manage the operating and business end of the business.

The rate per kilowatt hour charged for electricity in South River to retail power users and for house lighting is nine cents, which compares very favorably with the rates existing throughout the country. As a matter-of-fact, it is the same rate as is charged by the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, one of the largest corporations of its kind in the United States, and one of our competitors.

The board of public works was fortunate to be able to secure the services of E. B. VanNess, who is a young man with technical training, and who has had considerable experience in handling men, and operating plants of the character that we have. He is unhampered in his work and hires and fires at will, maintains a department for the collection of money; the board approves all expenditures, and the balance of the cash on hand is turned over to the city treasurer monthly.

The engineers at the power house are the same men who have been with the department for several years, so that you can see that they must be reliable men.

There is one other point to this proposition, which I believe is important, and that is the type of equipment.

About three years ago we discarded a steam turbine proposition for the purpose of installing a modern Fulton Diesel engineering plant. Upon investigation we found that steam plants under 5,000 horse power could not operate nearly as cheap as the Diesel plant. We found statistics which showed us conclusively that the Diesel engine is the most economical type of prime mover yet developed, and is the coming type of engine in this country since fuel oil is so plentiful. These engines have been in use in New York for many years and have proved their reliability.

Rear Admiral Benson reported to the war department that it would be folly to unload on American owners the emergency fleet due to the fact that they were steam equipped and could not operate in competition with Diesel driven foreign vessels.

The cost of production per kilowatt hour at the switch board is .005 which I believe you will admit is quite low. The cost of fuel oil at the time our present equipment was installed was figured at the rate of six cents per gallon. However, the oil used for the year 1924 was purchased at the rate of three and three-quarters cents per gallon. During the same period of time coal prices were uniformly high, and it is my opinion that they will continue so, due to the unsettled conditions of labor at the mines, so that while coal was never higher, oil was never cheaper.

The steam engine manufacturers tried to convince us that the Diesel engine was not reliable. This is not so. Our plant has operated consistently with practically no shut-down for nearly three years. The amount realized as a net profit last year was about eighty-five thousand dollars. This is quite unusual inasmuch as the cost of the equipment installed was only about one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. The net earnings of the plant were nearly two-thirds of the total cost, which is quite an unusual showing.

Out of this money, bond interest and bonds were matured totaling about fifteen thousand dollars was placed at a maintenance and depreciation account to increase our equipment to take care of growth.

The balance of the money totaling about fifty-five thousand dollars was turned in to the municipality.

For some considerable period of time we have had the same kind of propaganda to fight as you are going through now. Our power plant would have been sold to private individuals years ago, if it were not for the fact that some of the public-spirited citizens took this matter into their own hands, and spent their own money to show up the men who were back of the propaganda. I have in mind one lawsuit which cost one of our citizens nearly seventeen thousand dollars, but which is probably responsible today for South River still being able to maintain its own municipal plants. The people are now realising however, what we have, and I look forward to a time within the near future, when not alone the cost of local borough government will be defrayed, but that also a large portion of the state, county and local school taxes will be defrayed by this municipal plant.

If there is anything that you desire in the way of technical information I can refer you to Earl B. VanNess, superintendent of the board of public works, who I believe will be pleased to give you any information that you may desire.

Yours very truly,
W. A. ALLGAIR,
Mayor.

ST. PATRICK IS HONORED BY HIBERNIAN DIVISIONS

Honoring St. Patrick, members of the divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and their auxiliaries received holy communion in a body, at the 7.30 mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, from Rev. John J. Reilly, who had the assistance of Rev. Father Seibel, of La Salette Seminary, Hartford. The United States flag was displayed at the epistle side of the sanctuary, the green and gold flag with symbolical harp of the Hibernians being at the gospel side. The lights were veiled in green.

Father Reilly, who read the low mass preached on the obligation of Christians to follow Christ's commands and work out their salvation, making Lent a special time for this reminding them that there is no short cut to Heaven, no detour around the Mountain of Calvary.

The members of the Rosary Society also received communion in a body at this service.

MOTHERS READ PAPERS ON EXPERIENCES WITH CHILDREN

At the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's League held at the Central Baptist church Friday afternoon a very interesting programme was presented on the relation of the mother to the child. Papers from real experience were given by the following mothers: On Obedience, presented by Mrs. B. H. Palmer; Fear, given by Mrs. C. Edward Smith; How Shall I Punish My Child, by Mrs. Lucius Brown; Sunday Afternoons With the Children, presented by Mrs. David A. Pitt. These were followed by discussions. There was a very good attendance and it was a very practical meeting. Mrs. Luther presided at the social part of the meeting and read a poem, "My Opportunity." Refreshments of cocoa and wafers were served by Mrs. Tefft and her assistants.

Elected Alumni Editor.

John H. Lee, a member of the junior class in the department of electrical engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., has been elected alumni editor of "The Rensselaer Polytechnic," the students' weekly publication. He has also served as sports editor on the Polytechnic.

DEBATE MADE FEATURE FOR PARENT-TEACHERS

The March meeting of the Preston Parent-Teacher association was held with a large attendance at the Pequetanuck school house recently.

The April programme is to be in charge of Mrs. John Taylor. Mrs. George Mansfield and Mrs. Henry J. Gallup were appointed as a committee to begin arrangements for the annual entertainment to be given later in the spring.

The programme for the evening was in charge of Mrs. Mansfield and consisted of community singing, several violin solos by Jared Gallup, who also accompanied the singing and a debate.

The question debated was, "Resolved, That Life in the Country Offers More Advantages Than Life in the City."

The affirmative side was supported by Mrs. Appleton Maine and Samuel Holdredge, while Mrs. Charles Harkness and Rev. Thomas Ockford, argued for the negative. The arguments on both sides were well prepared and convincingly stated and they were followed by a spirited rebuttal, keeping the audience keenly interested. The judges, who were Frank Brewster and Calvin Maine, announced their decision "a draw."

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

GAVE SPLENDID RENDERING OF LISZT CONCERTO

The second of the Sunday afternoon concerts to be held at the Palace theatre for the benefit of Connecticut college was attended by about 800 on Sunday afternoon. The concert programme on which appeared two local musicians, Frank Farrell, pianist, and Frederick W. Lester, organist, was beyond criticism. Mr. Farrell and Mr. Lester were assisted by Lional Storrs, baritone.

The feature number of the afternoon was the Concerto For Piano in E Flat, by Liszt, played by Mr. Farrell on the piano with Mr. Lester at the organ. This was Mr. Farrell's only number of the afternoon with the exception of the encore, F Sharp Major, 1st Opus (Chopin), which he played with understanding. In the Concerto Mr. Farrell played wholly from memory and his technique was remarkable. He handled his subject with force and sureness that demonstrated his complete mastery of the piano. Mr. Lester in this number added charm to the concerto with his organ orchestral accompaniment.

Mr. Lester gave two numbers, his first being Fugue in E Flat (Bach) which was given with sympathy and understanding. The second number by Mr. Lester, The Bells of St. Anne de Beaupre (Russell), which he gave by request, was exceptionally delightful. In this he was at his best, showing a brilliant technique and command. The chime accompaniment on the organ lent an added charm to the number. Mr. Lester gave as an encore The Wedding Vow (Ferrata).

In the baritone solos Mr. Storrs showed a fine range of voice, singing with remarkable clarity of tone and expression. His first number, Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves (Handel), was delightfully rendered as was his group of songs, which gave him ample opportunity to display his voice in all its moods. As encores he gave Vale (Russell) and Love Me Forever (Schenck) a lilting little number that was very pleasing.

The programme:

Fugue in E flat (St. Anne's) Bach
Mr. Lester
Recit. and Air, "Hear Me! Ye Winds and Waves" (from Rage of the Tempest) Handel
Mr. Storr
The Bells of St. Anne de Beaupre (by request) Russell
Mr. Lester
Il lacerato spirito (Simon Boccanegra) Verdi
Over the Sea to Skye, Schenck
The Asra, Rubinstein
Love, Pluck Your Flowers, Liddle
Mr. Storr
Concerto for Piano in E flat, Liszt
Mr. Farrell and Mr. Lester.

At the Strand theatre Sunday afternoon there was a private screening of "Over the Top With the Allies" which is being shown in Norwich under the auspices of the Richard E. Heurigan post, No. 534, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Several of the city officials including the mayor, Corporation Counsel W. H. Shields, Jr., many of the heads of the educational department, were present, who after viewing this picture were very much impressed and favorably endorsed it as the best they had seen.

"Power" Picture at Sanatorium.

At the Tuberculosis Sanatorium Saturday evening there were several reels of motion pictures shown through the courtesy of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company. One of the pictures was a two reel film, "Power," showing the various uses of electricity. There were two reels devoted to Modern Radio and several other lighter films of a comedy nature. The motion picture machine was operated by Joseph A. French and Mr. Moore of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company.

Scholars of the second rank (general average 80-89) announced at Yale University, Saturday included Stuart C. Knox, Mystic, Thomas H. Chappell, New London and Charles E. Nettleton, Rockville, Conn.

A Shirt Tale
Which Should Interest You

You may or may not be in any particular need of shirts, just now, — but we'll wager you could find room for just one or two more, if you saw the collection of rather unusual IDE'S which has just arrived here.

The showing includes both fancy colored and whites.

The tailoring and finish are superb. Full cut and roomy. We doubt if you could get a more perfect fit if your shirts were made to order.

Withal, the entire collection is popularly priced. Purposely so—we're more interested in serving a lot of men on a close margin, than a limited number at the usual dealers' margin.

Won't you drop in today or tomorrow and see these shirts while the variety of choice is at its best?

WARREN AGAIN REJECTED BY THE SENATE 46 TO 39

Has Decided to Prolong Special Session to Give President Coolidge an Opportunity to Submit a New Nominee For Attorney General—Senator Butler, Republican Leader, Informed the Senate That President Coolidge Will Today Make Known His Position in the Matter—Galleries Were Crowded Throughout the Session.

Washington, March 16—The nomination of Charles B. Warren to be attorney general was rejected for a second time today by the senate, 46 to 39, as compared to the 40-40 tie a week ago.

Immediately there arose a question whether Mr. Warren would accept a recess appointment which President Coolidge announced last Saturday would be offered him in the event the senate took such action.

Neither the executive nor Mr. Warren made any statement. Secretary Sanders said Mr. Coolidge had the situation "under advisement," and Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, who, with Senator Butler, of Massachusetts, carried word of the president his position tomorrow.

Senate action to the White House, declared the president would make known his position tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the senate is held in special session. Leaders of the opposition to Mr. Warren declared it would also so held for some time unless Mr. Until the senate adjourns, a recess appointment can not be made.

The vote came after four hours of new debate before crowds that jammed the galleries and extended in long lines throughout the corridors. Presentation of the case of Mr. Warren and the president, rested largely with republicans of the judiciary committee, two of whom made their maiden senate speeches in the fight. The leaders, of the old guard of other years remained silent in their places.

The hosts on both sides had been marshalled, some coming from sick beds and others having been summoned from great distances to cast their votes in the history-making struggle between the white house and the senate.

This was one of the few times in recent senate history that all the senators present answered when their names first were called. As the roll started, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, who collapsed in the senate last week, came in slowly and took his seat. A minute or two later, Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgents, who had been called from Florida, entered the chamber and took his seat in a front row directly before Mr. Dawes.

The votes gained by the opposition today were those of Senators Dill, Edwards, Gerry, Kendrick and Smith, democrats, and Howell and LaFollette, republicans. The administration forces retained the vote of Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, but lost that of Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who was paired with Senator McMaster. Senator McMaster previously voted against confirmation. The administration also lost the vote of Senator Overman, Democrat, North Carolina, who last Tuesday voted for confirmation, but was paired today in opposition to the nomination."

Immediately after the result was announced, the senate went into executive session, confirmed a single postmaster, and adjourned until noon tomorrow. Senators Curtis and Butler then drove rapidly to the white house, where they were closeted with the president and Mr. Warren for half an hour.

Emerging from the executive offices for the return trip to the capitol, neither had any statement to make. But later Senator Curtis said he and Mr. Butler had informally reported to the president that the senate had no further business to transact unless Mr. Coolidge had a further communication to make.

The president then told the senators he would make known his position to them tomorrow. He seemed unperturbed by the senate action, and merely smiled when informed the nomination had again been rejected.

With the announcement that the president would have no statement to make, newspapermen sent a note to Mr. Warren, who is a guest at the white house, asking for some word from him, but a message came back that Mr. Warren was "having tea," and probably would have nothing to say tonight.

After the adjournment of the senate, leaders in the opposition said they were disposed to hold the senate here as long as the president might wish in order to permit him to send up another name.

"We have several matters of importance left to consider," smilingly remarked Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, when asked what were the plans with respect to an adjournment of the senate. He called attention that a number of nominations, including those of two assistat attorneys general, remained to be acted upon.

Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, said the president would not give Mr. Warren a recess appointment "unless he wishes to trample on the spirit of the constitution," while Senator Curtis declared that if he took such action, the chief executive would be within his constitutional rights.

Although the senate met at the usual hour of 10:30 a. m., the galleries were crowded even before the gavel fell. From early morning the crowds flocked to the capitol as on an aside the gallery doors extended through the corridors and down pennsylvania, who was paired with Senator inaugural day. The waiting lines outside stairways and scores stood through the session, without even getting the opportunity to hear a single word of the crackling debate.

Mrs. Dawes and a party of friends were among the early arrivals occupying the vice presidential row in the private senate gallery and when lunch time came she opened a package of sandwiches and distributed them among her guests. Another guest in the senate was Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, who only recently returned from Chicago, with her baby daughter, Paulina.

Debate was opened by Senator Goff, republican, West Virginia, a former assistant attorney general of the United States, who was making his maiden oratorical effort in the senate. He was joined in the presentation of Mr. Warrens' case by Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, the former speaker of the house, who also made his first senate speech; Senator Butler, of Massachusetts, the republican national chairman, and personal friend of the president; Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, another new member of the senate, and Senator Shortridge, republican, California.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, was the leading speaker for the opposition, dwelling particularly upon what he declared was the grave constitutional question involved in the deadlock between the president and the senate. Senators Reed of Missouri, Walsh of Montana, and Heflin of Alabama, democrats, were other speakers against confirmation.

The debate was brought to a close by Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, for Mr. Warren, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, but neither found sufficient time to conclude his address under the agreement to vote at 2:30 p. m. Both devoted their attention to the constitutional question.

PROGRESS IN TEAPOT DOME LEASE ANNULMENT SUIT

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 16.—(By The A. P.)—Jumping speedily from one critical point to another, the Teapot Dome lease annulment suit came to a head late today in a legal haze over the question of whether M. T. Everhart, Pueblo, Colo., banker and rancher, would be sustained in his refusal to testify regarding a deposit of Liberty bonds he handled for Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, on the ground that he was within his constitutional rights.

Everhardt, a son-in-law of the former secretary of the interior, refused to answer questions put to Owen J. Roberts of government counsel, regarding whether or not he took $80,000 in Liberty bonds to the First National bank of Pueblo, of which he is director and deposited them there with instructions that they belonged to Fall. He declined to answer on the ground that to do so might tend to incriminate him.

When counsel on both sides took opposite views as to whether a witness in such a position was the sole judge of whether or not his answers might incriminate him, a long argument followed, after which Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy took the question under advisement.

Questioned as to what would be done if Everhart were sustained by Judge Kennedy in his refusal, Mr. Roberts said:

"If Everhart is not compelled to testify further, I don't think we will take the trouble to call Mr. Fall to the stand."

It is here under subpoena but doubt has been expressed as to whether he would testify.

COURT FINDING ADVERSE TO POWERS OF CONGRESS

Washington, March 16.—In the first of a series of decisions expected to define more clearly the powers of congress in conducting investigations, the supreme court held in effect today that the federal trade commission, even though acting under a senate resolution could not compel business concerns to permit access to books and records in an inquiry designed to provide data for legislative consideration.

Without delivering an opinion, the court affirmed a decision of the federal district court at Baltimore denying the commission access to the records of Hammond, Snyder and Company, the Baltimore Grain Company, and the H. C. Jones Co., all of Maryland, which it has sought in an investigation to determine the causes operating in foreign markets to affect the price of grain.

The companies insisted that the commission's demand proposed unlawful search and seizure and argued in the district court that, while it was acting under a resolution of the senate, it was on "fishing expedition" without any tangible idea as to just what the papers and books of the firm contained.

NEW HAVEN POLICE TO HAVE A "NAVAL" UNIT

New Haven, March 16.—The formation of a "naval" unit in the New Haven police department to patrol the harbor, long advocated by Police Chief Philip T. Smith, is about to be realized, it became known tonight.

Chief Smith today purchased the necessary equipment for a "naval" unit—a boat. He has been "watching the skies" and had assured the board of police commissioners that if given authority he would find the necessary article and would save the city some money in the bargain.

His opportunity came today when United States Marshal Jacob B. Walter auctioned off the motor boat K-8283, lately engaged in the liquor smuggling trade and ordered sold when it fell into the hands of federal agents.

The sale was held at the waterfront where the erstwhile smuggler has been tied up for some time. There were several other bidders but they dropped out when the bids began to mount and the boat finally was sold to Chief Smith for $760.

A LARGE SEIZURE OF NARCOTICS IN HARTFORD

Hartford, March 16.—The largest narcotic seizure in Hartford in recent years was made this afternoon, when Chief William D. Allen and Fred H. Mertz, of the federal narcotic squad, operating from Boston, arrested Michael Zazzaro, 25 years old, of 57 Morris street, on a charge of peddling narcotics. Zazzaro, who is the brother of Anthony P. Zazzaro, street commissioner, runs a pool room at 18 Central Row, and there made his headquarters as a dope peddlar, the agents believe.

As the result of clever sleuthing, 13 one-ounce jars of narcotics, valued at from $3,500 to $4,000 was found by the two federal agents. According to Chief Allen, the seizure was the largest he has ever made in Hartford.

Had No Control Over Morals Of His Wife

Lieut. Col. Dennistoun Tells of Escapades of the Former Dowager Countess Carnarvon.

London, March 16—"I forgave her once, twice, a dozen times, for I loved the woman and would go on forgiving her, and I probably would forgive her now."

This was the dramatic outburst made today by Lieutenant Colonel Ian Onslow Dennistoun in court when pressed by the judge and counsel to say why he had taken stronger action against the escapades of his former wife, who is sueing him for money she alleges she loaned him prior to their divorce.

The former Dowager Countess Carnarvon, who is now the wife of Lieut.-Col. Dennistoun, was not present in court when her husband told his story of his life with Mrs. Dennistoun, including the alleged misconduct of her part in 1911 with an American, Oscar Senhouse, who was killed in the World War.

Asked by Mr. Birkett of counsel for the defense what attitude he took when misconduct afterwards was disclosed, Col. Dennistoun replied: "There wasn't much use of taking any attitude. She was a much more dominant figure than I was all the way through. There was nothing for me to say. She had made up her mind to go to another man to make love to."

Col. Dennistoun further related how through the late Sir John Cowans, the war quartermaster-general of the British army, he obtained the post of aide to General Manning, governor of Jamaica. Afterwards, said Dennistoun, his wife told him she had been motoring with Senhouse and that she had had great difficulty in making up her mind whether she should elope with him or not.

Finally, Col. Dennistoun continued, she made up her mind to stick to him (Dennistoun). To repeated questions by counsel as to what attitude he had taken Col. Dennistoun replied:

"I did not adopt any different attitude than previously. I did not intend to sue for divorce, but hoped some day everything would come all right. As far as her morals were concerned, I had no control over her at all."

The witness said the last time Mrs. Dennistoun had seen Senhouse was when she was staying with Lord and Lady Rossloyn. Senhouse had come from the Windsor barracks. They were together until 4:30 o'clock in the morning. Then Senhouse left for the front and later was killed.

Col. Dennistoun detailed further advancements he had received through the assistance of Sir John Cowans, but he emphatically denied knowledge of any arrangements between Sir John and his wife until he became a lieutenant colonel. He also denied that he left his wife in Paris knowing that she was going to misconduct herself with Sir John.

Asked whether he ever had urged his wife to break off her relations with Sir John, Colonel Dennistoun replied: "I never suggested it. There was no possibility of my being able to break them off. I might as well have talked to a brick wall."

Previously Hannah Parker, former maid of Mrs. Dennistoun had continued her testimony regarding Mrs. Dennistoun's style of living, when she supposedly was in straitened financial circumstance. "Mrs. Dennistoun always was able to get heaps of the best Paris dresses, and moreover she entertained a good deal," the maid declared. She added that she had no illfeeling towar her former mistress but said she left her service as soon as possible after she learned of the alleged misconduct of Mrs. Dennistoun.

Laughter, which the presiding judge firmly rebuked, pervaded the courtroom when a letter from one of Miss Parker's subsequent employers, written to Mrs. Dennistoun, was read. The letter said the employer had found a French chauffeur in Miss Parker's room late at night. Miss Parker explained to her that the chauffeur had come to her room to borrow a needle and thread, with which to mend his clothes.

"I had to speak seriously to Parker," said the letter, "but I more or less accepted her explanation, and as we were abroad I overlooked it."

EIGHT HELD FOR DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE OF LIQUOR

Springfield, Mas., March 16.—Among eight motorists arraigned here today charged with driving while under the influence of liquor Raymond Walsh, who paid a fine of $115, was held as a fugitive for police of Hartford, Conn., as it was alleged that the automobile in which he was arrested was stolen in that city. They are Richard Martin of Atlanta, Ga., Frank Miller of Watertown, and John King of New York.

J. Verner Anderson, who alleged at the time of his arrest that he was a Connecticut state highway inspector pleaded nolo to adrunken driving charge and was fined $115 for that offense for drunkenness.

Coolidge Greets New Jap. Ambassador

President Expresses Hope For Cooperative Action For Realization of Common Purposes.

Washington, March 16.—Hope that the intimacy of relations between Japan and the United States may develop during coming years through wider experience and cooperative action for realization of common purposes and aspirations, was expressed by President Coolidge today in receiving the letters of credence of Tsuneo Matsudaira, as the new Japanese ambassador.

Mr. Matsudaira, who also presented the letters of recall of his predecessor, Masanao Hanihara, gave voice to a similar hope, and, recalling his participation in the Washington arms conference, he said that, "Remembering the successful result of that assembly, I cannot but think it to be an excellent augury for my present mission."

President Coolidge spoke in complimentary terms of the services performed here by former Ambassador Hanihara, who, he said, "so cogenially and helpfully" represented the Tokio government in Washington. To the new ambassador's statement that the Japanese emperor had requested that his assurances of friendship and good will be conveyed to President Coolidge, the chief executive replied by asking that the emperor be informed "of the sincerity and full-heartedness with which his good wishes are reciprocated by me and by the people of the United States."

"I recall with appreciation your part in the work of the conference on the limitation of armament," President Coolidge said, adding that the conference had "afforded so conspicuous an example and opportunity for community of action towards great ends."

"I am encouraged to believe that on the foundations thus established, it will be possible to build full confidence of cooperation among the interested powers with respect to those problems which are of concern to them all."

"It is a long standing tradition," said the ambassador, "that, in the conduct of their intercourse, the United States and Japan have always been animated by a desire to live in peace with each other, with the result that each country reposes trust and confidence in the friendship and good will of the other. On entering, therefore, upon my duties, I entertain the confident hope that these traditions, and intimate relations will

HERRIOT AND CHAMBERLAIN DISCUSS SECURITY PROBLEM

France Considers That the League of Nations' Protocol May Yet Serve as Means For Providing a Solution—British Foreign Secretary Regards the Protocol as Dead—Chamberlain Maintains That the German Proposal Provides a Basis For Discussion—Both Statesmen Are Agreed That No Solution Will be Considered That Would Sacrifice the Interests of Any Ally.

Paris, March 16 (By the A. P.)—Premier Herriot's talks regarding European tranquility with Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, and Dr. Eduard Benes, the Czecho-slovak foreign minister, today developed the fact that France considers the league of nations protocol may yet serve as the means for providing an eventual solution of the security problem, but Mr. Chamberlain regards it as dead.

Both Secretary Chamberlain and Premier Herriot declared after their talk that there was no question of considering any personnel that would sacrifice the interests of any ally.

The ministers discussed the problem of security generally as separated from the league protocol and confined to the powers directly interested, including Germany. Mr. Chamberlain took the stand that the plan proposed by the Berlin government for a security pact offered a basis for discussion, and proposed that consideration of that plan continue through regular diplomatic channels.

Premier Herriot said the French government was ready to discuss any plan that would contribute to the tranquility of Europe, but the French position was that security and disarmament could not be separated and that any plan adopted must be based on the idea of security, with obligatory arbitration of disputes, first, and disarmament afterward.

After the interview Mr. Chamberlain asserted that in the idea of all the allies, no frontier is excluded from the security plan they have in view. As to disarmament, Great Britain would willingly participate in any conference to that end in which all the great powers would join, but he knew of no definite steps that had been taken to bring this about.

Premier Herriot declared that France asked nothing better than to lend any aid she could to bring about effective security and disarmament but added, he did not have any definite indication as to when a disarmament conference would be held.

Mr. Chamberlain and M. Herriot discussed the question whether it would be advisable to publish the military control mission's report on military activities and arms discovered in Germany. The British minister produced against publication, and decision was deferred.

Dr. Benes, who called on M. Herriot soon after the British foreign secretary left, expressed himself as the representative of one of the countries of the little entente favorable to any arrangement. In his opinion even a partial agreement with Germany which offered proper guarantees would relieve the tension in Europe.

The new series of exchanges will continue on Wednesday, when the Polish foreign minister, Count Skrzynski, will call on the premier to discuss the difficult position of Poland with regard to the frontier question.

KID McCOY CONVICTED ON THREE COUNTS

Los Angeles, Calif., March 16.—Kid McCoy, former pugilist, recently convicted of manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Theresa Mors, here last August, was convicted in superior court today of three counts of assault growing out of a shooting affray in Mrs. Mors' antique shop the morning after her death. He will be sentenced Friday.

The ex-prize fighter was acquitted on four counts of robbery based on the antique shop raid.

McCoy heard the verdict without emotion. His two sisters, however, who had been waiting in the court room, embraced him and wept. Defense counsel made no comment.

The specific charges of which McCoy was convicted were assault with a deadly weapon upon W. G. Ross, for which the sentence is one to ten years imprisonment; assault with intent to murder Sam Schapp, carrying a penalty of from 1 to 14 years, and assault with intent to murder Mrs. Anna Schapp, carrying the same penalty.

Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Schapp were wounded in the antique shop affray, which began when McCoy, wild-eyed and dishevaled reeled into the store looking for Albert A. Mors, divorced husband of Mrs. Mors, a few hours after Mrs. More had been shot and killed in the apartment which she and McCoy occupied as "Mr. and Mrs. N. Shields."

DEMONSTRATION IN LIMA AGAINST COOLIDGE AWARD

Buenos Aires, March 16 (By the A. P.)—Telegraphing from Lima, Peru, the correspondent of La Nacion says that 6,000 women held a demonstration in the streets of Lima Sunday against the award in the Tacna-Arica controversy given by President Coolidge.

After marching to the monument of the Peruvian war hero, where flowers were deposited, the women proceeded to the American embassy singing the Peruvian national anthem. The demonstrators stood in front of the embassy absolutely silent for one minute and then resumed the singing of the anthem and continued their march through the streets, scattering flowers about the monuments of other war heroes.

Thousands of men lined the sidewalks cheering the women. A public meeting was held later at which prominent men delivered orations. After the meeting the crowds went to the government house and voiced loud protests against the award.

WATERBURY PREPARING FOR ADDITIONAL WATER SUPPLY

Waterbury, March 16.—Allyn Hazen, of New York, one of the best known consulting engineers in the country has been appointed by the finance committee of the general assembly to investigate the city of Waterbury's additional water supply project at the Shepaug river. The project calls for carrying water under hills and under Bantam lake from the Shepaug river to the city's present reservoir system in Morris. The city has asked for $3,200,000 worth of water bonds and it was the desire of the finance committee to have an expert pass on the project before it authorizes the bonds. Mr. Hazen will begin his investigation at once.

BURNS FATAL TO 5-YEAR OLD MIDDLETOWN GIRL

Middletown, March 16.—Rose Teriuccio, five-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Teriuccio, of Cromwell, died in the Middlesex hospital here tonight from burns received at her home this afternoon. The exact cause of the acident is not known. The little girl had been left alone with her baby brother and it is believed that she was playing with matches or her dress caught fire from the stove.

A neighbor passing by the house saw the little girl's clothing in flames but before the child could be reached she was badly burned about the body. Coroner L. A. Smith will conduct an inquest in a few days.

HOW HOFMANN'S MUSICAL GENIUS WAS CONSERVED

New York, March 16—The story of how Josef Hofmann's musical genius was conserved for the world by a man whose duty it once was to prevent Hofmann's concert appearances as a "child prodigy" in this country, was revealed today in a statement by the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

It has been known for a long time that when Hofmann first came to America in 1887, a nervous, delicate child of 11, the society protested his concert tour, as too severe a strain for the frail boy.

It is now revealed that at the same time Elbridge T. Gerry, former president of the society and then conducting the case against Hofmann and his manager, gave $50,000 to be used for the boy's musical education. This gift made it possible for the little Polish boy to return to Europe, live a normal life, save his health, and study under Rubinstein and other masters—and become one of the world's most celebrated artists.

Hofmann was born at Cracow, Poland in January 1876. His father was a musician, and when Josef was only 7 he attracted by his unusual piano playing, the attention of Rubinstein. Four years later the lad was brought to America, hoping to earn money in concerts to support his poor family and, eventually, to enable him to continue his own studies. That hope was thwarted by Mr. Gerry, acting officially. And it was given reality by Mr. Gerry, acting personally.

At the time, however, Hofmann and his manager were only told by Mr. Gerry that a "certain gentleman" had given $50,000, for his musical education and to save him from overtaxing his strength. A statement from the society says that the identity of the "certain gentleman" became known only lately.

Mr. Gerry is a lawyer, yachtsman, financier and has long been active in the work of the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR THE LATE WALTER CAMP

New Haven, March 16—Yale university and New Haven paid tribute to the memory of Walter Camp, prominent coach and athlete and leader in Yale life and activities, who died in New York, Saturday, when funeral services were held at his late home here today. Due to the wishes of Mrs. Camp, the services were simple and brief but were impressive in their simplicity.

The home of the late football mentor was crowded with men prominent in university and municipal circles who had come to honor the memory of a man loved by Yale and by the city. Yale university was represented by Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of the university who offered his and the university's condolences.

Rev. Roy M. Houghton, pastor of the church of the Redeemer, officiated at the services, the short Congregational ceremony being used. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery. Besides intimate friends and members of the family, those at the grave included E. K. Hall, chairman of the Intercollegiate rules committee; William Roper, coach of the Princeton football team; and William Langford, of Trinity. The three men acted as a committee representing the rules committee, a meeting of which Mr. Camp was attending in New York at the time of his death. The Rev. Mr. Houghton, officiated also at the grave.

Many beautiful floral tributes were forwarded to the Camp home following the death of Mr. Camp, practically every figure prominent in collegiate sports being represented. A large wreath of lillies tied with blue and white bands and marked "class of 1880" came from Mr. Camp's classmates at Yale.

TO PLACE MAINTENANCE MEN IN CAPE BRETON COAL MINES

Sydney, N. S., March 16.—The United Mine Workers executive committee, it was reported here, has decided to advise the provincial government that it is prepared, under direction of the government to place maintenance men in the mines now shut down by strike in the Cape Breton coal area.

WILLIMANTIC

"Remember that your strength lies in unity," advised Miss Mary Kelleher, national organizer of the United Textile Workers of America, in a talk to a mass meeting of the striking operatives of the American Thread company held at the Gem theatre Monday morning. The theatre was crowded and it was claimed that the ranks of the department locals remained one hundred per cent. intact. "We are now entering the period of watchful waiting," continued Miss Kelleher, "and in order to prove that our determination to remain true to our cause is undeterred, we shall hold mass meetings every morning with the daily parade forming at the mill gates and proceeding to this theatre."

Other than the national organizer there were no speakers at the meeting. Several announcements were made and the roll call of the departments was read in order to select operatives for picket duty at the mills.

At a meeting held later in the day, the pickets were given instructions for the week. Strict orders were given by Miss Kelleher that the pickets conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen and avoid clashes of any kind. Arrangements have been made with Chief of Police Allan McArthur that the pickets and those joining in the daily parade keep the sidewalks and streets clear. Every endeavor will be made to avoid any congregation of operatives which would tend to obstruct traffic.

Miss Amy Hooker, local president of the textile union called attention to a statement published in an out-of-town newspaper that at no time would the officials of the American Thread company meet with the strikers committee in relation to the present situation. It was found that this statement did not come from any local source and was apparently manufactured in the office of said paper, without the sanction of any officer of the union. In a signed letter Miss Hooker repudiated this statement as untrue, as the union has always been treated with the utmost courtesy when in conference with officials of the American Thread company.

Donat Bernard arrested Saturday night on a charge of intoxication was found guilty of that charge in police court Monday morning and fined $10 and costs, amounting to $17.15 which he paid.

Frank Leise, charged with intoxication and damage to private property was found guilty of both charged at the session of police court Monday. On the first charge he was fined $10 and costs, totalling $17.15. He stated that he had arranged to replace windows he had broken in a rumpus at the Polish-American hall in now the line and a five-day jail sentence on the second charge was suspended, on condition that he make reparation for the damage.

The work of the board of relief, William C. Backus, Robert O. Snow and Charles Palmer has been completed and their returns are now in the hands of the board of assessors. John R. Pickett, Lawrence S. Casey and Arthur J. Dubreuil. There were only seven applicants for relief at the various sessions of the board. Reductions other than exempt property owned by blind persons, soldiers, sailors, etc., were made to the amount of $5,973. The number of lists were increased 54 for a total of $23,102. Nearly all of these amounts were corrections on the lists of the assessors and make a net increase of $14,219 on the grand list. As it stands corrected and complete, the grand list totals $17,625,367. A 12 mill tax on this will bring in $211,504.40. The corrected valuation of resident lists now stands at $15,818,410 and non-residents, $1,806,957. Notice has been given by Tax Collector Bert F. More when this tax is due and payable.

A stranger coming up Main street in Willimantic Monday afternoon any time after two oclock would have surmised that the Angel Gabriel was making his appearance in the heavens over the community. Throngs halted to gaze upwards. The cause was the falling of a half dozen bricks from the coping on the North street side of Loomer Opera House block which faces Main street. The building is one of the highest in the business section and the falling of the bricks occasioned considerable excitement. The sidewalk happened to be clear of pedestrians at the time. Dog Warden John T. Meikle and John McQuillan heard the crash and within a few minutes members of the police and fire departments were roping off the danger spots. It was noted that the coping on the Main street side of the structure bulged in a dangerous manner and the sidewalk was also roped at this point leaving a number of stores "inside the cones." Frost which settled about the coping is believed responsible for the trouble. Repairs were made on the building some years ago from the third story to the coping by Steeple Tom Fitzpatrick formerly of this city. The Opera House is owned by the John M. Hall estate.

The case of Jan Zurowski of Yellow Row, charged with intoxication and resisting an officer at the time of his arrest Saturday night, at midnight, was continued until this (Tuesday) morning, in police court Monday. Zurowski was not in condition to respond to his name in court and the continuance was granted to give him a chance to recove from his joyous evening.

The second annual reception and recital of the dancing classes conducted by Mrs. Edward C. Andrews proved a delightful event at the Al Fierre Tabarin Saturday afternoon. Relatives and friends of the pupils and guests from surrounding towns filled the gallery. In the exhibition was included the Argentine tango, given by nine couple with encores by Madeline Avery and Walter Ambbe, Jr., and Rose Lavigne and Ansel Arnold. The first part of the program closed with a Russian polonaise by the class. Classical and interpretative numbers, beautifully executed made up the second half of the program, the feature being a group of three numbers with the girls in Grecian costume and wearing garlands.

Duncan C. Peacock, who died suddenly Saturday, was born in Paisley Scotland, February 12, 1869, a son of David and Katherine Crawford Peacock. He is survived by two sisters, Misses Elizabeth and Katherine, and a brother, David Peacock all of this. He came to St. John's, New Brunswick, with his parents at the age of two and when a young boy came to this city. He was a machinist and for years was employed by the American Thread Company. He was a member of Obwebetuck lodge No. 16, I. O. O. and a prominent member of the Masonic orders. He passed through all the chairs in Eastern Star lodge, No. 44, F. and A. M., Trinity Chapter, No. 9 R. A. M., Olive Branch council, No. 10, R. and S. M., St. John's Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar. He was also a member of Sphinx Temple, No. 2, A. A. O. N. M. S. of Hartford.

The funeral of Mrs. Ethel Taylor was held at the home of William Taylor at 53 Meadow street, Sunday afternoon, at two o'clock. The attendance was large and there were beautiful floral pieces. Delegations from the Pythian Sisters and W. B. A. of the Maccabees were present. Rev. F. C. Williams officiated. The flower bearer was Walter Corcoran. The pall bearers were Fred Burke, O. Taylor, Fred Dumaine, Ralph H. Gibson, Thomas Rowan and William Jacobs. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery where the committal service was by Rev. Mr. Williams. Arrangements were in charge of the Hurteau-Bosse Corp.

The marriage of Oscar Hemmeler of West Willington, son of John Hemmeler and Mrs. Ida Converse, widow of Dr. Harvey Converse of Eastford, took place at the home of the bride Saturday morning. They left by automobile for Washington, D. C., the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Henry Starkweather. They will remain two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Hemmeler will reside at West Willington at the former's home which has been recently renovated. Mr. Hemmeler is a foreman of the state highway department.

A Dodge coupe owned and driven by Miss Eloise Gagnon was slightly damaged Monday morning, when avoiding a collision with another machine which she was following and which was operated by Homer M. Harrington, she struck the curbing and partly mounted the sidewalk at the corner of High and Prospect streets.

Funeral services for Mrs. Laura L. Pierson were held at the family home, 174 Pleasant street Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Frederick F. Foshay officiated. Burial was in the family plot at Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Ambrose L. Osborne, Harry Edmonds, Henderson S. Moulton, Joseph Goldsborough, George Osborne and Edward Endries. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

GEO. A. HAWKINS FALLS THROUGH A TRAP DOOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 16.—George Allen Hawkins, 67, chairman of the board of water commissioners and prominent otherwise in civic affairs, fell through a trap door at the pumping station Monday afternoon and was seriously injured.

One arm was broken and crushed near the shoulder and an X-ray has been taken to determine if the spine was affected.

He fell a distance of about nine feet. The trap door covered a dangerous opening and Mr. Hawkins had often warned employes of the department against the possibility of such an accident.

Mr. Hawkins is prominent in fraternal circles, being a 32nd degree Mason who has filled most of the chairs in the local Blue lodge and chapter.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Guiseppi Bracci was fined $100 and costs of $14.06 by Judge Heald, in the borough court Monday morning after pleading guilty to the charge of operating an automobile Sunday night while under the influence of liquor. Bracci was coming from Staffordville to the Springs and when a short distance south of the Phinney school lost control of his car and ran off the road striking a rock which upset the car and badly damaged it. Bracci escaped without injury.

Cannon was involved in an accident at Heald's corner about 4.45 o'clock Sunday afternoon when his car came in contact with a car owned by Innocents Menegen of Staffordville. Both cars were wrecked, but the occupants escaped injury, except for a slight abrasion on Mr. Menegen's head.

Mrs. Charles F. Beckwith of Crown street has been seriously ill for several days.

The Staffordville Golf company is to hold a its meeting at the rooms of the Business Men's Association this (Tuesday) evening.

$749,130 SHORTAGE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE TRUST FUNDS

Concord, N. H., March 16.—A shortage in state of New Hampshire trust funds of $749,130, of which the state has actually collected and used for other purposes $626,913 was revealed in a report presented tonight to Governor John G. Winant, and a special joint committee of the legislature. The report was the result of an audit made at the request of the committee which was appointed by house and senate at the instance of Governor Winant.

The audit indicated that over a period of more than 30 years the state "followed a trust fund policy full of inconsistencies and irregularities." The report says that from time to time the principal of New Hampshire trust funds which should now total $1,536,362, has been diverted to the state treasury and expended for uses other than those specified in the original bequests. Throughout this period interest has always been paid to beneficiaries, however.

PRES. R. W. PERKINS, NORWICH, TELLS OF E. CONN. POWER CO.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, March 16.—Power in terms of electrical energy and what it is doing in aiding the industrial and commercial development of Eastern Connecticut was told in a fascinating way to a group of about 65 representatives of various communities hereabouts at a supper gathering at the Attawaugan hotel Monday evening by Robert W. Perkins of Norwich, president of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company. Motion pictures tracing the development of the steam engine from the time of its conception to the giant turbines of today and of the astounding growth of the generation and distribution of electric power, were an added and appreciated feature of the meeting.

The vision that resulted in the formation of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company in its development and growth were pictured most entertainingly by Mr. Perkins. The company serves all the Eastern Connecticut border towns and communities in the Shore Line section east of the Connecticut river, as well as four towns in Rhode Island. Through acquiring various electric power companies and its territories and consolidating them under the direction of the parent company with headquarters at Norwich, the great corporation of which Mr. Perkins is the head saved consumers in its territory $600,000 last year and generated the necessary power to meet their requirements with 60,000 tons less of coal than would have been required had the communities served depended on merely a dozen antiquated plants that were closed after the Eastern Connecticut Power Company completed its consolidation of electrical power interests in the territory it serves. The closed plants were burning 6 to 7 pounds of coal per kilowatt hour to produce electrical energy that the Eastern Connecticut Power Company is now producing with two pounds of coal per hour, for similar returns.

Mr. Perkins assured his auditors, including the representatives of a number of important manufacturing concerns in this territory that his companies were prepared to meet any demand they might make for electric power and, that the corporation he heads has visualized a much more industrially active Eastern Connecticut with a greater diversification of manufacturing and commercial interests, and will willingly meet every demand for electric power, though this involves practically unlimited expenditures, to develop the service.

Mr. Perkins spoke here under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and was introduced by Attorney Harry E. Back, who presided. Representation of the Putnam Light and Power Company and the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric Company was large at the meeting, which was well worth while.

BACKWARD STUDENTS' MAKE FAST PROGRESS

An energetic principal in one of the large Boston public schools instituted a regime for sickly, poorly developed and backword children which showed remarkable results.

An outdoor class room was fitted up in a sheltered corner of the school yard, and during pleasant weather, all the weaker members from each class were sent here to take their regular work under a special instructor.

In addition, twice each day, during the forenoon and afternoon recesses, the children were served Horlick's Malted Milk.

By the end of the first month after the new plan had come into effect, there was an average gain in weight of three pounds among the pupils in this outdoor class, and teachers throughout the school noticed a decided increase in mental alertness interest and concentration.

New Bridge at Copenhagen.

The city of Copenhagen has recently called for competition on designing a high bridge across the harbor of Copenhagen. The construction of this bridge has long been discussed, and it is thought likely that present plans will materialize as traffic conditions make it necessary that some effort be made at improvement.

CONSTIPATION means DISEASE

These young rascals when they are well are the greatest institutions on earth. But when that insidious lurking monster—constipation—ties up their bowels, then the world is dark. Coated tongue, loss of appetite, wakefulness, bad breath, pimples, weakness, dull mind are only a few indications that you are going to have a mighty sick boy if you do not see that his clogged bowels are opened up at once.

Dr. Caldwell's

SYRUP PEPSIN

The Family Laxative

—relieves constipation. It appeals to the manly little fellow. Father, mother, sister and baby like it, too. And for 30 years it has pointed the way to health along Nature's road for all of them. A pleasant tasting combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and aromatics. 10,000,000 bottles used annually throughout the country prove its effectiveness.

As Easy To Take As Grandma's Jam

One dose is enough to remove the obstruction, and after that diminishing doses will allow Nature to again assert herself and resume her proper functions. A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home.

It is sold everywhere medicines are sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

MOTHERS OF DAUGHTERS

Will Profit by reading Mrs. Quigg's Letter Telling How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her Daughter

Royersford, Pa. — "My daughter was sickly from the time she was 13 years old, she was irregular and also had severe headaches, and pains in her sides and back. She was this way about six months before I began giving her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped her very much. She is not bothered by headaches, backaches, or cramping any more, and has not missed but one day. We recommend it to other mothers with girls who have these troubles."—Mrs. QUIGG, 210 Main Street, Royersford, Pa.

Another Mother's Letter

Roxbury, Mass.—"At the age of 16 my daughter was all run down, nervous, with poor blood. These troubles made her weak and unfit to work. She tried several medicines, but they did her no good. Finally I induced her to take the Vegetable Compound, too, and she has gained in health and strength and is now working steadily. I have told these facts to many mothers."—Mrs. HUDSON, 262 Eustis Street, Roxbury, Mass.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Al Barlow's Sunshine Revue opens at the Palace this afternoon for a two day stand and without a question of the doubt it is one of the snappiest revues on the road today. It has a cast of twenty people, wonderful dancers, wonderful singers, a great chorus and commedienne that will make you howl. The features of the Revue are: Phil Ott and Lew Morgan, comedians in English as it is not spoken. Margurite Howe, prima donna. Schultz and Rogers, black face singers and dancers. Irene Finley, full of pep soubrette. Sam Lee, novelty musical act—saxophone—one string violin, xylophone. Sunshine Quintette, toe dancers. Billie Hamlet, buck and wing dancer. Al Barlow and his stylish stepping Sunshine girls.

The show will play at the same popular prices.

The feature picture is Monty Banks in Racing Luck.

In "Racing Luck," Monty Banks is up against it hard when he loses a fortune that he had saved in which to go into business and bring his parents from Italy to enjoy new life in this country. Just when he and the girl of his young life, Rosina, played by Helen Ferguson, are mourning Monty's great financial loss Monty is dragged by the heels so to speak in a big international auto race when an ambitious press agent of the big contest, runs Monty's picture, in the newspapers, with a flaring caption, that he is the famous foreign driver that has been signed to drive a Comet car in the big race.

The rival auto company gets busy and offers Monty $5,000 to drive its car instead. The offer was made without the company knowing that any kind of a machine was all Greek to Monty. The money makes Monty's head swims and his fingers twitch. He signs for the big match. Then he takes driving lessons and is almost killed when things decline to budge an inch out of the way.

Into the race goes Monty and while he went many miles off the course, ran through fences, plunged over chasms, sped in between express trains on parallel railroad tracks and finally wound up in an explosion only to be declared the winner.

It is all done in the name of fun and it's jolly good fun, with many thrills the way Monty, Miss Ferguson and the villain, played by Francis McDonald enact the plot and comedy before the camera.

Broadway Theatre.

There never was a show that received a greater ovation than the one that played to a capacity audience at both performances yesterday. Of course its at the Broadway theatre.

Adams and Edler opened with a musical novelty with a variety of selections and instruments, making it as exceptional offering.

Mack & Watson in "The Cop," know how to present songs and comedy to good advantage and well deserved the rich applause.

A very pretty little offering followed called "The Rose Revue." A company of four people in songs and dances put over this neat entertainment hit.

The Temple Four, "Three Jacks and the Ace of Spades," kept the house in a tumult of laughter. The same vocal selections that made them favorites with George White's Scandal, is introduced.

A bang up closing act featuring the King of the Air met with well deserved success. The Four Casting Campbells are as funny as they are thrilling.

Does Tom "come through" in "Coming Through."

We'll say he does—with a bang!

"Coming Through" is Thomas Meighan's latest production for Paramount now at the Broadway theatre. The story is a picture version of "Red Rock," a mining novel by Jack Bethea.

Lila Lee, in her first screen role in more than a year, is featured at the head of a strong supporting cast. Wallace Beery gives one of his greatest characterizations as a roughneck mine foreman. Others in the cast are John Miltern as a multi-millionaire steel magnate, Laurence Wheat and Frank Campeau.

At the Strand.

Nothing but praise was heard from the opening of Over the Top With the Allies at the Strand yesterday. It is seldom a picture receiving as much publicity as this has had has lived up to all expectations but Over the Top With the Allies has fulfilled all promises. Again we say that the Richard E. Hourigan Post 564 Veterans of Foreign Wars are to be congratulated for being responsible for the showing of these films to Norwich. If you bought a ticket from one of the members of this organization be sure and use it and if you haven't bought one you will be only denying yourself of seeing with out a doubt the true and official pictures taken of the American boys in action during the late war. The pictures open with a history of the cost of lives, money, property loss and many other interesting things the average person never knew anything about. You are then shown the Italian, French, Canadian, and British Armies trying to hold the lines on the four famous battlefields. You see the men being mowed down by the dastardly German war implements and you will also see the Italians capturing an Austrian machine gun nest which cost the life of the cameraman who took this particular scene. Over the Top With the Allies is presented in such a way without disagreeable scenes and, you will thrill when you see the American troops land and take their place on the front line trenches relieving the allied army who after many months through summer and winter hold the Boche crossing into France. It is true the United States of America did owe a debt of gratitude to La Fayette and when you see the hardships and danger the American boys encountered during this late war, you will say that this famous general would have said "Well Done." It is positively the duty of every American to see these pictures and instruct the younger ones also because after the engagement at the Strand they will not be shown again in Norwich. Three performances will be given daily, at two, seven and eight forty-five. Doors open at 1:30 and six thirty.

Bread Theater

Speed—speed and more speed—that's Betty Compson in Miami, one of the greatest society pictures ever filmed and the feature attraction at the Bread theater today. Joan Bruce fears nothing and stops at nothing. A surf ride on an aquaplane towed by a speeding motor boat, an all night jazz party aboard a yacht a mad dive into the pool without even the conventional Annette Kellermans—these are some of the things by which she arouses a plane society world from its customary lethargy.

Advance showing of fur models in natural colors, the Pathe news and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

It is good that Danielson has very worthy citizens who are willing to serve the community as borough tax collector. Monday afternoon, Sidney H. Perry of Riverview announced that he is a candidate for the place. This is the second announcement of a candidacy for this office within a few days. Edward S. Carpenter, a tax collector in this town for 50 years, is retiring from office. Mr. Perry needs no press agent to broadcast the fact that he is well suited for the office he seeks. Long a resident of Danielson he ranks A-1 as a citizen. Mr. Perry has not been a holder of political office, but it would be a mighty fortunate town that could fill the places it had to offer with men of such sterling worth.

From the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy here Sunday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Sarah Baton, who died at East Killingly, was held with services at the Baptist church in Moosup, where she formerly lived, at 3:30 o'clock, Rev. C. S. Nightingale conducted the service. Burial was in the Union cemetery, Moosup. The bearers were Edward Gallup, James Parkhurst, Daniel Gallup, William and Dudley Williams and Henry White. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Today—St. Patrick's day—brings a respite for many here from the abstinences of the Lenten season. In view of the fact that it may be regarded as Mi-Carame—as about midway of the period of Lent—its observance will include entertainment of approved form and such mild diversions as strict observers of Lent allow themselves. St. Patrick's day emblems have found a ready market here for the past ten days and they will flood the mails, find places as favors and decorations today—the feast of Ireland's patron saint, observed here since, history states, 1763.

Disposition of the slot machines seized here a week ago last Saturday will have to wait another week. The hearing to determine whether the machines may be regarded as a nuisance was to have been held Monday morning, but illness of both Judge W. Benner Woodward and Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill made it desirable to continue the matter until Monday of next week. In the meantime the machines remain at the state police barracks and the whirl of their disks and the clatter of nickels and slugs is no longer heard in the land; at least, not in this immediate part of it.

That bus transportation is gaining favor may be admitted as a contention. During the past summer a new line of busses was put on between Providence and Hartford, via Danielson and Willimantic. The conservative averred the line would not pay. The optimistic that it would. The optimists appear to have won. One bus cared for the traffic for a time then another was required. On Monday of this week a third bus was put on the run. These palatial vehicles are getting patronage. Incidentally, that mean as much to Danielson, or Willimantic, insofar as furnishing transportation of local people, as do the Shore Line express trains. In a word, they make no stop here, taking passengers only at the terminal of the route. They handle through traffic between Hartford and Providence exclusively, and on an express service basis.

Assurance is given that the litter on Davis park is to be cleared up at the earliest possible moment. During the winter the trees about the park were trimmed and since the work was completed the litter of limbs and branches cut away has been allowed to remain on the park. Residents in the vicinity have waited patiently to see the discarded wood carted away. Many weeks of delay finds some of them complaining about the appearance of the park. And following this comes the word that the park will be cleared promptly.

The Windham county W. C. T. U. institute planned for Danielson is scheduled to be held at the Methodist church Thursday of this week, not on Tuesday, as previously printed.

Citizens who have an interest in what their town is doing in meeting the necessary expenses of its maintainance will not overlook the adjourned annual town meeting at which appropriations will be made for the current fiscal year.

At St. James' church a large class of boys and girls is being prepared for their first communion, each year a special ceremony on a Sunday during the Lenten season.

Services of the Tri-Church mission are being conducted at the Methodist church this week. Rev. W. Judson Setzer is the special preacher at these services. The choir is under the direction of Miss Elsa Gibson Nesbit, of New York.

Of interest here is the price of $74-25 recently paid for a block of the first preferred stock of the Connecticut Mills in a sale reported by a financial paper. Par on this issue, on which all dividends in arrears have been paid, is $100.

According to an almanac chiefly devoted to advise on how to keep your liver frisky, spring officially begins at 10:13 next Friday night, March 20. This gives the Cloud Digger only a few days in which to produce the usual semi-annual forecast, which incites so much controversy.

PUTNAM

At the meeting of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows this (Tuesday) evening, a large class of candidates is to be initiated including those of the local lodge, Quinebaug lodge of Danielson, and Protection lodge of Central Village. There will be many out of town visitors, among them officers of Webster, Mass., lodge.

Miss Anne Hogan, a student in the commercial department of Putnam night school, has been awarded a certificate by the Gregg company for a shorthand test taken at sixty words a minute for five minutes and transcribing notes accurately. These certificates are awarded monthly and the tests can be taken at either sixty, eighty or one hundred words a minute only one certificate of each kind being awarded to each person. Both the shorthand notes and the typewritten matter must be mailed to the Gregg Publishing Company and corrected and approved by them.

The certificate reads as follows: Gregg Transcription Test. Sixty words a minute. Miss Anne Hogan, having written for five minutes at sixty words a minute and having transcribed the notes neatly and accurately on the typewriter, is awarded this certificate as an evidence of stenographic progress. John R. Gregg, Author of Gregg Shorthand and Florence E. Ulrich, as general examiner.

The wheels of the Putnam Trade school have not missed a cog and all departments have been running smoothly during the past week. However, in the electrical department there was an undercurrent foreign to the power being genrated and in the textile department the fabric seemed a bit softer than usual. J. B. McCormick, instructor in the electrical department and Carleton Blossom instructor in the textile department have been distributing cigars, celebrating recent visits of the stork to their homes. Both departments have now settled down to their regular grind. The two instructors noticeably cover the route to their homes after shutting down three ni fewer minutes than they did last month, otherwise all is as usual.

Headquarters Company of the 43rd division is to hold its first ladies' night Wednesday. The armory will not be open to the public, only company members and their wives or young women friends being invited. The program will include a number of boxing and wrestling bouts, a basket ball game between the non-commissioned officers and the privates of the company and a social wih refreshments. Arthur C. Davidson is chairman of the committee, with Francis H. Murphy, A. J. Auger, Frederick H. Bennett and E. E. Lebeau.

Martin Griffin, formerly of Putnam, whose mother is still living here, who is with the firm of Jordan & Marsh of Boston, as a buyer will sail Saturday for a ten weeks' trip abroad and will have his headquarters in Paris. While abroad Mr. Griffin will visit France, England, Germany and Switzerland. This makes his fourth trip abroad as a buyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Forcier and daughter, Lucille of Woonsocket, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wells of Park street and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fontaine of Livery street.

Just why the state highway department has planned to build a new state highway northward from Morin avenue toward Attawaugan on the Putnam trunk line will be clear to anyone who rides up to Elmville these days. The old, battered macadam is like a washboard. It bounds a car like a baby is bounded on mother's knee.

JEWETT CITY

The same train that kindled the fire at Tadpole Monday afternoon, set the grass on fire near the Ninigret coal pocket. The flames were later communicated to a pile of bridge timber, belonging to the railroad company, which was partially destroyed. Men and boys were able to get the fire under control to such extent with pails that an alarm was not turned in.

It is of interest to know, as well as very commendable to Miss McCluggage, the operator on duty at the local exchange Monday afternoon that in response to the urgent calls for a doctor's services at the fatal burning accident she called the four doctors in Jewett City, and seven in Norwich without being able to get in touch with one, finally asking the hospital that a doctor accompany the ambulance to Jewett City.

The local observant citizen was overheard to remark late Monday evening, that the old burg was over the top again.

What with three men burned to death, ten cases in the town police court, and a bad mill accident, all within 24 hours, the man on the curb, allowed that the remark was about right. Nevertheless the government at Jewett City still lives and visitors may expect to find its police and doctors as well as law and order officials, on duty at any and all times.

WM. LA RUE INJURED ACCIDENT CAUSES PANIC

Jewett City, March 16—William La Rue of North Main St., is in Backus Hospital, Norwich, where he was taken late Monday afternoon. Four fingers had been severed at the second joint on the left hand, by the paper cutting machine in Aspinook Bleachery.

Great excitement prevailed as several girls screamed and fainted, and the young man's sister became hysterical. Several had to be carried to their homes. La Rue had only recently returned from the hospital after a surgical operation.

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED IN TOWN COURT MONDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Jewett City, March 16—Judge John T. Barry's Griswold town court did a record business Monday morning. A half dozen drunk cases were handled with dispatch, with varying fines imposed of from $1 to $5 and costs.

In the case of Dave Lockwood of White Rock, the accused entered a plea of guilty of driving without a registration and without a license. A man named Main, claimed that Lockwood borrowed his Ford, without asking permission. Evidence proved that things were in a sort of mixed up condition where hard cider and home brew had played a prominent part. Judge Barry imposed a fine of $3 for driving with no registration, $25 for not having a 1925 operator's license and $10 for the borrowing count, with costs.

During the trips that Lockwood made he drove to Moosup. Returning Sunday afternoon, when in Jewett City, the trouble began. As a result of the mixup connected with the hold-up by local men, Frank Parent was sent to Norwich jail for 20 days and fined $15 and costs. Tony LaFlamme was fined $100 and costs. Henry Willett, in the party, was discharged, as having no part in the fighting or hold-up.

Parent claimed that Lockwood bought gasoline up the line, for which he proposed to collect; also he gave it as his intention to get the fare for the jitney he had persued him in, or, he said, he would take it out of his hide. A fight, free-for-all followed.

Deputy Sheriff J. T. Dolan, later making the five arrests. While the scrapping was going on, Laflamme crawled under the Lockwood car, and tried to draw off the gasoline by opening the safety cocks on the storage tank. It was reported as being a safe bet, that if Parent and Lockwood had been alone, the former would have taken no part of the latter's hide.

MEN IN SUNDAY'S ACCIDENT HAVE LARGE FAMILIES

(Special to the Bulletin)

Jewett City, March 16—The charred body of John Gaska, 40, was taken from Hourigan Bros.' undertaking rooms to his home on Hill street, on Monday afternoon.

Men in the borough who were acquainted with these two occupants of the automobile, see in Sunday night's accident, the fatal results of a wreck which was not caused by any influence of the factor that figures so prominently in automobile wrecks of late. Gaska, leaves his wife and five children. Only one old enough to work.

The Ashland Cotton Company and Lionel Boucher, by whom Gaska was employed, have to say that besides being capable and reliable, he was a steady man at his work, quiet and always on the job.

Since the wreck it has been learned that John Gaska, was not qualified to run a Ford car. Information learned relative to his position in the burned car establishes the fact that he was not attempting to do so when the car overturned in the road.

Osga, has 10 children of varying age all small. It is believed that a faulty steering gear may have caused the swerve from the road, which ended in the shocking accident.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. Agnes Broulette, of Springfield, Mass, spent the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bertwhistle.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Lee & Osgood and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for You.

A POOR IMPRESSION.

By the second rejection of Charles H. Warren as attorney general the senate has made it evident that it is unwilling to cooperate with the president and it is unwilling to permit the unbroken practice of three generations, whereby the president selects his own cabinet, to continue.

It is one of those situations which had been hoped had been overcome by the election in November. It is a situation which is in control of the insurgent republicans aided by the support of the minority party. It is a situation which has been brought about by a determination to embarrass, in spite of the admission on the part of the democrats that such a policy in the past was a mistake and the position taken by democratic senators that it was the privilege of the president to name the members of his official family.

If it were a case where it was possible to point out anything to disqualify the person nominated the situation would be entirely different. The only thing against Mr. Warren, if it can be said to be against him, is that he served a sugar corporation, and it would be no small problem to find any previous attorney general whose ability had not been recognized by some big corporation and his services obtained. That provides no disqualification. Repeated instances of the kind have resulted in such persons being active and persistent "trustbusters."

The opposition in the senate may be using the connection with the sugar corporation as the excuse. Indications point very strongly to the fact that the senate is playing politics, that there are those who desire to embarrass the administration and they have been successful in getting sufficient democratic support to accomplish it. It makes a very poor impression. The situation would be different if it was this administration which had presented a Fall or a Daugherty, both of whom were endorsed by the senate.

THE COUZENS INQUIRY.

There are times when the charge of prevarication is strongly hinted at in the senate even though it is against the rules of that body to make it. It was because of the belief that it was deserved that Senator Ernst asked the upper house of congress how he could make it without violating the rules. It was a new method of applying it, and it was based upon the statement that had previously been made by Senator Couzens relative to the income tax inquiry and his claims concerning difficulties encountered.

Much reason has been given for the belief that the Couzens inquiry has been prompted by resentment of an imaginary affront. He has indicated that there is anything but good feeling toward the secretary of the treasury, and he has proceeded to present his interpretation of conditions which exist concerning the determination and fixing of income taxes.

It is a bit bothersome that he should fall victim to a claim by the treasury department that he is $10,000,000 short in the tax he should have paid. He raises a great howl about it, but he seems to think that even if other cases of years ago are brought to attention by himself it is gross injustice that he should be placed in the same class. He is in fact unwilling that his case of 1919 should be given the same scrutiny that he seeks for others, and while he is demanding light on the methods of settlement in the cases of others he is much disturbed to think that his transaction should not remain hidden to the eyes of the public.

In this connection Carter Glass, former secretary of the treasury and now democratic senator, advances the opinion that the Couzens case was properly disposed of and he even goes further and states that in his belief the whole inquiry which has been conducted by Senator Couzens is unwarranted. In other words it is a case of much ado about nothing, an inquiry that never should have been started and if Mr. Couzens is being made uncomfortable by the claim against him it is only what he invited by his action. Heretofore his wrath has been given the same consideration as others. If the other cases call for different treatment then it is time that he was treated in the same way.

PATRONAGE OF INSURGENTS.

When the recent caucus of republicans in the United States decided upon the dropping of those insurgents who had put themselves outside of the republican party the action was taken for the purpose of freeing the party of an uncertain and bothersome element. A complete riddance may not have been obtained but the dropping of those for whom sufficient reason existed was accomplished.

When it came to the matter of withholding petty patronage from such congressmen it was a different matter. There is a difference between dropping the four senators and denying them patronage, quite the same as there is a difference between reading them out of the party and denying their constituents representation at Washington.

In deciding that petty patronage should not be withheld from the quartette consideration is given to the constituents of those congressmen, constituents who are republicans, constituents who voted under the republican standard and who have, therefore, a right to expect a certain number of appointments at the hands of their representatives.

It is in deference to such constituencies that the republican majority in the senate have acted, a fact which will not go unnoticed. It cannot fail to carry its significance to the voters of the respective states quite the same as the dropping of the senators from the party have.

The insurgent senators have been treated with far more consideration than they deserve from the course they have taken. Their treatment was of course invited. They have obtained what they sought, but it will not be possible for them to go back to their constituents and point out to them that the voters have been wrongly handled by the action of the senate republicans. Perhaps they would have liked it better if the republican majority had given them this added grievance. Their treatment needed to be and is personal.

THE LAST MINUTE CROWD.

Even with the added day that was given to the payers of income taxes because the 15th fell on Sunday, there was plenty of business for the collectors of internal revenue from the last minute crowd.

It is conceivable that there are conditions under which some might be expected to get in at the last minute, but for the most part there is little excuse for such tardiness. For more than two months the blanks have been available. During that time it has been possible for individuals to find out what their income was during 1924, figure up the tax they must pay and forward the report and money to the internal revenue collector, or leave it with the numerous deputies which are nearer.

With the person who fails to put in his tax list there is provision made that it shall be ten percented. Some prefer that to making an actual declaration of their property. With the income tax payer there is no such provision. He must get his report in on time or it is too late, and if it is too late there is a penalty attached with means more than a ten per cent increase in the amount on which the tax is figured.

Procrastination is the reason for most of the cases of "too-late" reports. Getting them ready is delayed when there is time, and when the time limit is about ready to expire there is no way of avoiding the crowd or of extending the time. It is one of those weaknesses of humanity which has long existed and which doesn't seem to improve very much except among those who feel the effects of the penalty.

"REMEMBER THE MAINE."

It is more than a quarter of a century since the American battleship Maine was sunk in the harbor of Havana. That meant the loss of 266 lives and was the act that precipitated the war in Cuba that resulted in its freedom.

"Remember the Maine," was the slogan that developed from that tragic affair. However strongly opinion may be concerning the cause of the Maine's sinking it has never been definitely determined to the point of having the guilty admit it.

Certainly there is no danger that the affair will ever be forgotten in the history of Cuba, any more than others will forget the Boston tea party or the sinking of the Lusitania. But it is nevertheless a fitting memorial which has been erected in Havana for the crew of the Maine. Interest of course centered in the participating in its dedication by this government with General Pershing as its spokesman, by the Cuban government with its president and by the Spanish government with the Spanish minister placing a wreath at its base.

Such a participation is a recognition of the conditions which prevail today in Cuba where there have disappeared the underlying causes which provided the possibility of the Spanish-American war, where there is a much better state of affairs and where there is a much brighter outlook for the island and its people.

However improbable it is that there would ever be forgotten such an event as sent the forces of this country into Cuba, it has been made certain that the memorial structure just dedicated will always stand as a reminder of the great tragedy in Havana harbor. It stands for "Remember the Maine."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

You are, of course, aware of the color the day calls for.

The man on the corner says: Conversation seldom lags about unpleasant subjects.

If Europe is trying to lure jazz talent from this country, is it likely to encounter much opposition?

March can be raw and bleak, but if it is the last kick of winter, accept it with a smile and think of what's coming.

That the new half cent stamp is to carry a likeness of Nathan Hale ought to mean a large demand for them in Connecticut.

And yet there are some who would have had the 68th congress called for a special session that might have lasted all summer.

The added day of grace was greatly appreciated by those who always wait until the night before to make out their income tax blank.

Wherever it is claimed that municipal lighting plants are making money emphasis is placed on the need of keeping them out of politics. It is a vital secret.

What the legislative committee wants today is a real picture of the conditions and situation surrounding our gas and electric light plant, a plain statement of facts as they exist.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, March 16.—Among the trenchant phrases and epigrams with which President Coolidge's inaugural address abounded was one at which we shall hear more, very often, and in many places, and in state and local even more than in national affairs. That was the phrase "legalized larceny," which he applied to all collection of taxes not necessary or not undoubtedly for the public welfare. A century and a half ago America maintained the proposition that taxation without representation was tyranny. Today the American president puts forward a worthy companion to it, that taxation without public need is larceny.

It would be profitable, were it possible, to analyze all our taxation, and ascertain how much of it incurs that blasting reproach. Particularly would it be desirable thus to deal with the taxation which originates nearest to the people. For it is worthy of note that the nearer to the people taxes are, the higher they are and the more rapidly they are rising; while on the contrary and most illogically, the further from the people they are, the more complaint is made against them. National taxation is lowest, and is the only form that is decreasing, yet it is the chief object of complaint. Local taxes are highest, and are increasing most, and yet they are regarded with most complacence.

The total of state, county and municipal taxes in 1902 averaged throughout the United States $9.22 per capita. In 1913 it had risen to $13.91. In 1922 it was no less than $32.23. The increase from 1902 to 1912 was more than 50 per cent; that from 1912 to 1922 was more than 131 per cent. That from 1902 to 1922 was more than 249 per cent.

Citizens will do well to consider, and so far as possible to investigate and ascertain, to what extent such increase of their taxes—levied and collected not by the national government but by their state and county and, most of all, city or township governments—was in fact "absolutely required" and did "beyond reasonable doubt contribute to the public welfare." And having done that, they will do well to regard all taxation beyond that limit as "legalized larceny" and call to a strict accounting those who are responsible for such theft. That trenchant phrase of the president's may well be heard in more than one state campaign, and in innumerable city campaigns and town meetings.

Further Income Tax Cut.—It is more likely that the income taxes paid by the people of the nation will be cut next year. This result can be accomplished if the suggestions of President Coolidge to congress and the heads of the different departments of the federal government are carried out to the fullest extent. It would mean that the income tax rates now in force would be cut at least 25 per cent for next year, by a bill which will be introduced at the early part of the next session of congress.

President Coolidge has had several conferences with Representative Martin Madden, chairman of the appropriations committee in the house, in regard to the matter and Madden is confident that if congress will back up the president the cut in income taxes for next year can be accomplished.

An interesting sidelight into the matter of appropriations this year is that by heeding the president's directions, appropriations $8,000,000 below the budget's estimates, were passed at the last session of the 68th congress; put in plain language, this means that even with the figures of the budget taken as a basis, congress, at the direction of the president, has saved $8,000,000 more of the tax payers' money than was hoped for at the beginning of the session. It is also of interest to note that during the past four years congress has spent $250,000,000 less than was proposed.

At the next session of congress, Madden will call up his resolution which would result in making income taxes automatic. This plan would do away with continuous income tax legislation, although in an emergency congress would have the power to repeal the act. The plan would mean that when the treasury had a surplus of over $50,000,000, a proportionate automatic decrease would be made in everyone's income tax.

It is known here that President Coolidge has for some time been having an extensive survey of government financial conditions made, as he is determined not only to save the tax payers' money but to cut off all needless expenditures; all of which means the carrying out of his promise to the people that whenever possible federal taxes would be lowered.

Labor Board Decision.—There is no defeat for the principle of arbitration in the decision of the supreme court, that a railroad company is not under compulsion to submit to the arbitration of the railroad labor board any dispute which it may have with its employes, because it at the same time emphasizes the inevitable alternative, that the company shall settle the dispute through direct negotiation with its men. It is obvious that the latter course is the preferable one, whenever it can be made successful; precisely as in international disputes a settlement by direct negotiation is desirable, and is always to be attempted before recourse is had to arbitration.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was some years ago made a sort of national dictator of baseball. The Hon. Will Hays was similarly placed as the head of the movies. The other day ex-Secretary Hughes was suggested as a national dean or what not of religious education—which of course he would have declined to be. Also we have heard of a national director of electric railways, and of other industries. One wonders to what extent we may see the activities of the country thus coordinated, standardized and controlled. Shall we some day see a national padrone of bootblacks?

The strange complaint has been made regarding the vice president's statesmanlike and patriotic strictures upon the senate rule which permits any one member to thwart the will of all the other 95 and of the nation that elected them, that they were "untimely." We should say that they were conspicuously timely. The senate had for several days, and down to within a few hours before General Dawes made his speech, been giving a peculiarly flagrant, offensive and injurious example of the very evil against which he spoke. There can be no better time to rebuke an evildoer than when he is caught in the act. And we fancy that it was chiefly for that very reason, because the senate itself had just given so great occasion for them, and because the need of them was so fresh in the public mind, that General Dawes' words so sharply stung some of the senators to the quick.

Great Britain has repudiated the "Protocol of Peace" of the league of nations, because she thinks it is not compatible with the welfare and interests of her world-wide empire. Italy objects to it, because it would not give her as much assurance of security as an old-fashioned alliance would. France thinks little of it, because it would not assure her protection against invasion. Thus each power acts according to its own real or supposed selfish interests. Surely the United States is entitled for precisely the same reason to stay out of the league of nations.

For the seven months ended January last imports increased $106,000,000 and exports $231,000,000 over the corresponding period ended January 31, 1924. The tariff isn't so bad.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gas and Electric Department Engaged Own Auditors.

Mr. Editor: Referring to the letter dated March 14, 1925, appearing in The Norwich Bulletin, March 16, 1925, signed "TAXPAYER," the remarks referring to Alexander H. Manes, of Norwich, who volunteered to express his opinion at the city meeting, duly held on January 26, 1925, at the town hall and at which every citizen of Norwich had a right to speak, are not justified.

Mr. Manes' remarks were followed by an approval of the majority of the citizens at the city meeting of January 26, 1925.

Mr. Manes is not and never has been the auditor of the gas and electric department. Mr. Manes is not, as stated in the above communication in The Norwich Bulletin, getting part of his living for the work he is doing for the gas and electric plant. Mr. Manes, as shown by the following resolution of the court of the common council of the city of Norwich was duly appointed auditor of the various city departments, excepting the water department, at a compensation not to exceed $250. The following is a copy of the resolution of the court of common council of the city of Norwich of June 6, 1924:

"Resolved, That Alexander H. Manes, is hereby appointed auditor of the various departments except the water department at a compensation not to exceed $250."

It is true that one of the departments of the city is the gas and electric department. At the time that Mr. Manes was making an audit for the city of Norwich, auditors from another city had been engaged by the gas and electric department to audit the gas and electric department books. As city auditor Mr. Manes also made an examination of books of the gas and electric department.

Mr. Manes has never done any work for the gas and electric department except as city auditor. The gas and electric department, as previously stated, engaged its own auditors.

When Mr. Manes made his address at the citizens meeting in the town hall on January 26, it was done for the interest of the citizens of Norwich. Mr. Manes has given his efforts and time to this matter without any expected compensation. Mr. Manes has not been influenced by any other motive than that for the good of the city of Norwich.

Is it fair that such comments should be made as have been made in the aforesaid communication, signed "Taxpayer," appearing in The Norwich Bulletin of March 16, 1925?

Mr. Manes is a certified public accountant, member of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants, member of the Norwich Lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E., vice president of the Rose of New England lodge, Bnai Brith, secretary of the Norwich Hebrew Benevolent Association, secretary of the United Brothers Congregation, member of the New York Hebrew Mutual Benefit Society and member of the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

Among the names of the prominent public spirited men who has signed the petition to the governor and state legislature were the names of two former mayors of the city of Norwich and three councilmen of the city of Norwich.

THERE ARE LIMITS

"I have got to do something with Cyril!" stated the fond but exasperated mother. "There are a lot of my best pearl beads rolled beneath the radiators and goodness knows where! I came in just as he was cutting the string with my manicure scissors and sliding them off and I have spent one hour trying to collect them! When I inquired why, that child just looked at me sweetly and said a fairy must have done it—a little fairy with green eyes and long golden hair!"

"You don't say," cried the fond and enthusiastic father. "Now, I call that wonderful imagination in a child of 6 and it would be a crime to quell it, Esmeralda. What are a few pearl beads to the development of a mind like that!

"Why, I have big hopes of Cyril! Any child might have thought of the fairy, but I don't believe there is another one in this block who could have gone in to green eyes and golden hair! If he had said blue eyes it would have been ordinary, but green ones are simply a stroke of genius! I'll bet he will write a best seller before he is 21 and think how embarrassed you would be then to remember the fuss you made."

"I'm lots more concerned over my Paris' beads right now than I am in the literature of 1939." the exasperated mother insisted. "And the cook reports she thought she had a crock half full of cookies and when she went to get a plateful for lunch all that met her gaze was half a cooky and two of Cyril's marbles. He says a wicked dwarf with fire-red whiskers must have eaten them all up!"

"Well, I never!" declared the enthusiastic father. "Think of that, will you! Just wait till I tell the fellows at the club! I'll bet they'll hang their heads in shame! Not one of 'em has a kid who could think up a thing as startling as that! I am simply amazed at your total lack of appreciation of what we have in Cyril!"

"How do you get this way?" begged the exasperated mother indignantly. "What I am trying to find out is how I can make him a comfortable member of society who will respect the rights of others. I don't want a genius in the family any more than I want six mad dogs and three trained bolsheviks! If he goes on nobody will believe a word he says and anyhow it is criminal for him to shift responsibility this way!"

The enthusiastic father shook his head in kindly reproach. "I don't know what to make of you, Esmeralda," he said. "I hate to think you have an absolutely conventional mind, 1910 model! Golly! Wait till Hamburger begins to relate some silly thing his kid has done and which he tries to twist into a remarkable happening! It'll finish him for keeps when I trot out our Cyril's red-whiskered dwarf and the rest of the crowd! I never should have thought of such a thing in a hundred years and here Cyril, a mere child of 6, tosses off an idea like that with no effort at all!

"The more I think of it the more interested I become wondering how far he will go! The smart little beggar! Where's my new box of cigars?"

"You put them in the humidor," reminded the exasperated mother peevishly. "I must say you are no help at all—"

"Sa-a-ay!" choked the enthusiastic father bending over something next the bookcase. "Look at this. Five dollars' worth of cigars all crumbled up to make a tanbark ring for some Noah's ark horses and things! Whaddyuh suppose—"

The exasperated mother suddenly looked like a cat that has eaten the canary and a whole bottle of cream.

"Oh," she murmured airily, "no doubt if you inquire you will find that an awful ogre with red-hot eyes did that unless Cyril can think up something better! Where are you going!"

But the enthusiastic father, who had started off like a man who had a quick and snappy deed of reparation in mind, did not pause to answer.—Chicago News.

NEW BOOKS

Anything But the Truth. By Carolyn Wells. Cloth, 319 pages. Published by J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

This is the vehicle which permits Fleming Stone to solve another mystery, interestingly developed and unraveled by one whose work of that character is well and favorably known by a large reading public.

The story concerns the murder of Austin Eldridge. Whoever killed him was daring and quick. His guests and relatives were assembled on his lawn awaiting luncheon while his adopted daughter was brooding in the hammock her guardian's inexplicable objection to her marriage to young Maxwell.

There were many in Shoredale who would not mourn that death; many who would have rifled the dead man's desk for documents they would like to keep from the police. There was added to the mystery the stabbing of the butler and the slipping into the house of the mother of young Maxwell about midnight. As amateur detective, Peter Thorne, had busied himself in the case by arranging the paper weight to betray an alien presence. But though Thorne might find the adoption papers which proved the daughter's right to the Eldridge fortune, it remained for Fleming Stone to disclose the murderer. In this curious case one is bound to become absorbed in the dramatic suspense and the bewildering clues.

Industrial Ownership. Its economic and social significance. By Robert S. Brookings. Cloth, 105 pages, with appendix and index. Published by The MacMillan Company, New York. Price $1.25.

"The capital-labor problem, the many phases of which have been so long under discussion, is in process of solution through the wide distribution of industrial ownership among relatively small stockholders." Capital and management are now receiving no greater compensation in industry than in non-labor employing activities (such as banking, etc.)—the minimum compensation necessary to maintain them in industry. Therefore the problem is now not a problem of labor and capital, but a problem of labor and the public.

Mr. Brockling supports these points of his by some interesting tables of comparative profits, and then goes on to show that labor representation in the management of industry and increased production per capita will result in better living conditions for the workers. To prevent waste in industry and increase production he favors modifying the anti-trust laws and eliminating the restrictive practices of trade unions.

To Revelation. By Thomas Sawyer. Cloth, 660 pages. Published by the author, Beverly Hills, California. Price $5.

The purpose of this book is "to reveal long hidden truths which should have been taught as primary lessons in the proper development of humas intellect" and is intended to "teach men to do their own thinking, that they may realize their own natural powers for self development and protection."

The author does not subscribe to the doctrine which teaches that the truth should be suppressed rather than reflect to the discredit of powerful institutions or persons in high places, but asserts that researches have been made along legitimate lines and the discoveries are such as to vitally affect mankind at large.

It is the belief of the author that he has thoroughly solved the great mystery of Christianity, and even as he reveals his findings he anticipates the opposition that can be counted upon and the resentment that may be engendered.

It is his view that "The masses are not mentally qualified to reason out the dangers of great national tendencies, and the ravenous non-tenders are devouring them. Human energy is the coin of the world today, and the parasitic classes devouring it and concealing it in great masses of dead property. If the burden is not lightened the breakdown is not far distant."

Stories That Recall Others

Why Mother's Hair Turns Gray.

Charles Dickens' "Old Curiosity Shop" has nothing on the pockets of a certain youngster whose trousers pockets were found the other day bulging, almost to the bursting point with contrivances dear to the average boy's heart.

When the situation was discovered the boy's mother decided to investigate and this is what she found: Nine hickory nuts, one adjustable motorcycle wrench, a rubber band, one radiator drain plug, a pair of pliers, two ornamental harness rings, one tire valve core, two valve caps, one stub lead pencil, large overcoat button, one pair of leather and one pair of cotton gloves, a celluloid hairpin, two lead weights for fishing lines, an illustration from a magazine, a United States marine collar ornament, a button from a marine blouse, a leather shoe lace, a small stove bolt, a large flat washer, two rollers from a roller bearing, a stove hinge rivit, a tenpenny nail, two matches and a spring from an oscillating magnete.

Auer's Dreams Shattered at 73

As a boy Leopold Auer dreamed of his triumphant debut as a musician only to be mat stern disillusionment; in old age he lived the life of his boyhood dreams, but saw it all snatched from him.

In Veszprim, the town in which he was born, his father, a poor house painter, boasted of Leopold's gift for music. At eight the boy entered the Budapest Conservatory and studied violin. When it was announced that he would give his first concert in the National Opera House, he and his father dreamed of the riches that would come as a result—but all the lad received were a few words of praise in the newspapers that did not even prompt offers of engagements. At 13 the lad had earned a diploma and won a medal from the Vienna Conservatory and with his father suffered privation and hardship on concert tours during the next two years.

After studying in Hanover with Joachim, he was engaged as concertmaster for the concert society in Dusseldorf. Four years later he was appointed professor in the Imperial Conservatory of Petrograd, Russia, and soloist of the Czar. He became popular as a court soloist, serving under three czars. His fame as an instructor spread and pupils came to him from many parts of the world. He taught Mischa Elman, Jascha Heifetz, Elfrem Zimbalist, Kathleen Parlow and many others whose great successes brought the name of Leopold Auer prominently before the world.

Becoming a Russian subject he later was decorated by Russia and France, and was created an honorary noble and state councillor of Russia. Surrounded by luxury and with success smiling upon him, his life was indeed pleasant.

Then came the World war and the revolution that shook Russia. Only through the personal intervention of the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs was Auer able to get a passport to leave the country, and at 73 he landed in New York with his sole possession.

American gave him a hearty welcome, he gave concerts and lessons, was married, at 75 and now is happy in this land of freedom and hope.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Alfred Pearce Dennis, of Maryland, who has been appointed to the United States Tariff Commission, has had a varied and interesting career as a college professor, farmer, Alaskan explorer, lumber dealer, magazine writer, commercial attache at Rome and London, and economic investigator in some eighteen European countries for the U. S. department of commerce. At Princeton University he was an instructor in history and constitutional law in the department then headed by Woodrow Wilson. He later was called to Smith college, where for eight years he held a chair in history and public law. In 1906 Mr. Dennis was forced by ill health to abandon teaching for a life out of doors. For several years thereafter he engaged in the lumber business. Then, in 1919, he was appointed commercial attache to the American embassy in Rome, and a year later he was transferred to London. More recently Mr. Dennis has been engaged in special work at the department of commerce in Washington.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Seville

Seville, Spain, is to be the scene of an Ibero-American Exposition in 1927. The United States has been invited to participate.

"Seville might be called the foster mother of the New World," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Seville was one of the favorite residence cities of Ferdinand and Isabella, and there Columbus discussed with them his epoch-making voyage to the west. When he sailed it was from Palos a few miles from the from Palos, a few miles from the mouth of the Guadalquivir on the lower reaches of which Seville lies; and in late voyages he sailed from or returned to San Lucar, a sort of outlying port of Seville, where the Guadalquivir meets the sea.

"As soon as the exploitation of the New World began in earnest it was Seville that played the major role. There most of the expeditions were arranged, sailing either from the river port itself or from San Lucar. To control the New World trade, the Spanish sovereigns gave Seville a monopoly; and into this city poured the treasure that the galleons brought across the sea, and from it flowed the products of the homeland. It became the richest port in Spain and remained so for about two centuries, when, due to the silting of the Guadalquiver, Cadis surpassed it.

"To most readers of history and geography, one of the fascinating features of Spain is its mixture of Castilian and Moorish factors. Nowhere are the results of this union of the two diverse civilizations seen to better advantage today than in Seville, the metropolis of the south, 'the Pearl of Andalusia.' Though Granada's Alhambra probably surpasses Seville's Alcazar, there is at most only a minor gulf of architectural excellence and beauty between these two great masterpieces of the Moorish palace builders; and in other architectural features Seville is fairly saturated in a Moorish atmosphere. The patio, the contribution of the Moors, reaches its greatest development in Seville; there is hardly a dwelling of any consequence not provided with its open courtyard. Moorish windows and doors, Moorish pillars, and the bright, colorful tilework in which Moorish artisans excelled are encountered on every side.

"Under the Moors Seville was a sort of Utopia of luxury. Beautiful palaces were built; the streets were paved and lighted; dwellings were artificially heated in winter; and the more luxurious residents cooled their houses in summer with air piped from flower gardens that it might be scented as well. The libraries of the city drew scholars from all Europe; chemists worked in its halls of learning; and from the tall Giralda tower astronomers of no mean ability studied the stars. Music, art and literature flourished.

"No wonder a city with such traditions produced in later years a Velasquez, a Murillo and a Cervantes, or harbored such adventurous travelers as Columbus, Magellan and the Pizarros.

"Seville—or properly, 'Sevilla,' for the English language has taken liberties with the city's name—has returned to its rank of importance in southern Spain and is today a flourishing port as well as a great city. Its population is about 210,000, making it Spain's fourth city. It is surpassed in size by Madrid, Barcelona and Valencia, but by the latter with only a small margin. It lies 54 miles up the Guadalquiver river from the Gulf of Cadiz, well within tide water, and thanks to modern dredging and channel straightening, ships of 4,000 tons reach its extensive quays.

"The older part of Seville bears a strong impress of its Moorish past: close-set white houses, overhanging balconies, glimpses of orange-shaded patios and splashing fountains; narrow streets that double and twist and seem to lead nowhere. These with a modicum of romance and curiosity in their make-ups will love to poke about in old Seville, treading, perhaps, in the steps of Pedro the Cruel, who armed with his trusty rapier played by night in this western Bagdad a role like that of Haroun al Raschid. For those who prize the modern methods of city building there are the broad, airy thoroughfares of the newer parts of Seville, and the shady gardens and parks along the banks of the muddy Guadalquivir.

"Seville's latitude is that of Richmond, Virginia, but its climate is semi-tropical. Palms flourish and roses and oranges bloom the year round. The winters, springs and autumns are delightful, but in summer the temperature is uncomfortably hot during much of the day. The ardent summer sun does not bother the seasoned Sevillano overmuch, however. He has developed to perfection the art of living in such a climate. From shortly before midday for four or five hours Seville takes its siesta, leaving the streets practically deserted. By five o'clock the city is alive again and from then on one may watch the ebb and flow of smart life in the narrow Calle de Sierpes (street of the Serpents) where clubs, cafes and the better shops are concentrated, or in the charmingly named Paseo de los Delicias (the Promenade of the Delights.) Time lost in the siesta is fully made up; night life becomes early morning life in Seville and a not unreasonable regular retiring hour is two to four a. m.

"The center of interest to a tourist in Seville, both physically and historically, is the beautiful and graceful Giralda, watch tower of the centuries, as famous in its way as the Campanile of Venice. Rising more than 300 feet, it tops everything in Seville. The lower two-thirds of the structure was built about 1,200 a. d. by the Moors to serve as a call tower for their mosque, and the upper portion was added in the same style by Spanish builders in 1568.

"From the Giralda one sees the bright, clean city of Seville spread out in every direction. It is set in a vast plain of extreme fertility. The squares and triangles of gardens and fields fill the ground for many miles. Beyong rise hills covered with vineyards and olive orchards. It is a land filled with the Latin equivalent for milk and honey—bread, oil and wine."

A Message To Particular Women of Norwich

If you will get from your druggist a six ounce bottle of Kojene, which costs but 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co. and progressive druggists everywhere, you will learn some very important truths about feminine hygiene that will prove a revelation to you.

Kojene is not poisonous—you can drink it with safety, yet as an antiseptic it is four times as powerful as Carbolic Acid and much more powerful than bi-chloride of mercury, both of which are a menace to any home and should be banished from it.

Money back if you don't say Kojene is the most wonderful antiseptic in the world.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frank Chapin Cutler.

(Contributed.)

The death of Mrs. Marian Clark Cutler, wife of Frank Chapin Cutler, which occurred in New London on Sunday, removed a valued and interesting life. Born in Norwich, daughter of the late George Russell and Mary Perkins Clark, she was educated in the public schools of this city, graduating from the Free Academy and later attending Mrs. Wheelock's school in Providence where she took a course in kindergarten teaching and later accepted a position in that department in the Greeneville public school which she filled with marked success for two years until her marriage. Early in life she united with the Second Congregational church of this city, later transferring her membership to the Piedmont Congregational church of Worcester, Mass., her home for a number of years.

Deeply interested in genealogy she found much pleasure in tracing family ancestry and by that means became a member of the society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, General Society of Mayflower Descendants and the National Society of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America.

Developing a decided talent for music she studied voice culture under Wilhelm Heinrich, later with Ivan Morawski of Boston and with Prof. D. T. Babcock of Providence. Having a pure soprano voice, and her husband being an accomplished musician, their combined talents gave much pleasure to their privileged hearers. Also gifted with literary ability she wrote short stories, especially for children which have been published in magazines.

A very devoted wife and mother, with bright and cheerful manner and kindly interest in all that makes home life pleasant, she leaves a memory that will ever be precious.

She is survived by her husband and a son Russell Clark Cutler, and a brother, Charles P. Clark of Pawtucket, R. I.

FUNERALS

John Goddard

The funeral of John Goddard, formerly of this city, who died Saturday in Waterbury, was held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the home of his niece, Mrs. William Ensling, No. 65 Sherman street. A requiem mass was celebrated in St. Patrick's cuhrch at 9 o'clock by Rev. Ernest Wilson of Bridgeport and Prof. Frank L. Farrell presided at the organ. Mrs. Farrell sang Bealtiful Land on High as a waiting hymn.

The bearers were William and Paul Ensling, Albert and Louis Zeigelmayer, Charles Paradis, Jr., of Nashua, N. H., and Henry Paradis, also of Nashua. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery. Rev. Myles P. Galvin conducting the committal service. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and there were many beautiful floral remembrances. Hourigan Bros. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Miss Mary Colvin

Miss Mary Colvin, 85, died in Hampton Thursday morning at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bryon Colvin. Miss Colvin was born in Plainfield, and lived there most of her life. During the last few years, while an invalid, she made her home in Hampton.

Funeral services were held Sunday, at 1 o'clock in the Baptist church at Moosup, with burial in Jewett City.

Asks Foreclosure in Mystic

John Reposki of Monson, Mass., has filed in the superior court for this county, a foreclosure action against John and Anna Hazlin of North Stonington. It is claimed in the complaint that Jan. 31, 1920, the defendant gave the plaintiff his note for $3,000 and mortgaged property in Mystic to secure the note. The note is overdue and unpaid.

BURNED TO DEATH BY GRASS FIRE IN JEWETT CITY FIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, March 16.—Larry Nealon, a man around 40, an employe in the Aspinook bleachery, was burned to death here shortly after noon today. A spark from a passing train or something else, set fire to the leaves and grass in the vicinity of the lower Tadpole bridge. Presently a passing trolley crew noticed that the fire was assuming alarming proportions. After this fact was reported at the depot, the section men were sent to the place to fight the flames.

Nealon was found by the section foreman, Nelson Grenier, among the burning limbs and leaves where he had evidently wandered in, off the main highway, to sleep. From his waist down the clothing was burned from his body, and there were evidences of asphyxiation from the smoke. Seeing that, as the section men said "there was breath in his body" emergency calls were sent to all the physicians in town. Medical Examiner Dr. G. H. Jennings was the first to arrive. Officer Henry Vieregarde was soon on the scene. A call was sent to the Backus hospital in Norwich, asking them to come with a nurse in a hurry. Evidence is plenty that no time was lost, but the man died, even as they were preparing to place him in the ambulance.

The news spread rapidly and in 20 minutes traffic regulations were necessary on the state road.

It is recalled that Nealon was struck here by the boat train about two years ago, at which time he was taken to the Backus hospital where it was not believed, for several days, he would live.

Medical Examiner Jennings gave permission for the body to be removed to Hourigan Bros.' undertaking rooms.

Nealon has relatives in Greeneville. Here he was a boarder on Brown avenue.

Nealon was born in Ireland but had lived in this country since he was about 16, most of the time in Norwich. He was unmarried. His nearest relative is a cousin, Patrick Nealon of 45 Mowry avenue, this city.

NEW LONDON'S TENTATIVE BUDGET IS $1,500,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 16—The city council had its business duds on tonight and that body was in session more than two hours in the consideration of matters that came before it, but it didn't get to the consideration of building lines on Bank street as the preparation of them is more of a task than was anticipated by the council a week ago when it ordered a report to be made by the city manager this evening. That official asked for another week to prepare the plans and report. The extension of time was granted. There were five applications for permits to build and they were all granted. The council voted to buy 300 feet of curbing at $1 a foot. It was decided also to go to the expense of $8,200 for placing side tracks to accommodate business near the crossing at Trumbull street, the expense to be shared by the city and the Gulf Refining company which have the use of the tracks. A tentative budget for the year was presented and it calls for appropriations of nearly $1,500,000. The council voted to issue school funds, refunding bonds to the amount of $60,000 to take up 30 years school bonds that will come due this year. The bonds are to bear 4 per cent. interest. A proposed ordinance creating zones for residents and business structures was presented that appeared to have "teeth" in it to govern the building of structures hereafter and which will preserve resident sections to dwellings only. It was referred to the planning board which has had the matter under consideration for a report.

The sum of $150,000 for the erection of a proposed school on Mercer street was given its first reading and an ordinance concerning the removal of snow and ice from sidewalks was adopted. The council decided not to cancel its lease with Freedman and Ralph, parties who leased premises on what is known as Hill side Home land a year ago and on which the city expended nearly $500. The lessees presented a week ago when they asked for the abrogation of the lease that they could not afford to hire the heat that was necessary for the conduct of their auto painting business. Inquiry has disclosed that the lessees never attempted to procure heat from the parties they declared they had approached. Sewers were ordered constructed on Colman, Goddard and Morgan street and on Norwood avenue and adjacent highways.

Councilor Scott moved to procure the repair or the demolition of partly burned property on Bentley avenue at Ocean Beach. He represented that six months ago the property was damaged by fire at the beach. Councilor Scott desired that the owner be notified to repair or demolish the structure. Councilor Fox came to the defense of the owners by saying that there had been legal objections that prevented the care of the property in that there had been conflict over the adjustment of the insurance. That matter has now been settled and there will be no delay in repairing the building. Simon Green, owner of a dyeing and cleaning establishment who seeks permission to build at 20 Williams street, was represented by an attorney at the meeting this evening and asked for the granting of permission to him to erect a garage and business place in the rear of his property. He said that his application had been approved by the building inspectors and that Green had complied with every requirement of the building code. The attorney said the structure to be erected would be fire proof and would be brick and that it was outside the fire limit. The granting of the permit was held up a week ago tending the decision as to a zoning ordinance. Residents near the proposed site of the new structure opposed the granting of the permission and for that reason the council hesitates now as to the granting of the application.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR UNCAS PAPER BOARD CO

Frank W. Browning of Montville has been appointed temporary receiver for the Uncas Paper Board Co., at Thamesville and has furnished the $25,000 required by Judge Allyn L. Brown when he named a receiver for the paper upon the application of the H. G. Craig Company, Ltd., of Montreal, Canada. Alvah Miller of Ossining, N. Y., Tom T. Waller of Montclair, N. J., and N. L. Miller of New York.

The plaintiffs who are the owners of 1500 shares of the preferred stock, and 3600 of the common stock of the defendant corporation alleges that the defendant is solvent but its assets are in danger of waste through attachment and litigation. The paper company has capital stock of $1,500,000 divided into 3,000 shares of preferred stock and 12,000 shares of common stock of the par value of $100 each.

The property was bought at foreclosure sale about two years ago by James E. Smith of Baltimore, who organized the present company. The Uncas Paperboard company is one of the largest industries in Norwich, being capitalized at $1,500,000, employing over 200 hands and having a payroll of $350,000 per year. The product of the mill is paper board boxes, and at present it is turning out 125 tons per day.

An appraisal of the plant made recently showed the appraised value to be $1,250,000. Since the new company was organized a short time ago, between $300,000 and $400,000 has been spent for machinery improvements, making the mill in better condition today than it has ever been, since its existence, according to Receiver Browning, who has been secretary of the corporation.

ST. MARY'S PLAYERS WIN PLAUDITS FOR PRODUCTION

St. Mary's players in their presentation of Sunshine, Monday evening at the Palace theatre, maintained their record for first class productions. Sunshine went over bigger than even the members of the cast and their director, James E. Murphy, had hoped for. Fully 1500 people crowded into the theatre to witness the annual theatrical by the parish players of St. Mary's Memorial church. The house was sold out and even before the doors opened Monday evening there was standing room only.

The play was given in faultless style; the roles were well carried, the lines clearly spoken and there was a touch of professionalism that placed sunshine far ahead of the average amateur production. The members of the cast were showered with spontaneous bursts of hearty applause from the delighted audience. Those in charge of the play expressed themselves as highly pleased by the successful manner in which the play was put on and favorable comment was general among those in the audience.

Between the second and third acts, Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, business manager for the theatrical, took occasion to extend on the part of the committee and the cast, appreciation and gratitude to all who in any way assisted the players in making Sunshine the success it proved to be. Father Coholan also publicly thanked the members of the cast for their good will and splendid cooperation, the programme committee and the ticket sellers for their valuable assistance. He also voiced his gratitude for the many courtesies extended those in charge of the play.

Father Coholan spoke on the splendid work of the director, James E. Murphy and then requested Mr. Murphy to step onto the stage. As Mr. Murphy appeared before the footlights he was given a thunderous burst of applause. Then, with the members of the cast grouped on the stage, Father Coholan, turning towards Mr. Murphy, said it was his pleasure to act as spokesman for the cast. He spoke of the deep interest Mr. Murphy has ever shown in St. Mary's Parish Players and of the valuable assistance he has given in the theatrical efforts of the players. Father Coholan said the players had expressed a desire to reward Mr. Murphy for his services by presenting him a loving cup.

At this point little Miss Lucille Bowen presented to Mr. Murphy a large and beautiful silver loving cup. Father Coholan spoke of the cup as a symbol of the esteem and affection in which the members of the cast hold for Mr. Murphy.

After expressing his deep appreciation and gratitude for the gift, Mr. Murphy, turning to the cast said: "I have had my reward tonight in the way you have put on this play."

The members of the cast follow:

Maudelia Tilden, Lucille Bowen
Mrs. Oscar Tilden, Maudelia's mother, Mary V. Driscoll
Mrs. Sol Whipple, of Whipple's Corner, Conn., Ellnore I. Donovan
Miss Tessie Mitford, the mental case, Loretta A. Gadje
Mr. Callahan, not as sick as he thinks he is, Edward T. Connelly
Miss Gregory, a nurse, Margaret E. Purdon
Buddy Brady, of New York, a ball player, Henry J. LaFontaine
Major Kellicott, a speculator, Horace F. Corning
Jim Anthony, he's engaged, Napoleon A. Kerouack
Sylvia Deane, she's engaged, Mary M. Brennan
Mary? "Sunshine" Catherine A. Lee
Visitors at the Sanatorium: Warren J. Kane, Walter J. LaFontaine, Celine Bowen, Evelyn Caron.
Scene: The lawn at the Excelsior sanatorium near New York city.
Act I. Morning.
Act II. Afternoon.
Act III. Evening.
Musical Numbers.

Edward T. Connelly.

It would have been difficult, indeed, to have made better selections for the various roles. Little Miss Lucille Bowen, in the role of Maudelia Tilden, made a decided hit with the audience, instantly winning favor for her splendid stage appearance and her delightful dance numbers. She displayed exceptional ability and took as much interest in her role as the audience did in applauding her.

Edward T. Connelly, well known and popular tenor, and a former professional theatrical man, carried the comedy role in his usual excellent manner. He appeared as Mr. Callahan, a patient at the sanatorium, and brought down the house with his witty and humorous lines. He made his appearance in a wheel chair as a helpless invalid but subsequent events, including the effect of oft repeated sips of "55 per cent. tonic" prescribed for him showed that he was not as sick a man as he thought he was. Mr. Connelly was a show all in himself and received well deserved applause. Mr. Connelly was heard in a well rendered and pleasing solo number, Love Is a Bubble.

Miss Catherine A. Lee, was a happy selection for the title role, "Sunshine," a nurse at the sanatorium. Playing opposite to Miss Lee was Henry J. LaFontaine, who appeared as Buddy Brady, a New York ball player, out of the game through an accident and a patient at the sanatorium. He promptly fell in love with Sunshine on sight and successfully championed her cause when she was unjustly accused of the theft of a valuable diamond ring afterwards found to have been taken by her step-father, a dyed-in-the-wool crook and ex-convict, masquerading as a financier and from whom she had fled. The role of Sunshine's stepfather was well carried out by Horace F. Corning, as Major Kellicott. The part of unsuspecting Jim Anthony, a pal of Buddy Brady, and whom Major Kellicott attempted to bunco to the extent of $300,000, was taken by Napoleon A. Kerouack. Timely intervention on the part of Buddy saved Jim's fortune. Miss Mary M. Brennan was an excellent choice for Sylvia Doane, Jim's fiancee, who was as badly taken in by Major Kellicott's scheme as Jim himself. One of the most difficult parts in the play, that of Miss Tessie Mitford, a mental patient at the sanatorium, was taken by Miss Loretta A. Gadje. Tessie's line of chatter kept things in a stir as she was forever attempting either to hush up or unravel some deep mysterious crime. Miss Gadje well merited the generous applause showered on her.

A feature of the musical numbers was the trio, Warren J. Kane, Walter LaFontaine and Henry J. LaFontaine, who were heard in Irish airs. They were forced to respond to an insistent encore for their number, A Wild Irish Rose. Mr. LaFontaine, well known as a singer and musician delighted the audience with his rendition of Mother Machree. The Highland Fling, danced by little Miss Bowen in Scottish costume proved an attractive feature of the programme.

Those in charge of the play were as follows:

Executive committee: Business managers, Rev. William A. Keefe and Rev. Frederick M. Coholan; stage manager, Edward T. Connelly; director, James E. Murphy; music, Henry J. LaFontaine; prompter, Miss Isabelle W. Leonard.

The programme committee: Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, chairman, John J. Sheehy, secretary, Mrs. Lucian R. Bissonette, Mrs. James J. Brady, Mrs. Laurence E. Millea, Mrs. Simon Fahey, Mrs. Francis P. Donnelly, Miss Mae J. Riley, Miss Margaret C. Counihan, Miss May C. Nolan, James J. Brady, Joseph A. Donnelly.

Programme boys: Jeremiah Fitzgerald, Jr., Daniel Driscoll, Andrew Keeley, James Leonard, Raymond Leonard, Arthur Breen, William McClafferty, Js.

The committee in charge of the evening's play acknowledge courtesies received from Edward L. McAvoy, manager, the Palace theatre, the Plaut-Cadden Co., Hawkins, the Fiordst, Carrell & Fenton, The Connecticut Co., and the Norwich-New London Sign Co.

The proceeds are for the benefit of St. Mary's Memorial church.

After the play a flashlight group picture of the cast was taken at the theatre by Jean Kieffer.

TRIES POISON DRINK AFTER LIQUOR RAID

Panic stricken when a raiding squad of three officers about noon Monday seized a jug of moonshine at her store in Colchester, Mrs. Ida Mintz, 40, tried to drink iodine but the bottle was knocked out of her hand by Officer Stanton Briggs before she had taken enough of the poison to do any particular harm.

She was presented before a justice of the peace and put under bonds of $500 for a hearing before Justice Fred E. Baker next Thursday at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Mintz, who weighs about 215 pounds, gave the officers a lively fifteen minutes tussle, first for possession of the jug and then to prevent her attempt at suicide. When the three officers, Congdon, Briggs and Riley, entered the store, Mrs. Mints grabbed a jug from the rear of the room and started out through the back door with it and down the street. They pursued, grabbing the woman and the jug in the yard of the West home, where a free-for-all struggle ensued. In the course of which much of the contents of the jug was spilled, but the officers came off victorious and took the woman and the jug back into the store.

While they were looking over the place for more liquor, Mrs. Mintz watched her chance to get out into the yard again where she tried to drink the iodine, but was stopped by Officer Briggs. An examination by Dr. C. E. Pendleton showed that she had swallowed but very little of the poison.

SCHULER STILL LEADS IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

Conrad Schuler is still leading in the West Side Pinochle club tournament, but Monday night's play at the club rooms was somewhat disastrous for C. V. Pendleton who dropped back to fourth place from second position. Dr. J. T. Boynton came up from fifth place to second place. The scores for the evening:

E. C. Underwood 8115, Dr. J. T. Boynton 7680, Conrad Schuler 7455, Dr. N. B. Lewis 7415, E. Peckham 7370, A. Jordan 7105, J. Jordan 7000, A. J. Bailey 6950, C. V. Pendleton 6750, J. A. Parker 6515, H. H. Pettis 6430, C. S. Peckham 6015.

The standing to date:

Conrad Schuler 28365, Dr. J. T. Boynton 27775, E. Peckham 27545, C. V. Pendleton 27420, J. Jordan 27315, Dr. N. B. Lewis 26980, A. Jordan 26945, A. J. Bailey 26740, E. C. Underwood 26070, C. S. Peckham 25730, J. A. Parker 24890, H. H. Pettis 24640.

OFFICIAL INSPECTION IS GIVEN TO BATTERY B

The annual inspection of Battery B, 192nd F. A., was held Monday evening at the state armory from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. The inspecting officer was Capt. Y. D. Vesely, national guard instructor of artillery in New Hampshire. Lieut. Col. Francis J. Shearer from the adjutant general's office was also present, and the Battery was put through infantry and artillery drill was well as having its records gone over and all the details of inspection thoroughly carried out. General Morris B. Payne of New London visited the armory during the afternoon.

The battery has an enrollment of 70 men and three officers, these being Capt. W. R. Denison and Lieuts. L. B. McEwen and J. L. Johnson. There were but two absentees among the 70 men at inspection, and while no reports were officially given out, it was understood that the Battery attained a rating that was very pleasing.

The Combat Train will be inspected this (Tuesday) evening.

There was a time when two pugilists met and one or both had to "bite the dust." Now they merely "chew the rag."

AGGIE BASKETBALL TEAM MADE AN IMPRESSIVE SHOWING DURING SEASON

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Storrs, March 14—When Coach Sumner Dole's Connecticut Aggie five defeated Rhode Island at Kingston last week, they brought to a close one of the most successful court seasons in the history of the college. Playing a difficult schedule of 14 games, the Blue and White quintet came through the season with a record of 10 victories, and 4 defeats. In those games, the Aggies rolled up a total of 448 points, as against 329 for opponents. They were defeated but once on the home court, and no team was able to outscore the Connecticut aggregation by more than 6 points. New Hampshire, Springfield, Holy Cross and other strong teams fell before the fast moving attack of Captain Hauck and his mates, and such defeats as were sustained by the Aggies were by the narrowest of margins.

Of much satisfaction to Connecticut followers in general were the setbacks handed Trinity, Rhode Island, and Springfield. Each of these teams were defeated twice, and the natural rivalry existing between the colleges served to make them important contests on the State College schedule. Trinity, to the past has on more than one occasion, been able to upset the dope when pitted against the Aggies, but this season the Storrs outfit won a decisive victory in each contest.

Wesleyan was the only team that was able to give the Aggies a setback on their own floor, and this occurred early in the season, when the Cardinal and Black won by a 31-26 score. Army defeated Connecticut at West Point in a rough and tumble game by a 30-29 score, and Massachusetts Aggies, claimants of the New England championship, came from behind in a game at Amherst to defeat the state college five by the scant margin of 1 basket the final score being 20-18. In a game at Cambridge Harvard defeated Connecticut 34-26, and the Crimson was the only team that showed a decided advantage in their play when stacked up against the Connecticut team.

Individual scoring honors go to Makofski, star guard, who rolled up a total of 168 points for his season's work. Captain Balock and Schofield are tied for second place with 111 points each, Eddy comes third with 97 points, and Allard fourth with 17 points.

Schofield proved to be the best shot on the floor, with a total of 47 field goals to his credit. Captain Balock and Makofski followed closely behind, however with 46 baskets each. Eddy came third with 35 field goals, and Allard fourth with 34. Substitutes made seven field goals, which brings the team total for the season up to 336 with an average of thirteen a game.

Of the varsity squad, three seniors will be lost through graduation next June, Captain Balock, forward; Eddy, center, and O'Brien, sub-forward, who all played their last court game for the Aggies. Makofski and Allard, the regular guards are both juniors, and have another year of varsity competition before them. Schofield is a sophomore, and this was his first season of varsity basketball at Storrs. Seymour and Hitzrod are two other members of the varsity who will be available for service in 1926.

An average of 8 personal fouls a game, or 160 for the season, were called upon the Connecticut players. Opponents had 9 a game, or 130 for the season. The few personal fouls committed speaks well for the type of game played by the Connecticut five, which, of course, reflects credit on the coaching and coaching of the team of Sumner Dole. "Dick" Dillon, popular Hartford official, works in practically all home games for the Aggies, and his strict officiating and insistance on a clean brand of play has found much favor with the authorities and fans alike at the State College.

Next Wednesday night the varsity basketball squad will be tendered a banquet at Johnson's Inn, Storrs. At this time a leader for 1926 will be chosen and it is expected that either Makofski or Allard, both juniors and first class court men, will be chosen for the honor.

WANDERERS AND TAFTVILLE AT PARISH HALL TONIGHT

The fifth game of the series in the Eastern Connecticut basketball tournament is scheduled to take place in Parish Hall tonight when the Army and Navy Club of Taftville clashes with the Baltic Wanderers in what promises to be a real battle for blood.

At the early part of the season the Wanderers were looked upon by the sporting fans in this vicinity as being a team far inferior to the local quintet but the showing made during the season and especially against the Plainfield team, which was composed of the pick of the state players, was sufficient reason for the followers of the sport to speedily change their minds and now rest assured that the Wanderers will give the Army-Navy five a stiff battle.

Should Baltic win two games it will leave the title still undecided and a game to be won and 2 lost. On the other hand if Taftville wins one game they will have clinched the title for 1925.

Baltic will invade Taftville with the following men: W. Robertaille and Sliwinski forwards; "Red" Charon, center, R. Robertaille and "Rags" Swanson, guards; Sullivan and Coady, subs.

The Army and Navy Five being the only team that has not been defeated or tied the tournament feels confident of retaining the clean slate. Taftville will present the following line-up: Belair and Jim Murphy, forwards; Mills or Eddie Murphy, center; Tom and George Coleman, guards.

The preliminary game will be between the Bantams and the A-N Seconds for the junior title. The game is called at 8:15 o'clock.

CHAPMAN TECH AND BASE HAVE GAMES FOR TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 16—Two local teams, the Chapman Technical High school five, and the Submarine Base will oppose teams out of town. For the Chapman [illegible] five it will be the deciding game of the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league, opposing Westerly High at Westerly on this (Tuesday) afternoon. For the Submarine Base it will be the valedictory for the five unless a final provision is made to have the team oppose some team on the Atlantic coast for the title.

The Chapman Tech Game

In opposing Westerly High, Chapman Tech's position in the league will be decided upon the final outcome. In the previous meeting at this city, the Red and Black easily brushed aside the Rhode Islanders. Both teams are tied for the leadership and this game is the one which will decide the winner of the league.

The decision of the authorities at Chapman Tech to prolong the basketball season to enable the team to participate in the tournament at Storrs College may have a bad influence upon the baseball team in its early games. It is expected to have the Tech baseball nine begin its season on April 3, and with this early start and a late wind-up in basketball, all will have its influence upon the early games which will be played by Tech.

Sub Base vs. Newport

The Submarine Base will close its season, with the Eastern States service title at stake. Having already won a game in the Atlantic title series, the Base is tied with the Newport Training station for first place in the Eastern Service standing, and must brush aside the Newporters in this game to gain the right to be declared champion of this division. The team will leave for Newport Tuesday and will stay over night in Newport as guests of the Newport five.

BULKELEY THANKS MR. NOYES FOR HIS INVITATION

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 16—That Bulkeley deeply appreciates the interest taken in the visit of the baseball team to New York city by a group of Norwich men living in metropolis is shown in the letter printed below. The Bulkeley coach, baseball captain and manager have signed the letter which is self evident of the deep appreciation which the Bulkeley team as well as the town people of this city have for the trio of Norwich men when they made their offer to entertain the Bulkeley team when the latter goes to New York.

Charles F. Noyes,
118 Williams St.,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Your letter written under date of March 2nd evincing your interest in Bulkeley School baseball team has been a source of much pleasure to those of us who are in close contact with the team; and has been a subject of much delightful comment on the part of our townspeople in general.

We appreciate, your loyalty to Norwich Free Academy; and the depth of its sincerity; and only regret that we cannot claim it for ourselves. Coming as it does, from an alumnus of our ancient foe your kind words are a stimulus to us all in our effort to bring forth the championship team which we expect our 1925 team will be.

Three cheers for you is the word heard from everyone. It certainly is encouraging to our team, on the eve of the realization of their fondest dream, to witness a real championship team, to receive a message as spirited as is yours.

In the name of Bulkeley School, our townspeople, and last, but certainly not least, in the name of our baseball team, we most sincerely thank you for your kind interest.

Our away-from-home schedule is not yet completed. We have, however, contracted for a game with New York University freshmen at New York on May 1, 1925. Negotiations for a game with Fordham freshmen on April 30 are nearly completed. Negotiations are pending with a number of New York High schools for May 2. As soon as our away-from-home schedule is completed, a copy will be sent to you, Mr Bent and Mr. McNamara.

Cordially yours,
WILLIAM CANTY, Coach
TILLIE DANIELS, Captain
MARTIN HARRIS, Manager.

Tendler Gets Decision

Philadelphia, March 16—Lew Tendler, Philadelphia welterweight, won the referee's decision over Goldman also [illegible] conclusion of a 10-round bout. The decision disagreed and the referee awarded Tendler the verdict on points. The fight was hard and fast throughout and the eighth round Tendler dropped Goldman to his knees, but he was up almost immediately. Tendler weighed 142 1-2; Goldman 141

NURMI REACHES HIS TRACK CLIMAX TONIGHT

New York, March 16—Paavo Nurmi, will be called upon to show his best in the Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night when he faces Willie Ritola, the crack Finnish-American star, in a 5,000 metre match race and two hours later meets America's four premier milers in a special mile event.

Joie W. Ray, Illinois A. C. Star, who has not forgotten several defeats by Nurmi, will lead the quartet of milers that will endeavor to strip the Finn of some of his track laurels. Supporting Ray will be Lloyd Hahn, crack miler, who placed third to Nurmi in the mile at the Finnish-American A. C., games at Madison Square Garden on January 6 when Nurmi made his American debut; Leo Larrivvee, Holy Cross star, and Jimmy Connolly, former Georgetown runner.

Hahn has improved noticeably since his early season defeat by Nurmi and at the New York A. C. games in the garden on February 14 he ran the mile in 4:14 2-5, one fifth of a second faster than Nurmi's time up to that date. The Finn, however, bettered this mark later at Buffalo when he ran the mile in 4:12.

The 5,000 metre match race between Nurmi and Ritola is scheduled for 8.50 o'clock with the special mile on the program at 11.

Another outstanding feature of the program will be the "Casey 600," with Allan Helffrich, Penn State track star, the favorite in a field that includes Walter Mulvihill, Holy Cross; Ray Watson, Illinois A. C., Jake Driscoll, Boston A. A.; Cecil Cook, Syracuse University and Ray Robertson, F. L. McCloskey, Boston College half miler, has been invited to compete in this event, but officials of the meet were not certain tonight that he would start.

Carl Christiersen, Swedish Olympic star, Herb Myer, Metropolitan champion and Tom Carrell of the New York A. C., are the headliners in the 60 yard hurdles race. Jackson F. Scholz, New York A. C. and Olympic sprinting champion, and Frank Hussey, former Stuyvesant High school sprinting star, will feature in the special sprints.

WILLS AND GIBBONS TO FIGHT ON MAY 29TH

New York, March 16—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, and Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, Minn., will meet in a 15-round match at the Milk Fund bouts at the Yankee Stadium, May 29, providing the managers of the two principals can be given assurance that there is no possibility of a title match with Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, before fall. This was revealed by Tex Rickard, promoter of the bouts, today, following a conference with Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills.

Mullins withheld definite assurance that he would sign articles for the match with Gibbons until Wednesday, when he will know definitely whether there is a possibility of Wills meeting Dempsey for the title sometime this summer. Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons' affairs, has already agreed to terms for the match. The winner of the bout will meet Dempsey in a title match later in the year.

Wills will receive a guarantee of almost $150,000 for the Gibbons match, Rickard intimated, when he said it would almost equal the guarantee given to Wills when he fought Luis Angel Firpo at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City last summer. Wills was guaranteed $100,000 for the Firpo match.

Rickard told Mullins that Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, had conferred with him upon his arrival in New York Sunday and had informed him that Dempsey would not be in shape to meet either Gibbons or Wills before Fall.

Supporting the Wills-Gibbons match the Milk Fund promoters, working with Rickard, are seeking to tie up the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney match as a semi-final attraction. Articles for this match await a decision regarding the main events. Sammy Mandell and Sid Terris, lightweights, will meet in one of the preliminary matches on the same card.

AM. THREAD A. A. TO GIVE MONEY TO HELP STRIKERS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, March 16—The American Thread Company Athletic Association will remain intact, it was voted at a meeting held in Central Labor Union hall, Monday afternoon, President John McQuillan in charge. The meeting was to take action on the matter of dissolving the organization and placing the $3,000 in the treasury into the strikers fund. A plan was formulated however whereby the money will be used in giving assistance to needy members of the association who are out on strike. A committee of twelve, three for each ward of the city, will be handed a complete membership list on Tuesday, and will investigate the cases of fellow members in want. The committee has the power to draw from the treasury such amounts found necessary to render assistance. This relief to association members will lessen the work of the strikers relief committee to a great extent in addition to decreasing the drainage on the strikers fund. Another committee of four was appointed to arrive at some disposal of the large quantity of canteen supplies which the association maintained at the plant in the past. It is believed that these articles will be distributed among the membership when needed.

It was voted to waive the payment of membership dues for two months. President McQuillan announced that meetings of the association delegates would be held at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon in order to hear the reports of the association relief committee.

YALE TEAM HAS FIRST OUTDOOR BASEBALL PRACTICE

New Haven, March 16—Forty members of the Yale baseball squad had their first workout in the open this afternoon and if the good weather continues, the squad will have nearly three weeks of out-of-door work before the first game with Fordham here on April 4.

Yale has an abundance of pitching material this year, sixteen men appearing for the box position. The pitchers reporting today were Captain Pond, Anderson, Ashburn, Burnell, Cook, Coxe, Holabird, Lamy, Miley, Moran, Rabberger, Ross, Harry Scott, S. J. Scott, Smith and Zanzinger.

Lovejoy, Hinchcliffe, Walker and Barclay were out for the post behind the plate while Bertram, Coleman, Ewing, Festa, Jones, Kai-Kee, Kline Lindley, McLaren, Wadsworth and Wortham are trying for infield positions.

The outfield squad consists of Bowers, Cushing, Faust, Giblin, Neale, Noble, Suisman, Wear and Weed.

Pond, Ashburn, Harry Scott and Ross were regulars on the pitching staff last year; Lovejoy and Hinchliffe were substitutes to Mallory behind the plate and Walker and Barclay were members of the freshman catching staff.

NURMI FURNITHES DOCTOR'S CERTIFICATE TO RUBIEN

New York, March 16—A physician's certificate stating that Paavo Nurmi, Finnish record breaker, was ill last Saturday evening and therefore unable to appear at a track meet in Hartford, Conn., was handed today to Frederick W. Rubien, secretary of the National Amateur Athletic Union, to whom the Connecticut A. A. U. protested after Nurmi had failed to come to Hartford.

Mr. Rubien said the certificate given him by Hugo Quist Nurmi's manager, was "satisfactory" to him, but that before action could be taken he must await the report of the Metropolitan A. A. U. which has jurisdiction over the runner.

This report, it was said, will not be ready before Wednesday.

The Connecticut Athletic officials have requested that Nurmi be disciplined for failing to take part in the Hartford games. Their protest, made to Rubien, was referred by him to the Metropolitan organization.

Nurmi who is scheduled to run in two races at the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, was said Saturday to be suffering from a cold and a fever. Connecticut officials intimated that he was resting for his great test with Joie Ray, Lloyd Hahn and Willie Ritola tomorrow, and that he purposely neglected to fulfill his Hartford engagement.

PROMINENT TENNIS PLAYER COLLAPSES DURING GAME

Brookline, Mass., March 16.—The collapse through over-exertion of Miss Mayme MacDonald, sixth ranking woman singles player of the United States, was an unlooked for incident of the opening day's play in the annual women's national indoor tennis championship at the Longwood courts, Chestnut Hill, late today. While opposing Mrs. H. Stuart Green of Arsley, N. Y., Miss MacDonald, now of the physical education department of the University of New Hampshire pitched face foremost and lost consciousness.

Mrs. Green, by assiduous court-covering, had won the opening set 6-3 and led at 5-3 in the second division of play. The match had been of a most exciting nature, with long rallies cropping up in each game. Miss MacDonald was eager to continue after being carried from the court and revived, but attending physicians refused consent and a default was posted against the former Seattle star.

CONN. A. A. HEAD TO PUSH INVESTIGATION OF NURMI

Hartford, March 16.—It is not yet assured that Paavo Nurmi will appear in the New York meet tomorrow night as a result of developments here tonight.

Captain Max A. Baum, of Bridgeport, chairman of the Connecticut board of registration, is going to New York tomorrow morning to close his investigation into the failure of the great Finnish runner to appear here as scheduled last Saturday night. He will be empowered to either suspend or clear him of the charges.

If he secured evidence which, in his opinion, outweighs "a mere doctor's certificate," he will suspend Nurmi pending further investigation. Such suspension he declared, will prevent Nurmi from taking part in the New York meet.

FIRPO TO PLACE HIMSELF UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF FRANCOIS DECAMPS

Paris, March 16—(By the A. P.)—Firpo, Carpentier, Descamps and Company is a formidable pugilistic firm the formation of which may be announced any day if negotiations now in progress between Descamps, manager of Carpentier, and the "wild bull of the pampas" come to a successful termination.

Carpentier and Descamps now are considering an offer from Floyd Fitzsimmons, the Michigan promoter, for a bout between Carpentier and Young Stribling at Macon, Ga., the home town of Stribling, some time around August, and Descamps is certain that if Firpo will place himself under his care he will have no trouble in getting matches for his new protege in the United States and be able to start Luis Angel on the road to another fight with Jack Dempsey.

Firpo, on his return here recently from Riviera, let it be known that he was tired of acting as his own manager and that he would not be averse to joining the Descamps' "stable" of fighters. Mutual friends of Descamps and Firpo were prompt to take Firpo's hint, and the manager and boxer have both stated their terms. The hitch, so far, has been that the Argentine was reluctant to open his purse strings as wide as the French manager desired.

Descamps will leave for his training establishment on Wednesday. Firpo will remain in Paris over Thursday to attend the soccer-football match between France and Uruguay, but will join Descamps at the latter's country estate Friday and an agreement either will be consummated or the negotiations dropped.

Carpentier's reluctance to re-enter the ring has caused Descamps to delay replying to the offer to Fitzsimmons for a bout between the Frenchman and Stribling, Georges is doing light training, and he wants to be sure that he will be able to stand another hard session of conditioning before he tells Descamps to accept the promoter's offer. Carpentier spent a greater part of the winter at St. Moritz, skating and skiing and going through physical culture stunts in general.

Firpo is anxious to engage in one battle in Europe before returning to the United States. He has received an offer for a fight with Ermino Spalla, the Italian heavyweight, and it seems quite likely that the match will be arranged.

C. F. C. FIVE BEATS NEW LONDON IN OVERTIME GAME

The fast C. F. C. basketball quintet defeated the Kaybrooks of New London 25-19 in an overt me game Monday evening. With the score 17-15 against the locals a personal foul by a Kaybrook player on Zeke Leffingwell resulted in the C. F. C. forward caging both shots and bringing the crowd to its feet as the whistle blew. In the overtime period the C. F. C. easily outclassed their rivals from the Whaling City. Pitt, playing his first game for the Norwich lads, proved valuable on the defense, together with Capt. Brown. Leffingwell led in the offensive attack.

Wednesday night the C. F. C. team will encounter the Niantic quintet in a league game, which is expected to be fast and exciting.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Denver has the longest municipal golf course in the United States measuring 6,767 yards.

Richmond is to play host in July to the annual regatta of the Southern Rowing Association.

The European ice hockey championship for the season just closed was won by Czecho-Slovakia, in competition against Austria, Switzerland and Belgium.

Initial steps have been taken for the organization of a new intercollegiate conference to provide the smaller New England colleges with a governing body for their athletic activities.

The winter golf season in Florida is now nearing its clause. At the end of March the players will journey northward for the spring tournaments at Augusta, Pinehurst, and other resorts in that section.

Jack Renault, the Canadian heavyweight champion, has been engaged by the Genesee Valley A. C. of Rochester to meet Leo Gates, the Indian fighter of New England, in a contest of 13 rounds to be staged on the night of March 16.

Only once in the history of the Epsom Derby, which was established nearly a century and a half ago, has a dead heat been declared. This was in 1884, when Harvester and St. Gatien came under the wire together and divided the stakes.

Members of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee will assemble in New York March 13-14 for their annual tussle with the code that governs the premier American college sport. While numerous suggestions have been offered for changes and improvements in the rules, it is regarded as unlikely that any radical shifts will be made.

Now that all of the big ball teams have settled down to the serious business of preparing for the championship season in their respective leagues and the managers are able to get a real line on the ability of the men they have assembled at the spring training camps, the next week or so should not only be highly interesting, but very enlightening as well.

The green table sport is not likely to suffer any falling off in public interest as a result of Schaefer's recovery of the 18.2 balkline crown. On the contrary, the devotees of the game will no doubt find satisfaction in the thought that young Jake has several rivals who can force him to play all the billiards he knows whenever he crosses cues with them in a match over a distance.

The English flat racing season will open March 24 at Lincoln, and the legions of turf followers in the tight little isle are looking forward to the biggest season in record. The first important classic, the Lincolnshire handicap, will be run on the second day of the meeting over a straight mile course. For this event seventy-three entries have been received.

One of the first cities outside of Europe to take up golf was Calcutta, India, where a golf club existed as long ago as 1829.

Walla Walla, Wash, has the distinction of being the smallest city in the Pacific Northwest to possess a municipal golf course.

The Birmingham (Ala.) Country club is to spend $300,000 for a new clubhouse, which will be one of the largest and best-equipped in the south.

On St. Patrick's day the season of winter racing in New Orleans will end with the fifth renewal of the Louisiana Derby at a mile and a furlong for 3-year-olds.

Experiments to determine the grass most suitable for golf courses in relatively dry regions are being conducted by the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan.

The Western Baseball association will open its season April 15, with Independence playing at Springfield, Fort Smith at Ardmore, and Muskogee at Okmulgee.

Mike Yokel, the veteran wrestler, is acting as instructor at Multnomah A. C., of Portland, Ore., during the absence of Ted Thye, the regular instructor, who is touring Australia.

Twenty victories for the season is the goal that will be aimed for by Grover Cleveland Alexander, star pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, who is getting into condition for the campaign at Catalina Island.

Manager John McGraw is of the opinion that when camp is broken at Sarasota his bunch of players will be the best, so far as preparedness is concerned, that he has ever led homeward after a spring siege in the south.

American league pitchers will not be overcheered by the news from Tarpon Springs to the effect that George Sisler, manager and heavy wielder of the St. Louis Browns, has recovered his batting eye and expects to knock 'em over the fence this season.

The announcement that McDevitt and Goodsell will row for the world's professional sculling championship March 17 on the Clarence river, Australia, serves to recall the fact that a notable contest for this title was held years ago at Rat Portage, Canada. This was in 1901, when the celebrated Jake Gaudauer was defeated by George Towns, the Australian.

Even before major league baseball has drawn up its battle lines for the first engagement, college rowing will be merrily along the road of another season. On April 11 the crews of California and Washington will row in the far west, inaugurating a season that in number of regattas and degree of interest aroused promises to set a new high record for this popular college sport.

DECLINE IN CONSUMPTION OF ICE CREAM IN 1924

Washington, March 16.—A decline in the per capita consumption of ice cream in the United States was reported by the department of agriculture, in making public figures showing that the average for each person was 2.56 gallons in 1924, as compared with 2.68 in the preceding year. The consumption last year totalled 285,550,000 gallons, which was 9,000,000 less than the 1923 figure.

The decline was attributed to the cool weather last summer in many parts of the country.

ST. PATRICK: HIS DAY

When dear St. Patrick sailed the sea,
(Yo ho, my lads, the anchor weigh !)
The waves were green as they could be,
The tars piped up in merry key,
And sent the good ship flying free
(Yo, ho, for the wind in the rigging !)

He said farewell to Scotland's shore.
(Yo, ho, my lads, let out more sail !)
Her bluebells he might see no more.
Their loss he did not then deplore.
For shamrocks he would have galore.
(Yo, ho, head her straight for old Ireland !)

The shamrock cast its threefold spell,
(Yo, ho, my lads, now mind ye eye !)
More potent charm than asphodel
The poets praise in verse so well,
And there St. Patrick chose to dwell.
(Yo, ho, for the green shores of Ireland !)

Good luck began for that green isle,
(Yo, ho, my lads, now trim the sails !)
For there he banished vermin vile.
The people loved his tender smile
So genuine—so free from guile.
(Yo, ho, for the heart of old Ireland !)

They say one serpent would not leave.
(Yo, ho, my lads, all hands on deck !)
When this St. Patrick did perceive,
A scheme he then began to weave,
The bad old serpent to deceive.
(Yo, ho, for the wits of old Ireland !)

And so beneath the ocean green
(Yo, ho, my lads, three rousing cheers !)
The serpent sank and left the scene.
And that's why all the world is keen
To sing St. Patrick's praise. I ween !
(Yo, ho, for the Saint of Old Ireland !)

—Blanche Elizabeth Wade

Turn o' The Year

This is the time when bit by bit
The days begin to lengthen sweet
And every minute gained is joy—
And love stirs in the heart of a boy.

This is the time the sun, of late
Content to lie abed till eight
Lifts up betimes his sleepy head—
And love stirs in the heart of a maid.

This is the time we dock the night
Of a whole hour of candlelight;
When song of linnet and thrush is heard—
And love stirs in the heart of a bird.

This is the time when sword-blades green,
With gold and purple damascene,
Pierce the brown crocus bed a-row—
And love stirs in a heart I know
—Katherine Tynan

This new way works wonders on cloudy teeth

Modern science, by perfecting a new way of combating the stubborn film that covers teeth, now opens the road to whiter teeth, safely.

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging this new method. You can have cleaner, prettier teeth if you will start today.

This is accomplished by combating a viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard to remove film that old type dentifrices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening. This offers you a 10-day test free. Mail the coupon.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old time dentifrices. Begin beautifying your teeth today.

ELEPHANTS AND CARS

A number of years ago, a new publicity man was put to work for Ringling Bros., who at that time were carrying more elephants and cars than had ever been carried by a circus. A new publicity man started to claim more than twice that number of elephants and more than twice the number of cars that were actually being carried. The Ringling Bros immediately called him in and put him on the carpet and said we have more elephants and more cars than any circus that has ever existed. The truth is strong enough, we have the biggest show on earth. It isn't necessary to exaggerate. Our shows will speak for themselves, we don't have to rely upon your imagination to convince the people that we are giving more for the maney than any other show in the business.. BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck Spies

I'm sure that no one will deny
That all the world dislikes a spy.
Polly Chuck.

Spying is not a nice thing to do. Sometimes it has to be done in order to find out things to be done in order to find out things it is necessary to know. But it never is nice. People do not like spies. Johnny Chuck knew all this, but just the same he was spying. You see, Johnny was so filled with jealously that he didn't care what he did.

He first crept up behind the old stone wall down near where he and Polly Chuck once had their home under an old apple-tree in the far corner of the Old Orchard. Taking care that no one saw him, he peeped over the old wall. There was the entrance to his old home under the old apple tree just as he remembered it. Was Polly Chuck living in it now? Was she inside taking a nap? Or was she somewhere in the Old Orchard feasting on sweet clover?

Johnny stared long and hard at his old home. "She isn't living there," he decided "There would be a lot of fresh sand on that doorstep if she were living there. I know Polly Chuck well enough to know that she would just have to clean out that old home if she were living in it."

Johnny climbed over the old stone wall and went straight over to the entrance to the old home. He sniffed. The hair along his back began to rise. He smelled Chuck. Some one was using that old home. But that scent wasn't the scent of Polly Chuck. It was the scent of [illegible] It must be that the stranger [illegible] he had overheard Sammy Jay say was living in that old home. The very thought made Johnny angrier than ever. There was no reason why it should, but it did. He and Polly had given up that old house long ago. Just the same, it made him angry to think that another Chuck should be using it.

Johnny sat up and looked this way and that way through the Old Orchard. But he saw nothing of either Polly Chuck or a stranger Chuck. Where could Polly Chuck be living? He was tempted to wander around through the Old Orchard until he found Polly. But if he did this Polly and the stranger might see him first. He wanted to see them before they saw him. So he decided that he would make his way around the Old Orchard behind the old stone wall.

Back he climbed over the old stone wall. He turned the corner and began to make his way along the other side of the Old Orchard. Every few feet he would climb up and peep over the old wall. At last he had almost reached the upper corner of the Old Orchard. This time when he peeped over he saw right down in the corner a mound of yellow sand, and sitting on that mound was Polly Chuck. He knew then that he had found Polly's new home. He knew that she had dug a hole down under the old stone wall in that corner.

Polly was sitting up looking toward a certain apple-tree. Johnny looked over there. Under that apple-tree sat a strange Chuck. He was big. He was quite as big as Johnny himself. And he was handsome. Yes, sir; for a Chuck he was handsome. You see, he was younger than Johnny, and there wasn't so much gray in his coat.

Johnny looked back at Polly Chuck. He could see that she was admiring the stranger. He looked back at the latter. He could see that the stranger knew that he was being admired. Jealous rage filled Johnny Chuck's heart.

She Says:

"I Am Thin"

Her Friend Say:

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face, hollow cheeks and neck and run-down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing vitamines that make flesh, creates appetite, restores vigor, builds to resist disease and chases away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which Lee & Osgood Co., and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days, your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablet.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

News that mail between Hartford and Norwich was to come by railroad was received in Norwich 75 years ago and people were pleased with the idea as it meant much quicker delivery. New London and other places along the railroad would also come under this change, when made.

News of the week in part as taken from the Courier of 1850, is as follows:

Tuesday, March 12, 1850—Representatives from several counties are now at the American House demonstrating the many uses to which Fenton's patent flint enamel ware can be put. The exhibit is one of the best seen in this city for some time and many citizens have been interested, making not a few purchases during the past few days.

Three ships from San Francisco, bound for eastern ports are now entering, carrying over a million and a half of gold most of it belonging to passengers who are returning home after making their pile in the California gold fields. Reports from that estate have it that money is worth from 50 to 60 per cent by the month.

The annual report of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Mar. 4, 1850, shows the receipts of the company for the past year to be $4,593.34. During the past year there has been paid out for losses and incidental expenses, the sum of $1,041.85. Net earnings in the treasury of the company are $4,744.64. Officers of the company are John G. Huntington, president; J. H. DeWitt, secretary and treasurer.

Thursday, March 14, 1850—The anti-slavery society of Massachusetts has passed resolutions against Longfellow on account of his verses in favor of the Union.

Since the meetings of the center school district many people have come out in favor of having the one purse for all local schools. People well versed in the situation figure that a school on the West side might mean a 35 cent tax while the same school in the center district would mean only a 4 cent tax. They claim that by uniting all districts the tax burden would be lessened without the central district paying a much larger tax than at present. Advocates of this plan expect to put through their measure at the meeting of the second Tuesday in April.

J. G. W. Trumbull and W. Hooker, committee of the Otis Library announce that they have the sum of $1,500, donated by the founder of the library, to be used for the purchase of books. It is also hoped that people in the city will donate books to the library, thus making the stock on hand much larger than if all books were purchased. There has been a fine response to this appeal and several hundred books have already been donated for the use of the library.

Nathan Scolfield of Greeneville is enroute to California, going there under appointment of the general government as surveyor general of California.

Messrs. Benton and Edwards have purchased the confectionary and oyster saloons formerly conducted by J. H. and T. M. Gale and will continue the business at the same location, White's block, No. 82 Main street.

Saturday, March 16, 1850— It is understood that arrangements are being made with the postoffice department for the carrying of the mails between Hartford and Norwich, by railroad. It is also believed that mail service will be given to towns along the railroad line. Similar service is expected between Hartford and New London and Norwich and New London.

Another meeting was held in New London this week to consider loaning money to the New London and Willimantic railroad company. The vote stood 385 for and 347 against. As a two thirds vote was necessary the motion was lost.

The route for the railroad across the isthmus of Panama has been surveyed the trees cut down for the most of the distance and ground will soon be broken. Work will be speeded up to get the railroad through as soon as possible.

The $20 gold pieces have made their appearance and are about the size of a silver half dollar.

Jennie Lind is to give about 150 concerts in 20 cities of the Union during her stay in America. New York gets twelve and Boston eight while she is here, thus affording an opportunity for Norwich music lovers to hear her one or more times at their convenience.

A plan to establish a slave colony in California and make the entanglement even worse has been uncovered through an advertisement in a Mississippi paper. People are asked to give names and the number of slaves and receive assistance in getting to one of the richest mining sections of California to establish this colony.

Norwich is expected to turn in a good majority for Lafayette S. Foster for governor on the whig ticket. Whigs are working hard to get out the vote for Mr. Foster thus showing him that his home city is back of him to the limit.

Out Goes All RHEUMATIC POISON

Rheuma Acts on Kidneys, Liver and Bladder the Very First Day.

Get a bottle of Rheuma today and wear a satisfied smile on your face tomorrow

It's a remedy that is astonishing the whole country, and it's just as good for gout, sciatica, lumbago, and kidney misery as for rheumatism.

It drives the poisonous waste from the joints and muscles — that's the secret of Rheuma's success.

But we don't ask you to take our word for it; go to Lee & Osgood, or any good druggist and get a bottle of Rheuma today; if it doesn't do as we promise get your money back. It will be there waiting for you.

NEW LONDON POLICE SUSPICIOUS OF TWO FIRES IN COAL YARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 16.—The New London police have started an investigation to determine whether two fires early this morning at the plant of the Howard Street Coal Co., were of incendiary origin, for following two alarms calling the department to the coal yard, Chief Charles Rose requested that the police institute an investigation. Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith have been assigned to the case.

Shortly before 2 o'clock, a lively blaze was discovered in the coal company's office and an alarm was sent in from Box 44, corner of Howard and Hamilton streets. With the arrival of the firemen the blaze was attacked with streams of chemicals and was quickly extinguished.

About 3:15 o'clock, another fire was discovered in the garage of the company and another alarm was rung in. The firemen subdued the latter blaze with chemicals and before damage of consequence resulted.

The investigation of the police thus far shows that some one had been in the office prior to the discovery of the first fire, for the entrance, leading from the office to the street was unlocked and after the officer on the beat had found the door secure several hours before the fire was discovered. Following the extinguishing of the fire in the garage, where a considerable quantity of inflammable material was stored, a number of burned matches were found on the ground beneath, a window that was open.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ennis, of Truman street; Elbridge Earrah, U. S. S. Jouett; Mrs. William Doucher, Hartford; Mrs. Victoria Coman, Cedar street; Miss Margaret Petitni, Groton; Mrs. Herbert Dafsley, Mountain avenue; Mrs. Peter Ceccarelli, Groton and Dr. Charles Souder, Norwich, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed Sunday and today.

The funeral of Ella Daniels, wife of Edward E. Gray, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence, Station 14, Waterford. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron F. Genter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, and were largely attended Relatives of Mrs. Gray acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Miss Mary Meade, about 54, residing at 41 Meridian street, died Saturday at Lawrence hospital, a few hours after she was admitted to the institution. She has been in ill health some time and her condition became such Monday afternoon that she was transferred to the hospital, where her decline was rapid. Miss Meade is survived by several nephews and nieces.

Glover L. Champlin, a well known resident of Quaker Hill, Waterford, died at his late home Saturday, death ending a lingering illness.

Mrs. Edward Dennis began her duties as typist today in the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran. Mrs. Dennis was formerly employed in the office of Purchasing Agent John W. Sheedy.

Mrs. Michael J. Doyle is confined to her home, Bidgenburg avenue, by serious illness.

Wilbur Edwards, 16, residing with relatives on Morse avenue, Groton, disappeared from his home and today relatives of the youth requested the Groton and New London police to assist them in locating him. The boy disappeared Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. He wore a blue overcoat, and a blue sailor's watch cap and red sweater.

Mrs. John Dlugolenski, proprietress of a grocery store, 324 Jefferson avenue, reported to the police this morning that an attempt had been made last night to burglarize her place of business. An entrance had evidently been effected at the rear and used in an endeavor to open the front door of the store and that the key became wedged in the lock in such a manner that the crook could not extricate it. The crook also endeavored to pry open one of the side windows.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney is confined to his home on Howard street, by an attack of rheumatism, from which malady he has been a sufferer for a number of weeks.

Marion C. Flanders, probation officer of the superior court for Suffolk county, Boston, today requested the New London police to provide him with the police court record of Mark Greeley, who is on parole in Boston on a charge of non-support. The only record of Greeley here is his arrest for the Boston police on the non-support charge.

It developed today that Charles McManus, former United States Coast guard sailor, now awaiting trial in the superior court for burglarizing the clothing store of Samuel Goodman, Bank street, is on parole from the Massachusetts Training School for Boys, Westboro, Mass. A communication was received by the New London police in reply to a request of McManus' description, that the description of the young man detained here tallies minutely with that of McManus even to tattoo marks on both of McManus' forearms. McManus and two companions secured clothing valued at $306, all of which was recovered.

Gilbert Costello, 22 Lewis street, today complained to the police that while his bicycle was standing beside the curbing on Bank street, near Golden, an automobile, owned and driven by Leon Kozloski, R. F. D., Chesterfield, backed over and wrecked the cycle and that Kozloski drove away without stopping to determine the damage to the cycle. When Kozloski was communicated with by telephone, he informed the police that he was not aware that his automobile had backed over the cycle, but that he would come to New London and interview Costello.

Chief Petty Officer Robert C. Dodge, stationed at the submarine base, was in the Groton town court this morning charged with manslaughter, in causing the death last month of Miss C. Isabell MacKenzie, of 64 Latham street, who died at Lawrence hospital from a fractured skull three days following being struck on Thames street, Groton by Dodge's automobile. Dodge was discharged, as Coroner J. J. Desmond, Norwich, had tendered a finding to Prosecuting Attorney Warren B. Burrows, which exonerated Dodge from all responsibility for Miss MacKenzie's death.

Michelle Baldassara was at the home of Mrs. Rosa Verdi, wife of Joseph Verdi, in Brewer street, a fortnight or more ago, when the woman was shot, the bullet striking a corset steel and falling to the floor without injuring the wearer. Today Baldassara was fined $50 and was ordered to pay the costs attending his apprehension in New Britain and conveyance to this city. The case has been continued three times including the session today, so that the costs upon Baldassara were quite heavy. But he is satisfied that he did not cause the woman's death.

Louis Richmann was prosecuted for the reckless operation of an automobile as he ran down a child on Main street, but the testimony was all to the effect that the child ran in front of the car Richmann was driving and that he did all that was possible to do to avert the accident. Several witnesses of the accident agreed that Richmann was blameless. The child was not seriously hurt.

Peter Brady was sent to jail to stay thirty days, from the police court this morning. He was arrested in the Central Vermont freight yard drunk all through. Seven years ago Brady was with Patrick Sullivan who was drowned in Shaw's cove and then it was believed that the pair were so drunk that they did not know where they were or what they were doing and Sullivan got overboard. Today Brady was sent to jail. He repeated a story that a fellow who preceded him had told about being on the way to Fort Terry to work in the dismantling of buildings, but that story didn't go. It worked all right in the previous case and won sympathy for the fellow who told it, Daniel Cahill, for he was allowed to keep going and to get to the fort job. Edward Freeland, colored, was fined $10 for intoxication. He said he had tackled white mule and it floored him. He claimed to have come here from Springfield and to have drank his liquor on the way, stating that three drinks put him out.

Manuel Gavette of Eastern avenue was also fined $10 for intoxication. It was his first appearance in the court. He represented that he met a man who gave him the liquor he drank. That story is getting to be a familiar one in the court and is not always accepted as true.

Street lights in various parts of the city failed to illumine tonight, particularly was this the case in the southern part of the city. The reason for the many streets being in darkness was because of disabled equipment at the power house, Water street.

Mrs. Rebecca Ulanoff, proprietress of a grocery store at 149 Howard St., complained to the police late this afternoon that an attempt was made last night by crooks to gain entrance to her place of business. Sergeant Nelson Smith visited the store and found that some one had tampered with a window by using a glass-cutter or a diamond, but whether the disfiguration was the result of an attempt to burglarize the store or the work of a malicious person, could not be told.

Harold Burbank, 208 Farmington avenue, Hartford, was in the Groton town court this morning charged with reckless driving, the automobile he was driving Saturday night hitting Ray Fancher, about 40, of Dean St., Groton. Fancher sustained a fractured left leg and is now a patient at Lawrence hospital, where he will be under treatment about three weeks. Because of Fancher's inability to appear in court today the case against Burbank was continued until the 28th inst., Burbank furnishing a bond for his appearance at that time.

Burbank was operating his car in a northerly direction on the Shennecossett road, Eastern Point and in attempting to drive around the machine operated by Herbert MacKenzie, also of Dean street, Groton, Fancher, who was walking on the right side of the highway was struck by Burbank's car and knocked down. Fancher was taken to the office of a physician after which he was transferred to the hospital.

A seven passenger touring car, owned by Emil Seifert, 18 Starr street, was damaged late this afternoon when it became ablaze in the yard of Seifert's residence. So serious did the fire become that two companies responded to a still alarm and it required a large tank of chemicals to subdue the blaze. Seifert had been working on his car and a backfire caused the machine to be ignited. The flames enveloped the car and when a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters Kononoc Hose company and Allen Hook and Ladder company responded.

As a result of the alleged attack upon Michael Yuhas, Jr., 30, of Niantic, by State Police Officer Henry Albright of the Groton barracks, several nights ago, Yuhas has lodged complaint with the authorities of East Lyme and Grand Juror Edwin B. W. Garlick of East Lyme, has signed a warrant for the state officer's arrest. The warrant has not been served, but it is expected that it will be within a day or two.

The alleged assault upon Yuhas occurred last week following the trial of Ruby Parker for violation of the liquor law. Parker was arrested by state police officers and the trial concluded, Yuhas' brother engaged in a fight outside the court room. Yuhas, it is claimed, attempted to separate the fighters and when he did so was remonstrated with by Albright. The elder Yuhas demanded an explanation from Albright, it is claimed, with the result that the officer struck Yuhas a vigorous blow in the face. The crowd became incensed at Albright's act and for a few minutes it was believed that serious trouble would result. Albright drew his revolver to awe the crowd and by so doing he was able to get into his automobile and speed away.

Mrs. Virginia Kenyon, residing at the Hotel Mohican, is spending several weeks at Atlantic City.

William M. Brown and Miss Ruth de Behren Knowlton, both of Providence were married Sunday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, at the residence of the clergyman, Federal St., Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for Providence immediately following the ceremony.

The men of the Baptist church served a five course supper in the chapel Wednesday evening to about 160 people. The supper consisted of grapefruit; tomato soup, roast beef, mashed potato, turnip, onion, cabbage salad, rolls, ice cream, nabiscos and coffee. Following the supper there were several piano solos by Frederick F. Manning of Norwich; readings by A. A. Boothby, Alfred Wyman Sr., and Abraham Aspinall. A vocal solo by Charles Briggs and a vaudeville act by Henry and Abraham Aspinall, in blackface. Visitors were present from Norwich, Montville, Mansfield, Leonard Bridge and Liberty Hill.

Mrs. Merwin Squires and two children of Manchester spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Squires.

Saturday evening, the 7th, about twenty neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gregoris met at their home to surprise them on their 25th wedding anniversary. Guests were present from South Manchester, Columbia and Lebanon. Mrs. Gregoris was presented one-half dozen silver soup spoons and Mr. Gregoris was given a set of silver-backed military brushes and comb. The presentation speech was made by Mrs. Henry Hutchins of Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. Gregoris responded in words of appreciation. Sandwiches, salad, cake and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bruce and daughter Arlene of East Lyme, are spending some time with Mr. Bruce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Bruce.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lillie regret that they are soon to leave Lebanon to live in South Manchester. They will carry with them the best wishes for their success in their new home.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

STOCK PRICES DROPPED.

New York, March 16.—Stock prices crumbled 1 to 12 points today as selling orders for both accounts poured into the market from all sections of the country. The heavy liquidation was generally attributed to the further break in wheat prices and the persistent circulation of disquieting rumors concerning the St. Paul railroad, whose stocks again touched record low figures.

Opening prices displayed a firm tone with several issues advancing a point or more on what appeared to be short covering. When it was discovered, however, that operators for the rise were not making any concerted efforts to follow up the rally and that grain futures were again in free supply, the selling pressure on stocks was renewed. United States Steel common and American Can showed good resistance throughout most of the day but they weakened with the rest of the list at the close, showing net losses of 1 7-8 and 4 1-4 points, respectively.

High priced specialties were the hardest hit. United States Cast Iron Pipe broke 12 points to 208; General Electric dropped 10 3-4 to 262 1-4 and net loss of 4 to nearly 7 points was recorded by American Locomotive, Atlantic Refining, Baldwin, Commercial Solvents A, Dupont, International Business Machine, Laclede Gas, Lima Locomotive, Mack Truck, New York Air Brake Otis Elevator, Pressed Steel Car, Savage Arms and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

The sustained reaction of the last few days has again brought to the fore the question of whether the "bull" market which began on the day after election has ended. While the action of the market in the last few weeks undoubtedly has added many converts to the bear side, stock market letters of the principal commission houses, are still widely divided in their opinions as to the major trend. Acute weakness of the textile shares was based on reports that conditions in the industry were showing little or no improvement over last year. American Woolen fell more than three points to 40 1-8, the lowest price since 1906, and Consolidated Textile touched a record low at 3 1-8.

Selling of the railroad shares was stimulated to some extent by the publishing of the 1924 earnings report of the New York Central showing a shrinkage of over $6,000,000 in net income last year as compared with the year before. The average of twenty leading rails fell back more than 1 1-2 points to 101 1-8, or just four-one hundredths of a point above the year's low.

Southern Railway and Texas and Pacific each showed extreme losses of about 3 points, while Chesapeake and Ohio, Atchison, Rock Island, Great Northern preferred, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna and several others closed 1 to 2 1-2 points below Saturday's final quotations. Norfolk and Western was run up over two points to 132 3-4 on reports that negotiations for a lease to the Pennsylvania were to be reopened, but it cancelled most of its gain in the late wave of selling.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent. Time money and Commercial Paper rates also were unchanged with business quiet.

Further strength of Japanese yen, which touched a new high for the year at 41 7-8 cents which was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled just above $4.78 and French francs were raised just under 5.15 cents, both showing slight concessions from Saturday's prevailing quotations. Danish kroner moved up 12 points to a new top at 18.15 cents, but the other European rates showed only nominal changes.

CURB MARKET

New York, March 16.—Reactionary tendencies again predominated in today's curb market, which continued to move in sympathy with the "big board." The decline with few exceptions was an orderly one, net losses in most of the active issues being held to two points or less.

Oil stocks lost ground despite the publication of statistics showing that some of the larger companies were in a position to benefit materially from the sale of huge stocks of crude acquired, in many cases at substantially lower prices.

South Pennsylvania Oil broke 5 points on a few sales while net losses of a point or more were recorded by Standard Oils of Kansas and New York, Vacuum, Prairie Oil & Gas and Imperial of Canada.

Bear traders again succeeded in uncovering a few weak spots among the rails issues. Hazeltine breaking nearly three points to 18 and Dubilier and Freed-Eisemann showing net losses of more than a point. Thermiodyne, Music Master, Charles Freshman, Thompson, Ware and Liberty Chain Stores held firm.

Middle West Utilities crossed par for a gain of nearly three points but losses of a point or two were recorded by American Power and Light, Commonwealth, Electric Bond & Share and Lehigh Power securities.

Further liquidation of Goodyear Tire, which dropped two points to 25 1-4, featured the industrial list. Continental Baking B and Lehigh Valley Coal certificates also were heavy.

MONEY.

New York, March 16.—Call money; steady; high 4; low 4; ruling rate 4; closing bid 4; offered at 4 1-4; last loan 4; call loans against acceptances 3; tim eloans; steady; mixed collateral, 60-90 days 4; 4-6 months 4 1-4; prime commercial paper 3 3-4@4.

COTTON

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 16.—Unsettled by fresh selling of St. Paul Railway obligations and the break in stock prices, the bond market turned reactionary today. Price recessions were limited to one and two points but they embraced a wide assortment of railroad, public utility and industrial liens.

Wall Street's fears that the St. Paul situation was approaching a critical stage contributed to the heavy liquidation of the road's bonds. Several issues including the 4 1-2s dropped a point or more to record low levels. Selling pressure against the refunding issue was intensified by reports that active steps were being taken to form a protective committee for these bondholders.

The weakness of railroad stocks brought a sympathetic decline in bonds of the carriers. Losses of a point or so were recorded by New York Central Convertible 6s, Chicago and Eastern Illinois 6s "Katy" adjustment 5s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s, Seaboard 6s, and Chicago and Alton 3 1-2s. Norfolk & Western issues moved coun

GREENEVILLE

The Community Workers met with Mrs. Allan Brown of No. 9 Fourth St., on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a large number of members present. The president, Mrs. Charles F. Sears, was in charge of the meeting and in the absence of Mrs. John Scott who has been very ill, Mrs. John McNee acted as secretary and treasurer and read the reports which show the Society to be in a flourishing condition. After the business session, the ladies sewed on aprons which they sell and at the close of the meeting a dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. and Miss Nellie Hayes. The table decorations were yellow and white and a delicious birthday cake was cut and served by one of the members of the Society.

The workers have held two special meetings during the month to tie quilts and at the next meeting which is to be held with Mrs. John MacDonald of Park St., another quilt is to be finished and given to a worthy cause. Plans were also made for May baskets which are made and filled and sent to the sick and shut-ins and it was voted to send a plant as a message of good cheer to a sick friend. A very enjoyable as well as profitable afternoon was spent by the Community Workers.

The many friends of Miss Marianne Blackledge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Blackledge of Prospect St., will be pleased to learn that she has taken sophomore honors in her class at Smith College.

Mrs. Jeremiah Shea of 230 Prospect St., has been entertaining her sister Miss Nellie Courtney of Washington, D. C., and also a niece, Miss Grace Sullivan of Nashua, N. H., during the past week.

The Ladies Aid of the Third Baptist church will be entertained by Mrs. William H. Sweet on Thursday afternoon of this week.

ZONING EXPERT DECLARES IT WORTH WHILE TO CHART FUTURE OF CITY

PROF. K. R. B. FLINT

For the March membership meeting of the chamber of commerce, held on Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel with supper at 6.15, Professor K. R. B. Flint, director of the bureau of municipal affairs at Norwich university, Northfield, Vermont, was the speaker upon the subject of City Planning and Zoning, giving a very lucid explanation of what is meant by this as applied to present day cities. Although city planning is not a new thing, he said, its development has been mostly in the present century and it has had a marvelous spread. It is well worth while to chart the future of your city instead of trusting to haphazard development.

Towards the conclusion of his talk, Professor Flint strongly urged the acquirement of municipal forest lands, which would result in large and profitable results to a community, and he also spoke strongly in favor of the city manager form of government as the best for city or town government. It is a success generally speaking, he declared, in the 360 or more communities in which it is in operation.

The speaker's remarks were warmly applauded and he was given a rising vote of thanks upon motion of J. Nelson Weymouth.

The gathering opened the meeting by singing America, after which the divine blessing was asked by James C. Macpherson, preceding the serving of the menu to the 125 seated around the tables. Swuhn's orchestra furnished the music and Herbert B. Cary was song leader, while two tenor solos, Maytime and The Gypsy Trail, were rendered by Fred Maples of the Central Baptist church quartette.

President Arthur E. Story expressed his pleasure at the large attendance, which included a number of ladies, and also three graduates of Norwich university, now resident in this city, F. U. M. Jewett, Walter Hedges, and D. H. B. Starr, who were called upon to rise in their places at the head table as they were introduced by President Story, before he introduced Professor Flint.

City Planing and Zoning

In substance Professor Flint spoke as follows:

The planning of towns and cities is not entirely a modern idea. The port of Athens was laid out by the Greek architect and engineer, Hippodamus; and history informs us that certain areas of the city itself were planned with exceeding care with regard to the convenience of its 200,000 inhabitants. The reconstruction of Rome, following the burning of the city in 64 A. D., was in large measure in accordance with very definite plans, and it is interesting to note that although Rome was entirely neglectful of private sanitation, she assiduously looked after the public health of the 800,000 people who thronged her narrow streets. The first writer on the art of city planning was a Roman, Vitruvius, an architect and engineer whose treatises were not without merit.

With the exception of those cities which were within the influence of Rome, the municipalities of medieval Europe developed without even a semblance of a plan, the predominant characteristic being the circular wall of defence within which was the fortified castle or citadel. With the end of the dark ages and the increase of trading activity, attempts were made to widen the streets and in other ways make life more comfortable, but no attention was given to the water supply, the lighting system, or any municipal service other than streets. Even London with its 40,000 inhabitants at the beginning of the 16th century gave no heed to these matters. It was not until towards teh close of the 17th century that there was formulated a truly comprehensive city plan.

After the great London fire of 1665 Sir Christopher Wren prepared, under authority of the crown, his famous plan for the rebuilding of the city, but it was not adopted because of the howl which went up from the land owners against the taking of their property; and through all of the succeeding decades the British metropolis has been paying the price of inadequate planning and short sighted policy. In America in 1682 plans were made for the streets and public squares of William Penn's "Quaker City", and in 1807 a street commission was appointed by the authorities of New York City which adopted the gridiron system that is today the outstanding characteristic of the American metropolis. About a decade before this commission did its work President Washington had engaged Pierre L'Enfant, a French military engineer, to lay out the new national capital in the District of Columbia. L'Enfant did his work so well that it has been recently said by Mr. Thomas Adams, one of the greatest authorities on city planning in the world, that the mistakes made in connection with the building of Washington have in every instance been due to the fact that deviations were made from the Frenchman's masterful plan.

But all these instances of town planning lacked the thorough community organization and the social background which today are considered so necessary in mapping out the future of a municipality. It is a startling fact that the 19th century so remarkable for its economic progress, was so utterly delinquent in its attitude toward civic and social affairs. If asked for a reason I would say that the transformation of a vast frontier into a great world power so occupied the minds of the strong men of America that this side of progress was neglected. Men lost their civic consciousness as they went in pursuit of wealth and industrial leadership. It is not extravagant to say that the beginning of scientific town building was left for the 20th century. Not until then was there any wide-spread attempt to apply business methods and the saving grace of common sense to the management of community affairs. Men have now come to realize that if it is a good thing for the business corporation to call in the landscape architect for the purpose of laying out a plan for future growth, it is an equally good thing for the municipal corporation to do likewise, and at this moment scores and scores of American towns and cities are either planning for their futures or are putting into operation plans which have already been formulated.

What Is City Planning?

What is city planning? It may be defined as the science and art of designing cities with such vision of the future as to secure for their inhabitants the greatest possible degree of health, convenience, opportunity and beauty of environment. There is no department of municipal administration which city planning in its proper sense does not embrace. The social life of a community, the health and safety of its inhabitants, the form of government, the character of its industries, the grouping of its public buildings, the laying out of its streets and sidewalks, the extent of its parks and playgrounds—all these should be considered in a comprehensive city plan. It is not a fad, it merely aims at the solution of the problems of the community by the application of the same scientific methods that are employed in the development of the great industries. It is well to remember, however, that if a city plan is to be worth the paper upon which it is charted, it must have an individuality of its own in harmony with the size of the municipality and its geographic setting.

Four Distinct Steps

There are four distinct steps involved in the preparation of any practical city plan:

1. Making a preliminary survey to determine the area to be planned and securing a map of existing physical and sociological conditions.

2. Obtaining authority necessary to control the area while the plan is being prepared, so as to forestall attempts to thwart its execution.

3. Preparing the plan and securing legislative approval.

4. Putting the plan into operation after it has been approved.

One at all familiar with the nature of American government will realize at once that the order of procedure must be as indicated, and that the first step only can be taken effectually without legislative action. Such action can, of course, take the form of a special charter for a city or a general enabling act. However the plan may be prepared, it must be remembered that efficient city planning presupposes community mobilization. Unless country and village can work together, unless all elements are willing to engage in team play, there can be no great accomplishment. To get results the community must be organized. I have never heard a better definition of community spirit than that it was organized loyalty.

Many of the improvements considered in a town plan are not self-supporting. A comprehensive scheme of development necessitates not only the charting of a plan, but the acquisition of control over undeveloped property, and the question of financing the scheme becomes, therefore, one of considerable import. The method usually employed to meet extraordinary expenditures is through the exercise of the borrowing power. The great business corporations have never hesitated to assume a large debt in order to enlarge the field of its activities; and there is no good reason why the municipal corporation should hesitate to borrow in order to improve its position. But there is a principle connected with public borrowing which should always be borne in mind: future generations should not be called upon to pay for the thing which they cannot enjoy, and so the present generation should not blindly assume obligations without regard to meeting them as they become due. The practice of paying for public improvements by the levy of special assessments upon the owner of the property benefitted is based upon the principle "that those persons whose property has been clearly increased in market value by an improvement affected by the local authorities should especially contribute to the cost of such improvement. Wise improvements are never a burden upon any community but extravagance is without excuse. The municipal corporation, like the private corporation, must be guided by the saving grace of common sense.

City planning is sometimes thought of as the planning only of the public features of the city, such as its streets, parks and public buildings. Most of the land within the limits of a modern city, however, is owned and utilized by private individuals, and if the plan is to be truly effective the development of this land must also be controlled. Almost invariably the construction of buildings in cities is governed by a voluminous and detailed building code, most of which consists of rules with regard to stresses and strains, the choice of materials for fire-proof and semi-fire-proof buildings, the minimum width of stairs, plumbing, height of rooms, etc. This is a science in itself, into which city planning cannot go with profit either to building construction or to city planning. It can deal, however, with those aspects of building which more directly affect the use of other properties, such as the height and area of structures and their general use, especially when these rules vary in different parts of the city, thus establishing districts each to some extent with a character of its own.

Zoning Defined

Zoning has been defined as planning with relation to the differences, existing and potential, between the parts of cities. It tends to make for municipal orderliness. Church and garage, public library and cobbler shop, residence and factory should no longer be side by side. There may be some cost, some sacrifice; but so there has always been with things worth while. The best thought in the land today calls for a civic center, a well defined residential area, a manufacturing section, and a commercial district. In this connection it may be said that the Chamber of Commerce should be responsible for an industrial survey, showing what the community assets are as a place where business can be conducted with profit and efficiency, and where the laborer can live comfortably and in contentment. Every available factory site should be card indexed; and each card should give detailed information regarding the price, size, ownership, location, transportation facilities, and other facts concerning the property in question.

The practical value of zoning is evident from its rapid growth. An early development in this country was zoning for height of buildings in one section of a city on a different scale from that permitted in another. This modest inroad on the rights of property met with vigorous resistance, and the Massachusetts law establishing two height zones in Boston was taken to the supreme court as a taking of property without due compensation in violation of the 14th amendment. The court in 1903 crossed the zoning Rubicon with an opinion which established the police power of the legislature to differentiate between selected parts of the city in respect of the height of buildings. The usual basis of the police power which may be defined as the right of the state to legislate with regard to the health, safety and morality of its people, was relied on by the court in formulating this decision, and questions of esthetics or comfort were not considered.

At the present time Massachusetts municipalities are particularly active with regard to zoning. Definite programs whereby each section of the city or town is set apart for a certain class of buildings, are being adopted in an increasing number of places. The cities of Worcester and Woburn and the town of Belmont are the latest to report to the state department of public welfare the establishment of comprehensive zoning. This makes twenty-tix places zoned, twenty-six more, including Lowell and Salem at work on zoning, and nine seeking appropriations for the work. The planning board in Springfield where the zoning ordinance has been in effect for some time has made this report "It is noticeable that for the year 1,591,200 square feet of land has been changed on petition of property owners to zones of greater restriction. This represents approximately an increase of 500,000 square feet thus zoned over 1923. It would appear from this that property owners appreciate the stabilizing effect of zoning."

Objections That Arise

Naturally there are many objections to zoning. Those who believe in a policy of laisse faire and prefer to let things drift may not protest with vigor against zoning, but to say the least they think it is wasted effort. Then there are those who actively oppose such control of private property by the municipality. It is probably true that occasionally someone really suffers from the application of the zoning principle, but it is probably entirely safe to say that in the long run property interests are secured and comparatively little hardship is imposed. Zoning proceeds upon the theory that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and that it is fairer to all concerned to prevent the establishment in residence districts of objectionable business than to drive them out once they are established. It is interesting to note however, that in the notable case of Fertilizer company vs. Hyde Park, 97 U. S. 659, the supreme court went at length into the power to remove nuisances. The Fertilizer company had established its plant under a provision of its charter, granted by state statute, when the territory was waste and uninhabitated. Subquently the village grew up in the neighborhood, the factory was included in its limits, and acting under a law amending its charter the village by ordinance declared all works of the sort used by the company nuisances. The ordinance was upheld in spite of the company's protest that it was a violation of the right under its own charter. It is safe to say that the police power will always be available to remove existing nuisances, but if the city is properly zoned and its city plan laid out in advance there should be less need for this violent remedy.

Before closing I wish to call your attention to the part which a municipal forest should play in a city plan. It may be that Norwich is not so located as to avail itself of this opportunity to advantage, but most New England municipalities will certainly do well to provide in their plan for future growth for an area which will not only be of economic value so far as the timber is concerned, but which will serve as a noble playground for those who prefer the forest to the city park. The city forest, although comparatively new in America, has for generations been an institution in many of the countries of Europe—at once a source of pleasure and of profit. The municipal forest is best known in Switzerland, Germany and Sweden, although by no means confined to these countries. The city forests of Zurich, Switzerland, earned approximately $30,000 a year. If you are not in a position to develop a city forest here, you can at least do much to make possible the realization of the proposed state park at Fort Shantok, which as I understand, is within the limits of your county. This is a historic spot, and certainly should be preserved as a memorial to those Indians of New England who were always the friends of the settlers.

Local government is the all important thing in America today. A stream has never yet been known to rise higher than its source, and if you in this commonwealth aspire for a greater Connecticut, if the people of this country generally hope for a greater America, if mankind realizes the dream of a federated world, we must see to it that our community life is wholesome and efficient.

Plan For The Future

A great responsibility rests upon this generation. The type of cities and towns which our children will live in as men and women will be determined by our attitude toward scientific municipal growth. If we plan for their future they will bless us; if we fail to do so they will blame us. Let us face the problem with courage, and attempt to do our work so well that we can say, as did St. Paul of old, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Town Street Collie Killed.

"Prince," the intelligent collie about four years old, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pieretti, of Town street, was struck and killed by an automobile last week. This is the sixth dog, to say nothing of the number of cats, to be destroyed in this way in practically an area of 100 feet on this street. "Prince" was a dog most happy when with little children, and daily frolicked with them in their play. One of the many pranks was shown when a neighbor called him from across the street to come and get meat trimmings, bones, etc. Prince would prick up his ears and start on the run for the house, taking the contents which had been placed in a paper bag and run home with it, always looking in both directions before crossing the street.

The person who was responsible for the death of Prince was most courteous in reporting the accident to the dog's owner, who likewise met the situation accordingly, as it was felt that while it was unfortunate, no doubt it could not have been avoided.

Entertained Major Flint

Major K. R. B. Flint of Norwich University, Northfield, Vt., the speaker Monday evening at the Chamber of Commerce meeting, was the guest while in this city of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Peale of McKinley avenue. Their son Richard is a student at Norwich University.

SEED SOWING TOPIC AT RADIATOR MEETING

The noon shop meeting of the Richmond Radiator Co., was held on Monday with the usual speaker under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The subject presented was Seed Sowing. The following outlines the thought of the speaker, Rev. C. H. Ricketts:

Three things are naturally involved in seed sowing: First, the quality of the seed, it ought to be good seed; second, the condition of the soil in which it is sown, it ought to be good soil; third, the manner, in which the seed is sown, it ought to be good sowing.

Each of these divisions was dwelt upon and illustrated. It is necessary for the artisan to have good tools. We cannot reasonably expect fine work to be done with poor, cheap tools. How important it is for the surgeon to have the very best. All professional men, whose work is largely mental, must read books, not trash, but real books that will furnish real stimulus. These are the store houses from which they find material which serves as a background for their work.

The quality of the soil was discussed: First, as being uncultivated. The seed falls by the wayside, and, being uncovered is crushed by footsteps, or picked up by birds. Reference was made to one of the mistakes of the reconstruction period following the civil war, in putting the ballot into the hands of the newly-liberated slave, who were not prepared to receive it. Riot and anarchy followed because the soil was uncultivated. Second, there is the unproductive soil: that which is poor and shallow. Third, there is the weed-infested soil where brambles and briars crowd out the grain and vegetables. Fourth, there is the good soil, rich, deep and well watered. This is the soil that brings forth an hundred fold provided good work has been done. It is not quite enough to have good seed and good soil. If, back of these there is a blunderer, all will be ruined. After all it is the man that counts. Sometimes he will do wonders with an almost impossible soil. First get the man and give him a fair chance and there will be some sort of a yield.

MERCHANTS' WINDOW DRESSING AROUSES WIDE INTEREST

Since the recent announcement regarding the window dressing contest to be held Thursday evening, as a supplement to the co-operative opening days on Friday and Saturday the merchants have received reports from all over town indicating a deep interest on the part of the citizens of Norwich. Judging from these reports the down town streets will be packed Thursday evening to see the windows.

There is a great deal of rivalry among all the merchants for the silver trophy cups offered as prizes. The business streets of Norwich will blossom forth with wonderful window displays as every merchant or business house has declared the intention of making the best display they have ever attempted.

The window dressing contest shows the progressiveness of the Norwich merchants as these contests have been held in other cities throughout the country and have proved a big hit with the public. In every city the streets have been thronged on the night of the contest.

A novel feature has been added to the window dressing contest. One letter will be placed in many of the store windows. When these letters are assembled together they will form a sentence that refers to the Buy in Norwich movement. To the first hundred people presenting the correct completed sentence at the box office of the Palace theatre Thursday evening two tickets to the theatre will be given free.

The theatres of the city are cooperating to make window contest night a big success. It is expected that further announcement will be made by all the theatres of some novel features to further awaken interest.

SOLTZ FORECLOSURE ORDER IS VACATED

A judgment of foreclosure by sale on property of the bankrupt Soltz Co., a New London meat concern, which was awarded a week ago by Judge Allyn L. Brown in a suit brought by the Union Bank and Trust Co., holders of notes of the meat company, was vacated by Judge Brown at a short calendar session of the court in New London Friday. The reason for the vacation of the judgment was that the land covered by the mortgage, consisted of eight separate parcels, the mortgage being a second on several of the parcels, third on some, and fourth on others and hence bound to result in a confusing sale. It is now anticipated that holders of a first blanket mortgage on all eight parcels will institute foreclosure proceedings to bring about the sale of the property.

In a separate note action brought by the Union Bank and Trust Co., today against the Soltz Co., judgment by default for failure of the defendant to plead was entered by Judge Brown.

Judgment of foreclosure on a mortgage note for $2,630 entered in case of Smith vs. Gomes, et al., and April 13 named as time limit for redemption.

Judgment of foreclosure of a mortgage note for $1,274 entered in the case of the Federal Land Bank of Springfield vs. Pietro Fazio of Colchester, and the first Monday in May named as time limit for redemption.

Request for order that receiver of the S. & W. Self Service Stores, Inc., of Norwich file his accounts and inventories in the action brought against the Self Service Stores by Jaffe, was granted.

Can Be Reserve Officers

Major General Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area, has just received instructions from Washington which now make it possible for men who served as enlisted men during the World War to become officers in the Officers' Reserve Corps. This opportunity is made by a change in the regulations and requirements for candidates of the Blue Course at the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Civilians who have had previous military experience, such as two or three years in the army during the war, are now eligible, provided they have passed their 19th birthday and are not over 31 years of age. They must have a high school education, or its equivalent and for technical branches, the necessary technical education. They must also have the personality, appearance, tact, bearing and general adaptability which will fit them, after further training, to be officers of the Officers' Reserve Corps. They must also have the same physical requirements as those required of officers of the Reserve Corps.

FINED IN COURT ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

Charged with reckles driving Carl Angele, 24, a sailor from the submarine base, was fined $20 and costs in the city court Monday morning. He failed to stop on orders from two police officers, one on North Main street and the other on Franklin square. He was captured after a chase over the Laurel Hill road.

The case of agravated assault against Antonio Zigarella, 38, of No. 29 Roath street, was continued for one week on request of Lawyer Thomas J. Kelly, counsel for the accused. He is alleged to have shot his step-daughter during an argument with his wife. It is said the bullet was intended for his wife and that the girl received it in the arm when she stepped in front of him. It is alleged that Zigarella was intoxicated at the time.

Tony Falcone, of No. 57 Lake street and Michael Berso of New London were presented on charges of violation of the liquor law in the transportation of 50 gallons of alcohol. They were arrested at the fairgrounds Friday evening by County Deteceive William E. Lewis, Police Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officer Peter Sullivan. Officer Lewis emptied his gun after the Ford coupe in which Barso attempted to make his escape with the load of alcohol and the coupe was stopped by Sergeant Delaney at the point of his revolver. The cases were continued in court to next Saturday.

Three local men were fined for intoxication and breach of the peace.

NORWICH COUNCIL, U. C. T. ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

At the monthly meeting of Norwich Council, No. 309, U. C. T., held on Saturday at Odd Fellows hall in New London, the regular business meeting started at 5 o'clock in the evening Between the hours of 6 and 7 a New England supper was served by Councilor Harry Shurtz.

Initiation was conferred upon a class of eight candidates who traveled the road in great shape.

Past Counselor, L. C. Searle, New London; Senior Counselor, J. E. Campbell, Norwich; Junior Counselor, Alfred Rogers, New London; Conductor, E. S. Bean, Norwich; Page, George Mitchell, New London; Sentinel, W. Ward, Norwich; Executive Committee, H. R. Branche, C. W. Pearson, C. S. Peckham, C. D. Tingley, Leroy Nash.

Acting Grand Councilor Harry E. Jenks of the Grand Council of New England installed the newly elected officers.

The session was followed by a musical program.

BISHOP BREWSTER NEPHEW OF FORMER NORWICH WOMAN

Bishop Brewster, the preacher at Christ church Sunday evening in the series of Lenten sermons, is a nephew of the late Mrs. Sarah Brewster Tibbals, a native of Norwich, from whose estate bequests to the First Methodist and First Congregational churches have been recently received. The home of the Brewster family was on West Town street in the house now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Remus Stanton. Sons and daughters of this home have in their lives of usefulness in Connecticut and in different parts of our country exemplified the loyalty, courage, spirit and faith which Bishop Brewster in his Lenten sermon showed Christianity demands.

Death of Mrs. Wallace Whittier.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Springfield, Mass., March 16.—Mrs Madeline F. Whittier, 62, wife of W. Wallace Whittier, died in her home, at 21 Lester street, last Thursday evening after an illness of several months Besides her husband she leaves two daughters, Mrs. Archie Griffin of Leomister and Miss Marion G. Whittier of this city; two sons, Ralph W. E. Whittier of this city and Theodore N. Whittier who lives in Willimantic, Conn.; two brothers, and one sister. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, with Rev. Earl H. Thayer officiating and burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Memorial Mass for Father Treanor

Monday at 8 o'clock, in St. Patrick's church, the sixth memorial mass was celebrated by Rev. Myles P. Galvin for Rev. Hugh Treanor. It was edifying to see how many of the parishioners attended, offering up their Holy Communion for the repose of the soul of the late rector, who worked so faithfully for the welfare of this church for 15 years.

Father Treanor died Dec. 26th, when no requiem masses are offered within the octave of Christmas, consequently the date of his birth, March 16th is chosen annually for this service. It is given by different members of the parish who invite all others who can be present to attend and to join in the prayers for the eternal repose of his soul. Every year Father Treanor has been memorialized in this manner. Miss Margaret Bolton, of Moosup, who is always present at this mass, met many of her Norwich friends Monday.

Nurses Were Guests at Play

NORWICH AID SOUGHT FOR SHENANDOAH PARK

Assistance of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce in the establishment of the first great national playground in the Southern Appalachians, the Shenandoah National Park, within a short 400 miles of Norwich, has been asked in letters just received from the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce. The Shenandoah National Park site is within sight of the nation's capitol, and only a short two days auto ride from any point in New England. It lies within 800 miles of 40,000,000 people, in the most historic valley in the United States.

Already resolutions indorsing the establishment of the first of the great Southern Appalachian Parks in Virginia, have been adopted by the Virginia New England Conference committee, at its meeting in New Haven a few days ago.

The Shenandoah National Park area is 65 miles long, and within its shadow lies the homes of Woodrow Wilson, James Madison and John Marshall. More than 200 battlefields are within sight of its twenty peaks, and by it is located the scene of Sheridan's Ride, where McCormick invented the reaper and Gibbs made the first sewing machine, the home of Thomas Jefferson and the birthplace of Sam Houston and George Rogers Clarke.

GIVEN SURPRISE FOR WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Last Friday evening about 20 neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Willington Miner met at their home on Vergason avenue, and tendered them a surprise in honor of their 15th wedding anniversary. As the crowd came near the house they divided and entered both front and back doors, taking Mr. and Mrs. Miner by great surprise.

The greatest event of the evening was when Dr. N. G. Gray in behalf of the friends pleasingly presented Mr. and Mrs. Miner 12 cut glass tumblers. They also received a pryrex cake dish. Refreshments were served, consisting of vegetable sala, sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Those present were Rev. and Mrs J. E. Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Leffingwell, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman, Mrs. Frank Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hubbard and son James, Mr. and Mrs. Val Luppert and daughters Louise and Margaret and son George, Dr. N. G. Gray, Miss Bennett, Ellie Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Weaver.

BIBLE STUDY CLASS FOR BOZRAH CHILDREN

The Bozrahville section of the national council of Jewish women has organized a Bible study class for the children of the community. Under the auspices of the council a large group of children is attending the Bible class every Sunday morning at the Johnson school house with Miss Jennie Zachs of Hartford as instructor. The moral and ethical education which the children are getting is proving worthy of the great effort the Bozrah council is making along this line of endeavor in order to meet this fundamental need in this community. The children are also to be instructed in dramatics which will enable them to participate in the entertainments given by the council from time to time.

The committee in charge comprises Mrs. Nathan Gilman, Mrs. Minnie Berkman, Mrs. Lena Turner, Mrs. Celia Fishbone, Mrs. Ida Piezomsky.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

J. G. SARGENT CONFIRMED AS ATTORNEY GENERAL

Former Attorney General of Vermont Was Nominated by President Coolidge After Charles B. Warren Had Declined to Accept an Offer of a Recess Appointment—Mr. Warren Was Unwilling to Prolong Political Controversy—New Attorney General is a Close Personal Friend of President Coolidge.

Washington, March 17.—The controversy between President Coolidge and the senate over the attorney generalship ended abruptly today with the confirmation of John G. Sargent, of Vermont, for the post, and his prompt confirmation by the senate.

Mr. Sargent, a former attorney general of Vermont and a close personal friend of the president, was selected after Charles B. Warren of Michigan, whose nomination twice was rejected by the senate, had declined to accept an offer of a recess appointment.

At the moment that Mr. Sargent's name was transmitted to the senate, the White House made public an exchange of correspondence between the two men which disclosed that the offer of such an appointment had been tendered yesterday after the senate has acted unfavorably upon his name.

Mr. Warren wrote the president that he was unwilling to prolong a political controversy which might harm Mr. Coolidge's "opportunity for full usefulness to the nation, and possibly interfere with your making effective your policies."

Announcement of the selection of Mr. Sargent, who lives in the little village of Ludlow, near the president's birthplace, was made after Mr. Coolidge had conferred with the republican and democratic floor leaders in the senate. He was unwilling to submit the name until he had been assured that his old friend would not be subjected to the hazard of such an attack as was made on Mr. Warren.

Immediately upon receipt of the nomination, the senate moved swiftly to dispose of it. Chairman Cummins of the judiciary committee, took the unusual course of laying the appointment before the body in open session and then called a meeting of his committee to act upon it.

There was little discussion in the committee. Senator Dale, republican, Vermont, appearing on behalf of Mr. Sargent, explained that he would bury "political differences," with the nomination because the issue was "above political controversy."

An hour and a half later, the nomination was reported to the senate in executive session, and was approved in open session by unanimous consent just four hours after it had been received. The committee discussed it only a little more than half an hour, and the senate debated it not at all.

Mr. Sargent's name first came into prominence in connection with the attorney generalship last Saturday, when senators received a report that he would be nominated after the second rejection of Mr. Warren's name. It was the publication of this report that led to the White House announcement that the president would offer Mr. Warren a recess appointment.

DR. JACOB G. SCHURMAN NEW AMBASSADOR TO GERMANY

Washington, March 17.—Nomination today by President Coolidge, of Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, now the American minister at Peking, to succeed Alanson B. Houghton, as ambassador to Germany, and its prompt confirmation by the senate, completed a re-alignment of major diplomatic appointments in Europe. It appeared improbable tonight, however, that Commander Schurman's successor in Peking would be nominated in time for consideration at the present session of the senate. The transfer of Mr. Schurman to Berlin is regarded by state department officials as a logical step, despite that it withdraws him from the Peking legation at a time when political and economic conditions in China and the far east generally have given that post outstanding importance. The promotion is in line with the administration's present policy of advancing its representatives abroad, and is an official recognition of the important services Dr. Schurman has rendered in China under trying conditions.

DISAPPROVE ACTIONS OF NEBRASKA SENATORS

Broken Bow, Neb., March 17—H. J. Kennedy, chairman of the Republican county central committee, of Broken Bow, in answer to charges made in the senate by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska today declared that he, together with about 100 republicans of Broken Bow, had sent a telegram to both Senators Norris and Howell, merely to "let them know that we do not uphold their actions on the matter."

"We did not especially try to influence their votes," he said. "We only wanted to let them know that we believe in President Coolidge, and in the man he chooses to nominate."

The text of the telegram to the senators was given out by Mr. Kennedy as follows:

"We, the republicans, of Custer county, helped to elect President Coolidge, and believe he may be trusted in making the selection of his official cabinet. Unless you have other reasons for opposing the nomination of Warren as those announced in the public press, we cannot approve your course, if you have other reasons we believe your constituents have a right to know what they are."

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL

Ludlow, Vt., March 17.—John Garibald Sargent whose nomination to be attorney general of the United States was confirmed by the senate today, was born here on October 13, 1860, the son of Ezra Henmon and Ann Elvira (Stanley) Sargent. Both parents were of Irish ancestry.

He was graduated from the Black River Academy of this town in 1883 and then entered Tufts college where he took an active part in athletics playing center on the football team.

On graduation from college, he entered the law office of W. W. Stickney, later becoming a partner in the firm. Sargent was admitted to the state bar in 1890; served as state's attorney for Windsor county from 1898 to 1900; secretary of civil and military affairs from 1900 to 1902 under Governor Stickney his law partner; attorney general from 1908 to 1913; and was member of the commission on uniform legislation for several years and president of the Vermont Bar Association.

He gained prominence while state's attorney in effecting the capture of the Shaw brothers, slayers of Sheriff Hoffman of Windsor. He later successfully prosecuted both.

Sargent always has been a republican.

He was recently picked to represent the state before the United States supreme court in boundary dispute between Vermont and New Hampshire.

Physically Sargent is of huge stature. He is said to resemble the president whom he has known since boyhood in his economy of words and conciseness of diction.

ANTI-VACCINATIONISTS DEFEATED AT HEARING

Hartford, March 17.—Anti-vaccinationists lost out in the first contest over changing the present laws in regard to innoculation of school children against smallpox today when the house rejected the 'conscientious objectors" bill which would have allowed issuance of a physician's certificate in lieu of vaccination.

On the other hand the bill which would have made it compulsory for all school children to be vaccinated, by changing the present law to read "shall" instead of "may" was rejected. The latter bill was disposed of without argument but on the "conscientious objectors' bill the members had an opportunity to hear the question debated at some length and it was the first time this session the body had actually engaged in debate. The bill was rejected after a motion to table had been lost, and then reconsidered when Mr. Hoyt, of New Haven, protested that the speaker had ignored him. Speaking on the bill Mr. Hoyt said that the bill gave "an ordinary sense of justice."

He did not believe that it was unfair to allow objectors a voice in the question of being innoculated or not when the medical profession was not agreed on the question. He believed also, that if vaccination was good for minors it was good for adults.

Mrs. Fenniman of Naugatuck said that of 1,300 doctors in the state only a few object to vaccination.

Mr. Clark, of Haddam, was opposed to compulsory vaccination but was willing to change his mind when the medical profession agreed.

Mr. Bell, of Salisbury, said that vaccination in the halls of legislation was like Banquo's ghost; doctors would never agree but most of them believe innoculation was a preventitive. He believed also that most of the people believed in vaccination.

Mr. Alling, of New Britain said that 10,000 persons had been vaccinated in his city and he knew of no evil effects. Mr. Peck, of Bristol, was sure his constituents opposed the bill as he had been opposed in the nominating caucus by a candidate of the Medical Liberty league. History showed, he said, that before the days of vaccination smallpox was epidemic.

Mr. Russell, of Middletown, claimed that government reports showed that vaccination caused twice as many as deaths as smallpox and that innoculation had been failure in the army in France.

After debate was closed Dr. Higgins, the committee chairman, said that an "objectors bill" was adopted in 1917 and vetoed by Governor Holcomb. The committee report was accepted and the bill rejected.

The house adopted these bills: Amending charter of New Milford Electric Light company with right to extend service to Roxbury, and increasing capital stock to $50,000. Requiring New Haven road to maintain bridge over its tracks at Main and Humphrey streets, Seymour; appropriating $25,000 for additional land and completion of the fish hatchery at Burlington. For voting districts in Stratford. Making license fee for storage of motion picture film $25, with $10 for renewal.

ALLEN B. LINCOLN TELLS OF POOR HIGHWAYS

Hartford, March 17.—The hardships which citizens of Ashford suffer in attempts to reach Willimantic by automobile were recounted by Representative Allen B. Lincoln of that town today by the legislative committee on roads, bridges and rivers when advocating state aid for the construction of a stretch of road in Mansfield from the center to Ashfordville. He described the road as "little more than a wide mud-patch is quick death to automobiles."

Norman Baker, of Ashford, unsuccessful democratic rival of Mr. Lincoln for a seat in the house, testified at the request of Mr. Lincoln on the poor condition of the road.

Others registering in favor of the state aid construction were Representatives Mrs. Annie E. Vinton and Judge L. J. Storrs, of Mansfield, L. M. Reed, of Union and Charles D. Tatem of Eastford. First Selectman Daniel Flaherty of Mansfield said that town had $2,000 ready for the project if an additional amount was appropriated by the state.

PINCHOT FIGHTING FOR THE "UNITED DRY BILL"

Harrisburgh, Pa., March 17—Governor Pinchot, after an appeal to the general assembly today to pass the administration's "united dry bill," tonight made public a telegram to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in which he said the secretary is being quoted as having said the bill "must positively be defeated." The governor's message asked Mr. Mellon to wire his position at once.

France Increases Tax

Cherbourg, France, March 17—Passengers starting for New York will pay a head tax of 50 francs, instead of 35, beginning tomorrow. Those aboard the steamer Olympic will be the first victims of the increased rate, the receipts of which will go toward the work of deepening the port channel.

Wahabi Tribesmen Defeated.

Cairo, Egypt, March 17.—A news despatch from Jeddah reports that troops of the kingdom of the Hedjas on sunday severely defeated the Wahabi tribesmen, who lost 300 in killed. The Hedjas troops are said to have suffered nine killed and 30 wounded.

STORIES BY FORMER MAID OF MRS. DENNISTOUN

London, March 17.—Stories of incidents in bathrooms and communicating hotel bedrooms were told in detail at today's session of the suit of Mrs. Ian Onalow Dennistoun against her divorced husband, Lieutenant Colonel Dennistoun. The stories came out during the testimony of Marguerite Pyronnenc said, that she warned her mistress that she did not desire to witness any more of them. Mrs. Dennistoun, the maid said, merely replied: "There is nothing in it."

Lieutenant Colonel Dennistoun, who was suffering from sciatica, was not present in court today. His wife, former Dowarger Countess Carna von Arnim was in the session and during the testimony repeatedly used her smelling salts bottle.

It a Paris hotel in the fall of 1920, Miss Pyronnence, expalined that "Mrs. Dennistoun was on the sixth floor, the Spaniard Bolin on the fifth and Colonel Dennistoun, who was ill, was in a room poorer than my own maid's room."

Miss Pyronnenc, who seemed to have been on terms equally as intimate as those of the other maid, Hanifh Parer, with Mrs. Dennistoun, said that she rebuked Mrs. Dennistoun for always grumbling because Dennistoun did not give her money, whereas he could not even pay his own bills. The witness said that to this Mrs. Dennistoun retorted that she could not help that.

At Barcelona, Spain, Mrs. Dennistoun, Bolin and another man and woman formed a party of four on a jaunt "which was a mixture of love and business combined," Mrs. Pyronnenc testified. She related the receipt there by Mrs. Dennistoun of a telegram from Sir John Cowans, Great Britain's wartime quartermaster general, in which, after cursing Mrs. Dennistoun, he added that she had been "artful, heartless and deceiving all through." Sir John died a month later.

Miss Pyronnenc also said that Mrs. Dennistoun had a picture of Oscar Senhouse, an American who was later killed in war, on her dressing table and another in a locket. The witness added that Mrs. Dennistoun would have eloped with Senhouse if he had not been killed. The witness agreed to return to Paris to get certain letters containing intimate details, which she said Mrs. Dennistoun wrote to her.

William J. Nash, who was chauffeur for Sir John Cowans, described how he drove Mrs. Dennistoun and Bolin a score of times. He said Sir John never saw Bolin.

Two physicians took the stand today in connection with the illness of Colonel Dennistoun. They said he was suffering from sciatica but that he might possibly be brought to court tomorrow in an invalid chair.

WOULD DIVORCE POLITICS FROM TAX QUESTIONS

Richmond, Va., March 17.—Secretary Mellon and Under Secretary Winston, of the treasury, speaking here tonight, appealed to the country to eliminate partisan politics in consideration of tax questions.

With the subject of taxes fresh in the minds of the people from the payment of the first installment of the year's levy, the two treasury officials declared the nation must come to an understanding on the various phases of federal taxation, and that there must be "intelligent use," of the taxing power to avoid disastrous consequences in the economic life of the future.

RUMOR OF FRIENDLY SUIT AGAINST ST. PAUL ROAD

Chicago, March 17.—The Chicago Daily News today publishes a story to the effect that a friendly receivership suit against the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway probably would be filed tomorrow in federal court at Milwaukee according to information from a reliable source. The railway company is a Wisconsin corporation.

Efforts of the company to negotiate with bankers in New York for refiancing of the $48,000,000 four per cent. bonds which mature next June, have been marked by declining quotations of the company's securities in the New York stock and bond markets for days. Harry E. Bryan president of the company still is in New York and attaches of the road here profess to have no information of an impending receivership.

CONFERENCE TO COMBAT SLEEPING SICKNESS

Geneva, March 17—The convocation of an international conference to combat sleeping sickness, which is making new ravages, especially in Africa and also in districts outside the equatorial zones, is strangly favored by Belgium a communication received today by the league of nations.

CARTOONIST HELD WAS INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Norwalk, March 17.—John Held, Jr., of Weston, artist and cartoonist, was seriously injured in Westport this afternoon when the horse he was driving became frightened and ran away. The wagon was overturned and Mr. Held was thrown out. He was taken to the Norwalk hospital where it was found he suffered a possible fracture of the skull and numerous cuts and bruises about the head. He is in a serious condition.

Deliberation is a mighty good thing in its way, but it has broken mighty few records.

Ireland Enjoyed A Dry St. Patrick's Day

Holiday Crowds Were Never Greater and no Complaint Was Made of the New Law.

Dublin, March 17.—(By The A. P.)—Ireland was dry today in every sense of the word, proving the old proverb that the sunnyside of the stone turns up on St. Patrick's day. The crowds of holiday makers were never greater and no complaint was made of the absence of all drinking facilities. The conflict in parliament whether all drink shops should be closed has no reflection in public opinion, which apparently approved the victory of the senate for dryness.

All the drink shops were closed, and no drink could be obtained in hotels except by residents. In some suburban districts the temporary dry law was modified by the exemption of bona fide travellers. Anyone who travels three miles can get a drink between certain hours on Sunday, and the point whether St. Patrick's day could be counted as a Sunday or should be bone-dry, was decided differently in different districts, acording to the different interpretations of the latest liquor act.

But even where the interpretation was lax there was no scenes of drunkeness.

Ten years ago it was a point of political principle to avoid drinking on St. Patrick's day and the Sinn Fein movement persuaded publicans to close voluntarily. Recent years have abolished this practice, and legislation this year decreed compulsory closing. Objection to the legislation came mainly from the licensed trade.

It is pointed to as significant that at the recent parliamentary election th elicensed trade was dissatisfied with the government-backed candidate, he who seceded from the government party. In consequence, he was at the bottom of the poll and the only candidate in the nine contests who was penalized by having to pay a sheriff's fee for failure to obtain the stipulated minimum of votes.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARADE IN NEW YORK POSTPONED

New York, March 17.—A lone horseman, swarthed in a great green sash and soaked to the skin, splashed down Fifth avenue this afternoon shouting: "Parade postponed until Saturday. Too wet today."

Water trickled from him, water fell steadily upon those who stood along the avenue, hoping against hope that despite the downpour the St. Patrick's day parade would take place. Water had long since done its wettest to the prospective paraders, assembled down town awaiting the signal to march.

A good many of the water-logged citizens who heard the horseman's call refused to accept his seriously. They didn't budge. They continued to stand in the rain waiting for the parade.

The forlorn hope that it might clear up lingered also with the would-be paraders. They were loath to disband—but finally an official police car followed the green-sashed man and confirmed his sad news.

Then and then only, and even the most reluctantly, St. Patrick's colors were lowered and spectators and paraders sought shelter—breathing hopes that Saturday will be a better day for them. It was announced, New York will have its St. Patrick's day parade, with all the features intented for today.

BOY KILLED WHEN HE SOUGHT SHELTER UNDER CAR

Stamford, March 17—Word was received here today of the death in Bartletsville, Okla., of John Foster, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Foster, of this city. The boy, who was working for his uncle, is said to have gone under a railroad car to keep out of the rain. When the train started up unexpectedly the wheels passed over both legs causing his death.

DISTRICTS IN HOLY LAND BURNED BY DROUGHT

Jerusalem, March 17 (By the Jewish Telegraph Agency).—Lack of rain is seriously affecting the water supply of the Holy City, while the crops in the outlying districts are badly burned by the drought. Today was proclaimed a day of fasting and prayer for rain by the rabbinate of Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

OBITUARY.

Samuel Shannon Childs.

New York, March 17—Samuel Shannon Childs, who, with his brother, William, founded a chain of restaurants which had made "Childs" a national catchname, died today in a private sanatorium. The cause of his death was not made public, but he was said to have been ill for several weeks.

The Childs Company announced today that he had not been active in the affairs for many years, and that the full management was in the hands of William Childs, vice president and general manager.

"The death does not in any way affect the management of the company," the official said, "or the position of the company's securities."

After two years as a civil engineer on railroads in upper New York and Long Island, Mr. Childs in 1887 accepted a position in a restaurant. There was born the vision of purveying food on a wholesale scale to realize the economies of concentrated purchases and a group operation. In 1889 he established with his brother a small string of restaurants in various sections of the east.

The enterprise grew and pushed out until today, the corporation dots the principal sections of the country with its familiar white-tiled fronts.

Mr. Childs was born in Basking Ridge, N. J., April 4, 1863. He was educated in New Jersey public schools and at West Point Military Academy. He served several terms in New Jersey state senate.

He was a director of the Chatham & Phoenix National bank, a number of various clubs and an ardent advocate of motoring and bowling.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, and three brothers, all active in Childs Co.

Mail Deluged With Income Tax Returns

In New York About 200,000 of the 900,000 Taxpayers Waited Till Last Day to Make Payments.

New York, March 17.—Twice as many persons paid their 1924 income taxes in full as last year, according to Internal Revenue Collector Bowers, second district, who today attributed the drop in quarterly installments to greater prosperity and to the reductions in the new income tax law.

Fully 40,000 mail returns were waiting at the custom house this morning for the special force of 75 clerks detailed to handle the great piles of sacks. In Brooklyn, the morning mail totalled 50,000 pieces.

About 200,000 of the 900,000 individual and corporation taxpayers registered in New York city waited until the last day to make their payments, it was said.

WALTER CAMP LEFT HIS ENTIRE ESTATE TO WIFE

New Haven, March 17.—All of the property of the late Walter Camp, famous Yale football entor and athlete is left to his widow, Mrs. Alice Sumner Camp, in his will which was offered for probate here today. Mrs. Camp is named as executrix.

Further provision is made in the instrument as follows: "I make no direct provision for my children, either those living now or those who may be born hereafter, deeming it better for them to trust entirely to their mother for their care and support."

It is expected that the estate will total approximately $300,000. The will was executed May 16, 1919, and waivers consenting to the admission of the will and waiving pendency of the petition were lodged in court by Walter Camp, Jr., of New York city, a son, and Janet Camp Hobgon, of New Haven, a daughter, who appear as the only heirs-at-law.

DEATH OF INTERNATIONALLY KNOWN CONFIDENCE MAN

Ithaca, N. Y., March 17.—Julius H. Ford, 51, internationally known as a confidence man, is dead at his home in Enfield, several miles southwest of this city. Ford attended Cornell university in 1894 and was well known as a football player. He later coached several college egridiron teams in the west.

Ford's "high finance" schemes particularly of a publicity nature, invariably got him into trouble with the federal aithorities, and he served a succession of terms within the past 20 years in state and federal prisons. In several of his manipulations he used the name of "Doc" Waterbury.

Ford served about three years in Sing Sing and Auburn prisons on a forgery charge until he was paroled.

WOULD CONTINUE GOLD AND SILVER COMMISSION

Washington, March 17.—Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada, urged the senate in a speech today to extend the life of the gold and silver commission, which ceased functioning March 4.

He read letters from Vice President Dawes under date of last February and other bankers and business men emphasizing the importance to the banking, commercial and agricultural interests of completion of the work undertaken by the commission.

Mr. Dawes' letter declared the commission's investigation disclosed the importance of calling an international currency conference in an effort to place the world on a standard gold basis.

AGENT SAYS HARTFORD IS ROTTEN WITH DOPE

Hartford, March 17. — Chief William D. Allen, federal narcotic agent in charge of the New England division, before his departure for Boston today, following the arrest of Michael Zazzaro as a dope peddler and the resulting seizure of $3,500 worth of narcotics here Monday, declared that Hartford was "rotten with dope."

He would not discuss particulars but intimated that further arrests and investigations were to follow in the immediate future. According to Deputy U. S. Marshal Marsh, tonight, the missing accomplice of Zazzaro had not yet been found.

INCREASED DEMAND FOR RAILROAD EQUIPMENT

New York, March 17.—Marked improvement is reported in the demand for railroad equipment. Pending business is said to be the largest record in the last two months. Equipment manufacturers look for orders for more than 7,500 freight cars in the next month involving $15,000,000.

PERUVIANS VENT ANGER OVER COOLIDGE'S AWARD

American Embassy at Lima is Under a Special Guard of Peruvian Soldiers Following an Assault From a Crowd of Anti-American Demonstrators—Peruvian People Fear That a Plebiscite in Tacna-Arica Means the Permament Acquisition of the Province by Chile.

Washington, March 17.—Peruvians dissatisfaction over President Coolidge's recent award in the Acna-Arica arbitration has mounted to disquieting propositions.

The American embassy at Lima already is under a special guard of Peruvian soldiers after one assault from a crowd of anti-American demonstrators; Herman Velarde, the Peruvian ambassador in Washington, is said by some of his Latin-American colleagues to be on the verge of departing for home; the Peruvian favoring Chile in his award; and there have been indications that at least one powerful section of Peruvian opinion is consolidated behind a move to attempt to reopen the whole case, and ask for a new hearing.

Peru's policy of supervising outgoing news dispatches has prevented full details of the situation there from reaching the outside world through the ordi ary channels, and the Peruvian embassy went to the length today of denying that it had any official advices as to the disturbances described in messages reaching other quarters here from thoroughly trustworthy sources. The state department likewise has refrained from divulging the information coming in from its representatives in South America, or from commenting in any way on the latest developments.

The Peruvian government itself appears disposed to do what it can to ease the situation, but a large section of the Peruvian people is infused with a belief that Mr. Coolidge's decision in favor of a plebiscite in Tacna-Arica means the permanent acquisition by Peru's ancient enemy—Chile—of the province which for a generation has been disputed ground. Originally Peruvian, the province during that period has been under Chilean control and the Peruvians contend that "Chileanization" has been so complete that a plebiscite can only result in a Chilean victory.

PURSER OF LEVIATHAN HELD FOR SMUGGLING

New York, March 17.—Victor Decaro, purser of the Leviathan, was arrested today on a charge of attempting to smuggle unset diamonds valued at approximately $50,000. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Boyle and, after waiving examination, was remanded to the Tombs to await action of the grand jury upon failure to furnish $40,000 bail.

Decaro was arrested by Customs Guard Louis Cassidy as he was about to leave the liner's pier.

Customs officials declared that Decaro's alleged smuggling attempt was the most flagrant violation of recent years. They expressed the belief that Decaro was a carrier for an Antwerp, Belgium, merchant and that he probably intended to dispose of the diamonds in New York.

Decaro's statement to Commissioner Boyle that he believed the diamonds had been lost on the Leviathan by Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the governor, while en route to France recently was discredited by government officials. Later, the purser said, he was led to this belief when he misread the seal on the package. At first glance, he said, he thought the seal initials were "A. S." But examination showed the initials were "S. S."

Governor Smith, commenting on the incident here tonight, declared: Neither I nor Mrs. Smith nor anybody belonging to me ever owned $50,000 worth of diamonds."

ARGUMENTS MADE ON OREGON SCHOOL LAW

Washington, March 17.—The concluding oral arguments in the supreme court on the constitutionality of the Oregon law requiring children between 8 and 16 years of age to attend state schools, brought questions from the justices today which indicated that contentions in behalf of the act were meeting with little success.

If the court should take jurisdiction in the case and uphold the decision of the lower court, counsel for the state asserted that a constitutional amendment would be proposed to give states complete control over the education of children. They argued, however, that, having decided that the states have control over the labor of children, the supreme court, in such a decision, must go a step further and declare they already possess a similar right to control education.

N. Y. ASSEMBLY DEFEATS BUDGET AMENDMENT

Albany, N. Y., March 17.—Governor Smith's proposed executive budget constitutional amendment was discarded by a party vote in the assembly late this afternoon after a lengthy debate. At the same time and by the same vote the assembly passed the Hutchinson bill, to make statutory provisions for an executive budget along the lines of the budget provisions now in force in Washington.

TO CALL FOR BIDS OF 30 MILES OF NEW HIGHWAYS

Hartford, March 17.—The state highway department is preparing to submit propositions for about thirty miles of new highways to contractors for bids it was announced today. The work will inaugurate the 1925 road building season for the state. Competitive bids for the new improvements will be sought and it is expected that the projects will be ready for bids in about two weeks.

Ten projects are involved in the work contemplated, the largest being in Windsor, Windsor Locks, East Granby and Suffield where about nine miles of new construction will be carried out on the so-called Northampton turnpike.

Another feature will be a continuation of the widening of the Boston Post road from its present width of 18 feet and less to thirty-six feet. Eventually this work will be extended from Bridgeport to the New York state line. Considerable progress has been made in the vicinity of Greenwich, and present plans call for the addition of more than a mile at Westport.

The other improvements which will be included in the April awards are: Branford and North Branford road, 13,900 feet; Milford-Shore road, 11,314 feet; Westport, completion of shore road from "Minute Man" statue to Riverside avenue, 6,690 feet, which will complete the shore route from Fairfield to Norwalk, parallel to the Boston Post road; East Lyme-Shere road, 10,071 feet; Colchester, improvement of Amston road in Hebron, 19,982 feet; Montville-Raymond Hill road, 20,785 feet; Redding-the-Georgetown road, 6,000 feet; Newtown-Dodgington road, 13,151 feet.

RUMOR OF TRUE BILLS AGAINST W. D. SHEPHERD

Chicago, March 17.—It was indicated when the grand jury session broke up at 4.30 o'clock that true bills had been voted against William D. Shepherd, foster father and principal heir of William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire orphan" who died last December of typhoid fever, and against Charles C. Fairman, proprietor of a school of science, who declared he gave Shepherd typhoid germs to administer to McClintock.

As the grand jury session broke up, assistant state's attorneys came from the room but refused to say that true bills were returned. Explaining that it was against the law to make such statements. Unofficially, however, it was reported that true bills had been voted. They will probably be returned as indictments tomorrow.

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE VICTIM OF "ACCIDENTAL POISONING"

Los Angeles, March 17.—County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner reported to Coroner Frank Nance here today that Sam Dreben internationally famous soldier of fortune, and hero of World war, who died suddenly last Saturday, came to his death through "accidental poisoning." An inquest will be held tomorrow.

EXPLOSION ENTOMBED 40 OR 50 MEN IN THE SHAFT OF MINE IN WEST VIRGINIA

Fairmont, W. Va., March 17.—Forty or fifty men were reported entombed in Shaft Mine No. 7, of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation following an explosion in the shaft about 9.30 o'clock tonight.

One fan in the workings was reported running and it was believed by some company officials that the men in the shaft may still be alive.

Rescuing parties are being formed to go into the mine. State and county police are on duty at the property in large numbers. Scores of men are working in an effort to reach the entrapped miners.

The force of the explosion was so terrific that it shook buildings in Fairmont about three miles distance and aflash of light illuminated the sky for miles around.

Men, women and children began rushing toward the mine from the surrounding territory. The mine is located at Barracksville. The plant has been operating on a non-union basis.

After the first examination, company officials declared that the explosion had been caused by a dynamite and nitro-glycerine bomb dropped down the shaft from the surface.

At 11 o'clock, it was said that the number of men in the property at the time of the explosion was not more than forty. They were coal cutters working the night shift.

The property of the surface was wrecked, including the wheelhouse, engine house, mine offices, company store and superintendent's house.

It is believed that some, if not all of the entombed men are alive. At 11.05 a signal was received from the bottom of the shaft. It was in the form of a distant whistle, as if the men below were calling for help. The hoist is wrecked, and at this hour a temporary cage is being built and will be lowered on a rope.

Mine rescue men are being rushed to the scene from all over the local mining district and from other fields.

The plant opened on an open shop basis on October 1, last. On October 1, 1916, the mine was wrecked by a gas explosion in which ten men were killed.

It is one of the modern mines of the region, giving employment in normal operation to 250 miners. The wrecked shaft is 300 feet deep.

The explosion tonight was so terrific that houses over a radius of 30 miles were rocked. In Fairmont, buildings shook, electric lights went out and great excitement was occasioned, immediately after the explosion a dense, black smoke settled over the region like a fog.

Kane and Misses Claire Calnen and Genevieve S. Hyde of the faculty.

St. Patrick's day was noted at the weekly meeting of Willimantic Rotary club held in the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday noon and in honor of the anniversary the tardy members were called upon to sing The Wearing of the Green. The Wild Irish crew, led by Major George W. Hickey, entertained with Mother Machree. The late comers were Fred L. Avery, James P. Mustard, Dr. Bullock Jones and his guest, Dr. Dunn of the research department of Connecticut Agricultural College. This guest was finally honored later by having his name drawn to give his life history at next week's meeting. Doc agreed to comply with the request. The singing crew consisted of Mayor Hickey, Val Murphy, Jerry Sullivan, Tom Green, John Reilly, John R. Pickett, Pete Lafrance, Ellison Smith and President Harry Standish, the last three named being enlisted as "regulars."

Other guests were H. S. Denny of Boston, introduced by Raymond A. Farmer and George Barnes, introduced by Maurice S. Leonard, the club's fastest member. Mr. Barnes gave a fine talk on Proper Motor Lubrication, illustrated his remarks by means of a chart compiled from the Wadsworth Motor Check. He was questioned by several of the members at the close of the meeting.

Professor Dodge reported for the club to Pittsfield committee. Doc Jones gave a detailed account of the doings of the ladies' night committee and offered as a proposal a turkey dinner concert, entertainment, favors, dancing. Rotary meeting and dancing to follow inside. The affair will be set for the latter part of April and action on the proposal will be postponed for two weeks. With the announcement that Fred had become a proud grandfather for the third time, Fred D. Jerome passed around a box of fine cigars and was accorded a rising vote of thanks. Jim Bath and his lieutenant, Lou Kingsbury, took notice of the fact that their team was indebted to the amount of a banquet to the losers as the result of a recently passed attendance contest. The consensus of thought is to square matters by passing around a basket of big red apples, Lou's own nature remedy. The apples were accepted with alacrity, but the victors refused to sign a receipt in full and the banquet remains due. John Reilly gave his long awaited life history. This was the feature of the meeting and John's way of giving his biography came as a surprise. Although he refrained from subjective statements, he injected some fine humor into his recital. John Reilly was born in Franklin, June 8, 1862. He was married October 18, 1890. These two dates along with that which will appear on his grave stone will mark the three outstanding events of his lifetime, he stated. He spent his boyhood days in Woodstock and Putnam. Later he worked his way through a commercial college in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. After a short stay in Providence he came to this city, 34 years ago, in the employ of the William Vanderman foundry. He is now treasurer and general manager of the company.

The bulging coping of the Loomer Opera House block from which several bricks dropped to the sidewalk Monday afternoon, was being removed Tuesday by a force of bricklayers. It was found that several more sections along the top of the structure are in need of repairs and it is believed that the cost of reconditioning the block will run well into several hundred dollars. The block is the property of the Silas F. Loomer estate and is controlled by Attorney John L. Hall of Boston, a former resident of this city. The structure was erected in 1879. The theatre section has been closed for several years.

At a meeting of the Dramatic club called at Hebron town hall Monday evening by the president, Miss Susan Pendleton, it was announced that the two productions of The Regiment of Two already given had netted the club over $50. A tentative suggestion that the funds accumulating in the treasury of the original Hebron Dramatic club might be handed over to the present organization and used for the improvement of the hall, was received with enthusiasm. A suggestion that the long lobby at the entrance to the hall be removed by doing away with the partition there, was very favorably discussed. This would increase the capacity of the hall, besides improving the acoustic properties. A committee, Mrs. T. D. Martin, Helen Gilbert, and Roger Porter, was appointed by the president to estimate the cost of a new curtain for the stage, also a set of curtains to be used on three sides of the stage for scene purposes. Discussion of the circuit plays followed. Moe Friedman was asked to direct Bombo, the Pirate, Randall Tennant will manage The Loan of a Lover and Helen Gilbert, The Good Sainte Anne. Rehearsals are to start at once.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Moran entertained at whist Monday evening, with four tables playing. First prizes for the evening went to Mrs. Theodore Morrissette and William Champlin, consolation awards to Mrs. Thomas Moran and Peter Van Haverbeke. Prizes awarded at the same time to those having the highest score for this series of whists went to Mrs. Morrissette and Mr. Champlin.

The postponed meeting of the Windham Players was held Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the Center school. Under the direction of Professor Seckerson, of the English department of Connecticut Agricultural College the State Players gave Sir William Schenk Gilbert's Pygmalion and Galatea. The play was excellently given and very appreciatively received by an interested audience. The cast included Miss Smith, Mr. O'Neill, Mr. Billing, Miss Lavallee, Mr. Tilley, Miss Girard, Miss Ellis and Mr. D'Sopo. Proceeds were divided between the Windham Players and those from Storrs. Because of the similarity between Joint Owners in Spain and Neighbors, two plays selected by the Windham Players for presentation on the circuit, it was decided to substitute for the former A Sauce for the Gosling, a charming little comedy by Elvine Warren.

The Windham County Association of Congregational Ministers was entertained at its quarterly meeting at the church house of the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Arthur Wheelock entertaining. Dinner was served at 1 by the Ladies' society of the church, under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Everest, assisted by Mrs. Christopher C. Case, Mrs. A. W. French, Mrs. Elmer Richmond, Mrs. Chester Scripture, Miss Elizabeth Everest and Miss Thelma Anderson. The menu consisted of fruit cocktail, roast lamb with peas, mashed potato, vegetable salad, rolls, entire wheat bread, apple pie a la mode and coffee. An enthusiastic vote of thanks was given the women's society for the service. The morning meeting was given over to a discussion of the minister's relation to the Ku Klux Klan, in which everyone took part. A paper was read at the afternoon meeting on The Function of the Minister in the Church by Rev. A. Avery Gates, who discussed the subject in three phases, pulpit work, pastoral work and organization work. It was voted to accept the invitation of Rev. Mr. Bond, pastor of the Congregational church at Abington, for the June meeting, which is to be observed as Ladies' day.

The meeting of Willimantic Woman's club was held Tuesday afternoon at the club rooms, the president, Mrs. Carl Alford, in the chair. Minutes of the last meeting were approved as read by the secretary, Mrs. William A. Buck. A musicale, arranged by Mrs. Katherine Persons, was delightfully given by Mrs. Katherine Halliday Howard, 'cellist, Miss Eleanor Willard of Hartford, soprano and Mrs. Fanny Gladding Dagle of Wethersfield, accompanist. The program follows:

The Lotus, Schumann
Andantino, Martini-Kreisler
Mrs. Howard.
Elegie, Massenet
By the Waters of Minnetonka, Lieurance
Miss Willard and Mrs. Howard.
The Swan, Saint Saens
Gavotte, Popper
Mrs. Howard.
Dance Romaika, Ware
It Is Only a Tiny Garden, Wood
Miss Willard
Traumerai, Schumann
Romance, Van Goens
Mrs. Howard
Letha, Booth
When Blooms the Rose, Clayton Johns
Sing Me to Sleep, Greene
Miss Willard and Mrs. Howard.
Cantilena, Goltermann
Rhapsodie, Popper
Mrs. Howard.

Mrs. Howard gave as an encore following the Gavotte, Carry Me Back to Old Virginny, and gave as a final encore Schubert's Prayer. Because it was St. Patrick's Day, Miss Willard gave as her first encore The Little Irish Girl, an irresistible little modern Irish ballad.

The rate of taxation set in the town of Hebron at the recent town meeting was 24 mills, not 25 as stated.

Mrs. Azarie Mathilde Peltier Bertrand, 71, died at her home Tuesday morning, from pneumonia. Mrs. Bertrand was born in Countrecoeur, Canada, January 11, 1854, the daughter of Clement and Mathilde Gauselin Peltier. She is survived by her husband; four daughters, Misses Arselie and Marion Bertrand, Mrs. Edgar Gaulin of this city, and Mrs. John Sutton of Fall River, Mass.; a son, Azarie Bertand, Jr., of Willimantic, five sisters, Mrs. Gilbert Leveille, Mrs. Matthias Tremblay, and Mrs. Alexis Berthiaume of Contracoeur, Mrs. Clement Hurteau of this city, and Miss Rose Peltier of Montreal; and seventeen grandchildren. She was a devout member of St. Mary's parish and of the Ladies of St. Anne and the Holy Cross societies.

Rev. F. F. Foshay conducted the services at the funeral of Duncan C. Peacock Tuesday afternoon. Two hymns were given by the Tempo Male quartette. The bearers were Arthur and Eugene Hanna, Joseph Goldsborough, A. W. French, Robert E. Mitchell, and Charles Smith. Burial was in the family plot in Willimantic cemetery. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The new road roller which it was voted to purchase at the January meeting of the common council arrived here this week for Supt. John S. Sullivan of the street department. The roller cost 5,450 and weighs twelve tons. The old roller was taken in exchange as part payment.

The contract for the installing of fourteen hundred seats in the new Capitol theatre which is being completed on Main street has been awarded to a local firm and calls for a completion of the work by July 15, next. There will be one thousand leather upholstered seats in the main auditorium and four hundred veneer finished seats in the gallery.

Some thirty-five slot vending machines, most of which were operated under leases by local merchants, will be removed from business houses, in compliance with an order of the local police.

The Card Home has received a check for $1,000 as a bequest in the will of Mrs. Emma L. Johnson who died here last January. Mrs. Johnson was the widow of a former practicing physician in Mansfield.

Mrs. H. C. Lathrop spent Tuesday in Hartford.

The 21st annual St. Patrick's day entertainment held Tuesday evening at the Gem Theatre by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the A. O. H., was under the direction of Mrs. Eileen Racicot. Following three excellent acts of vaudeville by Cliff Bailey of Windham, comedy acrobat and Scotch pantomimist, the opening chorus was sung by the company, Miss L. Monica McKeon appearing as mistress of ceremonies. The program was as follows: "If Shamrocks grew along Suwanee Shore", sung by Henry Moran; In Zingara, The Gypsy Dance, by Our Juveniles; "The Kerry Dance," Mrs. Ethel Aiguire; Pat Casey's Runabout, Rose Welch and chorus. This act made a big hit with the crowd with an encore full of local hits, as did the next number, The Pal That I Love, sung by 5-year-old Regina Vegiard, known as Kewpie, who gave an encore dance and received a bouquet of green carnations. "Macushla," sung by Arthur Roy, whose encore was and company, gave "Introducing the Days of the Civil War" in costume. The Days of the Spanish War was presented by Earned, Costello and company, and the Days of the World War by Welch, Howlett and company. At last Peace, closing with the Star Spangled banner, was sung by the company and audience. A novelty fox trot was brilliantly executed by Mess and Richards, Killarney, by Our Circle, Miss 1925, by Eleanor, and grand finale by the entire company. The committee of arrangements under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ellen Lynch was Margaret Flaherty, Nellie Cannon, Mary McCarthy, and Nellie Morgan, The principals, Mary Mathieu, Florence Coutu, Ethel Alquire, Esther Larned, L. The members of the Brotherhood of the First Congregational church entertained at their annual meeting in the church house, Tuesday evening, members of all the brotehrhods in all the churches in the city with their pastors, as well as the pastors from the out of town churches in Windham, Scotland, Lebanon, Mansfield, and South Coventry. Lunch was served. An excellent program was given by a group of three entertainers from Boston, The McGrath Bros., banjoists, and Miss Ruth Gim, monologue and song specialist, who accompanied them at the piano. The entertainment was arranged by a committee, Raymond Parker, chairman, Dr. R. Bullard Jones and Harold Lincoln.

EFFECT OF STRIKE IS FELT IN Y. M. C. A. DEPARTMENT

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, March 17. — Taking cognizance of the present industrial depression in Willimantic steps were taken at a special meeting of the board of directors of the local Y. M. C. A., this week to reduce the operating expenses of the association. Immediate action, although it may be only of temporary nature, was deemed necessary. In the policy mapped out it was voted to accept the resignation of Physical Director Leroy A. Dissinger to take effect April 1. Physical Director Dissinger has been connected with the local Y somewhat less than one year, coming here from York, Pa. His associations here in athletic and social lines have been of a nature to win him a host of friends in the community who will wish him the best of success in his future fields of endeavor. While in Pennsylvania he was athletic director and coach of York Collegiate Institute. He has won recognition hereabouts as a crack basketball player.

A resolution was unanimously adopted at the special meeting excusing such members of the Y who are out of employment from paying dues until they return to work. In the meantime all privileges are granted free of charge.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT COMING TO ADDRESS STRIKERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, March 17.—The situation of the strikers of the American Thread company remained unchanged Tuesday. Other than the expected arrival at any time of National President Thomas F. McMahon, of the Textile Workers Union there was nothing of outstanding interest to take up the attention of the operatives. Tuesday was a dismal day as far as weather conditions were concerned and activities in the vicinity of headquarters at Central Labor Union hall were somewhat lessened. The daily mass meeting held at the Gem theatre was well attended, however, there being considerable interest in the outcome of the meeting of the delegates of the American Thread Athletic association, held Monday. The report of the meeting as printed in Tuesday's issue of The Bulletin was made at the mass meeting to the effect that the $3,000 in the treasury of the association would be disposed of in part or entirely, if needed, in giving relief to striking members who are in want. Retention of the treasury within the power of the association is considered necessary in order to hold the organization intact and the method arrived at is generally accepted as the most logical solution of the problem of making the money do its bit toward aiding the strikers. The association has 1,700 members who will benefit from the treasury.

The committee of 12 appointed to investigate relief cases consists of three members from each ward of the city, as follows: First ward, George Simmons, Miss Helen Bradshaw, Miss Yvonne Belair; second ward, Leroy Hallahan, Miss Alice Lefebvre, Charles Lucas; third ward, Joseph Meikle, Mrs. Mary Benoit, John Bury; fourth ward, Jeremiah Murphy, Miss Rose Dupont and Thomas Moran.

The committee appointed to dispose of perishable supplies used in canteens conducted at the plant by the association comprises: John J. Farrell, Mrs. Molly Parent, Michael F. Sullivan and Miss Myra Matthews. The collectors who have been sent out to surrounding towns to receive contributions have made supplementary returns which show that they are meeting with much encouragement. Indications are that President McMahon will speak to the strikers at the mass meeting Wednesday morning.

Used By Millions Of Mothers

For Croup and Colds

Over 18 million jars of Vicks have been used in the past five years. This means the unbroken confidence of a vast army of mothers. They like Vicks because it solves a great problem —how to treat croup and colds without that continual dosing, which is so harmful to delicate little stomachs.

Being applied externally Vicks does not disturb the digestion. It can be freely used without the slightest harmful effect.

Vicks brings prompt relief from croup and often checks even the worst cold overnight.

There is nothing to swallow. You just rub it on.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Go-Gas Station Manager.

Frank Blinderman has been appointed manager of the Go-Gas station on West Main street. The station which has been closed for some time was reopened Tuesday.

Broadway Theatre.

The management of the Broadway theatre advises the public to watch tomorrow's paper for there is big news in the offering. Just what this news is we cannot say, but we can readily say there there will be something to look for which is certain to be of interest to all Norwich theatregoers.

Flattery, picturization of H. H. Van Loan's story which comes to the Broadway on Tomorrow is built around a theme that reflects one of the most common traits of humankind since the first inhabitation of the world.

The picture contains a strong lesson for those who are susceptible to flattery, and especially those who believe they are immune to it.

Tom Forman, who made The Virginian and other noted productions, directed Flattery, and in the all-star cast are John Bowers, Marguerite de la Motte, Allan Hale, Grace Darmond, Edwards Davis, Lewis Morrison and Larry Steers.

Westerly Auto Show

Third annual auto show begins in the state armory on Dixon street, Westerly, on this (Wednesday) evening. Some of the automobile dealers have gone out of town to procure new models which they desire to put on display at the armory. Others are already in the building getting their exhibits ready.

The task of decorating the interior of the armory is now completed, and this afternoon a large electric sign bearing the words "Auto Show" will be hung above the main entrance. A Norwich firm is doing the decorating.

The automobile show will open at 7 p. m., tomorrow and the closing hour will be 10.30. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday the armory will be open to the public from 2 p. m. until 10.30. The Crandall-Sutcliffe orchestra has been engaged to furnish music tomorrow night and each of the following nights as well.

Thirty-four models, representing 24 makes of cars, are to be exhibited by 14 local dealers in automobiles. There will also be exhibits of tires, electrical equipment and other accessories by five local dealers.

R. E. Trainer, Jack Neild and Harold Barber comprise the committee chosen by Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, to take charge of all arrangements for the show.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

To Him That Hath

One of the most notable financial products of the age is William Wrigley, Jr., founder of the $90,000,000 chewing gum corporation.

Only a few years ago he was making and packing his own shipment boxes. At least this is the testimony of his old friend, Paul F. Beich, Chicago and Bloomington candy manufacturer.

He knew him in a little back shop in Chicago.

Wrigley thrived because he was keen to the essentials of success, quality of wares and advertising shares.

Early in his career he packaged Broadway, New York, at a cost of thousands of dollars.

Crazy it was thought. But straightway he had everybody chewing his gum and remembering the label.

We then took to the newspaper, and his climb since has been phenomenal.

His son, P. K. Wrigley, has duplicated his father's genius in Australia. The Wrigleys not satisfied with the broad scope of America have early busied themselves in other worlds to conquer.

Wrigley has made gum chewing respectable. The practice is no longer rated with such personal duties as nail manicuring or the use of the tooth pick, and relegated to the privacy of one's room.

The chewing of gum has come to be a necessity recommended by physicians and approved by biologists.

It is now held that the chewing of gum releases juices useful in digestion and conducive to better health.

Not only that, but scientists claim that latter day civilization tends to disfigure the facial profile and give us the rabbit chin instead of the square contour to which tradition gives such praise for character and determination.

Gum gymnastics is the antidote.

At the Strand.

Because of the capacity audiences and the great number of tickets sold by the members of the Richard H. Hourigan Post 594-Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Strand management has decided to hold the picture Over the Top With the Allies until Thursday. It was found after checking up the tickets sold and to accomodate all that had not purchased tickets the Strand would not be able to seat all. Never before has a picture caused such favorable comment, and never before was there a feature picture made with so many thrills. You see the American boys in action on the battlefields of France and also the allied troops breaking down the German lines. Every inplement known to warfare is seen and several times during the action of the picture you are tempted to rise in your seat. To dispell any who are under the impression that Over the Top With the Allies is not official at the beginning of the picture you will see the United States government seal placed on the first reel. Sunday afternoon a private screening was held and among the invited guests were the heads of the educational departments and after seeing Over the Top With the Allies, a special screening for the school children has been arranged for Thursday at four o'clock. The children will be accompanied by their teachers. Three regular performances are given daily at two, seven and eight forty-five.

Breed Theater

Chu Cin Chow opens today at the Breed theater. This production is a film version of the famous stage play which ran for five years in London and three in America, the consensus of opinion calling it the greatest of all spectacles, and the picture has been said to even surpass the play for gorgeous scenes and thrilling action.

Beautiful Betty Blythe, of Queen of Sheba fame, is seen as Zahrat, the desert flower and the much-desired slave girl. Never has Miss Blythe appeared more radiantly beautiful than in the wonderful Oriental gowns she wears, among them one made entirely of pearls. With her, in the role of Chu Chin Chow of China, will be seen Herbert Langley, a famous English actor. Thousands appear in the great cast, with its many dancing Harem girls.

When you see Chu Chin Chow you will once again be back in the realms of the age-old theme, Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, the story that has come down through the mists of Ancient Arabian legends and was presented to a wondering western world by Burton in his translation of the Thousand and One Arabian Nights.

You will see Oscar Asche's wonder Oriental spectacle presented before you in all the profuse magnificence of the east. One scene in Chu Chin Chow will astound you with its regal eastern splendor, Ali Baba's cave. Here you have a wonderful arrangement and glittering array of precious jewels, gold and silver, wonderful antique oriental vessels, garments, hangings, and carpets and a thousand other things that simply dazzle.

A true detective story titled On Leave of Absence, the Fox news and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Palace Theatre.

Al. Barlow's Sunshine Revue, now playing at the Palace is making its first visit to Norwich, coming direct from Boston, Providence and New England cities and the way it was received by the large audiences at the initial performances yesterday afternoon and evening the management of the Palace has decided to hold over this splendid revue for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The revue will put on a complete new bill and in addition there will be three big Paramount vaudeville acts. The feature picture will be Born Rich, with Claire Windsor and Bert Lytell.

Thursday night all the stores will have on display all the latest creations for spring gowns, frocks and suits and at the Palace will be a big fashion show with Al Barlow's Sunshine Girls acting as models. The gowns will be shown in the windows and then on the beautiful living models at the Palace.

The feature picture for today is Racing Luck with Monty Banks.

When Racing Luck, presenting Monty Banks, the screen comedian, in the first of his new feature-length productions, was exhibited at the Palace theatre last night, it scored an emphatic success, the picture being a veritable riot of laughs and thrills. Never has Monty Banks been seen to better advantage as this is multiple-reeled film and gives the fun-maker ample scope in which to disport his humor, personality and ability.

Monty Banks has been a two-reeled proposition for a long time and he has at last come into his own for Monty is indeed a screen funster of the highest rank. In Racing Luck, an exciting story that has numerous bright and humorous climaxes, there is plenty of romance and adventure, just the modern kind that pleases the present-day fans of screenland.

Edward Joseph Dion, 57, died Tuesday afternoon at his home in Moosup after an illness of long duration and a period spent in receiving hospital treatment. Mr. Dion, who had been employed as a weaver during his residence in Moosup, was a native of Canada. He formerly lived in Stafford Springs and is well known in that place. Mr. Dion leaves a daughter, Mrs. Jeremiah Doyle, formerly of Danielson, and a son, Edward T. Dion, both of Moosup.

Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home, corner of Mechanic and Winter streets, funeral services for Stephen C. Prentice were conducted by Rev. Walter B. Williams of the Congregational church. There were many friends in attendance, including representatives of fraternal organizations and the store force with which he was connected in Providence during his residence of 33 years in that city. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were ill business associates or friends of his years in Providence—Fred S. Sibley, Edgar Bowen, Horace Nickerson, Thomas Doane, Fred Barrows and George White. The floral pieces were very beautiful and among them were remembrances from the Masonic bodies of which Mr. Prentice was a member, from the Odd Fellows and from his associates in Robinson's store. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. James Cheeseman, Providence, regional director, is to address an open meeting of the League of Women Voters at the home of the Misses Dyer in Brooklyn this (Wednesday) afternoon. Members throughout Windham county and others who are interested have been bidden to this meeting. It was explained Tuesday that the league does not concern itself with political affiliations, but is vitally interested in impressing on women voters the need of their participating more actively in public affairs and in having them concern themselves with vital matters, such as taxation and other subjects of paramount importance. In Brooklyn, for instance, a very large percentage of the taxpayers are women, yet but few of them directly apply themselves to taxation problems or give great heed to the fixing of the tax rates. Meetings such as that scheduled for this afternoon is expected to sharpen their interest in such matters. Mrs. Cheeseman is an exceptionally able speaker and a special ffort is being made to obtain a good hearing of her message.

Chief John McFarland of the police has a grievance against a considerable numbers of boys who have formed a habit of making daily visitations to the rear of stores throughout the business section and scavengering about for anything of value they may lay their hands on. These boys also go about peering into private garages and at times climb to the roofs of these structures, to no good end.

Chief McFarland has taken a few of the boys to task for prowling about, seeking adventure and temptation. He has warned them that the practice must cease. What is true of the actions of these boys throughout the business section is also rue in certain residential sections. These boys go places where they have no business to be, for there is but a step between temptation and crime.

"Goodby, boys, I jos get back!" beamed Pierre Petac, upon arriving in town Tuesday after an absence of several years. "I return with an idea that might make me rich, but anyway he give me something for do. I going for start a stock farm. I been buy me a night mare and a mechanical horse, like the president's she's got, and raise some ponies that run all day and is never afraid in the dark. I hear many of my friends been pass on since I left here. That was before prohibition and eight years of democrats at Washington. My dead friends was all republican and I suppose he couldn't stand everything! I travel quite a bit since I leave here. Bought some nice property in Florida last winter. I think he is, anyway, but can't tell for sure until they get him out from under the ocean. I see you got better road and much more automobile here now. I suppose that why so many signs here says Parking Limit 60 Minutes. In good many towns I see since I leave here they got some signs to give automobile driver $1.00 for stay an hour in a town. That's the places where they know how easy it is to get money from anybody who spend some for a machine. I expect for stay around here now the years I got for live. They tell me it's not so bad and it look like a good market for my ponies!"

What appears to be another practical suggestion intended to cut down the number of accidents on Dark Lantern hill is the removal of the warning signs from their present locations to new ones at least 100 yards to the west. The approach to Dark Lantern hill from the west is up a long stiff grade. When this grade ends there is an abrupt drop from the crown down the steep grade of Dark Lantern. The effect of this on drivers unfamiliar with the road is obvious. One minute they are shooting toward heaven at high speed and the next instant dropping down what appears to be a toboggan shoot on the other side. Many of them lose their nerve, slap on the brakes and around goes the machine in the dizzy skidding and revolving stunts that has featured so many accidents over there. Removal of the warning signs to a point farther west would give the driver ample time to slow down and bring his car under full control before he comes so unexpectedly upon the steep grade of Dark Lantern.

When President Robert W. Perkins, of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. of Norwich talked on electricity for power, before a gathering of members of the chamber of commerce and representatives of manufacturing concerns here, Monday evening, he started, it was evident Tuesday, a train of thought as to what power other than electricity is now costing some concerns in this immediate territory. His suggestion that a steam or water plant may be functioning normally and yet producing power at an excessive cost left an impression. More electricity for power is being used in Killingly today than ever before in the town's history and consideration being given to its further use here appears to forecast still greater usage of it in the immediate future.

Of special moment to all niterested in the W. C. T. U. county institute, to be held at the Methodist church here Thursday, is the announcement that Miss Grace Leigh Scott is to be one of the speakers, at the afternoon session. Miss Scott is one of the speakers, for the national organization of the W. C. T. U. During the World war she was in France nad spent much time in going about to the army hospitals, singing for the wounded soldiers and otherwise encouraging them back to health. Since the war Miss Leigh has devoted much time to delivering lectures on Social Morality. Members here of the W. C. T. U. are especially anxious that as many young people as possible hear her address Thursday.

Killingly High school students made a creditable showing in the typewriting contests for high school students of the state held at Waterbury Saturday. Miss Deborah Codding was fourth in the typewriting contest. In the short hand contest Alma Forcier and Miss Julia Niemienen received honorable mention in the 80-word class contest each having only four errors. In the 100-word short hand contest class, Miss Niemienen again received honorable mention.

The wearing of the green, so general on St. Patrick's day years ago, appears to have been abandoned to large extent. There was only a sprinkling of it Tuesday.

Two weeks from this morning, the trout fishermen can tell you without looking at a calendar, is the opening of the trout fishing season.

A St. Patrick's day program given at St. Joseph's hall in Moosup Monday evening under the auspices of the Rosary society of All Hallows' parish attracted in excess of $1,000 people.

Cloud Digger radioed Tuesday morning that his semi-annual forecast will be ready this week end and that there is a widespread demand for copies of it.

The Ladies auxiliary of the local post of the American legion has a whist planned for mid-April and a committee is in charge of the arrangements.

It may not spoil the fact to mention that Killingly is making a splendid record for good behavior. Arrests are few and far between and there has been practically no court business of late.

Paul Chase, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter I. Chase, was taken to Boston for an examination, Tuesday, to determine the cause of a serious illness that has not readily yielded to treatment.

Elsewhere in this issue appears the detail of the budget prepared by town officials for estimated expenditures of the current fiscal year. Study of this budget by citizens is desired by officials in advance of tonight's meeting.

The car stolen from Herbert Hopkins here last Saturday night appears to have been taken entirely out of this territory and hope for recovering it was waning Tuesday.

Mrs. John Duggan of the West Side is visiting her daughter in Springfield, Mass.

BICYCLE ACCIDENT RESULTS IN MOOSUP BOY'S DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, March 17.—Albert Cotnoir, 13, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cotnoir, died late Monday night at their home in Moosup from injuries received Monday afternoon, when he fell from a bicycle on which he was riding with Paul Bellevance, also of Moosup. The boys were riding on Bellevance's bicycle, Cotnoir on the handledbars, when the forward wheel skidded while going over the Main street crossing of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad at Moosup. Both boys were thrown, Cotnoir striking on top of Bellevance and probably having his head come in contact with a rail. Coroner Arthur G. Bill said Tuesday afternoon that he had been informed by Medical Examiner W. W. Adams, of Moosup, that a hemorrhage induced by the injury caused death. The Bellevance boy was uninjured. The dead boy is one of a family of 13 children.

PUTNAM

The injuries of George Allen Hawkins, water commissioner, who fell through a trapway at the pumping station Monday, as revealed by X-ray pictures are not any more serious than outwardly indicated. There were apparently no internal injuries, his arm is badly broken near the shoulder and he is also suffering from the shock.

The funeral of Mrs. James E. Perry, who died Saturday, took place on Monday. Services were held at the house. Burial was in Grove Street cemetery. Relatives from Greeneville, her former home, were present.

At a meeting next Monday evening of Putnam Grange at Odd Fellows' hall, the third and fourth degrees are to be exemplified on a large class of candidates by Senexet grange of Woodstock. Following the degree work there will be refreshments and an hour or more of dancing, music being furnished by a local orchestra.

Mrs. Fred Rudowsky of Valhalla, N. Y., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Pratt of Charles street.

Friends of Woodstock Academy are glad to know that the Hall Gymnasium fund is steadily growing. Mrs. Leonard James has recently contributed $50 in memory of her sister, Miss Annie Laws, and this generous gift suggests that no better memorial to graduates of the academy can be made than a gift to the school that they loved. It has been suggested that if enough of such memorials be obtained, the names of those thus honored be inscribed on a tablet or in some other permanent record in the gymnasium. In addition to Mrs. James' donation the committee has received $50 from Richard L. Child of Brooklyn, N. Y. If any alumnus or alumnae of the academy is willing to undertake a labor of love for alma mater, the task of raising money by securing gifts of ten dollars each, or by any other means, his or her co-operation will be greatly appreciated, the committee has announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cushman expect to open their Pomfret house about the first of April. Mr. Cushman has gone into the industry of sheep raising, and has already a large flock of fancy blooded stock.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold, who have been spending the last seven months with Mrs. Arnold's father, Richard Clements, at Pomfret, have returned to Hartford to live.

Joseph Allard is visiting his son, Allen, in Fall River, during his convalesence after a surgical operation at the Day Kimball hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Fishman and nephew, Tom Foley, motored into New York with the Swanson boys, who went down to spend theweek end with their mother, Mrs. Emma Swanson, who is in business with her sister, Mrs. H. Burns.

The high school honor roll for the third marking period has been announced as follows by Principal E. L. Robinson:

Those having no marks below 90 per cent.: Pauline Jeary, '26; Edwin Mann, '28.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Nikoloff have returned from a month's visit to Bermuda.

Mrs. Fred Babbitt has been visiting her son, George, in Worcester.

F. H. Sanborn of Montclair, N. J., has been visiting in Putnam. He was formerly a resident here.

Miss Dora Swift, who has been visiting relatives and friends in New London and Windham for several weeks, has returned to her home on South Main street.

CUTTING THE TAXES.

In the making out of your income tax return you have first hand information that there has been a reduction in taxation. Taxes have been cut until the taxpayers are experiencing a relief to the extent of about $6,000,000 a day over 1921. For the second year in succession there has been a drop in taxation and, according to the statement of Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, the end is not yet. That further tax reduction can be expected is the best kind of news. It is of course in accord with promises and will be the outcome of the policies that have been advocated and followed by the administration.

When Chairman Green indicates that the reduction next year may amount to $300,000,000 it is something in which everyone is interested. Estimates in the past have indicated a substantial surplus at the end of the fiscal year. Just what that will be can be ascertained within a short time, and a good idea of it will be available as soon as the results of the tax collection which has just been made are definitely established.

President Coolidge made it plain that it was unjust to call upon the people to provide money through taxation for expenditures which were not justified at the present time. The situation called for a curbing of expenditures and therefore a reduction in taxation. Retrenchment has taken place, appropriations have been kept within the amount fixed by the budget bureau and the government is going to be in the position which it hoped to be and on which it figured. It is going to have available a sufficient amount that will permit the third reduction of the federal taxes.

That is good news to the nation. We are experiencing in the national government the sound policies that have been employed in the administration of our state government, where the state debt has been overtaken taxes cut and there are possibilities of another cut. Locally it would be well if the taxpayers could anticipate the day when such an outlook would be possible.

THE ATTORNEY GENERALSHIP.

When Charles B. Warren refused to accept a recess appointment as attorney general, offered to him by the president, he released the president from the position in which he had been placed by the refusal of the senate to confirm. Mr. Warren was in a position to clear the way and this he did. In his refusal, however, there is a belief that he does not stand discredited before the country. Rather in view of the manner in which the president has sought his services, sought to name his cabinet and to name men of the highest caliber, it is believed that it is the senate which has fallen in the estimation of the people, or at least that portion of it which banded together with the idea of obstructing and embarrassing. It has been a confirmation of previously formed opinion that the minority which could not have its own way was going to make as much trouble as possible, and this in spite of the repudiation of such tactics which was given by the people at the ballot box last November.

It would have been possible for the president to have continued the fight, with the consent of Mr. Warren. He would have caused the members of the senate much more inconvenience and bother than they have caused him, but it would simply have been resorting to the very tactics which they have employed and which have been denounced.

The president has not been weakened in the public estimation or confidence by his action. He has been able to give the country an insight into the manner in which a group of national legislators can play politics and to disclose what can be expected from the upper house of congress during the next two years.

Former Attorney General Sargent of Vermont, having the recommendation of the president, is unquestionably a man who will make a good attorney general.

THE TREATY'S EFFECT.

When the press of South America not only expresses satisfaction over the ratification of the Isle of Pines treaty, but looks upon it as a long delayed demonstration on the part of the United States that there is a disposition to give proper and considerate treatment to Latin-American republics, the action has a far reaching effect, much more so than was indicated on the surface.

South America has only half-heartedly accepted the altruistic attitude which has been maintained by the United States. It has done so because there have been conditions which made it suspicious. There was no question as to what he proclaimed but there have been times when it has been unable to reconcile statement and action, and even efforts to straighten out such apparent opposites have not always succeeded.

Thus when we professed to be such a friend in Cuba and yet failed for over two decades to ratify a treaty which was long ago negotiated in keeping with expectations, it can be appreciated that a suspicious mind would have sufficient reason for mistrusting our sincerity.

When La Nacion of Buenos Aires states that the treaty ratification "definitely and effectively means recognition of the rights of the weak" it gives expression to a characteristic sentiment which has prevailed in that quarter relative to the representations of this government. Talk as we would it was impossible to supplant that idea. It required an actual demonstration, and that was given when the senate finally responded to the importuning of the president to do its duty, as it should have done long ago but which some would have made it delay for another score of years. Even though it was a matter between the strong and the weak, ratification was withheld for a different reason, but that did not cause others to take any such view of it. We were judged from a distance by appearances and only through action which should have been taken long ago have we been able to remove that biased judgment.

PRESERVING THE "CONSTITUTION."

All the school children of the country who have had a chance to study history know the story of the old frigate Constitution which figured so prominently and gloriously in the early history of this country.

For such a vessel to be in existence today is unusual. It is only because the efforts to preserve it that those of the present generation are able to look upon it, or visit it. And yet in spite of all that has been done there must be another considerable outlay made in order to protect it against the ravages of time and the elements.

This the government has decided to do. It is to be reconditioned but in this connection the secretary of the navy has decided to use the situation as a means of arousing greater interest in naval history and particularly in the old frigate by giving the children of the country an opportunity to participate in the provision of the necessary funds for this purpose. Should the school children of the country contribute two and a half cents apiece the necessary funds would be available.

It was only a few months ago that the state of Pennsylvania woke up to the fact that one of its precious historical documents had been put up at auction and sold to a person out of the state. The result was that the people of the state, including the school children, raised the necessary amount to purchase it back, for $25,000, that the state may keep it among its many valuable relics.

That the children of the country will have an equal interest in contributing their mite for the preservation of the Constitution is a foregone conclusion.

CONSIDERING DISARMAMENT.

Efforts in behalf of another armament conference will continue until another one is held. When that will be will depend entirely upon when the nations which will participate are regarded as being in the proper state of mind to accomplish the desired results. There would be nothing gained by calling such a conference only to have it result in a squabble without accomplishing anything.

Just at the present time opinions differ among the nations of Europe as to the time being ripe for such a conference. The British are inclined to think that conditions are right. The French do not give indication of harboring the same opinion, and France it will be remembered was one of the strongest objectors to certain proposals at the Washington conference and at the last report had not ratified all of the provisions of the naval agreement.

Thus while there is talk about such a conference, the things that might be considered and the goal aimed at, there are good reasons for believing that the invitations for a gathering of the leading nations to discuss and arrange for further disarmament will not be issued until it has been learned that there is good ground for the belief that an agreement can be effected.

If the desire for such an accomplishment could bring it about there is no doubt but what the conference would take place at an early date. It will be the reaction obtained from the sounding of sentiment among the various nations that will determine the date. Delayed rather than a hasty consideration of the desired end of such a conference may produce the better results.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The increase in the hours of daylight causes a desire to start the saving of it.

Too many seem to think that "I was in a hurry" is a sufficient explanation for recklessness.

The man on the corner says: There is always the hope that a bad beginning will mean a good ending.

The impeached governor of Texas has had his rights restored by the present governor—his wife. That's teamwork.

Now that Debs and his followers have gone back on him LaFollette might as well throw up his hands in despair.

Appeals for a bigger increase in population so as to keep up with the automobile production can be expected most any time.

Much dependence is placed on March to provide the precipitation that can be ponded for use during the expected dry periods of the year.

Perhaps the legislative committee at Hartford today will get some interesting information on the profits at the local gas and electric plant.

Perhaps there are those in the senate who will insist in the not distant future that they should appoint the members of the cabinet, as well as conduct insurrections.

The holler-than-thou attitude of the Borah-Norris-LaFollette combination tells its own story. It is a combination that has meant trouble in the past and it is a detriment to the country that it is in a position to be such an obstacle.

MERCENTARY THING

The popular college girl uttered a deep sigh. The demure young woman sitting near her looked at her speculatively. "I suppose Henry Horseradish is taking you to the Sigma dance?" she inquired.

"Oh, no!" said the popular college girl, who was sitting beside the telephone as if she expected it to ring at any moment. "I think I'll try to make a splurge this time and grab off the richest man on the campus. I don't know just how I'm going to do it yet, but my one idea in life is to be rolling in money!"

The demure young woman closed her history book to look reproachfully at her friend. "I don't see how you can say such a thing," she said. "A girl like you ought to have higher ideals than that. Now, for instance, Henry Horseradish hasn't a cent in the world, but he's a thousand times more attractive than Chester Soapdish, even though Chester is sinfully rich. Chester may have money, but to me there is no comparison between the two boys!"

"Mercy! I can't waste my time on a penniless boy like Henry Horseradish," said the popular girl briskly. "I think it's every girl's duty to—The ringing of the telephone at her elbow interrupted her, and she turned to answer.

"Hello! Oh, yes. This is she. Why how do you do, Chester? You did? You didn't! You did? Oh, you didn't! Why, Chester, how sweet of you to ask me but I promised some one else to go to the Sigma dance not fifteen minutes ago. I had no idea you were going to ask me. Yes? Well, good-by."

She hung up the telephone yawning. "Whom are you going with?" demanded the ingenuous girl. "I thought you wanted a rich boy."

"Oh, no one has asked me yet, but Chester's not half rich enough."

"He has such queer ears and he stutters," murmured the ingenuous girl.

"Oh, I dont mind that," said the popular girl. "I turned him down from purely mercenary motives. With so many rich boys—really rich boys—floating around it seems a pity to waste time on Chester Soapsuds."

The telephone rang again. Again the popular girl answered. "Why, Claude Cuticle, where in the world have you been for so long? I haven't heard from you in ages. You have? You haven't! You have? You haven't! Well, you hate? Oh, no, you haven't! The Sigma dance? Why, Claude, how nice of you to think of me! I wish I could! Oh, dear, why didnt you call earlier? I just accepted not fifteen minutes ago, I surely wish I could go with you. You were sweet to think of me Well, good-by."

The demure girl heaved a sigh of pure vexation. "Well, I don't know what you are looking for, if you turned down that bow-legged Claude Cuticle, Hes rich enough for you, isn't he?"

"Only two cars," sighed the popular girl, "and think how inconvenient it would be if one of them broke down and his family were using the other. I dared not risk it. You know we girls cant be too careful—"

The phone rang again.

"Why, how do you do, Horace? I havent heard from you in ages. I thought you were dead. You could? You couldn't. You will? You won't! The Sigma dance? Oh, I wish I could, Horace! I just told some one else. Well, but Horace, you were so slow! How in the world did I know you were going to ask me? I did not; I never dreamed of such a hing! The idea! I wish I could go with you! Oh, I couldnt possibly! Oh, how dear of you! Well, Horace, good-by."

"Why in the world did you turn him down!" demanded the other girl. "He's worth $5,000,000 if he's worth a cent."

The telephone rang again before the popular girl could answer.

"Hello! Oh, Henry Horseradish! Well, how are you? Oh, not very well. The telephone? I dont know who could have been using it; I've been sitting right here by it all afternoon. You couldn't have tried very hard. Really, I'm surprised that you bother to call me up at all, you're so busy. And so popular! Oh, not at all! Oh, mercy no! The Sigma dance? No, I'm not going! Oh, I don't know. With you? Why, Henry, how sweet of you! I supposed, of course, you'd be taking Mary or Alice or one of those girls. How silly I never dreamed that you meant to ask me. Oh, heavens, don't bother to get a cab. Do you think I'm crippled? Flowers? Orchids? I can't stand orchids. No, carnations are my favorite flower. It's nice of you to say so. Tonight. That will be fine. Eight-thirty? Yes, good by."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rev. W. C. Poole, who is coming to America early next month for a tour of some of the principal cities in the interest of religious education, is a prominent London clergyman who now holds the presidency of the World's Sunday School association, an organization which has under its general direction 33,000,000 persons, chiefly young, who are studying the Bible. Dr. Poole, though a native of Tasmania and now a resident of England, has passed a considerable part of his career in the United States. He holds a degree from Boston University and has filled pastorates in Massachusetts and in San Francisco. In 1921 he accepted a call to the pulpit of Christ church, Westminster Bridge, London. This church is Congregational. Dr. Poole is a Methodist, while the pastor who immediately preceded him was of the Baptist denomination.

Catherine Booth's Lonely Girlhood

Frail, nervous and precocious, Catherine Mumford was the only girl of five children, three of whom died in infancy. Born in the quiet old village of Ashbourne, England, she had a horror of the child coming under "the contaminating influence of badly brought up children."

Reared in an atmosphere where the supreme outpouring of her mother's gratitude to God was for having taken the lives of the three boys, Catherine listened to the teachings of her mother and also of her father, who was a coach builder and "local preacher." By the time the girl reached 12 she had read the Bible through eight times and was secretary of a juvenile temperance society which she had organized.

At 14 she was taken ill, for four years was bedridden with a spinal disease and although in almost constant pain read many books on history and religion. At 15 she was taken to London by her parents. There she met William Booth, a young preacher, and was 23 when they became engaged. Three years later they married and spent their wedding journey in conducting religious revivals.

Jealous ministers had young Booth assigned to an obscure circuit and while he was at Gateshead she began to do slum work. Finally breaking away from the Methodist New Connection organization, Mr. and Mrs. Booth became outcasts without church, denomination or organization to support them, possessing no money, and with four babies dependent upon them.

Called to Cornwall to conduct meetings, Booth was so successful that he held revivals in London's East Side and Mrs. Booth became famous as "the woman preacher." Then came the bitter attacks on their street meetings, the organization of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Booth's efforts with London's high society which smiled, then snarled at her, finally the world-wide success of the movement with her husband as General Booth, in command and eight of her children actively engaged in it.

All through the long battle she was recognized as a leader, a wife and a mother. And at the time of her death Catherine Booth was one of the world's most beloved women.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION
Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

SECRET WAY TO SLENDERNESS REVEALED

SAN-GRI-NA, a new French discovery for the reduction of excess fat, is now creating a sensation in New York and Paris—it seems that at last something real has been found to relieve fat people. It is a combination of anti-fat ingredients which help nature in disposing more rapidly waste tissues, the accumulation of which accounts for excess fat, according to the theory of a famous French scientist. SAN-GRI-NA has not been advertised nor offered to the general public, but has been used in private practice in Europe, where large amounts have been paid for it. Since it has been introduced in America, the demand has been so tremendous that every good drug store is supplied with it at a price within the reach of all. It is the easiest, safest and quickest way to reduce. SAN-GRI-NA is put up in small tasteless tablets, and all you need to do is to take two before meals. GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS. Not only will it remove excess fat, but it acts as a general tonic on the entire system and relieves that dull, tired feeling so well known to fat people. It has been found a great help in cases of high blood pressure and general disorders due to obesity.

RIBBONS, FLOWERS, BRIMS—WHAT IS NEW IN MILLINERY

Two of the smartest colors noticeable in the hats shown at the openings this week are violet and green, in varying tints.

But this does not mean that other colors are not favored. In fact it is a marked characteristic of the season that one can make a choice of any of a dozen hues, yet still feel "in style."

The mode of using silk belting ribbon for hats, the material employed in narrow strips, continues strong. The hat in ensemble the most simple, yet in its workmanship representing the greatest amount of care and labor, seems to be Fashion's favorite.

Much ado is made about brims. A dashing turn to the side brim of a hat will often give it its chief distinction.

This charming touch is seen on the natty ribon cloche which is tailored with the greatest skill.

New and appealing is the topknot of flowers or ribbon; very few feathers are shown, although certain fancies and airy feather effects appear on straws for early season wear. Much embroidery and ornamentation in Oriental and metallic effects will be found, also.

See the new headwear while it is really new. The Bulletin's advertisers today give all information as to where it may be found.

GALA IRISH NIGHT BY A. O. H. AUXILIARY

Division No. 54, A. O. H., auxiliary, celebrated St. Patrick's day with a gala Irish evening and dance in the evening in A. O. H. hall, when D'Atri's Wauregan hotel orchestra furnished popular a programme of old and new dances. There were selections by the Division quartette, rendering Tumble-Down Shack, When Irish Eyes, The Three Leaves of Shamrock and Wearing of the Green. Miss Marion Turley sang If You're Irish You're Welcome, and the Irish jig and reel were danced by Mrs. John McHale, Mrs. Bridget McKelvey, Mrs. Julia Brock and John Fenton.

A model of the tumble down shack, made by Miss Margaret Doran of Division No. 26, New London, and presented to Division No. 54, was awarded to Mrs. Margaret Peterson.

The decorations were in green, white and gold and Shamrock caps were worn by the committee which comprised Mrs. Julia Brock, Mrs. John McHale, Mrs. Patrick O'Neil, Mrs. John McCarthy, Mrs. Thomas Connelly, Mrs. John Moore, Miss Catherine Connell, Miss Mary E. Sullivan and Miss Nancie Brock.

THREE SHAMROCKS GIVE ST. PATRICK'S DANCE

The Three Shamrocks conducted a prety St. Patrick's dance Tuesday night in Olympic hall with an attendance of 150. The hall was attractively decorated in green and white and little green stove pipe hats were the souvenirs.

Members of the Crowley club of New London and the S. S. club of Westerly attended the affair. The music was by Thumm's orchestra. Refreshments were served and the committee in charge consisted of Daniel J. O'Brien, John Shea and Michael Kirby.

Fire in Switchboard.

About 12.30 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning the fire department was called out by telephone for a fire in the switchboard in one of the former Shetucket Company buildings off North Main street. The blaze which was confined to the switchboard was quickly extinguished with a can of chemical. The fire was due to electrical causes of some kind. The only damage was to the switchboard. The building is occupied by a knitting concern managed by W. H. Stebbins.

THREE HURT WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO TRUCK PARKED ON NO. MAIN ST.

The driver and two passengers in a Maxwell touring car were slightly hurt and the touring car was badly wrecked when it crashed into the rear of a 7 1-2 ton truck parked on North Main street, near Eighth street, early Tuesday evening. Louis Cuprak of Harland Road, owner and driver of the touring car, was proceeding up North Main street, in a northerly direction, when his machine crashed into the rear of the heavy Mack truck parked by the roadside. The passengers in the touring car were badly shaken up and received bruises. Mr. Cuprak was cut on the right eye and received an abrasion on the right cheek. Bohdam Cuprak suffered bruises on his right arm and Helen Cuprak, the other passenger, received a wound on her right knee and one on her forehead.

The injured people were taken to police headquarters and Dr. Louis T. Cassidy attended their injuries after which they were taken to their home on Harland Road.

Louis E. Walker of No. 1488 Purchase street, New Bedford, 26, driver of the truck, was arrested on a charge of parking the truck less than 15 feet from the corner and over the curb. The truck had no lights and this is attributed as the cause of the accident. The truck is owned by the Interstate Trucking company of New Bedford.

VERMONT K. OF C. MEN ENTERTAIN WHITE CROSS

Vermont Night was held Tuesday evening at the Knights of Columbus home on Broadway, the arrangements for the supper and entertainment being made by members of White Cross Coucil, No. 13, who claim Vermont as their home state. Over 150 knights were present at the gathering. During the evening there was an entertainment programme comprising vocal selections by Dr. John A. Corrigan, Frank R. Murdy, Henry J. LaFontaine and J. Warren Kane. Mr. LaFontaine presided at the piano.

About 10 o'clock the knights were invited into the dining room where a roast pig supper was served. The menu comprised:

Roast Pig Stuffed
Gravy Mashed Potatoes
Boiled Onions Fried Parsnips
Cream of Tartar Biscuits
Vermont Maple Syrup
Coffee

The committee in charge of the arrangements comprised John P. Lyston, Walter M. Carrigan, Patrick Munford and Francis T. Diggins, all natives of the Granite state. They were attired in typical Vermont farmer style with wide-brimmed straw hats, red neckerchiefs, chore coats and whiskers.

The dining room was attractively decorated, green predominating. A large sign at the entrance to the K. of C. building proclaimed that it was Vermont Night and at the entrance to the dining room was a large sign reading "You are now entering Vermont and another sign read "The Boys From Home."

TEXTILE PLANTS WILL EXHIBIT THEIR PRODUCT

At the meeting of the executive board of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association held at Plainfield Monday evening it was voted to promote an exhibit of the products made in the textile plants in this vicinity. This exhibit will take in 32 mills represented in the association and any others in eastern Connecticut which care to display. Eighteen mills have already reported favorably on the promotion and this would indicate that the exhibit should go over big as very little has been said up to now of such an exhibit.

The purpose of the exhibition is to acquaint the public with the products being manufactured in this section. Without going outside of the association proper an exhibit of approximately 75 distinct products could be shown. This promotion is in keeping with a nationwide idea of educating the public in the necessity of using American-made goods.

It was decided to hold the exhibit at the state armory in Danielson, the second week in June, provided the building is available at that time. An invitation to Governor Trumbull will be extended as soon as a definite date is settled.

The committee on the annual ladies' night to be held Monday, April 20th, at the Wauregan Hotel, reported progress.

President Norman Parkhurst of Jewett City presided at the meeting and Frederick L. Babcock, editor of Fibre and Fabric, textile journal, was a guest of the meeting and offered his assistance in putting over the textile show.

NORWICH MAN WAS BORN ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Among those who were born on St. Patrick's Day is William B. L. Cranston of 17 Linden Parkway. Mr. Cranston was born in Providence, R. I., on St. Patrick's Day 1855, but moved to Norwich with his parents in 1864, so most of his life has been spent in this city.

No family in New England traces a more distinguished English lineage or has figured more notably in Colonial history than the Cranstons of Rhode Island.

John Cranston, founder of the family, became governor of Rhode Island in 1678.

Mr. Cranston is president of the company which bears his name, doing business at 26, 27, 29 Broadway, the oldest and the largest book and stationery store in eastern Connecticut. The store was started in 1840 by his grandfather, the late Morgan Safford, at 158 Main street, and flourished there until moved to its present location in 1916.

Mr. Cranston has seen many changes on Main street since he began his business career in 1873, and with a few exceptions (Porteous & Mitchell Co., Lee and Osgood Co., Kies shoe store and the Fay variety store) every store between Washington square and Burnham square has changed hands.

Birthday presents included a handsome Buick coach, a five-tube "Standardyne radio outfit, beautiful flowers and many cards.

LEGISLATIVE HEARINGS AT HARTFORD TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, March 17.—The committee on roads, bridges and rivers will hold hearings today on a bill providing for the construction of a bridge over the Blackhall river in the town of Old Lyme; including a road from Mansfield Center to Union in the trunk line system; concerning an appropriation to improve the trunk line highway from Pomfret to Killingly.

The judiciary committee will devote considerable time to the hearing of bills relative to billboard advertising and also bills concerning the sale of cord wood and the marketing of eggs.

Other committees will hold hearings on bills that have no special interest to eastern Connecticut.

Miss Marshall to Speak.

Miss Helen Marshall, former teacher at Norwich Free Academy and librarian at Slater Library, is to speak at Bozrah Grange meeting this (Wednesday) evening. Her talk is to be about whaling experiences of early days, as she has learned of them on her native island, Nantucket.

SHAMROCK MINSTRELS BY ST. PATRICK BOY SCOUTS

Matinee and evening performances of the Shamrock Minstrels, presented by the Boy Scouts of St. Patrick's parish, were given Tuesday in the church hall before an audience of 400 in the afternoon and more than double that number at night. The programme was cleverly given by the cast under the supervision of William Dougherty, Mrs. Bernard Coyle and Leonard Suntheimer. The music was by Leith's Musical Aces, comprising, Omer Leith, violin; Leonard Suntheimer, saxophone, Miss Margaret Scheffouser, piano.

The musical numbers were the following: Overture, orchestra; opening chorus, entire company; Where is My Sweetie Hiding, William Brewer; Peter Pan, James Nicholson; All Alone, Peter Diveto; Kitty (duet) James Kennefic, H. eRardon; Erin's Isle, and You, William Shannon; Couldn't Get to Do It, Raymond Coyle; In the Garden of Tomorrow, J. Warren Kane; Follow the Swallow, Shamrock quartet; dance selection, Angus McDonald; Mother in Ireland, Ray Cote; Blue-eyed Sally, Anthony Kirker; Breath of Old Ireland, Kitty O'Toole, Walter LaFontaine; cornet selection, Thomas O'Neil; When Irish Eyes Are Smiling, James Casey; grand finale, entire company.

PICTURE SHOWS GROWTH OF ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY

The electrical industry as it was at the beginning of its history and as it is today, was shown on the screen at the Community House in the picture, "Power," Tuesday evening at an open meeting held under the auspices of the Norwich Stationary Engineers. There was a fair sized audience present and the meeting was presided over by the president, John A. Holland. Mr. Holland introduced H. D. Larrabee of the Eastern Connecticut Power company who gave a very interesting and enlightening talk on the steam power plant. Mr. Larrabee told of the development of the steam plant and of the many improvements that have been made in the interest of expansion and economy. The speaker told how huge quantities of coal are handled with despatch and ease by special machinery at the Eastern Connecticut Power company's plant at Montville. The cost of unloading coal from the barges at the plant is about 10 cents a ton, he said. Machinery makes it possible to unload thousands of tons of coal from the barges, store it in the coal yard, transport it to the breakers and thence to the coal bunkers and stokers in the boiler plant without the necessity of having it touched by human hands. He also told of various appliances used for the purpose of keeping up the efficiency of the plant.

Following Mr. Larrabee's talk three reels of moving pictures showing the wonders of electrical industry were thrown on the screen, the pictures being shown through the courtesy of the Eastern Connecticut Power company.

RUM RUNNERS CREWS PLACED UNDER BONDS

New London, March 17.—Captains and members of the crews of the auxiliary schooner Three Links of New Bedford, Mass., and the sloop Virginia, captured as rum runners in Long Island Sound this morning, were given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson here tonight and their cases were continued until next Tuesday. The captains were held in bonds of $1,000 each and the members of the crews in bonds of $500 each.

The Three Links was carrying 190 cases of alleged whiskey and 150 kegs of alleged alcohol when captured and the Virginia had aboard 400 cases of alleged whiskey and champagne. She was leaking badly when taken and sank before reaching this port.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARTY FOR BIRTHDAY OBSERVANCE

A St. Patrick's day party was held Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pickering, 256 Boswell avenue, in honor of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Pickering's birthday, and Miss Pickering's cousin, Miss Dorothy Edwards. The affair was also planned to celebrate the birthday of Miss Shirley Kerr.

During the afternoon dancing and music were enjoyed and games were played for which prizes were awarded to the Misses Natalie Service, May Adams, Elsie Risley, Doris Peterson, Margaret West and Bertrice Cohen. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Carl Krause and Mrs. Howard Edwards.

Those present were the Misses Natalie Service, May Adams, Elsie Risley, Marian Kirby, Doris Peterson, Margaret West, Bertrice Cohen, Lucy Schultz, Ellen Keer, Dorothy Edwards and Gertrude Pickering.

Nearly every married man you meet known how to govern a wife, but the trouble is, she won't le thim.

JUDGES SELECTED FOR WINDOW DRESSING CONTEST

The merchants' committee in charge of the window dressing contest announces that Mayor Milo Waters, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell and Miss Mary Henderson, art instructor in the schools, will be the judges in the contest.

All the store windows will be dressed. The stores are classified as Class A department, furniture, Cranston's and Discos.

In each class three large silver trophy cups will be awarded. Windows will be judged on beauty, neatness and sales ability.

The window contest is the first feature of the co-operative spring opening days Friday and Saturday. It is planned to make these the biggest days Norwich has ever seen for a spring opening as every store and every line of merchandise will be represented.

The stores will be beautifully decorated, there will be attractive displays and all the new spring merchandise will be ready for inspection.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB CONDUCTED CARD PARTY

An enjoyable card party was held Tuesday afternoon in the K. of C. home on Broadway by the Catholic Women's club of St. Patrick's parish, Mrs. Nelson C. C., and John Milton Hudgins, son of Mrs. Horace MacFarland, of Washington, D. C. The wedding is to take place April 15th, at old St. Michael's church, Charleston, and will be followed by a reception at the Calhoun Mansion for 200 guests. For fourteen years the Bigelow family resided on Broad street, Norwich.

GAVE ENTERTAINMENT FOR PATIENTS AT SANATORIUM

The Entertainer's Club, made up of members of the staff of the Norwich state sanatorium, gave a delightful programme Tuesday evening for the entertainment of the patients at the sanatorium. The programme was given in two parts, the first part comprising instrumental and vocal selections. The opening number was a piano solo by Henry J. LaFontaine followed by two baritone solos, On The Road to Mandalay and The Trumpeter, by Frank R. Murdy. With Mr. LaFontaine at the piano, Mrs. Sadie White entertained with a song and character sketch. This was followed by The Dance of the Wooden Soldier by Aubrey Travers, accompanied by Mr. LaFontaine who played the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers on the piano. Two Irish songs, Irish Eyes and Where the River Shannon Flows, were given by Dr. John A. Corrigan, accompanied by Mrs. Cecelia MacNeil at the piano. Mrs. MacNeil also sang Along The Rocky Road to Dublin and Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms.

Following an intermission of ten minutes, part two was given with "The Foolem Film Company" presenting "Wild Nell, the Pet of the Plains" or "Her Final Sacrifice." The play was produced under the direction of Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell with the Misses Miriam and Margaret Campbell as assistant directors. The synopsis was read by Dr. Hugh B. Campbell and the cast was as follows:

Lady Clara Vere de Vere, An English Heiress, Miss Viola Comsick; Handsome Harry, King of the Cowboys, Aubrey Travers; Sitting Bull, the Indian chief, Albert Rust; Bull Durham, his accomplice, Paul Conard; Hula Hula, the medicine woman Mrs. Sadie White; Wild Nell, the pet of the plains, Miss Gladys Meier.

The Biggest Cheeses.

What is said to be the largest cheese ever made was not long ago exhibited in Chicago. This cheese weighed 12,632 pounds and contained 12,000 pounds of curds, 350 pounds of salt and 31 pounds of rennet, but not an ounce of coloring and required the services of 40 expert cheesemakers to make it. The cost of "building" the cheese was between $5,000 and $6,000, and as the risk of loss was great it is improbable that any one will ever take the chance again of trying to turn out a cheese of this size.

To manufacture successfully this mammoth cheese it was necessary for 1,200 model dairies to do milking of 8,000 registered Holstein and Guernsey cows at the same hour. The milk had to be cooled to the same temperature and the 32 sanitary cheese factories which manufactured the curd had to follow the same process to insure uniformity of the curd. Every tool or implement which came into contact with the curd was sterilized. There were required 144,100 pounds (72 tons) or 18,000 gallons of milk to produce the 12,000 pounds of curds, which was delivered in cans, each containing from 125 to 130 pounds of curd. The different lots of curd were mixed in two troughs, each 30 feet long 4 feet wide and three feet deep, and the entire mixture then poured into a mammoth cask 5 feet in diameter and 5 feet long, which was braced with iron hoops. A team of six horses was required to draw the cheese to the railroad for shipment, and a huge derrick was used to get it on board a flat car.

"Red" Negroes in Russia

The recent visit of the delegation of British trade unionists to Russia has been followed by the arrival of an African negro delegation. The bolsheviks are conducting a negro propaganda extensively and a special "red" negro section has been attached to the third international. Funds, literature and instructions are sent regularly to the remotest villages in Africa and India.

Brazil Shipping Depressed.

The shipping market in Rio de Janeiro and in the north of Brazil is dull, while Santos shipments decreased greatly during February. The port situation at Rio de Janeiro and Santos is growing worse, with no prospects of early relief. There are forty-four ships in Santos harbor awaiting berths.

Ireland Installs Air Mail

Arrangements have been completed for an all-year air service between Great Britain and Ulster. A company with $2,500,000 capital has been formed and three airplanes have been purchased. The scheme is expected greatly to accelerate the mail service, not only with England but with America and Europe.

SUNDAY BASEBALL BILL CREATES DISCUSSION BEFORE COMMITTEE

Hartford, March 17—The question of legislation to legalize professional baseball and football as a commercial proposition, was before the committee on the judiciary of the general assembly this forenoon, the bill heard being the one drafted by Major John Buckley, former member of the house and which was adopted in 1921, and vetoed by Governor Holcomb, and rejected by the house in 1923. Major Buckley in support of his bill pointed out that he offered it "because he was disgusted with the hypocrisy shown by many members of the legislatures of 1921 and 1923. The object of the bill, he said, was to legalize what is now tolerated by local opinion, that is the playing of league games, such as those of the Eastern league in Hamden on Sundays, local opinion being such that nothing is done to stop them although professional Sunday baseball is not permitted by law.

The Text of Bill

The bill heard was as follows:

Section 1. To selectmen of any town, the mayor and aldermen, or common council of any city, the warden and burgesses of any borough, or any town, city or borough at any meeting duly warned and held for that purpose, may allow the playing of professional baseball or football on Sunday between the hours of 2 o'clock and 6 o'clock, provided action taken by any such meeting shall supercede and render void any action by such officials.

Section 2. Any person who shall open or operate any baseball or football park in violation of the provisions of this act shall be fined not more than $500.

Section 3. The provisions of section 6450 of the general statutes shall not apply to games conducted pursuant to provisions of this act.

Clergy Oppose Bill

The bill was opposed by a number of clergymen and representatives of various Sunday observance organizations on the ground mainly that the bill would legalize commercial enterprises on Sunday, that it would tend to further throf opeen Sunday as a day of labor, and that the legislation would be in favor of a certain class of sport followers. The representative of the Lord's Day Observance league declared that the bill would "legalize crime," and when called upon by Major Buckley to define what he meant by "legalize crime," the representative said that at present it is a "crime" to play professional baseball on Sunday in this state, and that to make it legal to play what is forbidden would be to "legalize" what is set forth in law as a crime." Major Buckley said he would not get that point of view, nor could he, he said, understand any such condition as "legalize crime." The Lord's Day league man said he was not a lawyer but he felt the committee got his angle, and to this Major Buckley said that if the speaker would come to his office, with the necessary fee, he would explain to him that there was no such thing as "legalized crime."

There was considerable verbal sparring between Major Buckley, and several who spoke in opposition to the bill, and one woman who said she represented 1,000 women, said she did not want to be questioned by Major Buckley. This created a laugh at Major Buckley's expense.

When Roger W. Davis, attorney, of Hartford, spoke against the bill he was asked by Major Buckley if he was an attorney for any organization, and Mr. Davis replied that at previous sessions he spoke against the Sunday law as chairman of a committee on Sunday observance, and this time he spoke as an individual. He thought Major Buckley's interest was created because he might be representing baseball promoters. Major Buckley retorted that his fee was the same as Mr. Davis'—nothing—that he represented only himself, and appeared in favor of his own bill because of the "hypocrisy" which members of previous legislatures had shown. The major went on to say that two years ago members of the general assembly had told him that they were for a bill like this, "provided there was no roll call to put them on record." He said these members, probably most of them church-going men, did not dare to let it be known that they would vote for Sunday professional baseball. They were afraid their pastor would talk to them about it. He said that after the bill was reported favorably in the house he could not tell whether members would keep their word to vote for it, and he then proposed a roll call, but he had hard work to get the necessary one-fifth to demand a roll call. When the roll call was taken and the bill rejected he moved reconsideration. Members then "got frightened" and claimed they were in an "embarrassing position" and they voted to reconsider action. Major Buckley said he then offered a substitute striking out everything after the enacting clause and substituting a bill which would make mandatory enforcement of laws against professional baseball on Sunday. The house passed this, but the senate rejected it.

Major Buckley claimed that this action showed "hypocrisy" of members who were willing to vote for Sunday baseball if they were not put on record, but were not willing to pass a law making it mandatory to enforce the law against professional baseball on Sunday. He said that it was time that the legislature "came off the fence" either to legalise that which a community permits in spite of the law, or compel enforcement of the law.

Major Buckley said that most of the arguments against the bill was personal opinion, and as ours is a representative government majority opinion should prevail and he maintained that majority opinion in the state favors professional baseball on Sundays. He also claimed that every safeguard possible was provided by the bill against misuse of the right to play commercial ball, and that baseball promoters were against it because it did not give them any privileges.

As Major Buckley had the last say in rebuttal, and considerable time had been spent on the bill many who wished to reply to him did not have opportunity.

NURMI CRUMPLES AS RESULT OF FAST RACE

New York, March 17—Burned out by the dazzling pace which he had set to etch a mark on the records which would stand for all time, Paavo Nurmi was seized with cramps and quit within four laps of the finish in the 5,000 meter special, the feature event of the Knights of Columbus meet at Madison Square Garden tonight.

His most prominent rival, Willie Ritola, was left in the field to win the laurels which fell from Nurmi's shoulders. But before the phantom feet, which have tread their way to more world's records than any other human feat quit, Nurmi had shattered three world's marks.

The fall of Nurmi saw the rise of Joie Ray, plucky Illinois A. C. star, who came through to win the Columbian mile, the other feature on the program, in the world's record time of 4:12. This equalled the mark set by Nurmi in the 17th regiment armory in Buffalo, March 7.

At the 4,000 yard mark, Nurmi's time was announced at 10:31 which is exactly 10 seconds better than Ritola's time for the distance at Milwaukee, March 9. At the 4,000 meter point Nurmi was clocked in 11:30 4-5, 24 4-5 seconds better than his own mark made for that distance in the Newark A. C. games in Newark, February 4. Nurmi's time for the 3 1-2 miles was 11:36 1-5. The former record for this distance is 11:40 1-5 established by Ritola at Milwaukee in the same race in which he set the 4,000 yard mark March 9.

JUNIORS HOLD SCANT LEAD IN AGGIE BASKETBALL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, March 17—In last night's class games at Storrs, the Juniors defeated the School of Ag 16-8, and, the Sophomores downed the Freshmen 15-14. Juniors still lead the league with a record of 7 victories in 8 starts, though it is expected that the Sophomores, who are now one game behind, will even the count by defeating the School of Ag, when they meet in the final game next Monday night. Unless the short course men upset the dope and defeat the Sophomores, it will be necessary for the Juniors and Sophomores to play an extra game to decide the class championship at the State College.

Interest in the interclass league is running high at Storrs at the present time, and the Monday night games always draw a large crowd at Hawley Armory. In tonight's game the Sophomores appeared on the floor in new orange and black uniforms, which were furnished by the class of 1927 as an evidence of their backing of the team. "Sam" Kramer was again the big gun in the Sophomore attack, and all that enabled his team to remain in the running for another crack at the Juniors, present league leaders. The yearling outfit had been greatly strengthened by the addition of Hadley and Sullivan to the lineup, and they gave their upperclass rivals a real battle the entire distance.

Interclass League Standing

	Won	Lost	Per Cent.
Juniors	7	1	.875
Sophomores	6	1	.856
Seniors	3	4	.428
School of Ag	2	5	.285
Freshmen	1	6	.142

JOHN D. GIVES GLENNA A DIME AS LUCKY PIECE

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 17—John D. Rockefeller was an admiring golf fan today when Miss Glenna Collett, star Providence golfer, who leaves for a foreign invasion April 11, was presented to him at a hotel here.

Mr. Rockefeller, who tees off every morning at 10:15 o'clock waived his regular starting time, to let Miss Collett get away at that hour in an exhibition match in which she was paired with Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, against Joe Kirkwood and N. B. Perkins.

Miss Collett and Mr. Rockefeller engaged in an animated conversation of ten minutes in the rear of the big gallery assembled for the exhibition. When she was about to say good-bye, Mr. Rockefeller said:

"May I attend my very best wishes, as a fellow golfer, Miss Collett, for your success abroad?"

Miss Collett laughingly thanked him and as she again started away, Mr. Rockefeller handed her a shiny ten cent piece. She looked a trifle startled but Mr. Rockefeller said with a smile:

"A talisman of good luck, Miss Collett."

CLABBY'S COLTS TO PLAY ALL STAR TEAM TONIGHT

Now that the Combat Train has lost to Clabby's Colts in indoor baseball the Combat Train manager says that he can trim the Colts and the big game is to go on this (Wednesday) evening at 8 p. m. This time it won't be the Combat Train that will play the Colts but an all star team that Mgr. Cimikoski has been signing up for the past week. The only Combatants in the lineup will be Tombari, Cimikoski. Others will be from Riverview Club and N. F. A.

Cimikoski's All Stars will lineup: c, Tombari; p, Sank; 1 b, S. Cimikoski; l. s. s, L. Cimikoski; 2 b, Tony West; r. s. s. Eddie Burns; 3 b, Harry Mills. The outfield will consist of Poruczniik, Jaremba and Kelly. Roy of last year's Willimantic Thread Co. team, and of the Riverview Club will also be on hand in case Sank's pitching arm shall weaken.

The Colts of which Jack Clabby is manager shall have the regular lineup with Joe Faber, pitcher and Leo Hamel, as catcher.

LOCAL Y. M. H. A. FIVE WINS CLOSE GAME FROM WILLIMANTIC

In a close and fast game at the Y. M. H. A. hall on Tuesday evening the local five won from the Willimantic brothers by a score of 27 to 23. It was an interesting game to watch as the teams were evenly matched and at half time the Willimantic team was one point in the lead the score being 14 to 13. The lineups:

Willimantic—B. Rabinowitz lf; Rothblat rf; Cohen c; A. Rabinowitz rg; Israel lg.

Quatrain Wins Feature

New Orleans, March 17—Quatrain today won the Louisiana derby carrying an added purse of $17,500 at one and one eighth miles.

Benedict Vow was second, Brave Bob, third, and Stirrup Cup, fourth. Quatrain, the favorite, took the lead at the first quarter and won by four lengths.

The time was 1:56. Quatrain, owned by Frederick Johnson, and ridden by Jockey Stutts, carried 126 pounds.

Quatrain paid nine to twenty to win, one to six to place and was out to show. All entrants are Kentucky derby nominees.

TWO BULKELEY PLAYERS REACH 100 POINT MARK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 17—Two Bulkeley basketball performers have reached the hundred mark in the race for high individual honors of the season. Huck Taylor, who was the first to reach the century mark, and who still leads the way in scoring by a fair margin, is followed by Parisi who for the first time this season has attained the hundred mark. This is the first time the individual records have been compiled for over two weeks.

Huck Taylor's average suffered according to his two performances in Deep River and Hartford. It was the only set of games in which he participated in to date, in which he failed to come out high scorer of the contest. In both games he added but eight points to his total, the Hartford game especially throwing him off the track to establish a new scoring record this season. Although Taylor has eclipsed all foregoing records as far as individual scoring is concerned, he has a chance to hit a new total which has not been hung up by any Bulkeley player. In the game with Stonington High, Taylor once again hit his stride and scored 14 points bringing his total to 136 points, comprising 60 field and 16 foul goals.

Parisi, pitcher on the baseball team is Taylor's closest rival for individual honors, and is 30 points behind the Bulkeley streak. Parisi's total includes 40 field goals, 20 behind that of Taylor and 16 fouls, the same amount Taylor has been able to score. Vogt has been unable to raise his total very much higher, and the once high scorer whowas disposed of the lead first by Paris and then in turn by Taylor has not been the performer that he was in the early games. Watterson's total at guard has been steadily increasing with the result that he would probably overhaul Vogt in time. The game with Springfield Technical High for Saturday is the final game of the season.

PLAINFIELD'S REPLY TO MR. COLLINS' VERSION

Sports Editor:—

We have already heard Baltic's side of the aforesaid game so lets look at it from a Plainfield standpoint.

We will readily agree that the game was rough and at times resembled a football match instead of a basketball game. But who was responsible for this? No one but the Baltic team themselves. Thy went into the game with the intention of winning at any cost and this was the result. Every time they touched a man they fouled him and in some instances even went as far as to charge and tackle him.

Baltic started these same tactics on their own floor in the first game of the series but when after a few minutes of play they found out that they couldn't put anything over on their own referee the roughness was curtailed to some extent. As Baltic had about three times as many fouls called on them as did Plainfield it goes to show who was doing the roughing.

Mr. Ellison deserves much credit for the efficient way in which he handled the game and if it hadn't been for his ability and fairness chances are that the whole Plainfield team would have been carried off the floor on stretchers.

Baltic seems to lay their defeat at Plainfield to the inefficient way in which the referee conducted the game. I wonder if Baltic ever stopped to realize what the outcome of that game would really have been if they had gone on to the floor with the intention of playing a good clean game of basketball instead of a rough game of football. I think that it is safe to say and no doubt the majority of the fans that witnessed the game will agree that if this had been the case Baltic would have been so decisively beaten that they would want to crawl into their little shell and forget basketball now and forever. As a basketball team Baltic presented a very good football team.

GLENNA AND MRS STERRETT BEAT KIRKWOOD AND PERKINS

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 17—Joe Kirkwood professional, and N. B. Perkins, Louisville, Ky., amateur, tried to give Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, former national women's champion, and Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, of Hutchinson, Kas., Kansas champion, four strokes in 18 holes in an exhibition golf match here today, but found themselves six down with five holes left to play.

Miss Collett finished with 82, tying the former course record for women. Mrs. Sterrett, who held the record, bettered it by one stroke today, with an 81.

Miss Collett distanced Kirkwood on several shots. Her drive on the long ninth hole was measured and was found to have covered 304 yards.

Kirkwood played good golf finishing with 71.

Chapman Beats Westerly

At the Majestic Hall in Pawcatuck Tuesday afternoon the Chapman Tech team won a close decision over Westerly High in the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic basketbill league, winning out by a score of 32 to 26. This victory gives the Chapman Tech the title of the High school league.

EASTERN CONN. INTERSCHOLASTIC BASKETBALL TOURNEY CALLED OF

(Special to The Bulletin)

Storrs, March 17—Definite announcement was made here today by R. J. Guyer that the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic Basketball Tournament, originally of the high school teams to prolong their season until March 27 and 28, to which dates the tournament had been shifted, was given as the only reason for the cancellation. A mild outbreak of scarlet fever among the students at Storrs made it advisable that the tournament be postponed, earlier in the month, for though the college physicians and authorities had the situation well in hand, it was thought best not to have the high school students here when they might possibly become exposed to the disease.

The high school teams of Stonington, Woodstock, Stafford Springs, North Grosvenordale (Tourtellotte) and Chapman Tech (New London) had all agreed to playing on the later dates, but inability of the other schools to prolong their seasons made it necessary to call off the tourney.

These include the high schools of Putnam, Danielson, Plainfield, East Hartford and Willimantic. Bulkeley High had another game scheduled that would prevent them from participating, and no word has as yet been received from Glastonbury High.

As previously announced, the Class "C" and "D" Interscholastic Tournament will be held at Storrs on Friday and Saturday of this week, when it is expected that 16 high school teams will visit the State College to play off for the championship of the smaller high schools of the state.

BALTIC WANDERERS DEFEATED BY TAFTVILLE A-N QUINTET

The Taftville Army-Navy club five practically clinched the Eastern Connecticut Basketball tourney Tuesday evening when they defeated the Baltic Wanderers 34 to 19 in a fast game. This is the only game of the tournament that has seen strictly local teams playing. Taftville discarded her hirlings and sent in Simon-pure Taftville team with the result that they were fully competent to defeat the Baltic team. The score at half time was 19 to 9 in the locals favor. In the preliminary game the A-N Seconds swamped the Bantams, 50 to 14. Taftville plays at Baltic next Friday evening. The summary:

MYSTIC STATE ORAL SCHOOL NOW HAS 101 PUPILS

Mystic, March 16—At the last Parent-Teachers' Association meeting in Mystic, Walter J. Tucker, superintendent of Mystic Oral School gave a comprehensive address on teaching the deaf since it was first started in this country. In the eighteenth century France taught the deaf and dumb the sign language; in 1879 it was abolished and the oral system adopted. In England the oral system was used. Dr. Cogswell in Hartford had a deaf daughter, Thomas H. Gallaudet has been teaching her and friends sent him abroad to study the sign language and that was how it was introduced into America in 1815. The first school for the deaf in this country was established by him at Hartford in 1817.

At Ledyard, Conn., Jonathan Whipple had a deaf son Enoch and noticed that he watched his lips. From that he conceived the idea of lip-reaching. Whipple was able to teach his son by the motion of his lips and that was the beginning of the school. He was the first American teacher of the Oral Method of instructing the deaf and his son was the first pupil.

Enoch Whipple, the first orally-taught person in the United States was destined to play a great part in the establishment of oral school in this country.

About this time Miss Harriet Rogers of Boston, had a deaf pupil and had heard of Enoch Whipple and another man Charles Greene who had been taught to speak; she decided her pupil should be taught to talk. Prominnet men of Northampton, Mass., presented a bill to the legislature, it was passed and the first purely oral school for the deaf in America was established there in 1867. It was known as hte Clarke school started two years before the Mystic Oral school. At present every state, except Delaware, New Hampshire and Wyoming has a state school for the deaf supported by the state. Pennsylvania has three, Massachusetts three, New York five. Connecticut has two but the school at Hartfrod does not belong to the state. It is endowed and receives so much per capita for every Connecticut child attending.

The Mystic Oral school belongs to the state and is supported entirely by the state. There are 63 public residential schools such as Mystic's in the United States; 78 public day schools, 17 denominational schools, in all 158 schools teaching 15,544 deaf children.

Its object is to bring the deaf pupil to a realization of the intuitive relation of speech as an instrument of thought and to make him think and speak as a hearing person.

The social position of the deaf is rapidly changing for the better, due, to the industrial training they receive at school. In many factories in which deafness is no handicap to work, the employers prefer deaf men. A striking example of this, is the Goodyear Rubber Factory, Akron, Ohio, where 800 deaf people are working and they hold positions from the office down. There are numerous other fields in which they are honest, every-doy workers.

Jonathan Whipple advocated the oral method of teaching the deaf, but no real plans for a school materialized until his grandson, Zerah Whipple 20 years old, was interested in his grandfather's methods and determined to devote his life to the instruction of the deaf by the oral method.

In 1869 the first pupil, William S Downing of Wilmington, Del., was admitted. The school was advertised and pupils came from all parts of the country. At first it was supported by the parents. This did not pay and in 1872 the general assembly passed a law granting $175 per year per capita for every pupil.

In 1874 Zerah Whipple purchased the present home of the school. It has been carried on since his death by relatives. In 1892 it was incorporated with a board of trustees. One dormitory was completed in 1914. Another has been added recently at a cost of $125,000. In 1921 the state bought the property from Mrs. Clara McGuigan. Fourteen teachers are now employed. The older children are in school from 8 o'clock until 1 o'clock. In the afternoon the older ones have industrial training and the yunger ones play on the grounds. They raise most of their vegetables and can about 5,000 quarts of vegetables and fruits. They have 12 Holstein cows, raise all their hogs and have at this imie about 3,000 chicks in brooders. An ice pond furnishes the ice.

The enrollment is 101 pupils and with the officers, teachers and help it is a small community in itself. It is ideally situated for a school, a mile and a half from Mystic, on a high hill overlooking Mystic River and Long Island Sound. The best way to get an idea of the splendid work carried on there at the present time is to call at the school during the forenoon and see the classes in session.

The Raising of Teasels

The town of Skaneateles, N. Y., has a thriving industry, perhaps not duplicated elsewhere in the United States. It raises teasels and finds a steady demand for all it can produce.

Now not every one knows what teasels are. The teasel is a plant that produces a ball of porcupinelike quills, the largest from three to four inches long and two inches wide. These are an indispensable element in the manufacture of broadcloth, felts and woolen goods of the finer grades.

The teasels grow from three to five feet high, on prickly green stems with spiky leaves, for two years. Then they are harvested, usually in August, and dried with great care. They are sold to a firm of teasel dealers in the town, where, in turn, they are parceled out to woolen manufacturers all over the country.

The cloth manufacturer bores a hole through the teasels and ranges them on a shaft, against which he runs his finer qualities of fabrics. The points are very brittle and as fine as the finest needle. These points scrape the cloth and give it it's nap, or wooly, surface. Machinery can be used to do this only in the cheaper grades of material.

Nehalem Wax

This is a somewhat curious product found on the beach near the mouth of the Nehalem river, in Oregon. It was noticed by the early explorers of that coast and later considerable deposits were found in the sand of the beach. In 1846 several tons of this waxlike substance were shipped to Mawail and since then many tons of it have been sent to northwestern markets.

Opinion has been divided concerning its nature and origin, some holding that it is a mineral substance called ozocerite. It is usually found in large rectangular blocks. It has a honeylike aroma when fresh cut. Examination by government experts shows that the substance closely approaches beeswax in composition and does not accord with the properties of ozocerite. This conclusion is consonant with an Indian legend of the wreck of a ship at the mouth of the Nehalem before the coming of the white man. A Spanish ship with supplies for the Catholic missions in the north sailed from Lower California in 1769 and was never afterward heard from.

Cuban Invoice Requirement

The Cuban Secretary of State has given informal assurances that the Cuban consular officials in the United States are being instructed not to enforce for the present the new requirement, which was to be put into operation at the end of February, whereby shipments of goods subject to ad valorem duties were to be accompanied by the original manufacturer's invoice. It is understood that the plan will be reconsidered and possibly modified somewhat before reissued.

French Pig Iron Shipments

Pig iron exports are now taken in comparatively large quantities from France by the Belgium-Luxemburg Economic Union, Germany, the Sarre Great Britain and Italy, whereas in 1913 Belgium, alone, took imports as large as present shipments to any of these countries. In 1913 France imported more pig iron from Germany than she exported to that country. Now exports to Germany now average 40,000 tons monthly and an equal amount goes to the Sarre, a natural sequence to the provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

In the potato-growing districts of Luxemburg and Limburg, Belgium, potato diggers are being introduced.

Polly Chuck Watches a Great Fight

His heart is always in the fight
Who knows his cause is just and right.

—Johnny Chuck.

For a few minutes Johnny Chuck, spying from behind the old stone wall, watched the strange Chuck under an apple tree. It was plain that the stranger was showing off. It was plain that he was doing it for the benefit of Polly Chuck, who sat on the doorstep of her new home. The strange Chuck took a few steps toward Polly Chuck. Johnny Chuck could stand it no longer. He scrambled over the stone wall and whistled shrilly.

Over and over they rolled in the grass,

Instantly the strange Chuck turned to face him and he whistled back defiantly. The stranger wasn't afraid. Any one could have seen that. In fact, he was quite angry at Johnny Chuck. To his way of thinking, Johnny Chuck had no business there. He didn't propose to have any one interfering with his affairs. The hair on his back and neck was standing up just as it was on the back and neck of Johnny Chuck. He drew back his lips to show his teeth—and very sharp-looking teeth they were. He didn't wait for Johnny Chuck to come to him; he started to meet Johnny half-way.

When they were close together, face to face, they began to move about in a circle, but always facing each other. Each was watching for a chance to jump at the other. All the time they growled and snarled and clashed their teeth.

"What are you doing here?" demanded the stranger.

"I'll show you!" snarled Johnny Chuck. "If you know what is good for you you will get out of this Old Orchard as fast as your legs will take you."

"I'm waiting for you to drive me out," growled the stranger. "Come on and fight. I'll show you who is going to leave the Old Orchard."

"Come on and fight yourself," Johnny Chuck taunted.

The stranger took Johnny at his word. He thought he saw a chance to catch Johnny unprepared, and he sprang at Johnny to make the most of it. But Johnny was prepared. They came together with such force that both fell over. Then such a fight as there was there in the Old Orchard! biting, tearing at each other with the claws of their stout hind feet, growling, snapping, snarling. It was dreadful.

Polly Chuck, sitting up straight on the doorshep of her new home, watched it with eyes shining with excitement. She knew that they were fighting for her. She didn't say a word. Down in her heart she was hoping that Johnny Chuck would win, but not for the whole world would she have let him know it just then.

Of course, all the little people in the Old Orchard hurried to watch that great fight. It was very exciting. All the feathered folk flew about screaming encouragement to both. Most of them wanted Johnny Chuck to win, for Johnny was an old friend. But a few of them encouraged the stranger.

Now the stranger was no coward. He was as big and as strong as Johnny Chuck, and he was younger. In this he had the advantage. But Johnny Chuck had had more experience. He had been in many fights, and in this he had the advantage. At last he got the grip on the stranger he had been striving for. The latter tried his best, but he couldn't shake Johnny Chuck loose. Little by little his strength left him. He was beaten and he knew it.

DYE-WORKS PERMIT, NEW LONDON, IS HELD UP BY ZONING PLAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 17.—It is said to be the opinion of Simon Green and his attorney that the application of the former for permission to erect a building for his dyeing establishment on the lot at 20 Williams street, and also to erect a garage there, will be favorably acted upon at the meeting of the city council Monday next. This belief is based largely upon the fact that the applicant has complied with all the requirements of the building code as it exists today and that the application has the endorsement of the inspector of buildings. But the city council must approve the endorsement and consent to other provisions that are contingent upon the work proceeding. That approval has not yet been forthcoming. The city, it is known, contemplates the inauguration of building zones within which no business establishments shall be erected and maintained. True, the city has no such zones at present, and the applicant for the permission desired holds that it is ordinances in force now that should govern in this case. But the city council replies that building zones are in contemplation and the members are delaying the permission to build which Mr. Green is seeking. So action on the application for a building permit is held up and set aside for further consideration.

It was stated at the meeting of the city council at which the permit was originally sought that there was serious objection filed by residents in the neighborhood of 20 Williams street, several of the councilors reporting that they had been called on the telephone and asked to oppose the granting of the sought-for permission. That led to the holding up of the request and it was influential in leading to the withholding of the permission last evening.

It is said that when the city can buy cobbing for $1 a running foot it is getting back to pre-war prices. That is the price at which the city bought today.

The avails of the sale of bonds originally issued for the erection of a junior high school in New London may now be used for the erection of a grade school which it is proposed to build on the so-called Harris lot on Mercer street, the state senate today having passed a bill allowing the use of the money. The proposed school building is not to cost the city more than $150,000 complete and ready for use. The city spent a considerable sum of money in architect's fees for the plans for the junior high school and these plans are now useless. It also had a lawsuit on its hands, brought by the architect to get his fees. He obtained a settlement of his claim. The council was very definite as to the fee of the architect of the proposed school so that there will be no legal contest in the present case. The architect is bound hand and foot as to just what his fees shall be and when and how they shall be payable and paid.

There was a large attendance at the annual St. Patrick's day ball of the Hibernians at the armory this evening. The rain did not interfere with the attendance in any appreciable degree.

Miss Rose Hirsch, of Bank street, and Mrs. Frank Fisher, Hempstead street, patients at Lawrence hospital were discharged today.

Traffic Officer William J. Corcoran is absent from his station, corner of Bank and State streets, being confined to his home by illness.

The funeral of Miss Mary E. Meade was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the mass of requiem which was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan, being attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The bearers were Chas. J. Lucy, Frederick J. Clancy, Richard Dolan, John L. Larkin, Harry Twiss and John Sanners. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Glover L. Champlin took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Quaker Hill Baptist church, the services being conducted by Rev. George Borden. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Henry A. Crocker, formerly of 94 Howard street, whose death occurred Sunday following an illness of about eight weeks, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Brainerd lodge, Masonic Temple, Green street and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by officers of the lodge and its members officiated as bearers and conducted the committal ritual in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah E. Keeney, 67, of 71 Hay street, died this morning at the Lawrence hospital, in which institution she had been a patient several weeks. Mrs. Keeney is survived by a nephew, Police Sergeant Frank Howard and a niece, Mrs. George Hart, of Starr street.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. H. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Chief Petty Officer Robert C. Dodge, stationed at the submarine base, to be returned to the owner, the return of the license being made because of the action of Coroner J. J. Desmond, of Norwich, in exonerating Dodge from all responsibility in connection with the death of Miss C. Isbelle MacKenzie, 64 Latham street, Groton, who died following injuries sustained two weeks ago by being struck by Dodge's automobile. Dodge, who was in the Groton town court yesterday, charged with manslaughter, was released from custody, the charge being nolled.

Two girls, neither over 25, were taken into custody by Patrolman William Babcock on Main street late last night when the girls were found consorting with sailors. The girls were taken to the police station, where they were detained until shortly after 3 o'clock when they were taken to the union station and placed aboard the 3.15 o'clock train for Providence, in which city the girls declared they resided.

Selectman Lawrence S. M. Cook lodged complaint with the police this afternoon that a man was soliciting alms in the vicinity of Connecticut avenue and Vauxhall street. Sergeant John Cavanaugh located the man complained against and he gave his name as Charles McCarthy, 60, of Willimantic. He stated that he was seeking employment of any description and when he could not obtain work, which was his case today, he attempted to obtain an existence by selling lead pencils. McCarthy was not taken into custody, but was given an opportunity to go to his home, which he promised to do.

A fire that did but little damage occurred this forenoon when the dwelling on Bank street, opposite Colman street, occupied by Nancy Andrews was discovered ablaze. An alarm rung in from Box 41, corner of Colman and Bank streets brought out the department and the fire was extinguished with chemicals. The blaze originated from sparks from a bonfire that had been started in the yard being blown to the roof of the structure.

The police are reasonably sure that the two fires early Sunday morning, within two hours of each other, were the work of an incendiary. Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh have been at work today investigating and it is the opinion of these officers that both fires were set, and they are absolutely sure that such was the case in the blaze that attacked the barn, which was the second fire. The officers have found that inflammable material had been ignited and that a large strip of carpet had been placed on the running board of an automobile stored in the building with the belief that this would cause the machine to be ignited and furnish added fuel for the flames. Burned matches were also found beneath an open window. The barn, which sheltered horses and a cow, as well as the automobile, is a delapidated structure, but is insured for $4,000, according to Barney Greenblatt, proprietor of the coal company. The officers also are certain that a man wearing a light coat and a cap was observed to leave the premises of the coal company Howard street residence five minutes prior to the discovery of the second blaze and an effort is being made now to fix the identity of the man.

It was also disclosed by the investigation officers that the rear door of the coal company property has not been secured in two years, it always having been a practice to have it left unfastened, for what reason it is not explained. This building was not insured.

It was also stated by Greenblatt that the barn had been a place that has been frequented by vagrants, who slept there, but that within a few weeks he had given orders that the use of the barn as a lodging place must end. Greenblatt is of the opinion that if the places were fired the arson was committed by some of the vagrants, deprived of their sleeping quarters.

Brainard Masonic lodge worked the master Mason degree in full form this evening with a large attendance of members and with many from lodges outside the city.

There was a private dance at the Crocker house this evening with a large attendance.

Samuel B. Storey, 73, died today at his home, 55 Truman street, after an illness of several months with heart trouble. Mr. Storey is survived by his wife, a step-son, Frank J. Johnson of Chestnut Hill, this state; a sister, Mrs. E. R. Neff, of Waterford, besides five nephews and a niece.

Mr. Storey was employed 18 years as oiler of the plant of the Connecticut Power company, Water street.

Mrs. Stuart Caufield and infant daughter, of Groton; Mrs. George Gilman, Huntington street, and Mrs. Winifred Mathieu, Ashaway, R. I., patients at Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

All the dance halls in the city and the ball rooms at the Hotel Mohican and Crocker house were thronged tonight with dancers in observance of St. Patrick's day. At the state armory, where the annual ball of the Ancient Order of Hibernians took place, over 1,000 dancers assembled.

George W. Meyer, one of the oldest members of W. W. Perkins Post, G. A. R., is serious ill at his home on Evergreen avenue. Mr. Myers is about 80.

Mrs. Marion W. Dean has returned to her home, 210 Huntington street, having spent several days with relatives in Boston and Nahant, Mass. At the latter place Mrs. Dean was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Alice Chester.

TWO RUM-BOATS CAPTURED—VIRGINIA FILLS AND SINKS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 17—Coast guard patrol boats captured two more rum runners in Long Island sound this morning. Although two craft were seized, but one was brought into port, as one of the liquor laden boats, the Virginia, hailing from Philadelphia and said to be owned by George Jeffrey, Pleasantville, N. J., went to the bottom while coast guard sailors were attempting to rescue the craft.

The other boat seized is the Three Links, Captain Robert Bloomberg, Greenport. She had a cargo of 400 cases of rye and Scotch whiskey when seized. The Three Links and her crew were brought into port by the CG-234 and this evening the master and crew, together with Captain Charles Lake of the Virginia and his crew were presented before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich at the customs house. Bloomberg and Lake were held in bail of $1,500 each and the crews, aggregating nine men, were held for hearing in bail of $500. Bail in each instance was furnished by a New York man, who reached here tonight at 6 o'clock. Both crews will be tried here the 25th inst.

The Virginia was captured a mile east of Hatchett's Point, near Niantic, this morning by a coast guard crew from Greenport, the Virginia being headed westward when seized and is believed to have been on her way to New Haven, following obtaining a cargo of whiskey and champagne from the rum supply fleet off Montauk Point. When captured, the Virginia was leaking badly and it became necessary to tie the sloop to Bartlett's Reef lightship to prevent the boat from sinking. Assistance was sent from this port in the CG-234, which had arrived here with the Three Links, and pumps were being used on the Virginia when she went to the bottom, a mile east of Bartlett's Reef. The only part of the cargo of the sunken craft saved was a solitary case of champagne and another of whiskey.

The Three Links was sighted by the crew of the CG-234 before daylight and a blank shot was fired, causing the rum-runner to come to a stop. When members of the crew boarded the craft and the hatches were lifted the nature of the cargo of the boat was revealed. Taking the Three Links in tow the destroyer reached port this forenoon and after tying up the motor craft at the United States Coast Guard pier, the destroyer started at once to the assistance of the Virginia for word had been received here of the sinking condition of the slopo. Hardly had the pumps been transferred from the destroyer to the rum runner and put in operation than the Virginia began to fill and a half hour later went to the bottom.

Capt. Bloomberg, according to coast guard officers, is an old offender against the prohibition law, for Bloomberg admited having been in the rum-trafficking two years and declared that the capture of the Three Links today was the first time that a boat of which he was master was ever taken. Bloomberg, it is understood, has taken an assumed name and his real name is not known to coast guard officers and not even to the members of his crew.

PUTNAM

Women Voters is planning an open meeting at the home of Mrs. Rollins, in Woodstock. Mrs. Hepburne is to speak on "Jury Service."

Putnam High School basketball team defeated Killingly High, of Danielson, on the local school floor Monday evening in the most exciting game of the season. Putnam had 18 points to Killingly's 17 and 16 of the victor's points were made by Charles Murphy, who has been playing big league ball all of the season.

The game furnished an abundance of thrills from the start, the score oscillating, first with one team in the lead, then the other, the visitors made the first points and were leading at the end of the first quarter. At the half, it was 13 to 12 in favor of Putnam. When the whistle blew, it was just after Murphy had changed what looked like a defeat for Putnam into a victory by a fast, brilliant play.

The Girls' team of Killingly was also defeated by the Putnam Girls' team, 24 to 6.

This was the last game of the season. The boys have won 10 of the 14 games played and the girls six out of eight.

E. B. KENT AND A. J. BYRNE IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 17.—Ernest B. Kent, president of the Putnam Savings bank, and Daniel J. Coach Imperial at the touring car price
$1595 f.o.b. Cleveland

A new success added to ten years of succeeding

Already it seems destined to be the most sought after Chandler in ten years of Chandler history.

It is the only closed car that combines at touring car price the luxury of Fisher body craftsmanship and the impressive Chandler performance.

It is the only Coach that offers the Pikes Peak Motor and the Traffic Transmission.

The durability of the Chandler chassis was proved at Culver City, Cal., February 4th, when a roadster covered one thousand miles in 689 minutes, an average of 86.96 miles per hour—the fastest 1000 miles ever made on wheels.

Chandler success is the just reward of ten years of sound method; ten years which today find Chandler selling the best car of its history, amply financed, strongly entrenched with a growing dealer organization, and basing growth on conservative policies that give due regard to new economic conditions prevailing in the industry.

The Masonic bearers were William A. Burk, Albert E. Barber, J. Henry Burk, Edward N. Burdick, Herbert P. Clark and Harold D. Livingstone.

While driving his motorcycle with sidecar late Monday night in what was reported to be an intoxicated condition, William Buck of Pawcatuck, overturned his machine on the highway on Canal street, above Stillmanville bridge. Residents of the vicinity hearing the crash thought the man badly injured and Sergeant Curtih and Patrolman George Madison were called to investigate. Later examination showed the rider more intoxicated, it was reported, than injured and he was held for disposition in the Third District court.

In the special session of Third district court before Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn, Jr., Buck was found guilty of operating a motorcycle under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $108.60.

Max Novogroski was a business caller in Boston Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton H. Hiscox of Oak Park, Ill., arrived in Westerly Monday afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hascox's father Tuesday.

JEWETT CITY

The vital statistics for Griswold on record at the office of Town Clerk John Welsh for February, show three deaths: Walter Berjewski, aged 33, tuberculosis; John B. Rogers, 63, asthma; Caroline La Point, 76, chronic nephritis.

There was one marriage, Isaac Perry and Amelia T. Morency, and there were seven births; Alexander Kovoloski, Harold David Geer, Stanley Wojitash, John Emelien Dufresne, Mary Eva Gingras, Joseph Chester Stafford, Bernard Edward Guillotte.

Miss Ida Edmond, who has been ill for six weeks at the home of her cousin, William Edmond, in Pachaug was removed to the Backus hospital Tuesday.

Tony LaFlamme's fine in the town court Monday was one dollar and costs, not one hundred.

Frank A. Rice, from the office of W. J. Stoddard, chief clerk of district number of the first division of the railway mail service with headquarters in Boston was in town Monday to examine the clerks in the local post office, on certain states in New England.

Knights of the Road, deserving Weary Willies are some times allowed to pass the night in police station cells. This accommodation is apt to happen only at such times as the traveling is too bad, to make the three mile hike to the town farm.

Sunday night the cells were all occupied by those who were constrained to fill pressing legal engagements Monday morning.

At a late hour, although crowded out of the main cabin, a quintette was allowed apartments in the port coal bunkers.

The janitor visiting the furnaces before closing up for the night, was much surprised to hear the economic and financial topics of the day being discussed with unction. The party decided where Dawes was to get off and relegated several filibustering senators to their proper station.

Plans have been completed for the the remodelling of the Polish corporation block, at the corner of Main street and Railroad avenue. Joseph Malek, president of the corporation, gives the information that the new Polish club soon to be organized, will have a number of fine apartments on the second floor.

It was erroneously reported that the changes would include a modern moving picture house. When the job is completed there will be no housekeeping tenants in the block.

Considerable money will be expended, and then the Polish club, the Bijou theatre, and a number of business interests will be housed in one of the finest blocks in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Killdeer have been reported as home from their wintering in Bermuda and northern South America. Once heard, the former's shrill plaintive cry, especially striking in the night, is never forgotten, and if he is not visible there is no mistaking that he is near. Few local bird-lovers nowadays ever see the Killdeer. Yet a sight at him is well worth a considerable journey, especially, when it is known that possibly the handsome chap one is admiring passed out of the Amazon forests a few evenings ago, and made the non-stop flight, with a certain picture of a certain Griswold back farm lot, plain before his vision. The Caribbean sea, the Gulf and the Atlantic coast line are nothing to him until he wings strong up the Quinebaug on the last lap of the long journey he is bound to make.

He will never visit the borough streets, but along in the middle of May a call at some of the farms in the south part of the town will reward one with a view, not a close-up, of his handsome self and his less strikingly clad spouse.

Simon Brewster never fails to locate a pair and has found their nests, containing four of their beautiful eggs, buffy white, beautifully spotted and scrawled with chocolate. The nest, a few bits of grass the only lining, is flat on the ground.

The following scores were shot by the members of the Voluntown Rifle club. George Lillibridge put up the best 10-shot score on the N. R. A. target for the Edmond medal, 93 out of a possible 100. Clarence Gaudette put up the best 50-shot score on the one-inch ring target—Clarence Gaudette 484 Dona Ballou 483, John Bradford 480, Lorenz Krauss 477, Earl Hiscox 472, Floyd Magrey 468, George Lillibridge 467. 50 shots at 25-yards, 1-4-inch target, John Kaufmann 97 99 97 99 98—490. 20 shots with a .38 Colt revolver: Charles B. Palmer 85-86; William H. Kaufmann 80-84.

The Ladies' Society of the Congregational church met at the home of Mrs. C. H. Jennings Tuesday afternoon, 22 being present. Plans were made for the conference of churches April 22nd, and also for a reception for the minister and his family April 24th. A food sale is to be held with Mrs. N. H. Parshurst in charge. After the business meeting at which the president, Mrs. E. A. Faust presided, the announced a short programme. Mrs. C. O. Wolf, although suffering from a very bad cold in her "daze" gave two very droll recitations. Irish folk songs were played and sung. The season's color of green were seen in ribbons, bows and napkins and the favors were pipes with shamrock decoration. Mrs. Jennings was assisted by Miss Jessie Knapp, Mrs. Walter Marshall, Mrs. E. A. Faust, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox and Miss Katherine McNamara.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Gardiner entertained a family party Sunday, including Mrs. George Gardiner, of Boston, Mrs. Charles Gardiner and Ella and Elbert Gardiner, of Sterling, Mrs. Herbert Austin and Mrs. Carrie Gardiner of Norwood, P. I., Miss Della Malloy of Preston, Muriel Austin of Brown university and Grace Gardiner of East Greenwich Academy.

SEVERAL NORWICH BILLS HEARD BY VARIOUS COMMITTEES TUESDAY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 17.—Norwich was well represented at the capitol today, attending the several matters of interest to the citizens of that city.

The greatest attraction was the hearing before the committee on incorporations which gave hearing on the bills concerning the sale of the municipal gas and electric plant. (A full report of the hearing appears on the last page.

Before the cities and boroughs committee the petition for the annexation of a part of the town of Preston to the town of Norwich was withdrawn as was the bill creating a third voting district in the town of Waterford. Other matters before this committee was a bill concerning the construction, repair and maintenance of school buildings, and an act concerning elections in the city of New London.

Fort Shantock Appropriation.

The appropriations committee held a hearing on the bill providing an appropriation of $15,000 for the purchase of land and to prepare the same at Fort Shantock on the Thames river for the purpose of a state park. Appearing in favor of the bill were Arthur L. Peale, J. J. O'Rourke, secretary of the chamber of commerce; Francis Gilman, Mrs. John D. Hall and Mrs. Fred T. Sayles.

The most spirited discussion of the session thus far, occurred in the house this morning. Dr. W. L. Higgins, chairman of the committee on public health and safety, that heard last week the bill that exempted from the provisions of the law concerning vaccination, all conscientious objecters. It was a unanimous report of the committee.

Representative Russell of Middletown objected to the acceptance of the report and moved that the report be laid upon the table and that the bill be printed in the journal. His motion on a viva-voci vote was declared lost. The vote was doubted and a standing vote was ordered and the motion was lost by a vote of 82 nay and 66 yeas. Mr. Hoyt of New Haven claimed that he had desired to speak on the motion and that he had not been recognized. On motion of Mr. Bell of Salisbury the vote was reconsidered and the report was discussed pro and con by several members of the house.

Dr. William T. Higgins, chairman of the committee closed the debate and moved the previous question. The report of his own matter was sustained by a decisive vote.

Sunday Amusement Bill

The judiciary committee was in session and had before them the Sunday amusement bill that would sanction Sunday baseball. Representative Sisson also spoke in support of the bill introduced by him that would forbid any amusement of an athletic character before 1 p. m. on Memorial day.

A motion on the calendar that was passed, repeals an act that repeals the law regarding the recording of covenants and liens for public purposes.

THE HOUSE

The house was called to order at 11.30 with Speaker Darbie in the chair. Prayer was offered by Rev. Arthur F. Lewis, house chaplain.

Unfavorable reports were received on several bills among which was H. B. 31, providing for the cost of repairing, paving and repair of highways where tracks are located.

H. B. 414. Providing for maintenance of additional bridges by railroads. H. B. 381. Providing for a corporation to take over the certain railway companies and to operate lines in Danbury.

H. B. 853, providing for regulation and type of plumbing in dwellings.

The committee on public health and safety reported unfavorably on H. B. 641 (a vaccination bill that exempted conscientious objectors from the law). Mr. Russell of Middletown moved that the bill be tabled and printed in the journal. A viva-voce vote was taken and the result announced was doubted and a count by tellers was demanded which resulted in the motion being lost by a vote of 88 nays and 66 yeas. Mr. Hoyt of New Haven complained that he had had no chance to speak on the report and on motion of Mr. Bell of Salisbury, the vote was reconsidered. Mr. Hoyt then spoke against the adoption of the committee's report. Judge Peck from Bristol, where the discussion on vaccination matters have waxed warm, supported the report of the committee. The report of the committee was supported by Dr. W. L. Higgins of Coventry and as chairman of the committee moved the previous question.

The vote was decisive in the rejection of the bill.

The reports of the tuberculosis commission, Connecticut state hospital and public health council were accepted and placed on file in the office of the secretary.

A communication from the governor, nominated John J. Walsh to be judge of the court of common pleas for Fairfield county, and of Eugene F. Farley and Sheridan T. Whitaker to be judges of the city court of New Haven.

Favorable reports were received on H. B. 636, providing that upon application of any interested party the probate court for district wherein it is alleged decedent was domiciled shall determine the domicile of said decent; H. B. 101, providing payment to town of Mansfield of $1,430.53 for transportation of school children; H. B. 109, providing for an extension of time for the organization of Rosemary Hall, Incorporated, H. B. 511, amending the charter of the city of Waterbury; H. B. 176, providing a pension of $70 per month in recognition of services of Cornelia B. Smith as assistant clerk of the superior court of Litchfield county; H. B. 426, providing that incorporated school districts may establish public libraries.

The house concurred with the senate bills that came to the house today on their rejection or adoption.

Bills taken from the calendar and passed were: Substitute for H. B. No. 51, an act making an appropriation for the state board of fisheries and game, favorable report of the committee on appropriations; H. B. No. 76, an act amending an act concerning permits required for kindling fire, favorable report of the committee on agriculture; substitute for H. B. No. 358, an act concerning storage of moving picture film, favorable report of the committee on the judiciary; substitute for H. B. No. 65, an act concerning payment of negotiable instruments after one year after date, favorable report of the committee on banks; S. B. No. 546, an act making an appropriation for Connecticut State Hospital, favorable report of the committee on appropriations.

The house adjourned at 1.01 till Wednesday at 11.30.

SENATE

Chaplain Lewis, the chaplain of the house, offered prayer in the senate today. He made an appreciative reference in his prayer to the missionary work of St. Patrick in Ireland.

The committee on public health and safety has postponed until March 26 the hearing on the bill introduced by Senator Wilder concerning hair dressers, etc. The bill had been scheduled for a hearing on Wednesday of this week.

In explaining the unfavorable report of the committee on the judiciary on the house bill amending the workmen's compensation law Senator Croning said the committee would report a substitute bill. The report was accepted and the bill rejected in concurrence with the house.

On the recommendation of the committee on incorporations the senate referred the bill No. 414 concerning the taxation of stock to the committee on finance.

Favorable reports were received from the committee on incorporations on the bill incorporating the Borah Electric company. Another bill extends to 1927 the time when the company may exercise its rights granted under its charter of 1921. Calendar.

The committee on incorporations reported favorably on the bill authorizing to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding the amount of its capital stock. Calendar.

Vaccination Bills

The committee on public health and safety reported unfavorably on senate bill No. 205 concerning discriminations against persons not vaccinated or otherwise inoculated, and on senate bill No. 512 concerning the guaranty of vaccine, serum or antitoxin. The reports were accepted and the bills rejected.

Sent Back to Committee

On motion of Senator Challenger the bill concerning limitation on the starting of private banks was recommitted to the committee on banks.

Passed from calendar: Repealing chapter 302 of the public acts of 1919 concerning damage done to highways and bridges by motor vehicles; authorizing the city of New London to use the proceeds of bonds issued in 1919 for the building of schools; authorizing Frank B. Williamson to construct sea walls; repealing acts passed at the sessions of 1909 and 1911 dividing the town of Harwinton into voting districts; authorizing the Odd Fellows' association of Hartford to hold property to the amount of $500,000.

The senate adjourned to Wednesday, March 18.

[IT IS BETTER TO BE SAFE WITH ONE SOAP THAN WORRIED WITH FIVE]

Purity and safety in soap are as good for clothes as for complexions

Do you really believe that pure soap should be used only for toilet and bath, and that humbler tasks must be done with harsher soaps?

If harsh soaps hurt your hands, do they not also hurt your clothes, and the other things you clean?

If only for the sake of your hands, purity and safety are as important in the soap you use for household tasks as they are in a soap for toilet and bath.

Lotions and creams can soothe, but never prevent the cruelties of hours of cleaning and washing with harsh soaps. Whereas, if you use Ivory for everything, you are as merciful to your hands as if you merely washed them in Ivory and lukewarm water so many times a day—which of course can do them no injury.

And even the sturdiest and heaviest household linens respond gratefully to purity like Ivory's—not only are they clean, but they never smell "soapy" and they wear ever so much longer.

So though you may have thought Ivory too pure and too good to use for ordinary household tasks, you will really find it in the end such thorough economy that, like many women, you will probably never use anything else!

It pays to give everything you wash the protection you ordinarily give only to finer things.

What more could you ask of soap than Ivory can give for any purpose? Why bother with a different soap for each of the half-dozen soap-and-water tasks in your home, when Ivory can do them all so well?

A conclusive safety test for garment soaps

IT is easy to determine whether or not a soap is gentle enough to be used for delicate garments.

Simply ask yourself this question:

"Would I use this soap on my face?"

In the case of Ivory and Ivory Flakes your answer is instantly "Yes," because you know that for forty-five years women have protected lovely complexions by the use of Ivory Soap.

Here is a fine, simple treatment for your complexion

WASH your face once or twice daily with warm water and Ivory Soap. Rinse in warm water and follow with a dash of cold. Dry thoroughly by patting with a soft towel. If your skin needs it, rub in a little pure cold cream. Guest Ivory, the dainty new cake of Ivory made especially for face and hands, costs but 5 cents.

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, March 17—Renewal of selling pressure by bear traders and heavy liquidation of weakly margined long accounts, coincident with another sharp break in wheat prices, unsettled today's stock market. Most of the standard industrials and railroad issues broke 1 to 4 points, with larger losses registered by some of the so-called specialties. Total sales crossed the two million share mark for the first time since Feb. 17, while the average of twenty leading railroad shares established a new low record for the year.

Wall street has found no lack of "excuses" for the recent selling. The break in wheat futures undoubtedly has compelled the liquidation of a large volume of stocks owned by speculators who trade in both markets. Several market observers see in the senate's defeat of the Warren nomination a rift in the relations between the chief executive and congress which they consider is likely to upset other administration plans and have an adverse effect on business. The pace of spring trade revival also has been a disappointment in some quarters, and has been reflected in the market value of shares for which high hopes were held a few months ago. The high total of brokers' loans and the apparent inability of pools to attract a public following at the recent high levels also have been factors in the recent selling of stocks.

Although the railroad average was at a new low, these stocks did not react as the industrials in today's market. In fact, it was the buying of the rail issues which temporarily checked the decline around midday. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico was a strong feature, closing four points higher at 119 after having sold as high as 120 3-8. Norfolk and Western advanced more than two points to 133 3-4 in further reflection of reports that negotiations for its lease the Pennsylvania were to be reopened but it cancelled most of its gain in the late wave of selling.

Jersey Central broke ten points to 220 on one sale. St. Paul preferred touched a new record low at 13 1-3 and the common duplicated its low of 7 1-2 but both closed fractionally higher on the day. Among the many rails to fall back a point or more were New York Central, Atchison, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, "Katy" common and preferred, Frisco preferred, Chicago and Eastern Illinois common and preferred and Chicago, Great Western preferred.

Selling pressure in the industrial list was particularly aggressive against the so-called Durant stocks. United States cast iron pipe, which attained a record top of 250 five weeks ago, broke eight points to 200; Independent oil and gas broke more than 7 points to 20 1-2 and then rallied to 21 1-2, an extreme decline of nearly nine points in two days. American safety razor fell back 3 1-2 points to 49 1-2. Baldwin, in which Mr. Durant was also reported to be operating a few weeks ago, closed 2 3-8 lower at 95 3-8, as compared with its high of the last month.

United States Steel common dropped 1 5-8 to 120, a new low on the movement and only one quarter above the low for the year. Heavy selling of American can just before the close sent that stock down nearly seven points to 169 5-8. American car and foundry, Colorado fuel, the Commercial solvents issues, General asphalt preferred, McCrory stores, Nash motors, Stewart Warner speedometer, Virginia railway and power, West Penn. power and Worthington pump showed net declines of 4 to 8 points.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, and then dropped to 3 1-2, where it closed. The time money and commercial paper markets were dull with no change in rates.

Foreign exchange rates were irregular. Demand sterling ruled slightly lower around $4.77 1-2 while French francs were moderately higher around 4.. Japanese yen were slightly reactionary, dropping about 3-8 of a cent, to 41 1-2 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 17.—The shadow of the St. Paul Railway's financial difficulties again hung over today's bond market, renewed liquidation of many of the road's obligations forcing them down to record low levels and unsettling the rest of the list. Selling pressure slackened somewhat in the late trading but the market was unable to shake off the uneasiness which was intensified by the collapse of stock and grain prices. No new surface developments appeared in the St. Paul situation, but rumors persisted that owners of the road's securities were preparing for any pressures of reorganization which might be formulated. Declines of 1 to 2 points carried four of the St. Paul issues to the lowest prices in their history. Supporting orders for the stocks, however, later brought about moderate recoveries from the extreme lows touched by the bonds.

Other railroad and industrial liens yielded readily to selling pressure. Frisco income 6s dropped two points and declines of a point or so were registered by a variety of others, including New York Central 6s, Erie General 4s, New York Westchester and Boston 4 1-2s and Chicago and Terre Haute refunding 5s.

Reports that heavier oil drilling campaigns were forcing reductions in some grades of crude oil contributed to the heaviness of the Petroleum company issues. Sugar and Copper company bonds also eased off, but the Wilson and company liens developed independent strength.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $5,000,000 Cuyamel Fruit company 15 year 6 per cent bonds at 99 to yield about 6.10 per cent. Today's offerings led by the $15,000,000 issues of Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power 5 per cent bonds were promptly subscribed.

CURB MARKET

New York, March 17—Stock prices today crumbled sharply in all sections of the curb market, which showed a sympathetic response to the severe reaction on the "big board." Recessions of 1 to 6 points were scattered throughout the list, with the oil shares hardest hit by the wave of selling.

Heavy selling of electric bond and share and middle west utilities featured dealings in the public utility group. The former dropped 2 points to 57 3-4 and middle west shares declined 2 1-2 points to 98. Losses of a point or more were recorded by American light & traction common, Commonwealth power and Lehigh power securities.

Weakness of Hazeltine, which broke five points from yesterday's high to 15 1-2 and then rallied to 17 3-4 was the only outstanding development in the radio list. Other radio shares held relatively steady.

Prairie pipe line was a conspicuous weak spot among the oil shares, breaking ten points to 109 and closing six points net lower at 113, while Prairie oil & gas fell back 1 3-4 points. South Pennsylvania oil slumped five points and losses of 1 to 2 points included Standard oil of Ohio, Solar refining, International petroleum, Magnolia petroleum and Cities service.

Kelvinator dropped nearly three points to 20 1-2, or more than ten points below its recent high, and then rallied a point from the low.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 17.—In excited trading seldom equalled, the wheat market slid 11 cents down in a straight line today, and later fell 3 cents beyond. The sensational drop in prices yesterday and today totaled 21 3-4 cents a bushel, and apparently marked the surrender of big speculators who have been battling to hoist wheat above $2.00 a bushel. Huge selling selling, asserted to include much of the heaviest individual holdings in the market, accompanied today's break in values.

The close for wheat was notably unsettled, 5c to 12c under yesterday's finish, May 153@153 1-2 and July 139 1-4. Corn and oats each showed a net loss of 2 1-8 to 3c. Provisions closed at 10c advance.

Boston prices touched today by the wheat market represented a drop of 51c in 15 days, and were 54 7-8 under the season's top record, 205 7-8 on January 28. Aside from the wholesale efforts of wheat owners to put a stop to losses, the trade here was affected by a great volume of speculative selling, especially when rallies took place, and by demoralized foreign markets. Heavy arrivals of wheat at European ports and predictions that large shipments from surplus countries would continue for two months or more tended further drag down values.

Reports that banks had brought pressure to bear on holders of wheat in storage who were unprotected by contracts of sale for May delivery or otherwise were also current, and this circumstance put a further weight on the market.

Corn, oats and rye gave away in sympathy with wheat, rye at one time showed 14c a bushel drop, corn nearly 5c and oats about 4c.

Provisions at first exhibited depressing effects from the smashing grain values, but later advanced owing to high prices on hogs.

AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY

THE ROYAL PURPLE

For many centuries dyeing fabrics was a closely guarded secret and in ancient days crimson and purple were used only for kings. During the Great War America mastered the art so that she no longer need be dependent upon European manufacturers.

And in the development of dye-manufacture, the American Woolen Company contributed a large share.

DARIEN PEN TAKES FIRST PLACE AT STORRS

Connecticut pens went over strong in the nineteenth week of the Storrs laying contest. Keewaydin Farm's pen of Barred Rocks from Darien grabbed first place with a score of 55 eggs. Payne's Giant Reds from Brooklyn, Conn., was second high pen for the week with a total of 52 eggs. Two other pens of Reds took third and fourth places. D. H. Horton's birds from Farmingdale, L. I., came through with 51 eggs for the week and F. S. Chapin of Longmeadow, Mass., made 49 eggs for a total. Thus the Rocks and Reds made a clean sweep. The Leghorns as a class dropped in production during the week from thirty-seven to only a little over thirty-one per cent. and since Leghorns are the largest class in the contest their performance pulled down the general average.

The total production for all pens was 3867 or a yield of slightly less than forty per cent. Reduction in the number of eggs laid at this time of year is entirely unseasonable, as the curve of production should be going up and not down. This unexpected showing cannot be accounted for by the Leghorns being out of condition. The fact is their health as a class is above the average. The explanation probably dates back to early winter when the birds are believed to have been fed too much grain and too little mash. In addition, the management of the Leghorns has been slightly different in that there have been no straw lofts in their coops as for the past several years.

During the next two weeks or about the end of March the use of electric lights at night will be discontinued but in view of considerably longer daylight hours this change should not affect egg production adversely.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

vs.
The Uncas Paper Board Co.
Superior Court
New London County
March 14th, 1925
In re application for appointment of a temporary receiver.
Order Appointing Temporary Receiver
The application of the plaintiffs in the above entitled action brought to the Superior Court to be held within and for New London County on the First Tuesday of April, 1925, which application is dated the 13th day of March, 1925, having been presented to the undersigned, it is found that the defendant corporation has actual knowledge of the pendency of said action against it for the appointment of a receiver and of this application for the appointment of a temporary receiver; and that the allegations of said application are true and that a temporary receiver ought to be appointed forthwith.
Now Therefore, It is Ordered
1. That Frank W. Browning of the Town of Montville be and he is hereby appointed temporary receiver of the said The Uncas Paper Board Company.
2. That said appointment shall not take effect until said Browning shall have filed with the clerk of this court a bond in proper form with good and sufficient surety in the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars, conditioned on the faithful performance of his duties under said appointment and in the event that he shall at any time or times hereafter be confirmed or appointed in said action either as temporary or permanent receiver, his faithful performance of his duties as such receiver, and said bond, shall have been approved by this court.
3. That said Browning immediately upon the taking effect of his said appointment shall proceed to take possession of all the books, papers, evidences of debt and property of said corporation, to collect all monies owing to it, and to take all lawful steps within his power to secure and preserve its assets.
4. That said receiver continue to carry on, in such manner as he may deem judicious, the business now conducted by said corporation until otherwise ordered, but no longer than for one month from this date, and to that end he is authorized to make such contracts, purchases and disbursements as may be necessary.
5. That a hearing upon the confirmation of said appointment, and for the appointment of two appraisers, be had before the undersigned at a session of this court to be held in the Superior Court Room in New London on the 27th day of March, 1925, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that said temporary receiver give notice of his appointment, and of said hearing to all parties in interest, by publishing a copy of this order in the Norwich Bulletin twice, and by mailing a like copy, postage prepaid, to each stockholder of record and known creditor of said corporation at their several last obtainable addresses, all on or before the 18th day of March, 1925.
ALLYN L. BROWN
A Judge of the Superior Court
The foregoing is a true copy of the original order appointing a temporary receiver, etc., of The Uncas Paper Board Company.
Attest: FRANK W. BROWNING,
Temporary Receiver, The Uncas Paper Board Co.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

TAFTVILLE

James Addison and William Woods of the Ponemah House and George Fontaine of North B street visited Westerly on Sunday going in Mr. Robinson's car.

Louis Medits entertained at cards Monday evening at his home on Occum road, the affair being one of a series of meets for playing between the married men and single men of the neighborhood. The married men were the victors. After the playing, refreshments of sandwiches, cake, pie, cocoa and cigars were served by Mrs. Medits and Mrs. Katherine Wohlleben, and Joseph Medits favored with several violin solos.

Walter B. Hedges of Middletown was a caller on friends in the village Tuesday.

Vernon Stinson of Westerly, R. I., has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stinson of Bolduc Lane.

Hermindas Gladue who has been confined to the house with an attack of the grippe, is able to return to his work.

Miss Theresa Lippi has resigned her position with the spooling department of the Ponemah company.

PRAISED WOMAN PASTOR OF FRANKLIN CONG. CHURCH

The Moosup Journal says: The pulpit of Central Village Congregational church was supplied Sunday, March 8, by Dr. English from the Congregational House in Hartford. The sermon included concrete illustrations of what other churches in need of a pastor had done, the type of ministers needed for certain parishes, etc.

Following the service Dr. English met with the church committees and further considered the pastor problem. He cited the particularly striking case of the Rev. Emily Tate now of Franklin, Conn., who has done such remarkable work in that church. She was left with a husband in poor health and after meeting the district ministerial committee was authorized to preach. Later, in the summer of 1924, she again went before the New London District Ministers Association, this time for ordination. It is significant that on neither occasion did any of the examiners see fit to question her in any way, whatever, so convincing was her story. Dr. English further told of the large number received into the church of which Mrs. Tate is now pastor and characterized her as an expert in church work.

St. Patrick's Party

A St. Patrick's party was given at the home of Andrew J. Connell Saturday afternoon from two until four o'clock in honor of his seventh birthday. Sixteen little friends were present and music and games were enjoyed. Piano and violin selections were rendered and refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Connell and Mrs. William McGuire.

Will Sing At St. Andrews

The choir of St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox church will sing at the evening service at St. Andrew's church next Sunday evening at 7:30.

If Food Causes Stomach Trouble

Belching, Gassiness, Heartburn, Sour Stomach or Such Distresses Follow Meals be Sure to Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A good appetite for the savory dishes, come what may, or as they say, "from soup to nuts," is one of life's chief enjoyments. Then, on the other hand, stomach distress afterward is one of life's chief disappointments. To enjoy eating and feel perfectly safe one should follow meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They aid digestion, they stop sour fermentation, they take up the sour risings and gassiness, they sweeten the stomach by giving it the alkaline effect and they also stimulate secretions in the stomach and intestines.

Then, whether you eat pork and beans, sausages and buckwheat cakes, mince pie and cheese, or the foods that most people complain of making the stomach uneasy and sour, you experience that happy state of enjoyable, solid comfort.

Get a 50 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at the drug store. Then eat heartily of all the good things of the table. It is surely the best road to contented good health.

ASKS MAYOR QUESTIONS AT HEARING ON GAS & ELECTRIC CHARTER BILLS

In a hearing that lasted from 3.15 to 4 Tuesday afternoon in the house at Hartford, the legislative committee on incorporations heard arguments made in favor of granting charters to several companies that would give them the right to buy the Norwich municipal gas and electric department, opposed to which there was a vigorous appearance on the part of Norwich citizens who asked that no such charters be granted.

After the hearing had progressed a ways, Senator Anderson, chairman of the committee, who presided, seemed principally concerned to find out how the proposition to sell the city plant arose and he pointedly asked Mayor Mile R. Waters if he did not think the city officials were going at the matter the wrong way around in asking a referendum now to find out if the people wanted to sell out their gas and electric plant. He asked if the referendum ought not to have been taken first before entering into negotiations with any one who wanted to buy the property.

Mayor Waters' response was that a referendum could not be taken without permission from the legislature, and he declared his position was in opposition to selling but in favor of submitting the question to a referendum vote. If the legislature should grant permission for the referendum, he declared that he would probably be out fighting against making the sale.

Over thirty Norwich citizens were on hand for the hearings, which were opened on the petitions of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co., the old Norwich Gas and Electric Co., from which the city bought its plant twenty years ago, and the Thames Power company. H. M. Whiting of Branford appeared on behalf of all three. Speaking particularly of the old Norwich company, he said that this is still in existence and has never been relieved of its mortgage liability under the bonds. I am not in favor of municipal ownership, said Mr. Whiting, but I do not think it fair to coerce a municipality to sell. If it be the intention of the legislature to afford the municipality an opportunity to sell, no bidder ought to be treated any better than any other. We ought not to go outside the state to find a purchaser, but if there is any favor to be shown it ought to be towards the company from which the property was originally derived.

Mr. Whiting offered a substitute bill which particularly defined the territorial limits of the Rockville-Willimantic company, such as now exist but gives them no new rights. As to the Thames Power Co. bill, Mr. Whiting had nothing to say, but said he did not withdraw it.

Attorney E. D. Day of New Haven, appearing for the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. said they had no objection to Rockville-Willimantic bill.

Fitkin Co. Bill Hearing.

The next hearing was on the bill of A. E. Fitkin & Co. of New York, on behalf of which Attorneys Samuel C. Morehouse of New Haven and J. J. Desmond of this city appeared.

Mr. Morehouse said that Fitkin & Co. were a large financial institution in New York city that had the backing of big electrical interests. Their attention had been called to the apparent desire of Norwich to sell its gas and electric plant, in consequence of which they had made an offer of $3,000,000 and other offers had been made by others. The common council of the city of Norwich favored laying the matter before the voters in a referendum and as the Fitkin offer is the largest they come asking a charter so that they can buy in case the people vote in favor of accepting the offer. After the Fitkin offer, said Mr. Morehouse, all the disappointed bidders got together and there was a "packed" city meeting on Jan. 26, 1925, at which a vote was taken. It was a close vote and at first the chair was in doubt but when the vote was taken again the motion was declared carried enjoining the mayor and the common council from entertaining any further steps unless authorized by vote of the electors. It is this vote which is asked for by the referendum. Nothing could be fairer than to leave the whole matter to the citizens.

"Suppose the city should vote 'No'" questioned Attorney Edwin W. Higgins who appeared for those opposing the granting of the charters, "what would happen then."

"That would be the end of it," replied Mr. Morehouse, "our charter would be of no effect. We merely want the opportunity to buy if the city votes to sell."

There has been no opportunity yet for the people to express their views on the question, said Attorney Desmond in opening his remarks. The governing body of the municipality had joined in the Fitkin petition because it is the highest offer. Fitkin has never suggested to the general assembly that it enact any legislation contrary to the will of the people of Norwich. Nobody knows which way the majority of the people will vote. Naturally the citizens will vote for the best interests of the city, and it is to be hoped they will do so. Up to now there has been no free opportunity for the people to express their will, but if an opportunity is given the people can not complain of the result. There can be no harm in the submitting of the question to the people.

In closing Mr. Desmond stated his belief that there are many in favor of selling the municipal plant.

Chairman Asks Questions.

At this point Senator Anderson asked Mayor Waters how it all started.

Mayor Waters responded that the Eastern Connecticut Power company had been trying for years, without success, to lease power to the city and also made an offer of about $1,500,000 to buy. The Fitkin offer followed this.

"Don't you think before you negotiated you ought to have put it up to the people?" queried Senator Anderson.

"We never solicited bids," responded the mayor. "I am opposed to selling and every member of the council committee is opposed, but in view of the large offer I believe we ought to put it up to a referendum vote. If it does come to a vote I believe it will be downed 2 or 3 to 1. There were less than 1,000 at that city meeting. I couldn't decide how the vote stood at first and had to call for a vote again."

"Don't you think the proper proceedings would have been to hold the referendum first?" was another question from Senator Anderson.

"We have no authority to put it up to the people or to sell without legislative act," the mayor replied.

"What rate is charged in Norwich for electricity?"

"The state average is 10.2¢" responded the mayor. Our rate is 10 cents, and our plant is making a net profit of $150,000 yearly. It has a book value of about $1,700,000, but its real value is about $2,250,000. I have been so advised by two of the biggest electrical engineers."

Does Fitkin Exclude?

Representative George G. Engler of this city asked if the amended bill presented by the Fitkin interests excluded any others from purchasing or shut off any further negotiations.

Attorney Morehouse answered that it did not.

Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., suggested that there might be a general act passed permitting anyone to buy. He said he didn't see how the citizens could vote on the matter unless they knew the terms that were offered.

Eastern Connecticut Power Withdraws.

At this point Robert W. Perkins, president of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, arose and said they withdrew their bill which was one of those for a hearing.

Opposition is Heard.

This closed the case in favor of the bills and Attorney Higgins opened the arguments for opposition by calling to the statute under which the city of Norwich is operating its gas and electric department which is entrusted to a board of commissioners. It is strange, he said, that no action has been taken by the commissioners. They are absolutely silent though some are in the room. The vote in the common council was 7 for and 5 against the proposition that is now under discussion. It cannot be said that the city meeting when the enjoining vote was passed was not representative.

Mr. Higgins sketched the progress of the offers for the city gas and electric plant, first about $1,700,000 from the Eastern Connecticut Power company, then $2,000,000 from Bodell & Co., and then $3,000,000 from Fitkin. He said he did not think the citizens would be willing to have the council work out the details of the disposition of this $3,000,000. City bonds had been issued on the basis of this gas and electric property as a city asset and it would be necessary to retain this sum to protect the bonds. No wonder the bids went up, for in ten years the gross receipts of the gas and electric department had increased from $148,000 to $664,0000.

D. T. Shea Speaks.

D. T. Shea, a former president of the gas and electrical commissioners for ten years, was the next to speak in opposition.

First of all I want it understood that I have no ax to grind, said Mr. Shea. I never have had nor do I expect any more out of our plant than any other taxpayer or consumer. But, having served ten years on its board, I know something about what has been going on during that time, and can say that this is not the first attempt made by outside interests to get a foothold on our territory or a slice of our franchise. I know, and have known for some time, that the rank and file of Norwich citizens do not want to sell their plant. There may be a few who have an ax to grind—a few others who have been pumped so full of tainted propaganda for the past 20 years, that they do not seem to appreciate the fact that during the ten years ending in 1923 our gross annual receipts had gone from $148,000 to $664,000, a gain of 344 per cent, while our bonded indebtedness had increased only 11 per cent—nor that our plant is furnishing us gas and electricity cheaper than the average city in Connecticut. At the same time our plant is earning 6 per cent on over $3,000,000. Some of our people do not know this but outside capitalists do. That is why so many are after it. It is a very good thing! And if it is a good thing for them, it is a good thing for us.

As I intimated in the beginning, I have no interest other than the common good of all. 'Tis true for ten years I labored without compensation with other members of the commission, together with an expert engineer, and a competent manager, and succeeded in bringing our plant out of the mire and onto a good paying basis. Please do not render fruitless the labor of these years by depriving our people of the benefits to be derived from our rebuilt and modernized plant. And permit capitalists who have been on the outside looking in, coveting our plant for the last decade, to enjoy the fruits of our hard labor.

Now I beg of you, in the name of the rank and file of Norwich citizens, to recognize the vote of our citizens at our last city meeting, and reject this or any other charter which may be presented that would in any way conflict with our plant in Norwich, as we have proved that we can run a plant successfully, and much prefer to keep the whip in our own hand than to be under the whip and spur of foreign capital and absentee landlords.

Catching sight of James L. Case, president of the gas and electric commission, sitting across in another section of seats in the house, Mr. Shea asked him to tell what he (Shea) had told him in the bank in June, but Mr. Case responded that Mr. Shea had better make his own statements.

Wants All Bills Cast Aside.

Former Mayor T. C. Murphy was next presented by Attorney Higgins. The ex-mayor said that Norwich was living under a charter and in all his experience in city government he had never known anything like this being brought before the legislature. If a city meeting isn't legal, what is? That city meeting voted to withdraw all bills. The citizens don't want the municipal gas and electric plant to be tossed around as a football at auction. Mr. Murphy concluded by saying that he thought all these bills ought to be withdrawn.

C. Royce Boss stated that he was opposed to the Fitkin proposition in the form in which it was put because it is the linking of the buyer with a municipality to make the sale, which practically amounts to making a private sale. It should be handled in a more orderly manner and put up to bids just as would be done in the case of a bond issue. He thought the petitioners ought to be given leave to withdraw.

Attorney Higgins put the question to Mr. Boss, whether he as a salesman and dealer in bonds could conceive of a difficulty arising in regard to holders of other city bonds because of the sale of the gas and electric plant.

Quite possibly, Mr. Boss replied. It would depend upon the representations made in regard to the bonds, and the city assets.

Not Sidestepping.

President Case of the board of gas and electric commissioners took the floor, making an explanation of the negotiations that had taken place. Prior to 1923, he said, there had been three offers from the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. to sell electricity to the city which had been declined. Subsequently the general managers of the power company and of the city plant were in further conference on the sale of power in the course of which the proposition of sale arose and in consequence of which the Eastern Power Co.'s offer was made.

Mr. Case said that the commissioners understood their duties were "to manufacture, sell and distribute gas and electricity." Accordingly when the proposition for sale came up, they notified the power company officials that the commissioners had no power to consider the sale proposition, but suggested the power company officials submit the proposition to the common council. The mayor and common council had requested from the commissioners an opinion on the offer of the power company and such an opinion had been give by the commissioners with the result that the offer was declined because the price was too small.

The commissioners have not attempted to sidestep any responsibility, Mr. Case said. Particularly during the last five years has the operation of the plant been profitable.

Senator Anderson asked if it was considered that the limit of business had been reached for the Norwich plant. Mr. Case referred the question to General Manager C. W. Taggart who replied that it had not. The last year's gross business was $700,000 and he had set a mark of $1,000,000 for the future.

Attorney Day, on behalf of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., opposed the Fitkin substitute bill for a charter for a corporation to be called the Public Service Co. of Connecticut. He claimed the territory named for this company encroached upon territory of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co.

I doubt if you are prepared to bring into Connecticut, said Mr. Day, interests that are more concerned in developing securities than power. That kind of thing is not good for Connecticut. It is a dangerous proposition under this Fitkin request for a charter.

Mayor Waters' Position.

Mayor Waters stated that he wanted to make his position clear before the legislative committee. He was in favor of the referendum but he did not want to be on record as favoring the Fitkin bill.

In reply to D. T. Shea's question whether any one of those asking charters can promise better rates, President Perkins of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. responded that their proposition showed a saving to the city of $55,000 which could be converted into a reduction in rates. The power company could sell to the city for $120,000 what it cost the city $196,000 to make.

Mr. Shea remarked that one reason why the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. would like to sell to the city was because they would like to get out from under an eight year contract of the Uncas Power Co. for 1 cent per kilowatt hour, to which Mr. Perkins replied that their proposition had been for a renewal of this contract on the same terms. He also said that nobody had mentioned that with the offer of $1,692,000 was coupled a 20 per cent. reduction in rates which would amount to $94,000 to the users of electricity.

Alexander H. Manes referred to a petition signed by a number of Norwich citizens asking that no franchise be granted to any company. Let the citizens first vote, he said, and he argued that the "enjoining" vote of the meeting of Jan. 26 was just as valid as the vote in the same meeting by which deeds to property were given.

William Fitzgerald was the next speaker, saying that he represented the ordinary working citizen, many of whom were not able to attend the hearing but felt the same as he did. He said he hoped that until the people voted the legislative would do what the people wanted them to do in stopping the negotiations.

Attorney S. S. Russell, who appeared with Frank B. Ricketson representing the Ponemah company of Taftville, said they opposed the Fitkin charter because of its encroachments upon some of the Ponemah company rights as to supplying electricity, but Attorney Morehouse denied that this was so.

Attacks the Mayor.

G. Warren Davis stated that he was opposed to all these bills for charters. He read the "enjoining" resolution passed in the meeting of Jan. 26 and asked in view of that what the mayor and city clerk were doing at this hearing. They have wilfully put themselves in opposition to this vote of a city meeting and they are out of court. The city, he declared, wants to continue the production of power and doesn't want any education from the Fitkin company, or to have the noose drawn around the necks of the citizens. They talk in velvet tones and sweet words now, but should they once get what they are after we will be in a state of slavery.

Mayor Waters defended himself and City Clerk Weston C. Pullen by answering that they were at the hearing by direction of the common council.

Arthur M. Allen, for the Baltic Mills company, said they were concerned because of their rights in the town of Sprague and Attorney Desmond said the Fitkin people had no intention of trespassing on the rights of others.

Incorporations Committee.

The incorporations committee conducting the hearing comprises Senators Anderson (chairman), Griffin, House Chairman, Mr. Williamson, Darien; clerk, Mrs. Nevins, New Fairfield; Messrs. Hodge, Orange; Wells, Southington; Hall, Hamden; Bevin, East Hampton; Kirby, Sharon; Salisbury, Plainfield; Morris, Newtown; Lewis, North Stonington; Cooley, Stafford.

Among those from Norwich attending the hearing were Mayor Waters, City Clerk Pullen, Alderman Henry Gebrath, C. W. Taggart, James L. Case, W. H. Shields, Jr., J. J. Desmond, William Fitzgerald, D. T. Shea, A. H. Manes, P. F. Sweeney, Willis Austin, Representatives George G. Engler and Charles W. Cassidy, C. Royce Boss, Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook, Selectman William S. POETRY

The First Blue-Bird

This morn a blue-bird's strain I caught;
'Twas sweet and clear and true,
And full of pride, as if he'd brought
Spring on his wings of blue.
I spied the bough on which he trilled
O'er crocused knoll below,
And seemed to me the note he trilled
Had turned to flowers below.

And then I thought of apple-blooms
Mid which he'd build his nest,
Lumned him a-flit mid lilac plumes,
Or on the meadow's breast;
And then—said then a flood of flowers
Went rushing through my brain,
And vistas gay of summer bowers
Till joy was nigh a pain.

Sing on, sing on, O Bird of Blue,
I thrill with every note;
Not heaven's harps can ever strew
Such rapture as thy throat.
The Nightingale his skill may ply
Beyond the ocean spray,
His storied song can never vie
With thine I hear today.

The cattle are grazing,
Their heads never raising;
There are forty feeding like one!

Like an army defeated
The snow hath retreated,
And now doth Farc ill

Small clouds are sailing,
Blue sky prevailing;
The rain is over and gone.

Buildings may be rendered secure against the ravages of the wood-eating termite, or white ant, by a method described by Professor S. F. Light, of the University of Amoy, says a report from Hong-Kong, China. Professor Light's method depends on the fact that some termites require constant access to the earth to carry on their operations, either through galleries which they bore through the wood or through covered ways which they construct over the faces of brick or stone foundations. He simply cuts all chance for this communication by inserting a sheet of galvanized iron, or "termite shield" as he calls it, into the masonry and turning the projecting edges downward at an angle. A variation of the method, which he states has been used in Africa, consists in placing metal caps over the tops of construction pilings.

MORE THAN 1,000 PERSONS WERE KILLED BY TORNADO IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

The Breakers Hotel and the Palm Beach Were Wiped Out—Guests Were Compelled to Flee Without Thought of Saving Their Possessions—A Number of Cottages Were Consumed by the Flames—Property Loss is Estimated Between $4,000,00 and $5,00,000—Martial Law Has Been Put Into Effect to Prevent Looting.

Chicago, March 18. (By the A. P.)—More than 1,000 persons are reported killed and more than 5,000 injured by a tornado which swept through southern Illinois and Indiana late today, causing great property damage and virtually wiping out two or three towns in its path, from Missouri to the northeast. Wires were down in every direction under the fury of the wind and it was impossible tonight to check the reported casualties.

Darkness descended over the desolated area shortly after the wind had twisted its way to the northeast and the streets of the demolished towns were filled with frantic inhabitants clambering over the piles of wreckage seeking missing friends and relatives. From the recesses of the jumbled timbers came the cries of injured persons, who were pinned beneath the wreckage, while the bodies of the dead could be seen far down in the debris from whence it was impossible to extricate them.

Among the towns to report casualties and damage are: Annapolis, Mo.; Allenbury, Mo.; Murphysboro, Ills.; Gorham, De Soto, Bush, Hurst, West Frankfort, Benton, Logan, Parrish, Thompsonville, McLeansboro, Carmi, Evansville, Griffin, Ind.; Princeton, Elizabeth.

Lights Put Out.

Where electric lights plants had not been put out of commission lights were so arranged that the rescue work might continue during the night.

In other towns bonfires were lighted, and automobiles and hand searchlights were brought into use to aid the workers. Such railroads as could, operated special trains to convey many of the injured to nearby towns where hospital facilities were available.

Hospitals Filled.

By nightfall all the hospitals in Carbondale were filled to overflowing with those who were hurt at Murphysboro.

Many of the rescuers at Murphysboro and De Soto had to be detached as night fell to combat flames that broke out in the ruins. As most of the towns hit by the storm were small, pleas for relief were sent out intermittently whenever a wire could be found to carry a message or an automobile could make its way from the devastated regions to other towns that had escaped the fury of the storm.

In spite of the wide sweep of the storm after crossing the Mississippi river several of the best trains running between the southern resorts and Chicago escaped its fury so far as reports showed tonight, but the hours of passengers were delayed somewhat in reaching their destination as the trains had to feel their way through the storm region for fear that the timbers might have been thrown across the tracks or bridges torn down.

Churches and Schools Razed.

Churches and schools were razed at various places and 200 persons, mostly children, were killed or injured when the elements ripped open the Joiner school at Murphysboro.

By a margin of only a few miles the tornado swept to the north of Herrin, Illinois, where troops have been called so frequently to quiet fighting among its citizens. Hundreds of telegraph poles were twisted off and many orchards were rent bare of trees while the coal mine tipples were twisted into masses of splintered timbers.

Before the twister descended on Murphysboro it had gained much more strength and it literally tore down solid blocks when it hit that city. Its energy continued for several hours while it brought havoc at Gorham, De Soto and Bush and surrounding territory and then seemed to be at its maximum violence when it struck the mining town of West Frankfort with a population of nearly 9,000.

Reports tonight indicated that a thousand inhabitants were killed or injured there alone with frightful property damage.

After sweeping Benton and Logan, the full force of the tornado was displayed again at Parrish where out of a population of 500, only three were reported to have escaped death or injuries, and only one building was left undamaged.

While the fury of the storm continued throughout Thompsonville, McLeansboro and Carmi, as it raced towards the Indiana line, the casualties were not quite so heavy. Carmi, with a population of 2,667 reporting only two killed although the damage was so great at first that the preliminary estimate gave the casualties at 150.

As the wind swept into Indiana it seemed to divide as one twister swirling northward and another southeast. The northwestward storm struck at Princeton, Indiana, which has a population of 7,122, tore down or twisted out of shape a number of buildings and took a toll of life estimated at 100, with twice that many injured.

Thereafter this section of the storm gradually died out without causing further damage in that direction so far as reported.

The tornado that branched towards the southeast did most of the damage at Griffin, Indiana, where sixty were reported killed out of a population of only 341 and 70 were reported hurt.

This section of the storm proceeded as far as Louisville, injuring 13 persons at Elizabeth, Ind., and probably doing much damage to the rural regions in southwestern Indiana.

Destruction of Property Enormous.

The destruction of property was enormous, several towns being almost entirely wiped out and such populous places as Frankfort and Murphysboro having lost whole blocks of buildings. In the town of Parrish only three persons were said to have escaped injury or death out of a population of five hundred.

Bodies Blown More Than a Mile.

The wind was so powerful at Parrish that bodies were carried more than a mile, it was reported. At Murphysboro where the dead totalled one hundred, a school house was blown down over the head of 350 pupils while at De Soto, late estimates places the dead at 100 and the injured at 300 out of a total population of 703.

FROM 400 TO 500 PERSONS KILLED IN WEST FRANKFORT

Centralia, Ills., March 18.—(By The A. P.)—Between 400 and 500 persons were killed in West Frankfort in today's tornado, according to estimates received here by telephone from authentic sources.

The heaviest loss of life occurred when the joined public school was destroyed, 200 persons, the majority children, being killed or injured.

The storm struck without warning increasing in intensity as it progressed.

Starting at Tamoros, where slight damage was done, the tornado struck Dubois, doing considerable damage. It then skirted Hallidayboro, again dropping on De Soto where a two story brick school house was demolished, killing several children and injuring many.

West Frankfort, in Franklin county, was the next town reported to have been partially demolished with a heavy loss of life and property.

Reports next were received from Murphysboro, dropping with all its fury the storm virtually devastated this little mining town, demolishing buildings and killing or injuring almost everybody in its path.

In some instances the suffering from the storm was intensified by fire which broke out.

Later reports said that the town of De Soto was laid in waste by the storm and that the ruins were burning. Several other town similarly said that fire followed the storm.

An earnest plea for relief from every quarter has been asked, hundreds of persons are homeless, and suffering is said to be intense.

Meanwhile reports began to be received from Logan, Thompsonville, Parrish and other intermediate towns, each detailing damage more widespread that the other, culminating in the advices from Parrish which said that only one house was left standing after the storm had passed.

The Elks' club, Christian church, Methodist church, Baptist church and hospitals at Benton are said to be filled with founded from West Frankfort.

Parrish's entire population of five hundred virtually wiped out, only three persons are known to have escaped the storm's fury. But one building was left standing.

LIST OF DESTRUCTIVE TORNADOES SINCE 1884

New York, March 18.—Today's tornado in southern Illinois and parts of Missouri and Indiana was the sixteenth such disaster since the great storm which swept the southern states in 1884.

Following is a list of the worst tornadoes in the middle west and south since that of 1884:

Feb. 18, 1884—600 killed in southern states.

April 1892—40 killed in Kansas.

June 14, 1892—50 killed in Minnesota.

June 20, 1893—16 killed, Kansas river valley.

Sept. 20, 1894—75 killed in Iowa and Minnesota.

May 27, 1896—500 killed, St. Louis and East St. Louis.

March 30, 1897—Three-fourths of the town of Chandler, Okla., destroyed.

May 9, 1905—30 killed, Marquette, Kas.

March 2, 1906—25 killed Meridian, Miss.

April 24, 1908—500 killed in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama storms.

June 5, 1908—27 killed in southern Nebraska and northern Kansas.

March 18, 1913—Heavy damage and loss of life in Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee, Louisiana and Texas.

April 26, 1922—Nearly 100 killed in Oklahoma.

July 1923—63 killed, Pomeroy, Iowa.

The most recent disaster was at Lorain, Ohio, on June 28, 1924, when 67 persons were killed and scores injured during a heavy wind which swept the southern shore of Lake Erie. The property loss was placed at $25,000,000.

MAN CHARGED WITH THE THEFT OF FOUR DRESSES

Torrington, March 18.—William Smith, negro, of 31 Atlantic street, Hartford, was arrested in Boston today, charged with the theft of four dresses from a department store here. Smith, according to the police, entered the store and asked to see some dresses, stating that he wished to buy one for his aunt. He requested the girl to try one of the dresses on and while she was in another room, he is alleged to have seized four of the dresses and left the store. The girl gave chase and Smith is alleged to have threatened her with a gun.

Wounds Fatal To Dr. John Logan

Athens, March 18—Dr. John Logan, of Gainesville, Georgia, who was wounded in an attack by bandits at Arta, southern Epirus, recently, died today.

MOB IN BOSTON CHASED AND CAPTURED INTRUDER

Boston Mass, Mar. 18—Bostol's Back Bay district, residents of which have been on edge for weeks as she result of the depredations of a burglar or burglars parading under the name "the lone wolf," was today the scene of a mob chase resulting in the capture of Phillip Pucci of Boston, after one woman had been attacked and another frightened into hysteria. The occurance was the latest of a series of breaks in which women have been attacked and robbed in Back Bay apartments.

A Hemenway street apartment house was thrown into an uproar today when a man knocked at the door of the suite of Miss Anna Darrah and forced himself in when the door was opened. The man fled from the house when Miss Darrah's screams in her struggle with him brought a dozen men to the scene.

Two policemen joined the pursuit which led to another house where a woman screamed to the police that a man had entered her apartment and had fled. In the cellar Pucci was arrested. He claimed that he was a member of the pursuing party. He was identified however, as the man who entered her apartment by Miss Darrah, the police said.

TWO LIQUOR STILLS WERE RAIDED IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, March 18. — Federal prohibition agents working under Division Chief J. A. Morse in charge of the New Haven squad and assisted by Andrew B. Stroup, of Boston, enforcement chief of New England, and James E. Wheeler, enforcement chief for Connecticut, made what they characterized as one of the most important seizures in months tonight when they raided two well equipped liquor stills near Grannis Corner on the outskirts of this city.

The raid was at 628 Woodward avenue and the raiding squad found two 100-gallon stills in full operation, the apparatus, according to the agents, being the best equipped that have yet come to their attention. In addition, the agents seized 250 gallons of finished product, two barrels of denatured alcohol and 100 five gallon cans.

At this place the agents arrested a man who gave the name of John Palmeri, of 197 Goodrich street, Hamden. He was taken before United States Commissioner Bernard E. Lynch, who fixed bonds in his case at $3000 for his appearance at a hearing later.

COMMISSIONED CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

Hartford, March 18. — Governor Trumbull today signed the commissions of the following certified public accountants who have passed the examination given by the state board of accountancy: Philip Covitt, Bridgeport; Meyer Bailey, New Haven; C. L. Johnson, New Haven; John S. Roth, Middletown; William Z. White, New London; Simon Alderman, New Haven and S. F. Kapman, New London.

The governor has issued a requisition on the governor of New York for the extradiction of Francis Crowley, who is wanted in New Britain on a charge of bigamy. It is alleged that Crowley was married on November 18 in New York and nine days later married another girl in New Britain. Policeman George C. Ellinger has been appointed to receive and convey him to this state.

PROBING DYNAMITING OF HOUSE IN TORRINGTON

Torrington, March 18.—The police tonight were continuing their investigation of the dynamiting early this morning of the home of Prosecuting Attorney Thomas J. Wall here. Mr. and Mrs. Wall, their four children, and Mrs. Wall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hoffman, had a narrow escape from death when the dynamite, placed under the front porch of the house, ripped open the front of the house, damaged five other houses in the district and rocked the entire neighborhood.

The police reported tonight that they were following several clues, the chief being the stick of dynamite found in the street in front of the home of John Seaton, next door to the Wall home.

$35,000 FIRE IN BUSINESS SECTION OF FRAMINGHAM

Framingham, Mass., March 18.—Fire tonight did $35,000 damage to the Amsden building in the heart of the business district here. The loss was distributed through four stores on the street floor. The Framingham post office, in the same building was threatened. The clerks pouched the mail and removed it to another building. The fire is thought to have started in the basement from defective wiring. Natick firemen assisted the local department.

WOMAN CONFESSED SHE POISONED HER RELATIVES

Medina, Ohio, March 18.—The mystery surrounding the death of John Glenke, his wife Lillian, and his sister, Mrs. Sophie Hazel, was solved tonight with the alleged confession of Mrs. Martha Wise, daughter of Mrs. Hazel, that she poisoned her relatives.

Fourteen other members of their families were made ill.

Would Abolish The Board Of Agriculture

Hearing on Bil to Create a State Commissioner of Agriculture at a Salary of $5,000 a year.

Hartford, March 18.—The state board of agriculture, as at present constituted, will cease to exist, if a bill which was presented to the judiciary committee of the legislature today becomes a law. The bill is a substitute for one previously considered consolidating the dairy and food commissions with the state department of agriculture and was submitted by Representative Samuel Russell, Jr., of Middletown, following a series of conferences of members of the general assembly interested in the interests of agriculture in the state.

The bill creates a new office, Commissioner of Agriculture, at a salary of $5,000 a year. He is to be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the House and will hold office for four years. The commissioner in turn will appoint a deputy, who will hold office for one year, and will have a salary of $3,500 a year.

The bill reduces the board from fourteen to eight members. Instead of the governor and one member from each congressional district and one from each county, the board as proposed by the bill will consist of the commissioner of agriculture, the dairy and food commissioner, the commissioner on domestic animals, the fish and game commissioners, the state forester, the director of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, the president of the Connecticut Agricultural college and the professor of agricultural economics at that institution. The commissioner of agriculture is to be chairman of the new board and his deputy is to be secretary and treasurer. The governor is ex-officio chairman of the present board and the secretary is appointed by the board.

Under the terms of the bill, the governor is to appoint a commissioner of agriculture during May of this year and every four years thereafter. The appointment is to be confirmed by a majority of the house. The commissioner is given all the powers now vested by statute in the secretary of the state board of agriculture. The deputy commissioner is to be appointed annually in September by the commissioner with the approval of a majority of the board. The deputy is to be secretary and treasurer of the state board of agriculture and is to furnish a bond of $5,000.

FRANK KENNA HAS LEASED NEWARK NAVAL SUPPLY BASE

Newark, March 18.—The port of Newark army supply base, which was leased by the war department in Washington today for a term of 10 years to Frank Kenna of New Haven, Conn., was built by the government during the war on 135 acres of land brought from the city.

About $10,000,000 was spent in building a 4,500 foot dock and eleven 1,200 foot warehouses, which extended onto it. A 30-foot channel has been maintained at the dock and through Newark Bay to New York harbor, and 18 miles of railroad trackage traverse the base.

The city of Newark has for four years made efforts to either purchase the property or induce the government to sell or lease it for commercial development that the city might receive taxes on it, which it has been exempt.

By today's contract the city loses the taxes, but instead expects to benefit by development and use of this and adjoining property owned by the city.

TO PREVENT "BOOTLEGGING" OF COLD STORAGE EGGS

Hartford, March 18.—"Bootleggers" of cold storage eggs are aimed at in a bill heard today before the legislative judiciary committee which would impose greater restrictions upon dealers in the artificially preserved product. A New Haven grocer told a woman who drove to his store in a horse drawn wagon and brought cold storage eggs which she sold as fresh from her farm, while driving back to her country place. The grocers objected to a proposal that cold storage eggs be kept in their original containers, because their appearance was a detriment to the store. Representative Bell, of the committee urged them to decorate the containers with frilled paper.

FATE OF 34 ENTOMBED MINERS UNDETERMINED

Fairmont, W. Va., March 18.—(By The A. P.)—The fate of the 34 miners entombed in No. 41 mine of the Bethlehem Mine Corporation, three miles from here, remained undetermined tonight, 24 hours after the blast which wrecked the mine and toppled the tipple into the 300 foot shaft.

Throughout the day rescue crews battled with tangled wreckage and fallen timbers which must be surmounted before it can be determined whether the imprisoned men are dead or alive. Leaders in the rescue work have abandoned hope of reaching them tonight, declaring they did not expect to reach that section of the mine until some time tomorrow.

SENATOR NORRIS ASSAILS SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE

Washington, March 18—The Smithsonian Institution was assailed in the senate today by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, for issuing a report criticising the Canadian system of power distribution.

Declaring the government-owned power system in Canada worked to greater advantage to the people than the privately owned system in this country, Senator Norris said the American government ought not to be engaged in the business of putting out "propaganda."

WHEAT PRICES RECOVER FROM SEVERE DECLINE

Winnipeg, March 18—Wheat prices recoiled sensationally from the severe decline of yesterday, and following a spirited session in which bull traders re-established their influence, the May future closed at $1.63 7-8, an advance of 7 3-8 cents. July scored a corresponding gain at $1.60 1-2 while October jumped 8 1-2 to $1.36.

Sargent Has Become Attorney General

After Taking Oath of Ofifce, Hastened to White House For Conference With President Coolidge.

Washington, March 18.—John Garibaldi Sargent became attorney general of the United States today.

Two days ago he was a private citizen in a little village in Vermont. At 2 p. m. today he arrived here. An hour later he took the oath of office as field marshal of the law enforcement arm of the federal government.

Meanwhile his day was getting busier every moment. The inevitable news photographers were arriving. They reached the department of justice in three distinct battalions, and with a submissiveness not wholly in keeping with his gigantic frame—Mr. Sargent is more than six feet tall—the attorney general posed.

Then for the first time since receiving his appointment, he hastened to the White House for a conference with the president. He was there an hour with the president, his friend since boyhood. Immediately afterward he went back to the department to meet officials there, most of whom he never had seen.

Summoned suddenly from Vermont, Mr. Sargent had had no opportunity to talk with anyone about the work he was to take up. He said so frankly to newspaper correspondents who surrounded him before he went to the White House. He would not talk to them, however, until he had brought out a curved pipe of large size, one of the many he has collected as a hobby. With it appeared a great tobacco pouch, done inside in green and yellow. He had no sooner started a few clouds of smoke upward than a secret service man stepped to him and said:

"The president is waiting, sir."

"Well, I'll try to be friendly with you always," he told the correspondents. He added, as he left his office entered only half an hour before, that he expected to occupy several days in getting acquainted with his associates and his work.

SCHOOL MUSIC SUPERVISORS IN SESSION AT NEW HAVEN

New Haven, March 18.—The eighth annual convention of the supervisors of school music to the number of 1,000, gathered here today, having come from all of the eastern states. The delegates were welcomed by a local committee.

The formal activities of the conference began this morning with visitation to three of the city's schools, where musical demonstrations were given. An orchestra round table was conducted at Hillhouse high school. Papers were read by Joseph F. Maddy, of Ann Arbor, Victor Rebmann, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Francis Findley, of Boston.

This afternoon there was a formal gathering in Sprague hall. An address of welcome was given by Mayor Fitzgerald and President James R. Angell of Yale university placed the musical facilities of the city at the disposal of the visitors.

Addresses were delivered by Dr. Hollis Dann of New York university and Charles M. Ames, of the state board of education. A song recital by Alfred E. Brown, of the Ithaca conservatory of music closed the afternoon session.

The conference will be continued tomorrow.

WILLIAM J. AND CHARLES BRYAN AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, March 18.—Charles W. Bryan, former governor of Nebraska and democratic candidate for vice president in the last campaign, reached Washington in the course of an extensive vacation tour today, had his picture taken with President Coolidge, and his brother, "W. J." at the White House, was host to Vice President Dawes at dinner tonight, and predicted victory for the democratic party four years hence through a coalition of forces in the south and west.

The former nominee paid a courtesy call at the White House with his brother, who was here to attend a meeting of the general council of the Presbyterian church, of which he is a member. Charles W. Bryan is not attending the gathering. He will go to Culpepper, Va., tomorrow to visit his father's birthplace, and plans then to tour some eastern and middle western states before returning to Nebraska.

ELECTED DEAN OF WHEATON COLLEGE

Boston, March 18.—Miss Emma Marshall Denkinger, associate professor of English at Wellesley college, was today elected dean of Wheaton college at a meeting of the trustees. She will enter upon her duties at Wheaton in September after a summer spent in research in England. Professor Agnes R. Ridder, acting dean for the past two years, will devote her entire time to the leadership of the department of romance languages.

Miss Denkinger received an A. B. degree from Radcliffe college in 1910, an A. M. in 1912 and a Ph. D., in the following year. She has since been a member of the faculty of Mount Holyoke college and the Bryn Mawr summer school for women works. She has published numerous literary and historical articles founded on research work in the British museum.

AMERICAN EMBASSY IN LIMA WAS NOT ATTACKED

Washington, March 18.—The Peruvian embassy was authorized in an official cable tonight from Lima to "deny emphatically" that the American embassy there had been attacked during demonstrations against President Coolidge's award in the Tacna-Arica dispute with Chile. Reports to this effect, said the message, was "absolutely untrue."

FIRE TOTALLY DESTROYS TWO PALM BEACH HOTELS

Number Injured is Placed at 3,000—Nineteen Towns Felt the Fury—Churches and Schools Were Blown Down—Streets of the Demolished Towns Were Filled With Frantic Inhabitants Clambering Over Wreckage, Seeking Friends and Relatives—All Buildings Left Standing Are Being Used as Hospitals—Storm Extended Into Indiana—Property Damage Was Enormous.

Palm Beach, Fla., March 18.—Fire late today destroyed the famous Breakers hotel, wiped out the smaller Palm Beach hotel, and for hours held a threat of destruction over the entire northern section of this celebrated winter playground of the wealthy.

Beginning shortly after 4 o'clock in the Breakers, the fire was fanned by a brisk sea breeze and was not brought under control until shortly before 9 tonight. In addition to the hotels, from which numerous wealthy patrons were compelled to flee, with little thought of saving their possessions, a number of cottages were burned, and the property loss was estimated between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Rumors that guests had perished in the Breakers and the Palm Beach were current as the flames hurled blazing embers into the air and even across Lake Worth to West Palm Beach, but none had been confirmed tonight.

An elderly man and woman were reported burned to death in the Breakers hotel, and two small children and their nurse were said to be missing from the same hotel. Parents of the children were searching frantically tonight in the ruins, but neither would give their names.

Martial law was put into effect tonight by Governor Martin at the request of local authorities after police in West Palm Beach had captured two motor trucks and several automobiles loaded with valuables stolen from the ruins, arresting eight negroes and one white man. State troops were immediately placed on guard at all bridges between the resort and West Palm Beach.

For a time tonight, the Royal Poinciana, another famous hostelry, and the almost equally celebrated Bradley's club appeared sure to provide fuel for the sweeping flames, and the guests were ordered to leave. These structures were saved, however, although the Poinciana barracks and a number of shops were destroyed.

The Breakers, constructed of pine timber, burned quickly, and the flames were soon visible in resort towns a number of miles away. The fire department of West Palm Beach and Lake Worth, seven miles away, were immediately summoned to aid the local force, and equipment from other nearby places were being rushed here when the spread of the flames was checked.

The fire, attributed variously to a carelessly discarded cigarette, a plumber's torch, and an electrical apparatus used by an invalid guest, started in an upper floor of the south wing of the Breakers, which had nearly 900 rooms and provided accommodations for about 2,000 persons.

The flames broke through the roof in a few minutes, and smoke spread rapidly through the building, driving the guests hurriedly to safety. Their losses in valuable belongings is expected to be great, since many of the nation's wealthy families were represented among them.

Spectacle Drew Thousands.

The spectacle drew thousands of spectators. A large number joined the firemen in their struggle, but the crowd was so great an attempt to check the onrush of the flames with dynamite had to be abandoned.

When the Palm Beach hotel, a 250 room structure, began to burn, the fire forces were divided. It became apparent at once, however, that the building was doomed and those assigned to this part of the battle concentrated successfully on saving adjacent buildings. Meanwhile, four cottages which were part of the Breakers property had been destroyed, and the roof of the Royal Poinciana started smouldering. The fire there, however, was stopped before it gained any headway.

The confusion and wildly flickering flames continued far into the night, and no reasonable accurate survey of the loss was possible. A few of the more fortunate guests and their servants had saved clothing and jewelry by tossing them into pillow slips and sheets, but many were left only the articles they wore. Some bundles worth thousands were thrown to safety from windows, while the owners of other similar packages clung to them despite the added danger to themselves.

Many of the wealthy refugees tonight found shelter in the Royal Poinciana or in the exclusive cottages that formed the winter colony here, while others went to hotels in West Palm Beach and Lake Worth.

The Breakers fire was the second of the kind on the same site in a little more than 20 years. The hotel was built to replace the Palm Beach Inn, erected by the Henry M. Flagler interests in 1895, when fire destroyed it a score of years ago, and since, with the other hostelries here, has been the mecca of numerous persons of wealth or fame or both.

DAWES MAY GO OVER HEADS OF SENATORS

Washington, March 18.—Vice President Dawes will carry to the country in public addresses the issue he made with the senate in his inaugural address for a revision of the rules so as to prohibit one-man filibusters.

After his inaugural address, which astonished and aroused the senate, the vice president told a delegation from Marietta, Ohio, which called on him, at his hotel, that the matter of the amendment of the rules was one that would have to be taken to the country over the heads of senators unless the senate acted.

Senators Underwood, of Alabama, and Copeland of New York, democrats, subsequently introduced resolutions for a change of the rules, but the senate took no action further that to the rules committee.

BOTH SIDES REST IN FIGHT PICTURE CASE

Trenton, N. J., March 18.—Both sides rested today in the trial of George L. (Tex.) Rickard, internationally known prize fight promoter of New York and five others indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged conspiracy to transport motion pictures of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight in July, 1921, throughout the country. The defense offered no testimony.

Federal Judge Bodine ordered that summation for both the government and the defense be completed before the noon recess tomorrow.

Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty took the first train out of town after being here several days, at the request of the special prosecutor, Assistant U. S. Attorney General Sager, who intended to call him to the stand as a rebuttal witness.

GERMAN SECURITY PROPOSAL NOT READY FOR SUBMISSAL

London, March 18—Germany's offer in connection with the security problem is not yet in a form in which it could properly be submitted to parliament, Austen Chamberlain, the secretary for foreign affairs, told a questioner in the house of commons this evening.

The interchange of views following the original offer, added Mr. Chamberlain, has not yet proceeded sufficiently to warrant a precise definition of the shape Germany might ultimately give to the suggestion. Insistence on particulars at this stage, he declared, might jeopardize the future negotiations. He hoped to deal with the subject in general terms next week.

SUBMARINE S-19 PULLED OFF CAPE COD SHORE

Boston, March 18—The submarine S-19, which went ashore on the outer bar of Orleans harbor on Cape Cod on January 13, was probably pulled afloat today, according to advices reaching the Boston navy yard. Because of the dense fog prevailing in the vicinity, the salvage officials are not able to make a definite statement of accomplishment.

DEPOSITIONS FIGURE IN TEAPOT DOME LEASE CASE

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 18. (By the A. P.)—Counsel in the Teapot Dome lease annulment suit ifroned their way through about half of a 300-page deposition here today. The deposition, that of Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, head of the navy bureau of engineering, at first held by the defense to be one of the most important pieces of testimony in defense of the leasing of the Wyoming oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair's Mammoth Oil company, that will be put before the court.

According to Admiral Robison's deposition, the current need of the navy for fuel oil was one of the considerations in the Teapot Dome lease negotiations. The United States fleet in 1921 was in need of oil supplies when the question of exchanging royalty crude oil for fuel oil was brought before the naval council, he said. This plan finally was approved by the then navy secretary, Edwin Denby, after an opinion upholding its legality had been delivered by the judge advocate general of the navy, according to the deposition.

Contingent upon the legality of the plan, however, was the stipulation that the naval reserve lessees would be required to build storage facilities which eventually would become government property, Admiral Robison said.

The navy's part of the national defense plans called for the strategic location of oil supplies, the deposition said. This, according to Admiral Robison, was evolved after a study of a "prospective war" had been carried out.

Dominating of the Pacific would require oil reserves for the American navy at Alaska, San Diego and Honolulu and this would necessarily have to be done to insure American naval supremacy in the Pacific in the event of an Anglo-Japanese alliance, according to the deposition. The admiral said the Sinclair lease, calling for a sliding scale of royalties from 12 1-2 per cent to 50 per cent, was the highest with respect to royalties that the government ever had made.

WILLIMANTIC

At normal school Wednesday morning, Miss Grace Leigh Scott, of Greenville, Ind., spoke through the courtesy of the local W. C. T. U., on the moral standard demanded from the American girl since the world war. Miss Scott, who was a volunteer singer for the Y. M. C. A. in Europe during the years of the war, quoted the boys in the trenches as saying that our nation should stand for higher ideals, and that the young women of today should stand for the finer things that this youngest army that has ever been sent into training is going to demand of them. The war has wakened a new sense of responsibility and a new sense of chivalry. Miss Scott quoted one of the doughboys as saying, after the armistice was signed, that a man wants "an honest-to-God girl; she must be a lady; she mustn't be cheap. And there is no such thing as a double standard."

The 14 employes of Leonard Brothers Garage, Inc., were entertained at a luncheon supper at the Windham Inn Tuesday evening. The speaker was Howard Barnes, of Boston, who gave an informal talk. Another speaker was Dana Melding, also of Boston.

The committees chosen by the three divisions of Juniors for the arrangement of the junior frolic in the little theatre at the normal school are: From Junior I: Miss Helen Botham, chairman, Miss Margaret Conway, Miss Florence Beers, Miss Abbie Colman, Miss Mae Bernblum. From Junior II, Miss Janka Manning, chairman, Miss Vivian Newton, Miss Doris Johnson, Miss Bernadette Hoey, Miss Mildred Johnson, Miss Esther Hall. From Junior III, Miss Helen Tyrrell, chairman, Miss Geraldine Walsh, Miss Josie Welch, Miss Rachel Slopak, Miss Sally Robinson.

Mrs. James Litterick entertained 16 employes of the Tubridy-Weldon company, at her home, 35 Bolivia street, recently. The party left the store by automobile at 6 o'clock, and arriving at the home of the hostess found a turkey dinner awaiting them. A St. Patrick's Day color scheme was carried out, with badges of Ireland as favors. A mahogany chime clock was presented Mrs. Litterick, as a token of appreciation. Vocal and instrumental music, added to the pleasure of the evening. This is one of a series of parties being given by the employes of Tubridy-Weldon. Mrs. Litterick was assisted by Mrs. James Litterick, Sr., and Miss Mildred Kramer, of Hartford.

At a business meeting of the Windham Players, Tuesday evening, in the auditorium of Windham Center school announcement of the dates for all the club's appearances was made. The names of the circuit plays and the casts selected by the committee were read. The group is to be under the direction of Mrs. Albert Sonnischen.

At the meeting of Willimantic Exchange club Tuesday noon in the Hotel Hooker, the guests of honor were Miss Amy Hooker, president of the local textile concern, and three other representatives of the striking body of the American Thread company. Speaking briefly, Miss Hooker presented the strikers' side of their contention with the company. At the close of her address, E. J. Donnelly of the Exchange board of control, expressed the appreciation of the club to Miss Hooker and the other members of the delegation at their acceptance of the Exchange club's invitation to be present, saying that the exchange is always willing to hear both sides of any question of public interest, as it is their aim to act as a public forum when any situation of outstanding interest arises, and to have it discussed from all angles. The meeting was largely attended. Arrangements were made for a joint Ladd day with the Rotary club, at Storrs, later in the year.

Clifford E. Bradley, 75, died early Tuesday morning at the home of Wesley A. Bradley in Mansfield Hollow. The cause of death was given as stomach trouble. For twenty years Mr. Bradley had been night watchman at the Max Pollack Thread company. He is survived by his wife, four children, and three grandchildren.

As an encore Mr. Farrell sang The Cruiskeen Lawn and a jazz number La-Te-Do, the chorus of which was composed of only three notes. He was accompanied by Mrs. Farrell. A violin solo Palaestra was given by Amand Bulbullian, accompanied by Mrs. Farrell. He responded to an encore. A contralto solo The Jasmine Door was given by Mrs. R. G. Remington, who in response to an encore sang, I Love You Truly. Dear Old Southern Songs, with A. L. French bass soloist, was given by the choir.

At intermission, announcement was made that a prize was to be given for the most beautiful costume. The judges were Rev. and Mrs. Muirhead, Mrs. Fred C. Williams. That the costumes might be seen to [illegible] and sideways, right and left, the ladies appeared on the platform in groups of four for the closer observation of the judges and the audience. The prize was awarded Mrs. Alice Easterbrook, wearing a brown figured cotton print loaned for the concert by Mrs. Hattie Palmer, for whose grandmother it was originally made. The dress had a circular bertha, full gathered sleeve, tight bodice, skirts over a hoop and was finished at the neck with a little lace collar and a great cameo. It was worn with a bonnet with strings, also loaned by Mrs. Palmer, and side curls. Honorable mention was made of [illegible] Chapman wearing a brown plaid silk over a hoop skirt. The second part of the program opened with Jerusalem My Glorious Home by the choir; a soprano solo, Annie Laurie, by Miss L. Monica McKeon; a dust, Marguerite, by Mrs. Remington and Mrs. Remington and Arthur Clark. Four numbers by the imperial entertainers were, a tenor solo by Ray Tallman, A Spirit Flower, and encore, All For You; a very entertaining reading, Our Wedding Day, by Mrs. Charles Beebe who responded to an encore; a bass solo, As High as the Stars and as Deep as the Sea, by Claude Ide, who for an encore sang "Sea Fever." The quartet sang The Long Day Closes. Mrs. Remington and choir sang the Swanee River, Miss McKeon and choir, Jedediah; Mrs. Shedd, Mrs. Wright and choir, The Dearest Spot, and the choir and audience joined in singing America.

PRES. T. F. McMAHON, U. T. W., EXPLAINS REASON FOR STRIKE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 18—"We hold no prejudice against the officials of the American Thread Company but the time has come when we are called upon to show our hand and are doing so, in a desire to secure justice," said National President Thomas F. McMahon, of The United Textile Workers of America, in cheering the strikers of the American Thread company on to continued effort, at a mass meeting held early Wednesday morning. "Our cause is to harmonize, to secure a reasonable wage adjustment. We are not looking forward to friction of any kind," they continued. President McMahon pointed out to the large gathering of strikers that in the past upward adjustments had always been made on the dividends, benefiting the stockholders where the downward trend has been felt by the workers. While all other workers who handle the output of thread have been receiving increases, the actual makers of the thread have suffered decreases. He mentioned the successful strike of the garment workers of New York as an example of this. "We pleaded with the company officials for an adjustment," said Mr. McMahon. "They hinted at three reasons why it would not be granted. The first was financial loss. This they claimed in spite of the fact that last year they declared 10% dividends on the stock, plus maintaining a reserve fund of about $1,380,000.

"Then they spoke of competition. This could not be accepted," continued the national president. "As the largest concern of its kind in the world the American Thread company and the Coates concern controlled the thread industry and besides having little if any foreign competition was receiving the benefits of a protective tariff. While the number of yards of thread on spools was reduced considerably the price boomed 200%. Competition is not very keen when that can be done successfully," said the speaker.

The third reason given by the officials according to McMahon was that the employees of the local plant were not fully unionized, therefore if a strike were called it would make but a small gap in the force of operatives. "They would not believe that we would become practically one hundred per cent. organized; but now they have definite proof of an entirely different situation and it is up to us to remain intact and patiently await the outcome," said the speaker. "Too much dividend and not enough consideration for its human machines, sums up the cause for the wage cuts. We have taken the initial step, so let us carry on, to a finish. When the 10 per cent. is returned, let us remember that a 12 and 1-2 per cent. restoration will still be due us, as the result of previous wage cuts made within the past few years."

In conclusion, he pointed out the plight of the workers in the Fall River and Holyoke mills of the concern and said that organizers were endeavoring to alienate the operatives of those plants to the cause in which the local workers have taken the lead.

Announcement of the schedule of meetings was made by Miss Amy Hooker, local president, who was in charge of the mass meeting. Today (Thursday) the operatives will call at the paymaster's office of the plant to receive small amounts due them for time put in after the strike had been officially declared, two weeks ago today (Tuesday.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Al Barlows Revue will present the Palace patrons today, Friday & Saturday a complete new bill entitled "Bits of Hits," a show chuck full of novelties. In addition to Al's one hour and ten minutes of fun there will be three big Paramount vaudeville acts. Frank Fields, the man who tells stories with a rope. Laura Bennett and Co., singers, boxers, wrestling and fencing. The Musical Kellogg's in a rare musical treat.

Tonight all the stores will have on display all the latest creations for spring gowns, frocks and suits and at the Palace will be a big fashion show with Al's girls acting as models. The gowns will be show in the windows and then on the beautiful living models at the Palace.

The feature picture will be Born Rich.

Claire Windsor and Bert Lytell have the leading roles in "Born Rich," a First National Picture. In this production, which was directed by Will Nigh, they have exceptionally ideal roles, being cast as a young married couple. "Jimmy" and "Chaddy," whose one purpose in life was to wring out of it all the pleasure they could.

In "Born Rich" the author set about to write an indictment of high society, aiming sharp arrows of satire at the foibles of the rich set. Although he sets out to ridicule the artificial lives they lead, he is not wantonly destructive in his criticism. He has approached his theme with a sympathetic attitude, and while he misses no chance to give a "dig" where a "dig" is needed, he does so with understanding humor, and in the end proves that rich and poor are alike in virtues and vices—and "Jimmy" and "Chaddy" discover that more happiness can be found in a humble cottage than in a gilded palace.

Louis Lipsy to Speak.

A notable speaker will be present at the Community house this (Thursday) evening for the Zionist get-together meeting, which will be the annual gathering of the Norwich Zionist district and the Hadassah chapter.

The speaker will be Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of the Zionist Organization of America, who has recently returned from London and Palestine where he spent five months in the interest of the Zionist movement. He is universally considered one of the foremost leaders of American Jewry, and one of the ablest and most distinguished figures in World Zionism. His singular reputation is the result not only of his long and devoted career of service, but to a remarkable combination of gifts as writer, orator and organizer.

His extraordinary services were recognized by the World Zionist Organization at the last Zionist Congress, held in Carlsbad in September, 1923. At this congress Mr. Lipsky was elected vice president, and conducted most of the historic sessions which led to the resolution to extend the Jewish Agency. One of the last acts of this congress was to elect Mr. Lipsky unanimously as a member of the Zionist Executive of London, which including Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization and Nahum Sokolow, chairman of the executive, is limited to a total of five members.

As a member of the World Executive, Mr. Lipsky has been entrusted with the enormous task of regulating the organization of the world movement. His duties in this capacity have kept Mr. Lipsky in London for five months this year. Before returning to America, however, to assume his duties as chairman, Mr. Lipsky visited Palestine, making a close study of the situation. On his return to this country he was accorded a royal reception by the Zionists of New York headed by Hon. Nathan Straus and by a committee appointed by the mayor of New York who ordered the "Macon," the city boat used to receive distinguished visitors, to meet Mr. Lipsky at Quarantine and escort him to the city pier where hundreds of Zionist waited to greet their leader.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Seven real B. F. Keith vaudeville acts are on the programme for the Broadway theatre the last half of this week. They are all standard acts, assuring not only quality but quantity. It is the biggest value Norwich theatregoers ever received for their money and with the Broadway's regular prices, capacity crowds will be the rule. Here they are in order of their appearance today:

Gaby Leslie & Co., three people offer variety at its best.

Stacy & Faye in "Just Nonsense," is the kind of fun you'll relish.

A banquet of joy and a feast of fun is assured with Cody and Day in "Wednesday Night."

The Gray Family offer a miniature juvenile revue which makes it distinctive in every respect. The company of six entertain with song, dance and comedy.

Fred Weber & Co., in a ventriloquial comedy, "At the Stage Door," is a riot of fun.

Winchester and Ross, "The Men of the Hour," come forth with more comedy, making this programme just one laugh after another.

Armand and Perly, the international athletes de luxe, close the bill and we advise you to wait for the last stunt.

All the essentials that are necessary to a motion picture of high entertainment value are to be found in the Mission Film Corporation production of "Flattery," which comes to the Broadway theatre starting today.

The story which is by H. H. Van Loan, author of innumerable screen successes, is both dramatic and wholesome; strong love interest runs throughout, and a highly spectacular incident of the play leads into a startling climax. There are smart clothes and attractive settings, and the various roles are portrayed by a cast of distinguished artists who are John Bowers, Marguerite de la Motte, Alan Hale, Grace Darmond, Edwards Davis, Lewis Morrison and Larry Steers.

Strand Theatre.

Whenever the heads of the educational departments sanction the showing of a motion picture and advise the school children to see it, you can depend upon it that it must be a picture worth while. That is exactly what happened after several members of this board saw "Over the Top With the Allies," which will be shown for the last three times today at the Strand. Up to Wednesday night 3,426 people have seen this picture and it would be a hard proposition to find one that was not pleased because after looking at these marvelous films you are certain to wonder how so many of the American boys did come back. You will see for the first time the use of liquid fire, and what damage it can do and all the other death dealing war implements used on the battlefields of the late war.

Several members of the Richard E. Hourigan post, 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars, under whose auspices this picture is being shown, can vouch as to whether or not these films are official, because during the action of the film several scenes are shown where these boys took an important part. Three performances will be given today at two, seven and eight forty-five. The added attraction at the Strand Friday night will be a real old fashioned Country Store. Twenty worth while presents as well as a real genuine J. A. C. Fischer upright piano will be given away. This piano is on display in the lobby of the theatre and the person receiving it will not only be fortunate because this piano is as good as money can buy.

Bread Theater

Chu Chin Chew, the great spectacle that entertained many a doughboy on leave in London during the war, has now been made into a picture, and will be shown at the Breed theater today. The film drama, although made in England, has Betty Blythe, who played the Queen of Sheba, in the featured role, that of Zahrat the desert flower.

It is an elaborate telling of the old Arabian Nights legend of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, with necessary enlargement of detail to carry it along on the screen. It was adapted and directed by Herbert Wilcox, and is a Graham Wilcox production distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

Other pictures on the bill include On Leave of Absence, a True Detective story, the Fox news and a Sunshine comedy.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Warden Frank E. Kennedy will no be a candidate for renomination at the annual borough caucus next week. Mr. Kennedy made this known Wednesday afternoon. Having served a year as warden and a total of six or seven years as a member of the board of burgesses he feels that he has done his bit. He is now going to stand aside that some other citizen may have the office. Warden Kennedy has been an efficient borough official through all the years of his service, and it is with regret that citizens will learn of his decision to retire from public office.

The fact that Warden Kennedy does not want a renomination opens the office to those who would like to serve the borough. But six days remain to find a candidate.

If, as proposed, 32 mills in eastern Connecticut arrange an exhibition of their products at the state armory here during June, the people of this part of the state will regard this display of little less than a revelation. Few realize the diversity of cotton, wool, worsted and silk manufacturers in this part of Connecticut. Some of the most beautiful and highest quality materials produced in America come from the looms of Windham and New London counties. The proposed exhibit has great possibilities and there is general interest in it already.

It is generally sensed that highway conditions such as have prevailed for some time all through the surrounding country where there are no state highways has operated to cut down purchases in Danielson by trade from these districts. But the frost has to come out of the ground and there is not much to be done other than wait until the mud dries up and allows better traveling conditions.

Incidental mention in this column recently that the discharge from the sewer mains into the filter beds on the borough farm varies from 750,000 to 900,000 gallons a day, proved surprising to a great many many people here. Few realized that the volume of sewage was anywhere near that amount. The assurance is from a competent engineer that this is a fact. That is why the state board of health has been in conference with borough officials about enlarging the sewage disposal system on the borough farm.

A truck loaded to capacity with large cans containing trout passed through Danielson Wednesday morning, bound for the northern section of the county. The trout were of large size, at least large enough to furnish good fishing for the season that opens April 1. It is understood that such trout are available for a price at this time. They are for release in country brooks and it so happens that all fishermen will have as good a chance of catching them as those who paid for and released them.

Baseball fans in this section were interested in Wednesday's reports of the hearing on the baseball bills at the capitol in Hartford. Not that Danielson has demonstrated that it is in a baseball frenzy, for it has failed for the past two seasons to support a good team. What Danielson is interested in is why there should be such a great commotion over Sunday baseball, since it has been the regular thing in eastern Connecticut for several years and doesn't even pay in some [illegible].

As in other ways, the production of the Catholic Welfare council at the Orpheum theatre Tuesday evening was a very fine financial success.

As is usual hundreds who might have had a voice in fixing the town's expenditures for the year, did not take the trouble to attend the financial meeting in the town hall Wednesday evening.

Anchored balloons floating over Danielson may be a common sight in the near future. Radio owners are on the verge of trying out an approved and tested plan of having a 5-foot balloon, gas charged, carry their aerials up to any desired height and hold them there. The arrangement is said to largely overcome static interference.

As in many towns and cities in New England, grip has claimed many patients, but the cases are for the the most part not severe.

Daylight saving time, which is near at hand for many sections of New England, has no interest for this territory, which will remain on standard time, as for the past few years.

MARRIED SWAN AND DUCK— BILL WAS PROMPTLY PAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, March 18.—Says a Providence item in a Boston paper: Clerks in the city registrar's office here today were wondering if Justice Arthur L. Bill, of Killingly, Conn., smiled the other day when he was called to marry John Swan and Elizabeth Duck, both of Providence. The official return reached the city hall this morning. Anyway, they are sure the Bill was paid.

Attorney Bill was amused Wednesday when his attention was called to the item.

TOWN MEETING INCREASES MEMORIAL DAY ALLOWANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, March 18.—Fifteen minutes sufficed, Wednesday evening, to do the business awaiting attention at the adjourned annual town meeting and the special town meeting immediately following it. Only about 50 persons were present. Without discussion the meeting adopted the budget presented by the selectmen and th town school committee and voted an 18 mill tax, the same rate as last year, to raise the amount required this year, a little more than $123,000. The tax is collectible on the third Monday in April.

The special town meeting voted to increase the appropriation for Memorial Day from $200 as fixed last October to $425. Of those amount $225 is to be used in Danielson, $100 at Dayville and $100 at East Killingly. Miss Lillian Bailey, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, explained that increased costs of the Memorial Day observance made it necessary to ask for more money.

F. E. Bitgood was chairman and Frank T. Preston, clerk of both meetings.

PUTNAM

The club rooms of the Putnam lodge of Elks are practically finished and are now being used by the members. These rooms are not surpassed in beauty and convenience by any club quarters within a radius of fifty miles of Putnam.

The large reception or reading room, which faces both Main and Front streets is particularly attractive, the walls and new metal ceiling being painted a soft gray, very pleasing and restful to the eyes. There are two large rugs on the floor and the chairs and davenport are of leather. A table in the center of the room holds the late magazines and papers.

The card room is painted to harmonize with the reception room and contains new card tables and chairs.

The billiard room in the rear is no less attractive than the others and contains a billiard table and a pool table. There is also a well equipped room for the use of the secretary. All of the ceilings are of metal and the floors hardwood and the whole place is well and attractively lighted with electricity.

The Putnam B. P. O. E. is the largest order of its kind in eastern Windham county and has a large and steadily growing membership, and the club rooms are for the use of its members only.

It is the intention of the committee to enlarge the lodge and grill rooms on the third floor, so as to be better able to take care of the attendance at the meetings and to give better facilities for serving the frequent lunches.

In the Chamber of Commerce rooms Tuesday afternoon, Clement Scott, of Hartford in a talk on Modern Methods of Investing Trust Funds, said that the investment of money so as to best safeguard it and make it yield the largest returns had become practically a science, and that the advice and judgment of men who had given years to the study of it, expressed through the medium of trust companies were entitled to respect and consideration.

Mr. Scott, who is one of the vice presidents of the Hartford, Connecticut Trust Company, came here at the invitation of the trustees of the Grove Street Cemetery association, which is the depositary of more than $50,000 of trust funds made up for the most part of small amounts, the income of which goes to the upkeep of cemetery lots. Wishing to obtain authoritative information on the best way to invest it, the trustees decided that the custodians of the Day Kimball hospital funds as well as town and city officials would be interested and the meeting was made an open one. Hospital trustees were present as well as municipal officials and officers of the city banks.

Byron D. Bugbee stated briefly the object of th eassemblage and introobject of the assemblage and introluminating and interesting exposition of the subject. He outlined the growth of trust companies and explained very lucidly this particular part of their operations. The institution with which he is connected, he said, had a staff of very able men who gave all their time to this work.

In the past twenty-five years, he said, the field of high class investments has broadened wonderfully. Industrials have come into existence, the stocks of metropolitan banks and big insurance companies have also made a place for themselves.

To keep a record of these securities, to study their values, to determine what meet the requirements of trust investments in safety and earning power, and to wisely and intelligently administer funds entrusted to their keeping was one of the functions of a trust company.

The very best investment, he declared, is a Liberty bond. They do not pay a high rate of interest, but if other investments were as good they would not have to pay any more. Next to Liberty bonds, he cussed mortgages on real estate, made under the same procedure that is permitted savings banks, high class bonds and the best type of New York bank stock.

With all the facilities for obtaining accurate information and the best judgment of experienced financiers, he thought a trust company offered advantages infinitely better that can be obtained elsewhere for tust fund investments. The cost for such service for charitable and philanthropic organizations is about three per cent. of the income derived from the investment.

The interest of this service, he said, could be summed up in the statement that the companies aimed at a fair return, as high a return as possible and a very great degree of safety.

Mr. Scott made it convincingly clear to his hearers that such a method of investment was much to be preferred to the inexperienced in financial matters.

Herbert W. Bowen, who is one of the hospital trustees, expressed his pleasure at the very able way in which the subject had been presented and moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Scott, which received a unanimous assent.

John B. Byrne, state bank commissioner, who was also scheduled to speak was unable to be present.

FIRST NATIONAL DIRECTORS RESPONSIBLE FOR LOANS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 18. — Charles E. Searls, counsel for George M. Coffin, receiver of the First National bank, has sent a letter to each of the directors of the First National saying that in the judgment of his client, they are responsible for certain loans made by the bank prior to its closing August 11, 1924, and asking them to confer with him about making good the amounts.

Accompanying the letter are specifications of the various loans which the receiver says the directors were culpable in permitting to be made.

One is for $20,000 which, it is alleged, was loaned to a man who had no property of any kind and did not file any statement with regard to himself. It is further said that the indebtedness of this man individually and as a partner at the time the bank closed, amounted to about $70,000. This loan was approved by the directors at their meeting October 8, 1923, and reaffirmed at a meeting held October 15, 1923.

Another of the claims is the money advanced to the Monson Worsted Co. At the time of the closing of the bank a loan of $25,000 was among its assets. In addition it is said this concern was indebted to the bank for about $33,000 on checks paid by it for the benefit of the company.

The Kobert Machine Company loan is another one which owes about $24,000. The statement closes with the following: "In each of these cases the legal limit prescribed by Section 5200 of the United States Statutes was exceeded at one time or another, and in each case a loss will result."

CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK BUYS FORMER FIRST NAT. BLDG.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 18.—The Citizens National bank of Putnam has purchased from the United States government the building at Main and Front streets in which it is located, the former First National bank building.

The price paid is $103,949.58, the figures at which it was carried on the books of the First National bank when it closed its doors August 11, 1924. This includes all the equipment and furniture.

At the time the Citizens National bank was organized the building was leased from the comptroller of currency for a term of three years, the rental to be $4,000 for the first year, $4,500 for the second, and $5,000 for the third, with the option of buying at any time within this period at the price above stated.

The contract also stipulated that the receiver of the First National bank, George M. Coffin, should have use of a part of the building in settling up the affairs of the closed institution.

Under the new ownership it is assumed that the receiver and his clerks will be charged a reasonable rental.

Directors of the Citizens National bank say its financial conditions warrants the purchase, that they deem it a wise and safe investment at the price paid and that it will yield as much return as what would be derived from ordinary commercial transactions.

No other banking institution figures in the deal in any way, the purchase price being paid or secured by the Citizens National bank from its own resources.

The deed to the property, it is expected will be filed for record Thursday.

After realterations were completed by the First National bank the building has been declared to be as fine a banking house as can be found anywhere, and so arranged as to be a model of efficiency for modern banking purposes.

From the viewpoint of actual value as well as from the income in the saving of the rental price, the transaction is considered a very advantageous one for the bank.

NEW BEDFORD SCHOONER WRECKED ON FISHERS ISLAND

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., March 18—Capt. Clarence E. Peckham, of the Fishers Island Coast Guard station, reported to Capt. Amos E. Broadmeadow, late o'clock Tuesday night the two-masted fishing schooner Viking, Capt. Sater Wednesday afternoon, that about 11 bound from New Bedford, Mass., to New York with a crew of four men beside the captain, had gone ashore on Fishers Island in a dense fog and was a total loss, with the exception of the engine. The Viking and a cargo of 15,000 pounds of flatfish. The stretch of beach was an unpatrolled one the place of striking being 4 and 1-2 miles S. S. W. of Fishers Island light. The members of the crew had little trouble in reaching the beach and no one was injured.

Fifty barrels of fish were salvaged by persons living on the island, but the balance of the cargo was lost. It is believed that the rocks tore the bottom from the boat. The Viking, which was owned in New Bedford was built in 1897.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It was not a very favorable impression that the representatives of the court of common council made before the legislative committee in their endeavor to get authority to submit the question of a sale of the gas and electric plant to the owners by seeking a charter along with it for an act of state concern that was the highest bidder.

It was in fact not a proposition that could be expected to impress. The advocates were in fact straddling and throwing cold water on their own plan. They were asking for something which they were going to oppose after they got it. They were tangling up with a referendum the support of one of the bidders. They were urging the majority view of the court of common council without displaying the sentiment of the people. They hamstrung their own pet.

Nothing was said before the committee about the fact that the acceptance of the offer of the highest bidder would have meant giving such a bidder the opportunity to draw from the consumers a profit on that or a larger capitalization, or that it had been stated by this bidder that the offer was made "without any contemplation or plan of changing these schedules in any way whatever," such of course meaning no decrease as well as no increase.

Failure to get the matter of the sale of the plant before the people occasions no surprise in view of the method employed. But it is to be realized that no little insight has been gained relative to the operations of the lighting plant.

Much stress has been placed on the fact that it has been making money for the past few years. Not so much emphasis is laid upon what happened before that time, or how soon it may be before the city will be called upon to spend a half million or a million for a new lighting plant. The present plant hasn't been able to supply the demands for its product. Expansion to meet increased demands is going to mean added expenditures. Where's the money coming from?

The idea of selling the lighting plant is a development of the offer of the Eastern Connecticut Power company to furnish the city electric current at a price that would permit it to save $55,000 a year.

Is such a saving worth making? Is it going to be turned down forever? If we are making $150,000 a year now, isn't it worthwhile to add $40,000 to $60,000 to it and give the people the benefit of lowered rates?

Also, if we are making $150,000 a year aren't the people entitled to a further reduction in the rates?

If we are going to keep our municipal plant, why not get down to brass tacks and insist upon the elimination of the needless expense connected with the cost of production? Why continue to throw away money just because it has been done in the past?

PERU'S ATTITUDE.

Just what the situation is in Peru as the result of the decision of President Coolidge in the Tacna-Arica cases has been clouded by the scant news which has been allowed to come out of that country.

It is thoroughly understood in advance that a matter which is submitted to arbitration is to be decided in accord with the facts. There may be times when it is possible to suit everybody. There are others when it is not, but it isn't for judges to do what they might like to do but what the facts call for.

Chile and Peru have developed so much ill feeling over the settlement of their differences that there was bound to be difficulty in accomplishing an adjustment. The very fact that they could not come to terms themselves indicated the state of affairs, and the manner in which the decision might be accepted if it did not happen to satisfy both sides. It was in recognition of this that insistence was stressed on the part of this country that in connection with the arbitration the respective countries agree in advance to abide by the result.

Chile indicates its satisfaction with the decision made. Peru has not done otherwise as a government, but the manner in which certain numbers in that country have shown their disapproval and started to make trouble tells a story of its own. This is of course most unfortunate, but it is to be realized that this country has no interest in the outcome of the dispute other than the establishment of justice.

Justice is what was aimed at in having the arbitration of the trouble. A settlement without bloodshed and the devastating effects which go with it was the end sought. Refusal on the part of either side to abide by the award would be a most deplorable occurrence, and while Peruvians have been disposed to display their resentment it doesn't appear that the government will decline to carry out the provisions of the decision. Sober reason on the part of the Peruvians will cause them to curb their feelings since the removal of a long standing sore spot, even though it means some sacrifice. Even such an outcome would be far preferable to the horrors of war.

OUR ENVOY TO BERLIN.

In the naming of Dr Jacob G. Schurman as ambassador to Germany, President Coolidge has followed out a policy which he long ago put into operation. He has rewarded faithful service in one diplomatic post by promotion. Dr. Schurman, who was for a quarter of a century the head of Cornell university, has been minister to China for the past four years. There he has had a difficult post but his services have been of the highest character. He was not new at the business when he went to China for he has served on the first commission for the Philippines named by this government and he had also been minister to Greece.

As an educator and as a diplomat he has been of great service to the United States. As he now goes to Berlin there will not only be approval of the president's choice but a feeling of satisfaction that such a man has been chosen for this post which is one of much importance.

Dr. Schurman is not a young man. He has passed the three score and ten milestone, but he is both physically and mentally able to meet the exacting and responsible demands of the office. He has been picked because of his ability and his experience and the country is fortunate to be able to have such representation as he has given in the past and as it is certain he will maintain in the future.

NOW FOR A REST.

Perhaps the best news that has come from Washington in a long time is the information that not only the 68th congress but the senate of the 69th has adjourned. There will be a feeling of relief that the tired legislators have decided to go home and satisfaction that the country may have the benefit of the rest which will come with adjournment by the lawmakers.

Considering the demonstration which has been made by the senate during the few days it has been in session, there can be no surprise that the president has been strongly opposed to a special session of congress which could easily be made to drag through the summer and kept together until the regular session opens in December.

The country needs a rest, the president needs a rest and from the way in which the senate has been doing business it is quite evident that a rest may accomplish much for the members.

It cannot be said that the country is elated over the impression which certain members of that body have created. Just what the effect of it is going to be is as yet a bit hazy. Time will tell whether it is a rest that is needed to eliminate such a situation in the future.

DR. AUGUST WASSERMAN.

Well may Germany mourn the loss of Dr. August von Wasserman, but equally so will the entire world regret his death. Dr. Wasserman was but 59 but he had devoted a great portion of his life in the fighting of disease and he had been remarkably successful. The world owes him much for the discoveries he has made and the use to which they will continue to be put for the relief of human suffering.

Dr. Wasserman was one of Germany's leading bacteriologists. He was a pupil of Dr. Ehrlich, whose death occurred nearly a decade ago, and whose prolonged search resulted in the discovery of salvarsan, the greatest of remedies in the fighting of social diseases. Following in his footsteps Dr. Wasserman by his discoveries made it possible to ascertain by his blood test whether there was any taint of such diseases in the human system. Its use is widespread and of great benefit to humanity. He was also conducting an undiscouraged fight for a cancer cure when death cut short his work. He had been able to get results in the treatment of mice which had been inoculated with cancer, but he had not reached the same goal in connection with human beings.

He has done much in the fighting of disease, and what he has accomplished may provide others with the necessary foundation for carrying his ideas to success. The loss of such an individual means much to the entire world.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: There's something cute about spring every time it appears.

Those Greek bandits don't seem to handle their victims any rougher than do those in New York city.

When Kansas considers making the limit 60 miles an hour on prairie roads it evidently sees the need of speeding up.

Now that Mira has been shown to be a much larger star than thought some will not be satisfied until they can get there.

Opinions may differ as to what is the ideal spring day, but there are so many good examples this year that there should be no difficulty in being suited.

The inspector who went inside of a boiler only to be awakened by the starting of a fire was almost as the drunk who goes to sleep on the railroad track.

The deepened river has given Providence the chance to report increased steamship visitations. Why not give the same treatment to the Thames river and Norwich?

Information to the effect that a tax reduction of $300,000,000 can be expected next year. It is to be remembered however that it is due to administration policies that such a desirable end is in sight.

Julia Poyneky in speaking to the communists at New York warns the country to be prepared for they are about to begin the overthrow of this government. Perhaps she is depending on the support of the insurgents and democrats in Washington.

VERY RESTFUL DAY

"Now, dear," said Hadlock, as he was getting off to business, "don't buzz around today and get all tired out so that you won't enjoy the opera tonight. Let things slide for once, and take a good long nap so you'll be looking your best this evening. We must do the Randalls credit. It certainly was mighty decent of them to ask us to share their box. Come to think of it, Laura, I'll bet my dress suit needs pressing. Would you mind getting it out and taking it to that place around the corner to be pressed? Gee, I wonder how I'm off for a shirt. I oughtn't to have allowed myself to get so low in dress shirts. If the laundry doesn't come this morning, Laura, call up the Dapper store and get Henry on the wire and tell him to send out a dress shirt, special, early in the afternoon. He'll know my size and everything. It is a comfort to deal with one man.

"Now, dear, remember what I told you about resting. Don't you do any hard work around the house today. Oh, by the way, I wish you would try to find that blue print of the proposed factory extension. You know I brought it home on Sunday, and somehow, I don't know exactly what I did with it. I must take it back to the office tomorrow.

"By George, I almost forgot about that date I had with mother tonight. You know I promised to run out to see her and talk over that slump in her Three Waters stock. You'll have to call her up, Laura, and tell her we can't go tonight. You can set another time. You can make it all right with her, dear. Tell her how rushed I am in the office or I would have phoned myself.

"That reminds me I haven't written to Helen yet about that offer for the old house. Would you mind dropping her one of your nice little notes, Laura? Tell her that I haven't had a minute to consider the matter yet, but that I'll let her know very soon just what I think. I suppose she's fussing about it. She was always an awful fusser. Not much like her brother. I don't worry about anything. Now do lie down this afternoon, dear.

"Well, dear, if I can make it I'll come home early and rest some myself. Nothing like getting on the old lounging robe and relaxing an hour before dinner. You know that robe needs a little reorganizing, Laura. If you could shorten the sleeves about an inch and change the frogs so that it would e looser across the chest and turn the hem up so I won't feel like a monk in it I'll be a lot more comfortable when I get into it tonight.

"Say, Laura, I guess you'd better tell Henry to send out two shirts. You know I have to read that blasted paper at the Iron and Steel club dinner on Friday night. I don't want any worry about clothes, that paper is worry enough. I've been meaning to ask you to go over my notes and get them in some kind of order. If you could get a typewritten copy of that material I have jotted down in my desk, you know, and write a little flowery introduction for me to read before I get to the technical stuff, it would help me a heap when I come to get the thing in shape. Will you do that some time today, dear?

"Now, I must be off, and don't forget, young woman, that I expect you to be as fresh as a daisy when I come home. I hope to get out of the office early, but I'll have to stop at the barber's for a hair cut. So long, dear.

"Too bad you can't go to the barber's for me? I don't get the grand idea. How could you go to the barber's for me? I'll tell you what you can do for me, though. You can run downtown and get my distance glasses. I broke a lens yesterday and the optician promised to have them for me today. But I won't have time myself to call for them and I'll enjoy the opera a whole lot more if I have them. Well, goodby, Laura. Be a good girl and take that nap I've ordered for you, dear."—Chicago News.

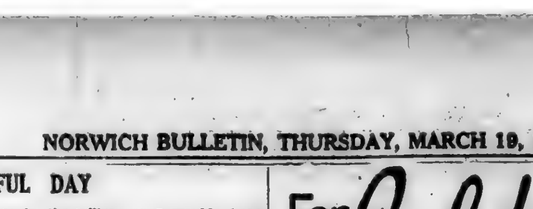
IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Hugh Cabot, who has been honored with the presidency of the Association of American Medical Colleges, has been dean of the medical department of the University of Michigan since 1921. Previous to going to Ann Arbor he had been chief surgeon of the Massachusetts General Hospital and a member of the Harvard Medical school faculty. Dr. Cabot was graduated from Harvard college with the degree of A. B. in 1894 and received his M. D. from the Harvard Medical school in 1898, later being made a fellow of the American College of Surgeons. In 1916 he went to England with the Harvard unit and served on the medical staff of the British Expeditionary force, with the rank of lieutenant colonel. He was made a companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George for his work with the British forces at the front, returning to the United States in 1919.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES



Polly and Johnny Chuck Make Up

Who quarrels soon forgets the pain
In joy of making up again.
—Johnny Chuck.

Never will the little people of the Old Orchard tire of talking about the great fight between Johnny Chuck and the strange Chuck. Never had such a fight been seen in the Old Orchard. When at last the struggles of the strange Chuck began to grow feeble Johnny Chuck let go his grip and backed away. The stranger struggled to his feet. Such a sight as he was! His coat was torn in many places. Without a word he turned and headed toward the old stonewall on the edge of the Old Orchard. He was so used up that he couldn't run very fast. Johnny Chuck followed him, snarling and snapping at his black heels. Over the stonewall the stranger scrambled. Johnny climbed up on the old wall and watched him until he disappeared.

Then with a whistle of triumph Johnny Chuck climbed down from the old stonewall and headed straight for Polly Chuck's new home down in the corner. Polly Chuck ran to meet him. Her eyes were shining. "I knew you would whip him!" she cried. "I just knew it! I have known all along that you would come back and would drive that fellow out."

"Go right down inside, my dear, and see what a nice big bedroom we have"

Then Polly Chuck fell to licking Johnny Chuck's wounds, and there were many of them. All the time she kept softly murmuring: "You poor dear. You poor dear. Do they hurt dreadfully? I hate that fellow. Yes I do, I hate that fellow. I hate him for hurting you like this."

"Huh!" grunted Johnny Chuck, "He's a lot worse off than I am. These hurts are nothing. I guess he won't show his black nose up here again in a hurry."

"If he does we'll both fight him," declared Polly.

"I guess I can do all the fighting necessary for this family," declared Johnny gruffly.

"But he was handsome, wasn't he?" said Polly gruffly.

Johnny looked at her suspiciously. "Huh!" he grunted. Then as Polly snuggled up to him his eyes softened. "I see you have a new home," he said, changing the subject.

"Yes!" cried Polly excitedly. "Come right over and see it. Its one of the nicest houses we've ever had. And there is more sweet clover here in the Old Orchard than ever before. I know you are just going to love this new home. I had begun to think that you would never come. Did you have a nice vacation down there on the Green Meadows?"

Johnny Chuck gave her a queer, sidelong look, but Polly looked so demure and innocent that he merely grunted and started along toward the new home. Polly hurried ahead. Johnny whimpered now and then under his breath, for he was very stiff and sore from his great fight. Polly was waiting for him on the doorstep.

"Go right down inside, my dear, and see what a nice big bedroom we have," said she. "Then you'd better come out and lie in the sun for a while. It will do you good.

Johnny went inside. It really was one of the best houses they had ever had. But he didnt say so. You see, he couldn't quite make himself admit it. When he came out he stretched himself out in the sun, and while Polly licked his wounds a feeling of great contentment and happiness took possession of him. "We'll never have another falling out, will we, Polly?" said he.

"No," said she softly. Then she added: "Not unless you are obstinate again."

Pole Too Long.

John has been to the theatre several times with his father. Impressed by music he takes particular note of the musician and his "big violin" as he calls it in the orchestra—meaning the bass viol.

"Why mother," says John, "he has a big sawyer and saws and saws like this," as he goes through the motion of bowing.

Jumping up as he reaches high above his head he continues: "And mother, the man can hardly reach up the pole."

NORWICH REPRESENTATIVES ATTEND STATE CONFERENCE ON ZONING

Representatives from Norwich were in attendance Wednesday afternoon in a conference held at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, by delegates from all the cities which have zoning and city planning bills before the legislature. These include Bridgeport, Stamford, Greenwich, Darien, New Haven, and Hartford, and the purpose of the conference was that all might give their support to the state enabling act upon which a hearing is to be held next Wednesday at 1:30 before the committee of the legislature at Hartford.

Edward F. Bassett and Herbert S. Swan, members of the planning board of the city of New York, were speakers at the conference. Mr. Bassett commented particularly upon the weaknesses of the various planning and zoning bills which have been prepared by the different Connecticut cities. The Hartford zoning bill, he said, was one of the best.

A substitute bill for the state enabling act will be prepared and each of the cities will have bills of their own to be presented.

The Norwich representatives included Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Chamber of Commerce, W. F. Lester, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, Mrs. Arthur Harvey Lathrop, Miss Amy Coggswell, Miss Mary Kennedy, and Benjamin J. Palmer, who attended to represent the city engineer, Shepard B. Palmer

SOCIAL WORKERS COUNCIL HEARD EXPERT PSYCHOPATH

A meeting of the Social Workers council of New London and Windham counties at the Mohican hotel in New London Tuesday afternoon was held by Dr. Carl M. Bowman of the Boston Psychopathic hospital that a step forward in the prevention of delinquency is a willingness to institutionalize feeble-minded persons for study and treatment on a scientific basis.

There were about 60 women present, Dr. Frank E. Morris, professor of psychology at Connecticut college, attending as guest of honor. Dr. K. M. Bryan of the Norwich State hospital presided.

Dr. Bowman defined a delinquent as one who is unwilling or unable to conform to the rules of the society of which he is a member. He said that the religious conception of evil, namely, of a personal and malign influence by Satan, has given way to other formulations based upon scientific knowledge. He described various tests which are now applied in cases of suspected feeble mindedness. These tests, which were originally used in examining children, have now come into vogue for establishing the mental capacities of criminals, paupers, insane and delinquents.

The speaker's assertion that authorities now incline to the theory that delinquents are 50 per cent inherited cases and 50 per cent acquired caused a stir of interest among his audience. He cautioned against indiscriminate demand for marriage prohibitions for feeble-minded inasmuch as 50 per cent of the cases are not of hereditary nature. On the other hand he recommended continued effort toward further institutionalizing of feeble-minded either as permanent or as temporary cases.

Dr. Bowman made three general classifications of anti-social feeble-minded or delinquents. In the first group he included all those who from birth differ in their physical and mental endowments either subnormally or abnormally from the accepted normal of their fellow creatures. In the second he placed those who suffer alteration of personality either from trauma or from toxic influence or from other causes that render them incapable of conforming to the rules of the society in which they live. Lastly, he grouped all those delinquents of complicated status who are, nevertheless, apparently as capable and law-abiding as their neighbors. Study has shown that this third type is usually the result of some emotional complex. These three kinds of delinquents are known professionally as constitutional psychopathic inferiors.

The speaker in discussing the manner of treating and checking delinquency pointed out two general methods. The first, he explained, is to make it worth while for the delinquent to conform to society's form of conduct. That failing, the second is to make it so uncomfortable for the delinquent offender that he or she will conform to avoid the discomfort of prosecution and punishment. Dr. Bowman made the interesting statement that his experiences in Boston have shown that juvenile cases of encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, have rather frequently resulted in pronounced alteration of personality.

Character being more or less definitely formed in the adult, this consequence has not been perceptible in cases of mature victims.

Mrs. J. Lewis Phillips, general secretary of the Associated Charities of New London, was general chairman in charge of the luncheon arrangements. She was assisted by Mrs. Frank Harris. Menu preparations were under the direction of Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson.

ROUND TABLE MAKES PLANS FOR BOY SCOUTS

An interesting meeting of the scout leaders was held Tuesday night at scout headquarters, 28 Shannon building. Many of the troops were represented, including Taftville, Jewett City and North Stonington.

Several scout activities were planned to be carried out in the near future. One of these is a patrol leaders' training course to begin soon and to continue for five sessions. This course will be held one night a week and will be open to assistant scout masters, patrol leaders and other assistants. The purpose of this course will be to develop patrol leaders who in turn will aid their scout masters in the conduct of their troop.

An inter-troop efficiency contest will be conducted among the troops in the council beginning April 15th and continuing for two months. A trophy cup will be awarded at the June court of honor to the troop attaining the highest percentage. The Plaut-Cadden firm have again offered a cup for this contest.

A resume of games for scout troops on all occasions occupied a considerable part of the evening's discussion as well as the subject of scout songs. Scout games and songs constitute an important place in scouting and a greater point will be made hereafter of this feature.

Refreshments were then served; announcement was made of the New London County Fire Wardens conference to be held in Norwich Tuesday, April 2nd. H. N. Wheeler, chief lecturer of the United States Forest Service will address them. The Forest Guides are to be present at 4 o'clock at the Buckingham Memorial for an address to be given them by Mr. Wheeler.

The round table closed after a full evening's discussion by repeating the scout oath.

OSGA CONTINUES IN VERY CRITICAL CONDITION

Wincenty Osga of Jewett City, an insurance agent, who was severely burned last Sunday night when the machine in which he was riding with John Gaska caught fire after running into a pole and turning over in Jewett City, remains in an exeremely critical condition at the Backus hospital where he has been a patient since the accident.

It has been reported that one extreme measure which might be resorted to in order to save his life would be the amptation of his legs, but this has not been done yet.

ELECTED TO SCHOLASTIC FRATERNITY AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, March 18—Three Hartford men are among the seven students of the Connecticut Agricultural College who were today elected to membership in Gamma Chi Epsilon, honorary scholastic fraternity at Storrs. Hartford students thus honored are Edwin Waldemar Nelson, Leland Eugene Evans, and Sidney Lewis, all juniors. Others elected include Clemens Joseph Diemand '25, of New Britain; Harold William Wardle '26, of Bridgeport; Earl Henry Jagoe '26, of Stratford; and Milton George Moore '26, of Ludlow, Vt.

Announcement of the elections was made today at President's Hour, with Dr. E. W. Sinnott, honorary member of the fraternity presenting the awards. Gamma Chi Epsilon was founded at the State College in 1916, and elections to this fraternity are based upon a high grade of scholastic work, participation in student activities, and character. Members are ordinarily chosen in their junior year by the senior members of the fraternity, and election to Gamma Chi Epsilon constitutes the greatest honor than can come to a student at the Connecticut Agricultural College.

UNFAVORABLE REPORT ON NORWICH G. & E. BILLS

After the hearing in Hartford Tuesday before the incorporations committee on the several bills seeking the right to purchase the Norwich gas and electric property, the committee decided to report unfavorably on the bills.

This, it is expected, will put an end to the discussion and attempt of private corporations to acquire the city gas and electric property.

Rookies To Report at Barracks

Fifteen men from various sections of the state have been ordered by State Police Supt. Robert T. Hurley at Hartford, to report at the Groton state police barracks for training under Sergt. Clifford N. Gorgas.

The length of the training period depends upon the abilities of the "rookies" and as they become efficient policemen they will be drafted for duties in other barracks in the state. Ever since the barracks at Groton was organized, this method of training the men has been used although in late months the Groton station has had few men.

Bulletin's Pattern Service

A SMART VERSION OF THE TUNIC

5014. In this model the tunic effect is shown in the "apron" portion of the front. This slim-line style is youthful and becoming to slender and to mature figures. The sleeve may be finished in wrist length, or short, as in the small view.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 4 3-4 yards of 40 inch material if made with long sleeves. With short sleeves 3-8 yard less material is required. The width at the foot is 1 1-2 yard.

A STYLISH "ENSEMBLE" COSTUME

5003-4839. The most popular style of the season is here pictured. It combines in this instance Ladies Coat 5003 and One Piece Dress 4839. Broadcloth, and a wool mixture in black and gray are used together. One could have satin or faille in two shades or in contrasting colors. The smartness of the "ensemble" depends on the combination that expresses harmony with just the right contrast. The Coat may be finished in the shorter length that is illustrated in the small view. The fronts may be buttoned to the neck, or rolled open as in the large view. The Dress is a simple one piece "slip on" model, with the fulness caught in rows of upright plaits or tucks.

The Coat Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The Dress is cut in 7 Sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years for Misses and 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches, bust measure for Ladies. To make the Costume for a 38 inch size as illustrated in the large view, will require 2 3-8 yards of the wool mixture and 2 1-2 yards of the broadcloth, 54 inches wide with 3-4 yard of contrasting silk for facings on the Coat, or the Coat may be lined entirely, the lining to serve as a facing. This will require 4 5-8 yards.

TWO separate patterns mailed to any address on receipt of 10c FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

Send 12 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer 1925 book of fashions.

SIXTY-FIVE REPORT TO COACH BRIGHAM FOR ACADEMY BASEBALL PRACTICE

The Academy campus was again the scene of great activity and action yesterday announcing that training for the coming baseball season had been started. The call for candidates this year was answered with a surprising spirit, something that has been unheard of at the school for the last three or four years.

Sixty-five candidates composed of many of the under graduates reported for practice. Included in this number were nine members of last year's team. Those following veterans reported: Captain MacGowan, Sullivan, Tomkins, Beach, Cimikowski, Hinrich, Burns, Haslam and Healy. Most of these men are infielders and the outfield positions and the battery are open to the new candidates.

For the backstop position Murphy, Goldblatt, Haddard and Cimikowski are competing. There is much interest as to whom will hold the pitching position. The candidates out for it are two very promising lads Jarvis and [illegible].

Coach Brigham, the baseball mentor, spoke to the candidates stating exactly what was expected of them in the way of training. He told them that discipline was an important factor of the game. He expected every man out for a position to obey training rules and to look out for his physical fitness.

The players were then ordered out for some light batting and fielding practice. This lasted for about two hours. Practice was closed with a snappy sprint around the track.

With so many out there will be some keen opposition for the positions open and the veterans of last year will find no easy job to retain their positions on the team without doubt will find it no easy job From so much material of such promising nature it is thought that a team of championship calibre will be produced.

EUROPEAN FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPION IN AMERICA

New York, March 18—Edouard Mascart, French featherweight, arrived on the France today for a boxing campaign in this country which may culminate in a championship match with Louis "Kid" Kaplan for the world's featherweight title.

Mascart, champion of Europe in his class, was apparently much more interested in the view of New York from the harbor than in a discussion of his immediate professional future. He declined to talk of fistic matters as the ship came up the bay.

"Marvellous," he exclaimed as the liner slipped by the Statue of Liberty and made for her North River pier. "Never have I seen such things!"

Mascart said he was in excellent condition, an assertion enthusiastically supported by his manager, Edmond Tiethard.

A Kaplan-Mascart match has been talked of as sportdom's grand farewell to Madison Square Garden. Proposals have been made to hold the bout on May 6, the night before workmen begin to raze the structure.

Tex Rickard, who has expressed the interest in the proposed bout, has intimated he would prefer to stage the bout outdoors.

CLABBY'S COLTS-ALL STARS GAME ENDS IN ARGUMENT

The much heralded game between Clabby's Colts and Leo Cimikoski's All Stars ended very unsatisfactorily at the state Armory on Wednesday evening, the All Stars leaving the field in the seventh inning with the score 5 to 6 in their favor. Who is right or wrong is hard to tell. The game was replete with arguments over the calling of fouls and apparently the All Stars felt that the decisions were all going to the Colts and gave up the battle in disgust. When the game ended the Colts had three men on bases and no one out so it looks as though the game might have been won by them.

DEMPSEY WILL NOT FIGHT UNTIL FALL

New York, March 18—Jack Dempsey, world heavyweight boxing champion, cannot return to the ring for several months under a contract signed in Los Angeles Tuesday with motion picture producers, the exhibitors' office here announced today.

Dempsey's agreement, it was explained, stipulates that a certain time must elapse after the picture is produced before he can fight again. The producers said that the champion will play opposite his wife, the former Estelle Taylor, in a story having to do with New York life.

Holy Cross Basketball Captain

Worcester, March 18—Vincent A. Passalano, '26, of Springfield, was chosen captain today of the Holy Cross basketball team for next season. Passalano has played the forward position for the past three years with the Holy Cross varsity.

NURMI AWAITS ADVICE OF HIS PHYSICIANS

New York, March 18—Track officials tonight awaited definite word from the Finnish sensation, Paavo Nurmi, as to the prospect of his remaining in this country for several more scheduled appearances.

Friends of the Olympic champion, who has established more than a score of world records since coming to the United States last December, said that an examination by physicians tomorrow undoubtedly will answer the question.

Nurmi's remarkable system failed at one of the critical points of his track career. In a 500-meter race against his greatest rival, Willie Ritola, his stomach failed him last night. Physicians said that a meal of meat shortly before the race brought on an attack which drove him from the competition four laps from the finish, after he had broken three world's records on the way.

The breakdown also prevented a meeting with the little Chicago star, Joie Ray, who has lost many records to the light-haired Finn. Ray ran the mile to equal Nurmi's world record of 4:12.

After meets in New York March 21 and 24, Nurmi is scheduled to depart on a journey which will take him to the Pacific coast.

NEW LONDON SCHOOLS TO RESUME ATHLETIC RELATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 18—That athletic relations between Bulkeley and Chapman Technical highs will be resumed in the not distant future is a result of much publicity given the two teams lately. It was first thought the proper formality of requiring the sanction of school officials from both schools would be necessary before the teams would compete in the tournament which will be held at Storrs college on the 20-21 of this month. It was almost a certainty that the teams would be pitted against each other in the tourney. Both had powers to last and it would have been at the semi-finals or the final contest when these teams met. But the withdrawal of the Bulkeley team from the tourney, and the suspension of the basket ball schedule dispelled the thought that the teams would meet before hanging up their togs for the year.

The big track meet which will be held at the state armory in March 27, will afford those who have been anticipating a resumption in athletic ranks between the two local high schools a chance to see both Bulkeley and Chapman Tech athletes in action. For both teams have entered teams in the meet, and with this a great drawing power, there is no doubt that the huge armory will be filled to see the two teams begin where they left off in the last football game played in 1921, in which Chapman Tech finally broke the winning streak of the Bulkeley eleven to come through with a victory by a 3 to 0 score. Incidentally it was the only Tech victory over Bulkeley in all gridiron contests played since the teams first hooked up to the annual two games, and that in itself was 18 years.

Bulkeley won or tied every game until Johnny Dwyer, now of Fordham kicked a field goal for the only points scored by either team. It was the turning point of athletics between Bulkeley and Chapman Tech. The controversy seemingly started over the two freshmen Bulkeley used in the games prior with Chapman Tech. Tech on the other hand objected strenuously against these two men being used, and although they were reinstated by the state officials the players in question were not allowed to perform with the Bulkeley team against Chapman Tech. The first game was returned in favor of Bulkeley by a score of 19 to 0, but the second contest was against Bulkeley by a 3 to 0 score.

Since that day, relations between the two teams were strained to the point that every effort made by certain local people met with failure. Both head masters remained obstinate, and turned a deaf ear to the proposals which were advanced to have the teams resume athletic relations. The treasury of both schools suffered accordingly, and it is estimated conservatively that $8,000 was lost by each school. Each school made $500 or more on the football games, and there were two played each year. And this sum was attained before the time football reached the popularity that it now enjoys. Including the football, baseball, basketball and track meetings between the two schools, and two meetings in each sport, one can place the figure quoted above which was lost by both schools at a much higher figure.

There has been little love lost between the two schools since the day the relations between the two schools had been severed, and ever since that day every athlete at Bulkeley cherishes that ambition to oppose Chapman Tech once again. If the track meet does not bring together the two head masters, then it will be some time before relations will be once again resumed. However there is talk being circulated locally that after this year's class graduates from Bulkeley, that relations will be resumed. This will mean that football will be the first major sport in which the two teams will engage in, and the fact that Thanksgiving day is being held open by both teams, may mean that the two schools are on the verge of resuming relations after a lapse of four years. Regardless of future developments in this line, the meet which will find Bulkeley and Chapman Tech performers on the same card will be stimulus enough to see the various performers at their best.

MAKOFSKI ELECTED CAPTAIN OF CONN. AGGIE BASKETBALL TEAM FOR 1926

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, Conn., March 18—William F. Makofski '26, of Schenectady, N. Y., star guard on the Connecticut Aggies basketball team, was tonight elected captain of the Aggie varsity for 1926, following a banquet for the team at Johnson's Inn, here. Makofski was the high scorer for the Nutmeg Aggies during the season just closed, and his outstanding work was a big factor in what has turned to be one of Connecticut's best seasons on the chalked court. Makofski returned to Storrs following a year at Cornell. He played forward on the Aggies championship five in 1922, and in 1923 he jumped center. Makofski is also a letterman in baseball and football, and as a freshman in 1921 he made letters in three major sports at Connecticut.

In commenting on the work of the Schenectady boy, Coach Sumner A. Dole said, "Makofski, I believe to be the best basketball player in New England. This past season as running guard he led the Connecticut Aggies in scoring. We played 14 games, and 'Mac' scored 46 field goals and 21 fouls out of 80 shots. He can pass, shoot, take them off the backboard, dribble pivot, and never gets tired." Makofski was selected for one of the guards on the All-Western New England basketball team, which is picked by a vote of the basketball coaches at Trinity, Wesleyan, Connecticut Aggies, Massachusetts Aggies, Springfield, Amherst and Williams.

Makofski's election tonight came at the close of a banquet tendered the varsity hoop squad by the Athletic Council of the State College. In addition to the squad, and Coach Dole, those present included Professors Manchester, Guyer and Hollister and Freshman Coach Alexander. Alumni members present as guests were Paul Putnam, Philip Dean, and W. T. Clark.

RAIN SPOILS CARNIVAL WEEK AT NICE

Local weather conditions in Europe seldom get into American news. Recently, however, millions of Americans read with interest over their their breakfast coffee that it had rained at Nice. Why a rain made cable news is explained in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The unusual downpour had come day after day during carnival week—the red-letter period of pleasure in the gay 'winter capital of the world,'" says the bulletin, "spoiling tens of thousands of dollars' worth of bunting and no one knows how many millions of fracs' of gaiety.

"Nice is often cavilel at as too boistergus, too crowded, and too noisy," the bulletin goes on, "but it continues despite ah that to be the capital of Europe's winter playground, the Riviera. Cannes draws to its villas and hotels those of quieter tastes. Mentone lures its invalids, while all the other scores of resorts along this sunbathed Mediterranean coast draw to themselves appropriated groups of pleasure seekers or health. But Nice is the leading place for all as well as the point of temporary residence for thousands who find this bustling city and well-equipped resort, rolled into one, exactly to their liking.

"Nice's gaiety rises in crescendo to the carnival which takes place just before the beginning of Lent each spring. This more or less historic celebration, a type for numerous festivals around the world, began as a modest fiesta many years ago. It became an organized celebration in 1871 and has drawn increasing crowds since. It must be admitted, too, that it has grown in rowdyism. There are quiet-living souls who leave Nice for the carnival just as there are those who flock there for it. The celebration centers about the battle of flowers in the Promenade des Anglais. There are parades that feature the ludicrous as well as the beautiful, and the inevitable dominos masques, street songs, street dances, horns and confetti.

"There is a considerable English colony at Nice. It dates back many years as one might surmise when he learns that the Promenade des Anglais has borne its name since 1821. Some of the earliest of the seekers of winter sunshine from the British Isles were in the modest Riviera town that year when an unusual cold snap ruined the orange crop. They clubbed together and gave the unemployed natives work by building a road along the sea shore—the Promenade des Anglais. A wag has said that this roadway was built by the unemployed and has been used by the unemployed ever since. The chief boulevard and shopping street in Nice is the Avenue de la Victoire. With its smart shops and smartly dressed shoppers, it is a typical Parisian boulevard in miniature.

"New Nice, with its wide streets and bright buildings, has grown over a large area, almost obscuring quaint Old Nice. One finds the old town in a seemingly compressed quarter across a little torrent from the newer city, between the stream and a bluffiike promontory, Castle Hill, which was the acropolis of the earliest settlement. On one side of the stream are narrow, crooked streets, houses centuries old and here and there ruined palaces. It is a medieval-looking place, but is inhabited by thoroughly modern mechanics, tram drivers and other less opulent inhabitants of the city. On the other side of the stream lies the new city with its avenues and promenades, theaters and casinos, sweeping up hill inland to a zone of hotels, palaces and villas.

"Although many criticize Nice for its modernity and its too-rapid growth, all agree that its setting on a spacious, sparkling bay enfolded by green and lavender hills, is superb. To see the city and its surroundings at their best one should ride over the famous Grande Corniche Road. From Nice it climbs to a high shelf (the name means 'great cornice or shelf') on the inland hills overlooking the entire region both seaward and, off to the snow-capped Alps. Napoleon built the road between 1805 and 1812 to facilitate military expeditions toward Italy. Now it is given over almost entirely to pleasure traffic. Over it 'during the season' whiz charabancs and motorbuses and private cars. After warm weather brings an end to the season this road is of incomparable views is almost deserted."

German Unemployment Decreases.

The number of unemployed, receiving government doles, decreased in the Reich by 9 per cent. from September 15 to October 15. On the latter date 468,000 men and 51,000 women were registered with the authorities as receiving doles.

BIRTH CONTROL BILL WAS REPORTED ADVERSELY TO STATE LEGISLATURE

Hartford, May 15—The birth control bill, so ably argued before the legislative committee on the judiciary last week, was adversely reported to the senate today. Senator Show, of the committee, said that the arguments presented on both sides were able ones and it seemed from the proponents that some aid could be given to certain unfortunates through legislation such as this, but the committee felt that the arguments against the bill out-weighed those for it. The bill was rejected without comment.

The bill to create a state realty commission to license real estate dealers and salesmen again went into the discard, on an adverse report in the senate. The bill aimed to stop door-to-door peddling, or soliciting for sale of certain classes of merchandise, advocated by merchants last week was also rejected. As no one offered in behalf of a bill to place war-time yeomanettes and nurses on the same footing as soldiers, sailors and marines as regards the state relief this bill, was adversely reported.

Senate

The committee on appropriations reported unfavorably on senate bill No 27 making an appropriation of $12,000 for the maintenance of the Israel Putnam camp grounds for the two years ending September 20, 1927. The bill was rejected. Senator Platt said the matter would be covered in the budget.

The committee on cities and boroughs reported unfavorably on the bill to annex a part of the town of Preston to Norwich. Senator Smith said that the proponents and those opposed to the bill had agreed to withdraw it. The bill was rejected.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bill to allow the use of drugs or instruments to prevent conception. The bill was rejected.

The bill to require judges of the superior court and courts of common pleas to file findings with judgment thereon when making decisions in cases plied by them was reported unfavorably by the committee on the judiciary and the bill was rejected.

The committee on roads, bridges and rivers reported a substitute bill empowering the highway commissioner to take land, when requested to do so by selectmen, for improvements on state road highways. Calendar.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bill to regulate and license real estate salesmen. The bill was rejected.

An unfavorable report was received from the committee on the judiciary on the bill amending chapter 391 of the public acts of 1921 providing for the payment of money out of the fund for discharged soldiers, sailors and marines provided "that all nurses, yeomanettes and honorably discharged women from the service of the army and navy and accredited to the college of the state of Connecticut be eligible to obtain relief from this fund." The bill was rejected.

On the unfavorable report of the committee on the judiciary the bill concerning solicitors and peddlers was rejected.

An unfavorable report was received from the committee on the judiciary on the bill requiring town clerks to furnish the secretary of state and the clerks of the superior court in each county with a list of justices of the peace. The bill was rejected.

Theatre Bill Tabled

The bill "concerning child protection from improper amusements" was taken from the table. Senator Robbins offered an amendment fixing the maximum number of children whom one person may have in charge in a theatre at ten. The senator's amendment read: "But no adult person so authorized shall attend more than ten children any one time." No definite action was taken on the bill or the amendment and both were tabled.

An unfavorable report was received from the committee on the judiciary on the bill for the appointment of an attorney in each county to defend divorce cases. The bill was rejected.

An unfavorable report was received from the committee on incorporations in the bill amending the charter of the Eastern Connecticut Power company and the bill was rejected.

The House

The house was called to order at 11:30 by Speaker Darbie. Prayer was offered by Chaplain, Lewis. Petitions were received from Marshal Bevin and others and Irving Tibbals and others and Lee Brockway, of Lyme, and several others, in aid of House Bill No. 941, providing that a road from East Haddam to Moodus and Trunk Line No. 8, in East Haddam. Referred to committee on roads, bridges and rivers.

A desperate and eloquent effort to save the Ashford road bill from instant death in the house today was made by Representative Allen B. Lincoln, of Ashford, who succeeded in getting the bill tabled for a week and action on the unfavorable report of the committee on roads, bridges and rivers postponed that long. The bill is No. 486 and provides an appropriation of $100,000 to complete a section of state aid highway in the town of Mansfield.

A right of way bill for fire apparatus and ambulances passed the house today. The bill requires the drivers of other vehicles to draw upto the side of the road and stop.

As the calendar was being called Miss Cheney, of Manchester, moved that eight matters on the calendar which had been starred but had not been in the files for a day be tabled for a day so that the members could have a chance to read the bills before voting on them. The house agreed with Miss Cheney and seven of the bills were tabled and one recommitted to committee.

A new law regarding the appointments of sealers of weights and measures in towns was passed.

Bills passed from the calendar: No. 708, authorizing the commissioner of domestic animals to make orders and regulations concerning the testing of domestic animals; No. 789, making close season for raccoons from February 1 to October 31.

Bills rejected on committee reports were: Roads, bridges and rivers, No. 689, including a road from Watertown to Middlebury on the trunk line system. Banks, No. 92, concerning interest on deposits in savings institutions; No. 496, concerning investments of savings banks in municipal bonds; No. 454, concerning loans of savings banks on real estate securities owned by corporations, removing requirement of personal guaranty; No. 496, concerning limiting the amount of money loaned by savings banks on real estate mortgages; No. 732, amending section 3,962 of the general statutes, Cities and boroughs, petition for third voting district in Waterford.

The house passed from the calendar the senate bill No. 222, increasing the state police force to ninety men, increasing the salaries of the officers, and providing that the state maintain a mess at the barracks for the men.

Considerable debate followed the calling from the calendar of house bill, No. 955, authorizing the state board of fisheries and game to lease streams and lakes in the state and to permit fishing therein to persons who have an angler's license and to women and boys under 16 years who would get licenses to fish in those waters. The bill, on motion of Mr. Wheeler was tabled retaining its place on the calendar.

The judicary committee reported adversely and the house rejected the following bills: No. 428, providing for use of non-inflammable moving picture rums by schools and churches; No. 431, providing penalty of $25 fine and thirty days in jail for trespassing on posted land; No. 613, concerning the state athletic commission, providing for rendering of decision in boxing matches by two licensed judges; No. 876, providing penalties for impersonators of police officers or obstructing them in discharge of their duties; No. 906, providing that selectmen shall sign applications for admission to state tuberculosis sanitaria.

Favorable report was made by the judiciary committee on the bill limiting the enrollment of students at the Connecticut Agricultural college to 500 in any one year.

The house adjourned to Thursday at 11:30.

JEWETT CITY

A service in honor of St. Patrick was held at St. Mary's church Tuesday evening, a large congregation attending. The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. John J. McCabe. There was a special musical program which included an organ selection, Kathleen Mavourneen, by James Olson; violin trio, Dear Old Ireland (medley overtures) by Stenny Miss, Marjorie Leyden, Irene Bellevance; Hail, Glorious Apostle, was sung by the children's choir; benediction. The recessional was All Praise to St. Patrick, by the choir.

Finn's tonight Amateur Night. Bigger and Better than the last time. Special feature "Love and Glory."—adv.

The largely attended funeral services for John Gaska, was held at St. Mary's church Wednesday morning. Rev. John J. McCabe was celebrant of solemn requiem mass, the deacon being Rev. R. P. Morrissey of Plainfield and the sub-deacon Rev. James J. Tyler. Mrs. Noel Gerand sang as a waiting hymn, Beautiful Land on High. Relatives were present from Chicopee, Holyoke and Springfield Mass., and from Providence nad Anthony, R. I.

The funeral cortege which extended from the church to the state road crossing, gained added impressiveness by the presence of the St. Casimir society, of which Mr. Gaska was a prominent member. They had 83 men in line. The bearers were John Pizzo, Anthonk Brozsik, John Duda; George Maxetal, Mychie Coigi, Joseph Parichk.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in Lisbon, where Father McCabe read the committal service. Hourigan Bros. were the funeral directors in charge.

Amateur nights at the Finn theatre are growing in popularity each week. The plan which began only a few weeks ago, has met with so much public patronage and given such evident satisfaction, that Mr. Barnett is planning further development. Judging from the excellence of some of the amateur skits the break is not wide to semi-pro. Every week there are large audiences to see and applaud the local boxing, drama and vaudeville acts.

The annual meeting of the Baptist Missionary society was held in the church parlor Tuesday afternoon with 16 present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. S. F. Brown, the vice president presided. Monthly and annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were read; also a report of White Cross work done for the year. The officers elected are: President, Mrs. A. M. Brown; vice president Mrs. S. F. Brown; secretary, Mrs. Lillian Harris; treasurer, Mrs. Martin Davis; auditor, Mrs. G. H. Prior. Instead of the usual program there was a very interesting address by Mrs. Florence C. Thomas, New England district secretary for Christian Americanization.

The Bethel church plans a church family night, Friday evening, at the home of Ransom H. Young There will be a social and refreshments.

The Pachaug Ladies' Aid society is to meet at Mrs. W. B. Montgomery's this (Thursday) afternoon.

Mrs. Eli Anthony and Mrs. Paul Anthony are spending several days in New York.

Old Cluey Watson was over to town Wednesday for a two-fold purpose. First, he was anxious to express his satisfaction that his old friend, Pierre Petac of Danielson, had returned to his native heath. Cluey has wondered as he says "whar that old French feller had gone tu," adding that he "didn't know but he had been up to Vermont to visit his brother-in-law, Antoine Bessette, made famous in Rowland E. Robinson's wonderful stories of the Green Mountain state.

The other reason for his visit was to tell of his pleasure in receiving a copy of a letter written by a man in Stamford, where his report of the Maine ice breaker, that most wonderful bird, was entirely corroborated. The letter was printed March 8th in a New York Sunday paper. The letter explains that the writer was among the crew of a government vessel which was sent several years ago to relieve a party of explorers whose launch was caught in a freeze in one of the Maine rivers. The rescue boat was halted by heavy ice, and the men were about to turn back. The writer of the letter was on deck one day when he noticed a strange flock of birds hovering over the ice-bound vessel.

The cook, an old timer, was called and after squinting through the ship's glasses he propounced them none other than genuine Maine ice breakers.

Hurrying below, he returned with a basket of crackers and bits of cheese, which he threw upon the ice. The birds dropped to feed in a hurry, one having the misfortune to sustain a compound fracture of his left propellor. After they had dined, and being anxious to pay for their feed, the birds got their rotary wings and flail like tails into immediate action, clearing the ice from a channel 200 feet wide and 40 miles in length in one-half hour. The Stamford writer attached in solemn affidavit. Old Cluey has never seen them in action, but has "hearn tell about it."

POETRY

The Jackdaw

There is a bird, who by his coat,
And by the hoarseness of his note
Might be supposed a crow;
A great frequenter of the church,
Where bishoplike he finds a perch,
And dormitory, too.

Above the steeple shines a plate,
That turns and turns, to indicate
From what point blows the weather;
Look up—your brains begin to swim,
'Tis in the clouds—that pleases him,
He chooses it the rather.

Fond of the speculative hight,
Thither he wings his airy flight,
And thence securely sees
The bustle and the rare-show,
That occupy mankind below,
Secure and at his ease.

You think, no doubt, he sits and muses
On future broken bones and bruises,
If he should chance to fall.
No; not a single thought like that Employs his philosophic pate,
Or troubles it at all.

He sees that this great roundabout,
The world, with all its medley rout,
Church, army, physic, law,
Its customs, and its businesses
Is no concern at all of his,
And says—what says he?—"Caw."

Thrice happy bird! I too, have seen
Much of the vanities of men;
And sick of having seen 'em
Would cheerfully these limbs resign
For such a pair of wings as thine,
And such a head between 'em.
—From the Latin of Vincent Bourne by William Cowper.

Envy

Do I begrudge the men of means—
Who have their cars at beck and call—
Their up-to-date, ornate machines,
Say, do I envy them at all?
Do you suppose that I lament
The fact that my car is far from new:
Do I give way to discontent?
You bet I do!

I'd like to know just how it seems
To say "Home, James," or "To the club,"
To have a car that fairly gleams—
Without me giving it a rub.
Yet, when I think of all the fuss,
I realize my cares are few;
Then do I value my old bus?
You bet I do!

KALEIDOSCOPE

M. Herriot, the French Premier, and M. Theunis, Premier of Belgium, are both sons of military officers.

A teacher in a Natrona (Pa.) school had occasion to keep an eight-year-old pupil after school. The child started to cry and the teacher, inquiring the cause of the tears, was told that the boy "had to go to tend his father's still." It was fear of a whipping by his father should the still boil over that prompted the boy to ask to be dismissed with the other members of his class.

A new use for radio was discovered by the Brunswick (Me.) fire department when it arrived at the farm of Fred E. Harmon in response to a telephone message for a chimney fire. They found Mr. Harmon's two sons on the roof, while Mrs. Harmon and daughter were filling pails with water which were hauled to the top of the building by means of the aerial which had been conveniently attached to the chimney.

Nematodes, the wildest enemy of the sugar-beet, are destroyed by Drs. Bauncher and Rensch, working for a large chemical company at Halle, Germany, by a strategy new in the war on crop pests. A chemical formula, kept secret by the Germans, lures to their death the ravenous earth-dwelling worms which by an organ analogous to the tongue can detect their food at a distance of many yards. Nematodes have been impossible to eradicate because of the heavy cyst or shell in which the eggs are incased, highly resistant to the most powerful destructive fluids. Moreover, the eggs remain alive as long as eight years. But when, after harvest when the eggs have been laid, the beet field is saturated with the potent chemicals, the larvae are lured forth by the bait and by the lingering warmth in the soil. Then winter comes and the entire nematode population is killed.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

WOULD-BE CIRCUS PERFORMERS RUDELY HELD UP AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 18.—A passion to travel with a circus led three youths whose homes are in Wakefield, Mass., to risk their lives by riding between railroad cars on the way from their homes to Bridgeport. They were put off the train they boarded when they were discovered at Hill's Grove, but their enthusiasm led them to persist in getting to Bridgeport, that they might become associated with the Ringling Brothers' show that is soon to start on the road. The youths are David Whelton, Paul Crosby and Robert Salvati. Whelton's father is dead and the boy resided with his mother and brothers.

The youths were in the police court this morning after Railroad Officer Green had nabbed them, in response to a telegram from the train. They were turned over to Richard W. Mansfield that they might be fed at the Learned Mission and then were sent back to their homes. They had some $3 between them in cash and this was used in the purchase of railroad tickets.

Joe Pozello and Joe Spadaro will be in the police court Thursday on a charge of assault of a felonious nature. They engaged in a fight in which, it is alleged, a blackjack and a knife were used on Shaw street some ten days ago. Spadaro went to the hospital as a result and Pozello was left to defend himself from conviction as attempting the life of his countryman. He could not be tried with Spadaro in the hospital, so the case went over till tomorrow. Pozello is said to claim that he was attacked and that he only resisted the vicious assault made upon him. Spadaro has not yet been known to have made a statement as to what occurred, but he is fortunate that he is able to make any statement. He had a knife wound in the side, close to the nipple that left him weak and in a depressed condition.

The police claim that there has been a lessening of the number of automobile accidents in this city of late, and they are trying to account for the decrease. It is to the credit of New London that few cases of prosecution for the operation of automobiles by drunken drivers have been made. This is attributed by some of the officers to the fact that little or no liquor of even a mediocre quality is now to be had in this city. They say that all the stuff that goes for whiskey is of the sort that is made at home and that men refuse to drink it. According to the officers, no liquor that is worthy of the name is being brought in here.

William J. and Mary A. Crocker have sold a house and lot on Montauk avenue to Joseph H. and Cora B. Gurney.

Arthur Silnk, of Union street; Miss Helen Edwards, North Stonington; Miss Christine Craven, Uncasville; Paul Kelly, U. S. S. Cassin; Master James Lyons, West Coit street; Mrs. Henry Menge, Mystic; Mrs. Edward Powers, Lyme; Frank Sylvia, Stonington, and Charles Augastis, U. S. S. Beale, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Lionel Conary, 4 1-2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Conary, 545 Ocean avenue, escaped serious injury this afternoon, although knocked down by an automobile, owned and operated by Michael Baldelli, 34 Stuart avenue. The child had been at the rear of a motionless ice wagon on Ocean avenue, near the corner of Thames street and as the automobile was about to pass, the child ran from the rear of the wagon and not seeing the automobile, he continued in an attempt to cross the highway, ran against the rear mudguard and was knocked down. Dr. F. M. Dunn, who was in the vicinity, examined the boy and found that the child had received injuries no more serious than bruises and scratches.

Joseph Perry, of 52 Denison avenue, complained to the police early this morning that a man was loitering about his home. Patrolman John Foley, who was dispatched to the Perry residence, was unable to locate the prowler.

The condition of Edward T. Leary, 54 Fremont street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Leary, has become critical at the Norwich state tuberculosis sanatorium, in which institution he has been under treatment for several months. Mr. Leary's condition has gradually become worse until now but little hope is held out for his recovery.

It is believed that Wilbur Edwards, 10, who disappeared from his home, 30 Morse avenue, Groton, last Saturday afternoon, has been drowned in the Thames river. Nothing has been seen or heard of the child since he disappeared, although a search for the child has been made by the authorities of New London and Groton. The theory of the child having been drowned is further indicated by the finding of a row boat in which the child was known to play, overturned on the banks of the river where the craft is moored.

The trial of Paymaster Thomas F. Farrell, assigned to the United States Coast Guard cutter Redwing, who has been a prisoner at the county jail here many weeks awaiting a hearing before a naval board, charged with embezzlement of funds of the government, was started today, at the coast guard sectional base, state pier. There are many witnesses to be interrogated and books of the accused to be inspected, so that it is believed the trial will occupy several days. With the board making its finding in the case, a report of the court martial will be forwarded to the treasury department at Washington, where it will be made known whether Farrell is guilty, as charged and whether punishment will be meted to the accused. Farrell is well known in New London, having been attached to the Redwing ever since that craft was detailed to make this port her station and in pursuit of the rum-runners of Long Island, Fishers Island and Block Island sounds. The amount of money Farrell is accused of embezzling is not definitely known, but it is understood to be several thousand dollars.

William Russell, 77, former master barber, died this morning at his residence, 15 Crystal avenue, death resulting from pneumonia, with which he had been ill two weeks. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Abearn, with whom he resided. He had been a member of F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company for many years.

Mr. Russell had been a barber 41 years, having retired from active employment about 15 years ago. He was proprietor of establishments in the city in various locations 25 years, for many years being located at the corner of State and North Bank streets.

Mrs. Maria Condon is confined to her home, Fillet street, suffering from an eye affection.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Prince have returned, after having spent several days in Boston.

Police Sergeant Patrick Murphy in charge of the 11 o'clock squad, is confined to his home, Ledyard street, by an attack of grip.

The condition of Captain of Police Charles A. Piney, who is confined to his home, Howard street, suffering from a severe cold and rheumatism, is reported today as being somewhat improved.

Donald Aitken, of Montauk avenue and Ellen Greenman, Winthrop street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

David I. Connor has purchased a house and lot on Jefferson avenue from Charles B. Hanson.

John C. and Beatrice C. Cook have purchased two houses and lots on Bellevue place from Michael McGrail and Antonio and Vincenzo Di Maggio.

Youths in the vicinity of the Waller school, corner of Riverview avenue and Alger street, made a nuisance of themselves tonight by creating such a disturbance that complaint was made to the police by the teachers, who were attending a meeting of school teachers in the building. Patrolman John Foley was sent to the school and dispersed the group.

It is rumored today that one of the dry goods stores located on State street is soon to discontinue business. The report could not be verified, owing to the owners of the store not being located.

BRIDGE MAN'S STOLEN CAR FOUND AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 18.—A Ford coupe owned by Ralph Beeman, a lodger at 189 Howard street, employed by the Berlin Bridge company, was stolen at East New London this afternoon and three hours later the machine was recovered in Willimantic, to which city the thieves, two young men, had operated it.

Beeman came to New London this afternoon to begin work on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad bridge that spans the Thames river. He parked his machine near his work and about an hour later he discovered that it was missing. Policeman reported the theft of the auto to the police and a request of the state police at Groton and Centerbrook and the Norwich, Hartford and Willimantic police was made to be on the look out for the stolen machine. When the car, which bore registration of the state of Indiana, appeared at Willimantic, it was held up and it was then determined that the automobile was the car stolen from this city.

CONDUCTOR FRANK W. NEWELL RETIRED ON PENSION

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 18.—Frank W. Newell, 28 School street, well known conductor in the freight service of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, has been retired, announcement being made today at the office of the railroad. Mr. Newell's health has been impaired for some time and a few months ago he was compelled to submit to hospital treatment. Mr. Newell has a record of 51 years of continuous service with the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, having entered the employ of the company May 10, 1873, as a freight conductor under Supt. W. S. Jones, Central division of the old New York and New England railroad. Although Mr. Newell's pension has but recently been approved, it is effective as of July 1, 1924, at which time he retired from active service because of ill health. Mr. Newell is a well known member of New London lodge of Elks and is a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors.

NEW AUDITORS SUCCEED BREWER AND EDGCOMB

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 18.—Owing to the recent death of Judge Frederick H. Brewer and the resignation of Howard A. Edgcomb as auditors of the town of Groton, the selectmen of the borough have appointed Rev. George R. Atha and William A. Fraser, the latter of Mystic, the new auditors.

STONINGTON

Mrs. William Brooks and Mrs. Raymond Bailey have been in Waterbury to attend the annual session of the Royal Neighbors, as representative of Mystic branch.

Capt. Fratus of Orient Point lighthouse, Long Island, is on shore leave in the borough.

The woman's board of the Congregational church plans to make a jubilee offering to assist in the work in India in which Miss Usaher is engaged. The amount will be collected between now and Easter.

Rev. Dwight C. Stone, former pastor of the Second Congregational church here, has had a unanimous call to become pastor of the Congregational church at Hanover, and Sunday morning read his acceptance of the call.

Mr. Stone has been supplying the pulpit there for two months. He leaves Stonington with the best wishes of all for during his stay of twenty years here he has won many friends. With Mrs. Stone he takes up a work in a community where there is but one church with a membership of 97 residents and 19 non-residents. The church was organized in 1766 and the present building was erected in 1847.

Mr. Stone is given a salary of $2,200 a year with a parsonage and a garage privilege in addition. The parsonage is equipped in up-to-date manner. The church last year gave to benevolences $2,000 and for home expenses $3,000. Mr. Stone will begin his work April 1st and will also supply the pulpit during the remaining Sundays of March.

MYSTIC

At the missionary meeting, held with Miss Emeline Fiske, Tuesday afternoon, Miss Mary Jesse, a teacher in the Baptist High school in Senda, Japan, gave an interesting talk about her worktime. After the earthquake in another part of Japan some of the students came to the Senda school which was full, but they arranged to take them in and since she has been here the school was able to secure money to finish off class rooms in another building. Miss Jesse is a highly educated woman, having been principal of a high school before deciding to enter missionary work. She is a native of Richmond, Va.

At this meeting, Mrs. Frank W. Batty, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the names of the present officers for re-election, as follows: President, Mrs. L. P. Allen; vice presidents, Mrs. J. G. Osborne, Miss Harriet Fish, secretary and treasurer, Miss Helen Wilbur.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Old Mystic Baptist church served a supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Colt, of Pearl street, Wednesday evening. Some from here were invited among them Rev. and Mrs. Arthur J. Fowler. Mrs Colt lived in Old Mystic before her marriage and once a year invites the society to her home.

The Pull-o-Pep bowling team, Mrs. J. G. Tyler and Misses Helen Allen, Elsa Richter, Louise Richter, Ellen Watson, was in New London Wednesday evening to play against a girls' team.

J. H. Stivers of Stonington, a well known Boy Scout leader, will have charge of the recently organized troop at the Community house.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ray have returned to their home on High street after spending the winter in Worcester, Mass., where they have been employed.

Manning Miner has the contract to build a porch on the house of Misses Joanna and Rachel Burnett, on High street.

Unemployed workmen of France receiving state aid number more than 10,000.

Will Entertain Northfield Secretary.

Miss Fanny C. Hatch, alumnae secretary of Northfield Seminary, is to be the guest of the New London Northfield club at the Y. W. C. A. in that city, Saturday afternoon and evening, March 21st. Former Northfield students in this vicinity are planning to give her a royal welcome.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is active, the blood discovery with 4 distinct actions; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and, kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, croup, bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Change washing into just rinsing

Soap begins to wash only when dissolved—you have to help bar soap wash, rub it on the clothes and make it dissolve—then rub it out again

Without help from you Rinso dissolves completely, loosens and floats out all the dirt—leaves you just the work of rinsing

This new kind of soap does the washing . . . leaves you just the rinsing

SAVE yourself from all the hard, dreary part of washday with this new kind of soap that does the work of washing for you. It leaves you just the rinsing to do, bringing you a shorter, cheerier, easier way to get clothes clean—a way without any hard rubbing.

That's why it is called Rinso.

Rinso comes in tiny granules that dissolve quickly, completely in boiling water releasing more good safe cleansing power than was ever put into a soap before. Then the rich suds gently loosen and float out the dirt without your having to stand over the tubs rubbing to dissolve the soap, then rubbing to force out the dirt. All you need do is rinse the clothes bright and spotless.

* * *

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux. It is safe for any garment you put in the weekly wash. Over a million packages are sold every week. It works perfectly any way you like to wash. 27 leading makers of washing machines recommend it. It is fine, too, for dishes, bathtube, linoleums and floors. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Cuts the work of washday in half

Market Fluctuated

New York, March 18—Stock prices rallied briskly in today's early trading is apparent disregard of the St. Paul receivership, but turned decidedly weak again towards the close when selling pressure was renewed against the Standard rails and industrials, sending many of them to new low prices for the year. Total sales again crossed the two million share mark, the avalanche of selling orders in the last few minutes of trading resulting in a delay of 19 minutes in the recording of the last quotation on the official ticket.

The St. Paul issues held relatively firm in the early trading. The common opening at 8, advanced slightly, broke to a new low at 5 3-4 and then rallied to 6 1-8, for a net loss of 7 1-8 on the day. The preferred opened at 13 3-8, advanced to 14, collapsed to a new low at 10 and closed at 10 1-4, off 3 3-4 on the day.

While the St. Paul situation is generally regarded as an isolated one and not necessarily symptomatic on railroad conditions in the northwest, there was, nevertheless, heavy selling of some of the other grangers. Chicago northwestern dropped more than two points to a new low at 62 3-4 a bunch of a point or more were recorded by Great Northern preferred, Chicago Great Western preferred, Chicago and Alton preferred and Frisco common, while Atchison, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific and a few others yielded fractionally.

Great weaknesses also cropped out in the copper stocks, Kennecott, Anaconda and Cerro de Pasco, all selling at the year's lows. United States Cast Iron Pipe opened unchanged at 209, advancing to 210 and then broke to 186 for a net loss of 12 points on the day. Some of the other outstanding weak spots included American Ice, Davison Chemical, Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance, Hydraulic Steel preferred, all off 3 to 4 points.

Excellent buying support developed for American Can, which opened at 172, advanced to 174 3-4, dropped to 170 and closed at 171, for a net gain of 1 1-8 on the day. Pan-American Petroleum B., closed 2 5-8 points higher at 74 3-4, independent strength also was shown by American Express, American Water Works, United Fruit, Western Pacific preferred and West Penn Power.

Call money renewed at 3 1-2 per cent. and then dropped to 3. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held relatively steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled around $4.77 1-8 and French francs at 5.18 cents.

Opening grain ran from 1 to 5 points in most of the active issues. This early buying apparently was based on the speculative belief that the so-called "bad news" regarding the St. Paul has been discounted. Other favorable factors included a reduction in call money rate, a sharp rally in grain prices and the publication of record freight car loading statistics for the week ended March 7.

Towards mid-day, when it became apparent that the rally had spent its force, bear operators resumed their activities, centering their pressure on the St. Paul issues, which crumbled to new low records, and on American Woolen, which was hammered down more than four points to 37, the lowest price in about nine years.

Steel shares were then subjected to attack, United States Steel common which had sold as high as 121 5-8 in the early trading, being depressed to a new low record for the year at 119 1-2 and then rallying to 120 where it was unchanged on the day. Bethlehem dropped more than two points to a new low at 39 1-2 and then rallied to 40. Republic, Crucible and Gulf States fell back two to 3 points, also touching new minimum quotations for the year.

Bond Market

New York, March 18—The collapse of St. Paul railway bonds to record low levels, which followed the appointment of receivers for the road, featured today's bond market. Prices of the company's junior issues broke one to six points, turning the trend of other obligations downward after an early period of firmness.

Although preliminary announcements regarding the St. Paul's financial readjustment and the formation of protective committees foreshadowed receivership proceedings, drastic liquidation of the bonds did not develop until after the formal application had been filed.

Selling gradually increased in volume, driving the Puget Sound 4s down six points to a new low at 49 and causing recessions of one to five points in the Convertible 4 1-2s and 5s, the Refunding 4 1-2s, the 4s of 1925 and 1924 and the 4 1-2s of 1932.

Other rail liens, which had displaced a firmer tone in the early dealings in line with an initial rally in stock prices, later eased off. New York Central 6s dropped a point and moderate losses were sustained by Missouri Pacific, "Big Four", Pennsylvania, Southern Railway and International Great Northern issues.

Wilson & Company obligations developed independent strength, the 7 1-2s mounting 3 points and the Convertible 6s 2 1-2 ni anticipation of an early announcement of reorganization plans.

Prospective new financing includes a $10,000,000 loan for the government of Finland.

Public offering of the issue will be made tomorrow in the form of 25-year 7 per cent. bonds, priced at 94 to yield over 7.50 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 18.—Soaring prices in the wheat market today accompanied big buying in which foreigners took the lead. The pinnacle for the day was reached after word came that the secretary of agriculture had directed an immediate investigation of the unprecedented violent changes that have dazed the grain world of late. After touching $1.64 a bushel, May delivery, an extreme rise of 11 cents overnight, wheat closed unsettled at 4to 9 cent gain, May 1.61 3-4 to 1.62 and July 1.42 1-4 to 1.43, corn finished 2 1-2c to 3c higher, oats 1 3-4 to 2 1-2c up and provisions varying from 17c decline to an advance of 12c.

Before the wheat market opened today, opinion was general that federal investigation had already started and that a swift reaction from yesterday's selling panic would be witnessed. A rapid advance in wheat prices at Liverpool gave further emphasis to belief that a big upturn in the market here would take place offerings were, therefore, next to nothing when trading began. Instead, frantic bidding hoisted prices straight up for a bushel. Then the volume of transactions broadened out to a wonderful extent but at no time was the selling pressure sufficient to force a greater setback than 4 nl-2c.

Corn and oats derived their strength almost entirely from the action of wheat. Enlarged shipping sales of oats, however, were noted, and decreased arrivals both of corn and oats.

Lard was easier as a result of profit taking, but other provisions were responsive to firmness of hog values.

Curb Market

New York, March 18—Reactionary tendencies again predominated in today's curb market although strong spots appeared in several sections of the list. The oils were mixed. Cities Service common broke six points to 180 and Vacuum, Ohio and Penn-Mex Fuel losing a point or two, while Prairie Pipe advanced two points and a number of others, including Standard Oil of Indiana, improved fractionally.

White Rock voting trust certificates responded to the declaration of an extra dividend and an increase in the regular rate by advancing more than 4 points to 24 and then falling back to 22 1-4.

A break of six points in Lehigh Power securities was the outstanding development in the public utility list. Middle West utilities sagged 1 1-2 points to 96 1-2.

Glen Alden coal was up above 132 but slipped back later to 129, off a point on the day, under the weight of realizing sales. Selling pressure against the radio issues appears to have subsided, closing quotations disclosing only small fractional changes. Kelvinator and Goodyear tire showed moderate improvement.

STATE AID IS SOUGHT BY MANY FOREIGN BORN

The significance of the state of Connecticut of the presence of large numbers of foreign born residents, who find their way into institutions where they become public charges, was emphasized by H. Roger Jones, attorney for department of state agencies and institutions, in an address before the Farmers' association of the state legislature at the capitol recently.

Mr. Jones said that out of 695 patients in tuberculosis sanatoriums at the time of a survey by the department, there were 201 alien born and 450 who had one or both parents foreign born. An investigation at Norwich had shown that of a total of 1,749 patients, 686 were foreign born and 550 had one of both parents foreign born. He said that out of 2,047 cases there were found of absolutely unknown nationality.

Mr. Jones called the Connecticut system of widows aid, which is administered by his department, one of the greatest things in Connecticut. There are now 707 widows and 2,089 children receiving aid.

"The payments are made weekly and on Thursday," said Mr. Jones "and this very day we are mailing out $7,713.12 in checks that will range from $2 to $24.75."

Each case is settled individually after it has been investigated by his department, said Mr. Jones.

In answer to a question as to whether there are three separate investigations, one by the town, one by the county and one by the state, in each case, Mr. Jones replied that he did not know.

Mr. Jones said that many of the foriegn born came from countries that made no provisions for tubercular or mentally diseased persons. "The strain we get is likely to be tainted with mental diseases," said he.

More than $50,000 had been collected from persons who had received aid from the state, but who had been found to have means of their own or relatives who could assist them and who were then induced to refund to the state.

Mr. Jones commended the Connecticut system as one in which the widow receiving aid is compelled to pay whatever she can toward her own support or to earn money if she is able and in which the children between the ages of 14 and 16 are also compelled to earn money if they can. "If they are able to bring in something, we see that they do it," said Mr. Jones.

"We are criticised by unthinking persons who thing Connecticut should have a full support system," said Mr. Jones. "But we are trying to help establish thrift in Connecticut and it is working that way. If a widow can't bring in but $1 a week she should do it, and we see that she does."

Mr. Jones explained that alien widows are not eligible to widows' aid under the law of this state, but that out of a total of 654 widows receiving aid at the time of a survey, 258 were alien born and had become entitled to receive the aid through naturalization or through marriage to a citizen.

HEARS SKIPPER'S SUIT FOR MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

In the superior court at New London, Wednesday, the marriage annulment action brought by George Francis Smith, a barge captain, against Madeline Mulligan Smith, also of New London, was heard by Judge Allyn L. Brown. Upon the conclusion of the trial Judge Brown took the papers and reserved decision. In his complaint the plaintiff claims that he was induced to enter into marriage by reason of false and fraudulent representations on the part of the woman from whom he now seeks separation. He further alleges that his wife was previously married twice, and that at the time of her marriage to him she had not been fully released from the bonds of those marriages. Attorney George C. Morgan appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Clayton B. Smith for the defendant.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain — the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary trouble and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

LEGAL NOTICES

H. G. Craig & Co., Ltd., et al.
vs.
The Uncas Paper Board Co.
Superior Court
New London County
March 14th, 1925

In re application for appointment of a temporary receiver.

Order Appointing Temporary Receiver

The application of the plaintiffs in the above entitled action brought to the Superior Court to be held within and for New London County on the First Tuesday of April, 1925, which application is dated the 12th day of March, 1925, having been presented to the undersigned, it is found that the defendant corporation has actual knowledge of the pendency of said action against it for the appointment of a receiver and of this application for the appointment of a temporary receiver; and that the allegations of said application are true and that a temporary receiver ought to be appointed forthwith.

Now Therefore, It is Ordered

1. That Frank W. Browning of the Town of Montville be and he is hereby appointed temporary receiver of the said The Uncas Paper Board Company.

2. That said appointment shall not take effect until said Browning shall have filed with the clerk of this court a bond in proper form with good and sufficient surety in the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars, conditioned on the faithful performance of his duties under said appointment and in the event that he shall at any time or times hereafter be confirmed or appointed in said action either as temporary or permanent receiver, his faithful performance of his duties as such receiver, and said bond shall have been approved by this court.

3. That said Browning immediately upon the taking effect of his said appointment shall proceed to take possession of all the books, papers, evidences of debt and property of said corporation, to collect all moneys owing to it, and to take all lawful steps within his power to secure and preserve its assets.

4. That said receiver continue to carry on, in such manner as he may deem judicious, the business now conducted by said corporation until otherwise ordered, but no longer than for one month from this date, and to that end he is authorized to make such contracts, purchases and disbursements as may be necessary.

5. That a hearing upon the confirmation of said appointment, and for the appointment of two appraisers, be had before the undersigned at a session of this court to be held in the Superior Court Room in New London on the 27th day of March, 1925, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that said temporary receiver give notice of his appointment, and of said hearing to all parties in interest, by publishing a copy of this order in the Norwich Bulletin twice, and by mailing a like copy, postage prepaid, to each stockholder of record and known creditor of said corporation at their several last obtainable addresses, all on or before the 18th day of March, 1925.

ALLYN L. BROWN
Judge of the Superior Court

The foregoing is a true copy of the original order appointing a temporary receiver, etc., of The Uncas Paper Board Company.

Attest: FRANK W. BROWNING,
Temporary Receiver, The Uncas Paper Board Co.

TAFTVILLE

The Thimble club was entertained Tuesday by Miss Emily Pollard of South Second avenue.

St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society met Wednesday evening at their rooms on Providence street, with President Louis White in the chair.

Dr. Robert E. Speer who preached at the Taftville Congregational church a few months ago, is one of the trustees of the Church Peace Union, who announced Monday that representatives of all religious faiths would meet in August, 1928, in Geneva to promote world peace.

Mrs. Wilfred Pollard of Block Island, R. I., is the guest of her father, Thomas Greenwood and family of South Second avenue.

John Koziol has resigned his position with the weaving department of the Ponemah company.

Given Surprise Party.

A delightful surprise party was given for Miss Noreen Shea at her home Saturday evening. Musical selections were rendered and dancing and games were enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nellie Shea, assisted by her daughter Marjorie.

Those present were Misses Anna Hazam, Billie Toth, Mary Foley, Elsie Shea, Madeline Fitzgerald, Gertrude Hamill, Grace Walz, May O'Brien, Agnes Dunn, Maude Woolly, Mary Donegan, Eleanor Mahoney, Elizabeth Sullivan, Ruth Whitehead, Helen Ravenal, Florence Wright, Gussie Lasky and Raymond Hiscox, Robert Moody, John Fitzgerald, John Hanlam, Arthur McGowan, Maynard Sullivan, Tony Longo, Patrick Coughlin, Daniel Coughlin, Gerald Burke, Frank Grover, James Brassil Norman Corbois, William Higgins, John Spotten, John Tennant, Michael Green, Sirphino Tombarri, Leon Lewis, Charles Harrington, Benny Colbolt, Robert Martin, George Chapman.

Lenten Service Preacher

At the united lenten service to be held this (Thursday) evening at Christ Episcopal church, the sermon will be by Rev. Frederick H. Nason, rector of Grace church, Hartford.

An English railway will add 11,700 new freight cars, costing $11,500,000.

Why Many Women Grow Old Too Young

Science tells us that the real reason why thousands of women grow old in years and health while still young in years, and often look 10 to 15 years older than they really are, is not hard work, worry or care, but simply this, pale blood.

Everyone knows that it is the blood that carries nourishment to every part of your body—that puts roses in your cheeks, color in your lips, sparkle and life in your eyes, and gives you that youthful, tireless animation that is so greatly admired by either sex. And Science now tells us that blood gets this remarkable power from a special form of iron, which it contains, known as organic iron. With plenty of this organic iron in her blood a woman may look and feel vigorous and young at 60 or 70—while at 40 or even 30 the woman with but little organic iron in her blood may be weak, scrawney, haggard-looking, tired and listless, and suffer numerous other symptoms of premature age that rob her of charm and attractiveness.

In such cases what you must do is to take something that will put back into your blood the strength and youth-giving organic iron that it is starving for. For this purpose nothing is more effective than Nuxated Iron which has been recommended by well-known physicians. For Nuxated Iron is a wonderful new combination of organic iron, like the iron in your own blood. It is entirely different from the old-fashioned liquid medicines and pills made from ordinary mineral iron—does not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Millions of people are using Nuxated Iron to make rich red blood that builds up firm, healthy flesh, clear beautiful skin and puts the glow and roses of youth into cheeks that are faded and pale.

Take Nuxated Iron for just two weeks and you'll be astonished how much younger and brighter you look, how energetic you feel and how the color comes back to your lips and cheeks and the bright sparkle and life to your eyes. Nuxated Iron is sold under an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. At all good druggists.

RADIO THIEF AT WORK AGAIN
SNEAK THIEF ENTERS RECTORY

The radio thief was at work again Tuesday night, making entrance to the Talking Machine Shop at the corner of Franklin and Bath street and stealing several head sets, tubes and other small pieces of equipment valued at about $15. An attempt was made to take away a radio cabinet and set that was installed in the store, but this was abandoned after the set had been torn loose from its attachments. It is believed by the store proprietor that the thief may have been scared away while at his work.

Entrance fas made through a window on the second floor which was reached from the top of a ladder, requiring quite an acrobatic feat to negotiate the distance from the ladder to the window. The window was jimmied up and when the thief had reached the window ledge he had to push a piano out of the way before he could get into the store. Once inside the thief passed through to a room on the Bath street front where the radio equipment was.

Sneak Thief at Rectory

Some time Tuesday night also a sneak thief got into the rectory of St. Mary's Memorial church on Central avenue and stole a tin box containing about $100, miscellaneous receipts from tickets and other sources. No way has been discovered by which the thief got in.

The tin box was in the second floor bed room of Rev. W. A. Keefe, the rector, who is now in Europe, but Rev. F. M. Coholan was in the house during the evening and was occupying the adjoining bedroom.

Both robberies have been reported to the police but there is little in the way of clues to work on to find the thieves.

POWER CO. OBJECTS TO SMALL RURAL COMPETITORS

A broad matter of public policy was presented to the committee on incorporations in the legislature last week, when H. M. Whiting of Branford, an officer representing the Rockville and Willimantic Lighting company, argued that a public utility concern of the kind which served in a sparsely populated territory should be to an extent protected against the development of detached concerns operating in small degree. He said that these small companies appeared as nuclei of later growths and minimized the growth of the professional companies which made a business of serving the utilities as their sole object. This matter came for discussion when Mr. Whiting asked for a reopening of a hearing on a bill dealing with the application for power for an electrical transmission line in the south part of Vernon, where Talcott Brothers, manufacturers, had installed lighting service for the benefit of employes and had accommodated fifty-two dwellings and other buildings.

In an extended talk it was said that the bill was not "advertised," that the Rockville company had not been fully informed as to the hearing and that it objected to Talcott Brothers going into the manufacture of electricity. It was said that the brothers had asked the company to extend its service to the village of Talcottville and also, in 1922, a request had been made to extend to Vernon Depot. The company had run a wire to within about a mile of a locality desiring service. Mr. Whiting figured that to bring the wire and the adjacent poles would cost about $4,750 a mile. The span was in a region with little prospect.

C. Dennison Talcott of Talcottville is a representative from Vernon and Mr. Whiting hinted that the committee might feel delicate as to deliberation because of the fact that he was a colleague, although not a member of the committee.

Mr. Whiting asked the committee to consider a rider allowing his company to purchase the Talcott lighting plant later at a fair price. The Talcotts receive their current from a company in Manchester, which poled and wired to the Vernon town line.

BOZRAH ELECTRIC CO. WANTS TIME EXTENSION

George Cutler was before the committee on incorporations of the legislature last week to tell about the plight of the Bozrah Electric company, whose charter had expired without the forming of the company. Senator Fred E. Beckwith of East Lyme had laid in a bill to extend the time for forming and also a bill for incorporating the company, if time extension was illegal. The two measures were alternative.

Mr. Cutler and others said that Bozrah was located between Lebanon and Norwich and that the electric company in the city had no power to enter the town. The incorporators live in Bozrah and Lebanon and are ready to provide the capital. The area to be served has a population of 500.

A hearing was given on a bill to consolidate the electric company in Essex with the Central Connecticut Eastern Connecticut Light and Power There was no opposition. The matter of stock of no par value was discussed and E. M. Day, who represents the Eastern Connecticut Lighe and Power company, said that if needed, a general act might be worked out dealing with utilities companies.

GRIFFITH TAKES LEAD IN COLONIAL PINOCHLE

Griffith moved into the lead in pinochle in Tuesday evening's play at the Colonial club and Drake jumped from seventh into second position. Oat playing for Crowell struck a streak of hard luck and was low for the evenings, this dropping Crowell from sixteenth to twentieth and last place.

Scores for the evening: T. C. Washburn 8165, Burlingham 8130, McNaught 7935, Drake 7890, Lamb 7765, Kenefick 7755, Griffith 7695, Gifford 7465, Allen 7380, R. B. S. Storrs Bulletin For Dairymen.

It has been shown from extended observations that Bacterium Abortus is associated with the act of aborting or premature calving in over 90 per cent. of the cases. But since infected cows do not always abort or continue to abort, in order to cope with the disease, it is obviously necessary that a dependable method of diagnosis be developed. Much of the study at Storrs has had this in view.

The present bulletin, No. 125, deals with a full description of the agglutination and complement fixation methods of diagnosis and the presentation of data which places these tests on a still more permanent footing.

Because of the somewhat technical nature of the contests, this bulletin will be sent only to those who request it.

Shot Dog With Fit

A dog that had a fit on High street late Wednesday afternoon had to be shot by Officer Barney Keenan who was dispatched to the neighborhood when persons who were alarmed by the dog's actions telephoned to police headquarters and asked that an officer be sent to look after the dog.

GIVES HELPFUL HINTS ON AVOIDING INFLUENZA

The weekly bulletin issued by the state department of health carries an article on how to avoid influenza. In this connection the bulletin reads:

Influenza is a name given to an acute, highly communicable disease characterized by great pandemic outbreaks. No less than 14 such world-wide outbreaks have been recorded during the last 400 years, the last being the one of 1918 in which it has been estimated that there were over 200,000,000 cases and upwards of 10,000,000 deaths in less than 12 months.

The cause of epidemic influenza has not yet been determined. It is assumed that the virus is present in the discharges from the mouth and nose and precautionary measures based on this are often advised. Such measures, however, do not appear to be effective during a great rapidly spreading pandemic, due to the ease with which influenza spreads. With our present knowledge, or rather lack of knowledge, there appears to be no very clear evidence that preventive measures of any kind are effective in the face of a great explosive outbreak so that attention can best be directed toward organizing relief measures. Probably the best that can be hoped for in preventive measures in a great epidemic would be that by rigidly restricting the intermingling of people an epidemic can be spread out over a sufficient time to permit relief forces to better cope with the situation.

Secondary waves, or smaller epidemics are less explosive in character and the disease does not appear to be so highly communicable. In fact, during the 25 or 30 year intervals between great world-wide pandemics, the term "influenza" is often applied to common colds, acute bronchitis, catarrhal inflammations, nervous indispositions and brief fevers of unknown origin. For conditions of this kind, preventive measures may offer more hope of accomplishing their purpose.

The common cold, for example, appears to be only mildly communicable sons with colds or avoiding persons with olds or avoiding contact with droplets or other forms of discharge from the mouth and nose of such persons. This would mean staying away from crowds and especially staying away from persons who are ill and the observance of such cleanly habits as will not result in scattering about nose and mouth discharges. The role of the common drinking cup, common towels, kissing, coughing and sneezing in disseminating such discharges is generally recognized.

On the other hand, resistance to infections should be mainatined by avoiding undue fatigue or exposure. Over-heated rooms appear to slow up the vital processes of the body and make it less able to adjust itself to the cold raw winds of out of doors. Going suddenly from a hot room to the cold outdoors puts a strain on the heat regulating mechanism of the body. If adjustments to such changes in temperature is imperfect, the body may have its resistance lowered by chilling.

Thus the question of avoiding influenza, in so far as it can be avoided, resolves itself into two phases,—avoiding the infection, and maintaining body resistance to cope with the infection if it comes. By far the most important point in avoiding infection during an epidemic is to stay away from other people.

RESIGNS AS TRUSTEE OF MOHEGAN INDIAN CLUB

The Rev. James Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ of New London, has resigned as trustee of the trust fund, created by a gift by the late Sarah L. Huntington, and Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the Norwich probate court has filed notice of a hearing on the matter for 11 o'clock Friday morning, at which time another will be appointed.

The fund created by the late Miss Huntington was increased by the will of the late William Williams and also by the will of the late Harriet P. Williams of Norwich for the purpose of supporting the gospel in benefit of the Mohegan tribe of Indians in New London county.

Rainfall Measurements

The rainfall of Tuesday measured .31 of an inch and that of last Saturday .39 of an inch. The total for the month is 2.31 inches as recorded at the water department office.

NORWICH TOWN

Members of the Johnson Hotily were delightfully entertain[illegible] Tuesday afternoon when the [illegible] tural club provided a programme of vocal and instrumental music, and recitations. The accompanists for the afternoon were Mrs. Albert J. Bailey and Mrs. William S. Elliott.

The various numbers were very much enjoyed by the home family, all of whom were able to come down stairs for the concert. Many of the selections given were in accord with St. Patrick's day. Mrs. Philip Roberts and Mrs. Claude Wilson entertained with recitations, and Mrs. Roberts also sang, while Mrs. Harry Stebbins and Mrs. Frank Waters gave a finely rendered piano duet. Mrs. C. R. Chamberlain played violin selections with Mrs. Elliott at the piano and these won much favor. There were vocal selections by Mrs. Herbert Wightman, Mrs. William F. Bailey and Mrs. Albert J. Bailey. The last named also played piano solos and there was a popular piano solo by Mrs. Elliott. A pleasing feature was the vocal duet by Mrs. William F. Bailey and Mrs. Elliott, with violin obligato by Mrs. Chamberlain.

The singers were in excellent voice, every participant winning hearty applause. Mrs. Stebbins is chairman of the club for 1925. Nine of the eleven members were present. Tuesday. The other two are Mrs. Raymony Britton and Miss Hazel Banfield.

Following the well arranged programme the club served cake and punch.

Dainty little baskets in green and white and filled with candy, the artistic work of Mrs. Wilson, were presented the members of the home famiup. The napkins used were also green.

The B Natural club which has been in existence for many years, has often entertained in this way, bringing much pleasure to shut-ins, as were the happy hours afforded the Johnson Home family Tuesday, while the day was so dreary and gloomy.

As a result of the recent membership contest, conducted under the auspices of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church, when the society was divided into parts, using the C. E. colors red and white to distinguish the contestants, an informal social is to be given the reds, (who were victorious,) by the whites. This was the plan at the beginning of the contest, and is to be carried out Friday evening, March 27th, in the chapel. The whites who are to provide the entertainment of the evening have their plans under way, and there will be many surprises that evening. The committee in charge comprises Mrs. Walter G. Hitchon, Jr., chairman of entertainment; Miss Ida Beebe, chairman of refreshments and Miss Jessie E. Hyde, Miss Rose Durr, Miss Ethel Whaley, Miss Florence Wheeler and Miss Dorothy Waterman.

At a recent meeting of the Congregational C. E. society, it was decided to accept an invitation to attend the meeting Sunday evening, May 3rd, of the Versailles Fellowship Circle, of the Methodist church, of which Howard Bushnell is president.

The Home Missionary Society of the First Congregational church, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington president, is to meet Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Earl Browning, of New London turnpike.

The basketry class under supervision of Miss Gladys Stratton, of the Home and Farm Bureau, met for the last lesson, at the home of Mrs. Freemont Vergason, of Vergason avenue, Friday, Tuesday, April 7th, the class is to meet at the home of Mrs. Wellington Miner on the avenue, to commence a series of lessons in learning three ways of bottoming chairs.

The Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms, will be in charge of Rev. Edward C. Dunbar and choir of the First Baptist church, Norwich.

A large force of men under direction of Henry T. Gorman, supervisor of roads for the State highway department, has been at work this week putting a fresh coat of tarvia for spring on the state road leading up from the Soldiers' monument through Norwich Town.

Mrs. Thomas and daughter, Miss Irene Thomas and Miss Ruth McNeil, R. N., since last September residents of 357 Washington street, moved recently to Hartford, where they have rented an apartment. Mrs. Frank Wilson and children have located in New Jersey. Mrs. Thomas, Miss McNeil and Mrs. Wilson, are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McNeil, for many years residents of Lincoln avenue.

A former resident of Hartford, Mrs. Susan Grant, the last member to be received into the Johnson Home family, left Saturday to visit friends in Hartford.

Mrs. Walter Wellington, of "The Seymour," New York city, recently called on her cousin, Miss Mary Witter, at the Johnson Home.

Another member of the Johnson Home family, Mrs. Philena Hough Noland, has been visiting for the past six weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Wheeler, of Windham.

Former residents of Long Island, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cookson and children, Delmas and little Miss Grace Marie Cookson, moved Monday from Grove street, Norwich, to the upper apartment in the former General Harland mansion, on Washington street.

TROLLEYMEN TO ASK FOR 8-HOUR DAY

Connecticut trolleymen have already held many meetings and are holding others almost daily, preparatory to entering into a new agreement with the Connecticut company on the expiration, June 1, of their present agreement. They will probably ask, at a conference to be held with the Connecticut company officials during May, for a standard day—probably an eight-hour day, according to Frank O'Meara, chairman of the trolleymen's state conference board. At present the average trolleyman works about nine and one-half hours a day, Mr. O'Meara said, although some work 10 1-2 or 11 hours a day.

It is not thought likely that the trolleymen will ask for a wage increase this spring, although, Mr. O'Meara says, the members of the union, meeting to discuss present working conditions, have not as yet taken up the wage question. Local unions throughout the state, after further meetings, will give their representatives instructions as to what their demands are, and these will be considered and voted on at a state meeting to be held in New Haven, later in the spring, according to Mr. O'Meara.

Workmen's Compensation Agreements

The following workmen's compensation agreements have been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

Inland Paper Board Co., Versailles, employer, and Louis Meditz, Occum, employe, strained back, at rate of $17.50.

Ashland Cotton Co., Jewett City, employer, and Ernest Tessier, employe, two fingers lacerated, at rate of $10.35.

Ruth A. Knott, Uncasville, employer, and Walter Nash, Providence, R. I., employe, cut foot, at rate of $8.50.

New London Ice Co., employer, and James Pearson, employe, sprain, at rate of $12.50.

PRETTY PARTY GIVEN FOR FIFTH BIRTHDAY

A delightful St. Patrick party was given James W. Cundy, Jr., on his fifth birthday, Monday afternoon, at his residence at 41 Union street.

The dining room, which was very prettily decorated in green, was very attractive and in the center of the table stood the birthday cake with a figure of St. Patrick with five green candles around it and set off with shamrocks, which proved very pleasing to all present.

Green hearts, filled with nuts and candy were the favors and after they were given refreshments were served by Mrs. James Cundy, assisted by Mrs. William Donnelly and Mrs. Ellen Cundy.

Many games were played, the prizes being won by Miss Margaret Payment, Julia Dufresne and Henry Brinkman.

Those present were: Rita Donnelly, Ruth Fleming, Dorothy Ladd, Shirley Towne, Alice and Julia Dufresne, Helen and Margaret Payment, Alice and Dorothy Brinkihan, Helene Reardon and Phyllis and Ellen Cundy, Edward Lewis, Henry and Gilbert Brinkman and James W. Cundy, Jr.

James received many gifts from his friends. He is going to Providence, his birthplace, for a few weeks' visit.

BEAUTIES OF BOLTON PRAISED IN LEGISLATURE

Professor Samuel M. Alvord of the Hartford high school gave a word picture before the committee on incorporations in the legislature last week of the scenic beauty of Bolton Center, saying that motorists traveling east saw more of Bolton Notch than of the center and declaring that the view far to the east into Tolland county was beyond description. He was advocating the petition for a charter for the Bolton-Electric company, introduced by Mrs. Maud L. Woodward, representative from the old-time, hill-hid town. He said that a state aid road was reaching east to the center and that equipment for light had been placed by the Manchester company and that the company he desired to be incorporated could receive power and light from that corporation.

J. Wesson Phelps of Branford, a landscape gardener, also praised the beauty of the town and predicted growth when more conveniences were obtained. The Manchester company had declined to serve in the town and from the other side the Willimantic company refused. Residents had subscribed nearly $10,000 for the company and a plant of the kind considered might be started with $8,000. Arrangements were being discussed with the Southern New England Telephone company by which the latter was to pole and wire. It was intended to make the par of the stock $50, Judge Herbert O. Bowers of Manchester had been attending to the legal work.

Mrs. Woodward said that one reason for the termination of the Manchester company service at the town line was the fact that Bolton lay in Tolland county and the line was the county line also.

Principal E. A. Hofstedt, of the Vernon Public Evening School, has set Wednesday evening, April 15, as the date of the school graduation.

TORNADO DEATH TOLL NOW ESTIMATED AT 900 TO 1,000

More Than 500 Persons Are Known to be Dead—Number Injured Placed Between 2,000 and 3,000—Thousands of Persons Were Homeless—Property Damage is Enormous—Today Preparations Will Be Completed For Hundreds of Funerals—Relief Work on a Vast Scale is in Prospect—Troops Have Been Detached to Duty at Several Towns.

Carbondale, Ills., March 19—With 44 persons known to be dead and conservative estimates tonight place total loss of life from 900 to 1,000, as the result of the tornado which devastated a score of Illinois and Indiana cities and towns yesterday.

In addition to the loss of life, between 2,000 and 3,000 persons were injured, scores of them probably fatally. Thousands were made homeless and enormous property damage done by the freakish play of the elements.

Today, 24 hours after the catastrophe, the federal government, state, Red Cross and private institutions and individuals, were combined in the great task of caring for the injured, giving shelter to the homeless and searching for bodies yet concealed in the tangled debris.

Improvised morgues in a dozen little towns and villages were packed to overflowing tonight with long lines of victims of the storm who had remained uncared for, as the administrations of hard pressed undertakers and coroners were given the injured and dead.

Tomorrow, possible, preparations will be complete for hundreds of funerals.

In many towns where the tornado struck, rescue workers toiled tonight under darkness ministering their needed supplies to the hundreds of injured, by improvised lights.

Further relief on a wholesale scale is an immediate prospect tonight. In addition to a company of troops at Murphysboro and one at West Frankfort, Company I and Company K of Mt. Vernon and Cairo, respectively, were ordered to West Frankfort.

From Chicago, a medical regiment of 200 men, eleven carloads of supplies, eight carloads of ration, and 60 ambulance cars, were dispatched to the stricken district. Extra nurses and doctors hurried here late today from Chicago, St. Louis and other nearby cities.

The disaster fell most heavily upon women and children.

In the West Frankfort list were the names of a dozen babies, and in that list appeared the names of many school children. Among the West Frankfort victims were George Reed, a laborer, his wife, and their children—an entire family wiped out by the storm.

Murphysboro, West Frankfort, Desoto and Gorham, all within a radius of 20 miles of Carbondale, in the southern Illinois soft coal fields, bore the brunt of the disaster.

At Murphysboro tonight, 141 were known to be dead, with the total loss of life estimated at 200 and upward of 500 injured. Property damage there is $3,000,000.

West Frankfort had upward of 100 dead, with five times that number injured.

De Soto, a village of 500, six miles from here, was virtually obliterated. Of the inhabitants 118, including thirty school children, are dead, 150 more are injured and not a half dozen houses were left intact.

The little town of Gorham, west of Murphysboro, suffered heavily. Ninety of the 500 inhabitants are known to be dead and 200 more are injured. More than a dozen other Illinois and Indiana towns and villages reported from forty dead.

Murphysboro, a town of 13,000 covering approximately five and one-half square miles, had two-fifths of its area in ensuing ruin tonight. 100 business houses were wrecked or seriously damaged and 1,000 homes destroyed, with 4,000 persons homeless.

The city was without gas and light, though desperate efforts were being made by public service company officials to repair broken cables and switchboard power plants.

Martial law had not been declared, but state guardsmen patrolled the streets and visitors and sightseers were excluded.

Fifty square blocks, including two square miles of the residence section, were a mass of tangled debris, while firemen still fought smouldering fires in a dozen places.

Half a dozen arrests were made for looting. Troopers pressed sightseers into service with axes and shovels and used as stretcher-bearers.

West Frankfort was struck almost as hard as Murphysboro. All traffic into the town has been halted. Military passes have been issued to those whose business necessitates their presence in the city and troops tonight patrolled the devastated area.

The tornado manifested a whimsicality often shown by such phenomena.

Crossing the Mississippi river two miles west of Gorham, it pounced upon Little Beale village, then made its way some ten miles east to Murphysboro, where it again wrought havoc after passing over the intervening countryside without great damage.

Then, deviating Carbondale, it skipped frankishly northeast to De Soto, 12 miles from here, struck that little town fiercely and swept on its way 8 miles northeast to the twin villages of Murrat and Bush, where it again wrought destruction.

RED CROSS RELIEF FOR TORNADO WRECKED AREA

Washington, March 19.—National headquarters of the American Red Cross with its chief, President Coolidge taking the initiative, set in motion today its entire machinery of relief to take material relief to the hundreds of injured and homeless in the tornado wrecked section of the middle west. At the same time, it made plans of aid to other thousands of sufferers far away—victims of fire in Texas, and of flood at Trujillo, Honduras.

Vice Chairman Louis Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations, at Washington today took supreme command of Red Cross relief work in the tornado area, with Henry M. Baker, national director of disaster relief, in immediate charge of operations. Mr. Baker, who had been directing relief efforts in the mine disaster at Sullivan, Ind., gave his attention in the new task primarily to the situation in southern Indiana area, where preliminary reports received at headquarters indicated the greatest damage was done. Relief operations meanwhile, were continued at the scene of the Fairmont, W. Va., mine disaster.

No check of dead and injured in the disaster was available at Red Cross headquarters. Reports from local chapters in the region began to trickle in today, but most of them dealth with relief activities, and officials were confident that they were prepared to render primary emergency aid. Each chapter, they explained, has in its treasury funds for disaster relief, and funds from national headquarters also are available to them if needed.

Officials characterized the disaster as the greatest since the Ohio valley flood of 1913, when $500,000,000 of property was laid waste.

The Evansville, Indiana chapter, in a telegram received late today, reported that immediately upon learning of the storm last night it mobilized physicians, nurses and workers and sent them to Griffin, Princeton and other points in the state.

"Griffin entirely wiped out," said the message. "Injured being taken care of at New Harmony, Evansville and Oakley. City and county officials are cooperating. We have established emergency relief headquarters and are receiving contributions. John J. Jolan has taken charge of situation at Griffin. Impossible at this time to give accurate number of dead and injured. We are well organized and functioning."

TORNADO PASSED THROUGH THE ST. LAWRENCE VALLEY

New York, March 19.—The tornado that swept through parts of Illinois, Indiana and Missouri late yesterday and last night, leaving a path of death and ruin, passed over the Lake Ontario region and moved northeastward through the St. Lawrence valley to the Atlantic coast, dissipating itself at it went, according to James H. Kimble, meteorologist of the New York weather bureau.

One of the affects here on the tail of the tornado, Mr. Kimble said, was a rainstorm last night, followed by a rise in temperature today. Within the next 24 hours, he said, shipping between New York and the Grand Banks will feel the last of the tornado as it passes out to sea.

STORM OBLITERATED THE TOWN OF GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ind., March 19.—(By The A. P.)—This prosperous town of 400 persons, most of whom were retired farmers and their families, located at the southwest tip of Indiana, in a few seconds was obliterated when the Wednesday tornado reared over it. Every one of the 75 homes, ten or more business houses, three churches and the school house was razed. Thirty-three bodies have been taken from the ruins. Military and civil authorities, in charge of the relief and rescue work, predicted at least 125 persons perished, or will die from the injuries they sustained.

Less than fifty of the inhabitants of Griffin escaped injury, they say.

Today, Griffin was desolate. The structures which were not razed were so damaged that none of them offered a shelter to the shivering survivors digging in the debris. Vandals who started pillaging, almost before the agonizing screams of the entrapped victims ceased, fled when the Mount Vernon Battery of the 139th Indiana Field Artillery arrived.

With the passing of the tornado fires burst from half a dozen places and several persons pinned under debris, burned to death, while rescuers vainly tried to reach them. A deluge of rain and sleet followed and soon extinguished the flames.

While Oth Shaw, principal of the school was waiting with 16 of the children for the last bus to take them home, the storm struck. The building was ripped apart and although several of the children received minor injuries none was seriously hurt. Had the storm struck an hour earlier scores of the 260 pupils would have been buried under the falling building, Shaw believes.

The storm struck Griffin at 4.15 p. m., coming from the southwest and dipping suddenly over the town. Nine persons gathered around a coal stove in a restaurant perished and their bodies were cremated in the fire that followed.

The town's one doctor escaped injury and immediately organized relief parties, administering emergency treatment to the injured.

Survivors today were being fed by the guardsmen. Army tents are being erected to house them.

FATALLY SHOT HIMSELF WHILE CLEANING PISTOL

New York, March 19. — Thomas Hayes, described as a retired army captain, accidentally shot himself through the heart today while cleaning a 45 calibre army automatic in his apartment on Riverside Drive. He died a half hour later.

The army register lists Thomas J. Hayes as a captain of infantry, U. S. A., formerly an officer of the National Guard of Ohio.

LORD CURZON DIED IN LONDON THIS MORNING.

London, March 20 (By The A. P.)—Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, lord president of the council, died this morning.

Death came at 5.35 o'clock. His physician had been with him throughout the night.

They were convinced that the signs they saw late Thursday evening portended death. The indications of his passing then were so marked that they did not conceal their opinion from the public and announced in their bulletin that the patient's condition was extremely grave.

TWO TRAINMEN KILLED MILLION DOLLAR LOSS IN N. H. ROAD WRECK

New Haven, March 19.—While investigations were in progress late today to learn the cause of the freight wreck in the yards of the New Haven railroad early this morning, causing the death of Engineer Thomas Patrick Moore, of New York city, and Fireman William H. Fish, of Springfield, Mass., it was stated in New Haven railroad circles that the loss connected with the accident would total a million dollars.

The loss, it was said, includes damage to a huge electric motor, the wrecking of more than a score of freight cars, the destruction of stock being carried in the cars and damage suits which are expected to follow. The New Haven road, it was said, suffered a heavy loss from the serious traffic tie-up which affected a large part of its lines.

Preparations were made tonight for both state and federal investigations to learn the cause of and responsibility for the wreck. The state public utilities commission sent a representative here early this morning and he has been at work during the day. Representatives of the state commission will meet with federal interstate commerce commission representatives on Saturday morning here when the question of cause and responsibility will be taken up. Coroner Eli Mix will start his inquest tomorrow morning.

The wreck occurred shortly before 3 o'clock this morning when the electric locomotive of an extra eastbound freight train crashed into the rear end of a freight train which was standing on the tracks. The electric locomotive ploughed through the train ahead telescoping several cars and piling eight or nine in a heap. Eighteen cars in all were derailed.

The engineer and fireman were buried in the wreckage and it was some time before they could be taken out due to the necessity of shutting off the high tension electric power at Cos Cob. Conductor Rabanold, of the standing train, who was walking up the track, was injured.

The wreckage caught fire after the crash, but the flames were soon under control after the high tension power had been turned off. The fire smouldered during the day, however, and at 10 o'clock tonight, fire again broke out in the wreckage but did but little damage and was soon extinguished by the firemen.

To Probe Dealings In Wheat Market

With Trade Dwindling Prices Yesterday Averaged Higher.

Chicago, March 19.—With government orders out for a sweeping scrutiny of the circumstances which attended recent violent fluctuations trade dwindled in the wheat market today to the smallest amount in several weeks, but prices averaged higher; May delivery of wheat showed a tone time an overnight advance of nearly four cents. Closing prices for wheat were irregular at one cent net lower to 2 1-4 cents advance, May $1.63 1-2 to $1.64, and July $1.43 to $1.43 3-4. Corn finished 5-8 to 1 1-8c off, oats showing 1-8@1-4c to 3-8c gain and provisions 12 to 27 cents down.

Considerable nervousness was apparent in regard to likelihood of difficulty in getting sufficient supplies of wheat here to fill outstanding contracts for May delivery in Chicago. Brisk buying of the delivery took place during the first part of the day, the demand coming to a large extent from the east and south, and being ascribed in particular to previous sellers. On the other hand, July and September deliveries were inclined to lag in price owing more or less to widespread moisture east of the Missouri river and reports that Kansas crop conditions had been improved by recent rains.

Corn was depressed by the fact that shipping call was poor.

Oats, however, were in better request.

Provisions declined in sympathy with the hog market.

HEARING ON PROPOSAL TO INCREASE TAX ON BILLBOARDS

Hartford, March 19.—A proposal to increase the tax on billboards which, according to some who spoke, line the state highways and detract from natural scenic effects, was the subject of an animated hearing before the legislative committee on finance this afternoon in the hall of the house. The bill was that of Mr. Pierpont, of Bridgefield to increase the tax on advertising signs from five mills to one cent per square foot, and placing with the superintendent of the state police the approval of location of billboards and issuance of license with appeal to the state highway commissioner. The bill was offered as a revenue measure, the present tax yielding about $13,000 a year. Mr. Pierpont offered a substitute bill raising the tax to five cents a square foot.

Senator Walcott, chairman, had to ask of those who spoke on the bill to determine whether they argued for it as a revenue measure or as a means of eliminating billboards on state highways and in the rural districts entirely. He even asked if proponents of the bill supported it for the money it would yield or as a means of confiscation of the billboards. Major John Buckley appeared as counsel in opposition to the bill, and he frequently questioned witnesses which led to many sharp exchanges. Senator Walcott at one time suggested to Major Buckley that the committee was not so much interested in his questions as they were in finding out if the bill was a revenue measure.

The bill was supported by Mr. Pierpont, George B. Chandler, secretary of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce and who claimed the right to speak for local chambers by virtue of a referendum on the subject, Arthur Reed Kimball, of Waterbury, of a chamber committee; Mrs. J. H. Buck of Hartford, representing a national organization which is conducting a nation-wide crusade against signboards which disfigure the landscape; Howard Syker for the state grange, and several others.

One speaker who represented a nature club said that he hoped "the signs would be wiped off the landscape," and when told that his argument was for confiscation of property he replied "Glory be, and if we cannot wipe the sign boards out by taxing them let us boycott the firms that use them. If you call that a conspiracy, let it be a conspiracy."

Major Samuel Russell, of Middletown said that he counted signs along the road he travels in returning from the legislature and in a seven-mile stretch he counted 176 signs.

Most of the speakers who urged the five-cent tax, hedged a little when questioned by Senator Walcott as to whether they favored the high tax because it would tend to eliminate the sign boards. Several said they were willing to have the signs driven off through taxation.

Mrs. Buck said she would suggest the tax be ten cents per square foot.

RUMOR THIEVES MIGHT HAVE STARTED PALM BEACH FIRE

Palm Beach, Fla., March 19.—A check today of guests' lists of the Breakers hotel and the Palm Beach hotel, destroyed by fire last night, while incomplete, shows no loss of life in either hotel. The early estimates of $4,000,000 were declared too low by Fire Chief Schultz today when he gave it as his opinion that the total loss, including thousands of dollars in jewelry lost by hotel guests, will reach $7,000,000.

Although the Palm Beach postmaster continued to deny rumors that the post office was robbed of $20,000 during the fire, authorities were said to be searching for clues that would suggest existence of a plot by which thieves might have started the fire that a harvest in loot might be reaped from wealthy guests.

More than a score of prisoners are held by Palm Beach police under charges of looting after the fire.

Whether a new hotel will be built on the site of The Breakers, as that hotel succeeded the old Palm Beach hotel, burned two decades ago, was not determined.

FREE INFORMATION ON THE GROWING OF GRASS

New Haven, March 19.—Scientists in recent years have learned many facts concerning the growing of grass, these investigations being stimulated by the increasing interest in golf, and the latest information available bearing on this subject is incorporated in a leaflet, "practical lawn suggestions," issued by the Connecticut Agricultural Station. The station will furnish a copy to those who apply.

Gasoline Reduced One Cent A Gallon

Price Cut by Standard Oil in New England and New York.

New York, March 19—Gasoline prices throughout New England and New York were lowered one cent a gallon today by the Standard Oil company of New York.

The cuts followed the announcement that gasoline stocks in February had increased 2,234,934 barrels and several successive gains in weekly crude oil production. Beginning late last year, a number of advances had lifted gasoline 7 cents a gallon.

TEN FAMILIES FLED FROM HOUSE FIRE IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, March 19.—Ten families were obliged to flee in their night clothing this morning when a cellar fire threatened the tenement block at 146 Oak street, near Broad street. Firemen fought the cellar blaze for two hours while others cleared the upper rooms and halls of the heavy smoke which threatened many with suffocation.

The fire broke out in the basement of the New York meat market while all the fire companies in that vicinity of the city were on duty at the freight crash blaze in the railroad cut near Lamberton street bridge some distance away. A horse which was being driven by the inter-section near the scene of the fire became frightened by the smoke and started to run away but was brought under control.

The residents of the tenement were drenched by a heavy downpour which continued for some time after the fire.

HOW MILLIONAIRE WAS CURED OF HICCOUGHS

Yonkers, N. Y., March 19.—James McCann, aged Yonkers millionaire whose life doctors had almost despaired of because of prolonged paroxysms of hiccoughs, was asleep tonight and free of hiccoughs for the first time since last Saturday.

Stories of Mr. McCann's plight caused many persons to write, telephone, and some to telegraph, suggestions for relief, the family said.

A stranger described only as "an old man from the Bronx," came to the house this afternoon and proposed a remedy. It was tried. The hiccoughs stopped. The patient went to sleep.

The successful remedy, according to the family was prescribed by the stranger in these words:

"Stop each ear with a finger. Press firmly. Have some one put a glass of water to the mouth, and drink."

NEW LOW RECORDS IN ST. PAUL ROAD SECURITIES

New York, March 19.—St. Paul Railway securities moved down to new low records again today as liquidation of the road's stocks and bonds, induced by the receivership proceedings continued unabated.

Meanwhile, preliminary steps in the reorganization of the company were undertaken. Receivers for the road were authorized by federal court order to pay maturing interest installments on notes held by the United States government on equipment obligations, general and first mortgage bonds and several divisional issues, including Chicago & Missouri River 5s, Bellingham Bay & British Columbia 5s, Milwaukee & Northern extended 4 1-2s and Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary 5s.

NEW PRESIDENT CONN. ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Hartford, March 19—Announcement was made today that Re. Dr. S. Turner Foster, pastor of the Benedict Memorial Presbyterian church in New Haven, has accepted the presidency of the Connecticut Anti-Saloon league. The league recently became a permanent organization, and all officers but a president were then elected.

OBITUARY
Samuel N. Stevens.

Groton, March 19.—Samuel N. Stevens, 89, one of Groton's few remaining Civil war veterans, passed away at his residence at 120 Poquonoc road shortly before daybreak Thursday morning. Death was due to infirmities of old age.

Mr. Stevens was born in Colchester where he spent the greater part of his early life. Shortly before the Civil war he moved to Hebron where he lived until the war started. On Nov. 17, 1861, he enlisted with the First Connecticut Light Battery and began active duty on Nov. 26, 1861. He served his two year term of enlistment and re-enlisted on December 19, 1863, serving through the remainder of the war and was mustered out June 11, 1865.

He married twice, the first time in 1869, and shortly after the death of his first wife he was married to Mrs. Mary Strickland, of Colchester, who survives him. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens have been residents of Groton for 25 years. Mr. Stevens is also survived by a stepson, Frederick Strickland of Mystic.

Railroad Busses

Britain is following the American example of running busses in branch railroad lines where full trains are not profitable. The Northeastern Railway Co. is now furnishing a railed motor service from York, England, to several small stations along its lines.

PATENT OFFICE PLACED WITH COMMERCE BUREAU.

Transfer Made by an Executive Order of President Coolidge —Change From Interior Department Had Been Advocated by a Congressional Commission—Transfer Will Facilitate American Interests in the Administration of Patent Laws in Some Foreign Countries.

Washington, March 19.—Jurisdiction over the patent office, heretofore a part of the interior department, was transferred to the commerce department under Secretary Hoover today by an executive order of President Coolidge.

The change has been advocated by the congressional commission established at the request of President Harding to consider general government re-organization. It was possible without specific legislative action, it was explained because the law which created the commerce department the president discretionary authority to place such regular government bureaus as he might select under its control. Other alterations in the organization of the government which the congressional commission recommended are not expected until congress has acted.

Secretary Hoover, in a statement explaining the step which also was approved by Secretary Work of the interior department, said one of the principal reasons for it lay in discriminations against American interests in the administration of patent laws in some foreign countries. The commerce department has conducted negotiations in the matter through its representatives abroad, in the same connection, Mr. Hoover said he might have occasion to urge congress to draft a new code of patent laws.

"In incorporating the patent offices in the department of commerce, I intend that we should undertake a vigorous campaign for the removal of injustices toward American patentees and American Manufacturers which exist by virtue of the character of patent laws in many other countries," he asserted.

"At the present time an American patentee is required in many foreign countries to continuously manufacture in that country under his patent or lose his patent rights. We make no such requirement in the United States. The consequence is that our inventors and manufacturers in order to protect their inventions have been driven to the establishment of a large number of factories abroad, whereas foreign patentees have been able to use their patents in the United States to actually prevent manufacture here. In fact, a foreign patentee, by registering his patent in the United States can hold it for 17 years and prevent manufacture of the article in the United States.

"This is but one of the discriminations now in progress. There is to be an international convention for the protection of industrial property, at The Hague on October 8, 1925, at which the American government is to be represented and where proposals will be made for the equitable and equal treatment of patentees in all countries. If this convention shall fail to secure primary justice for American patentees, we shall ask for a complete revision of the patent laws of the United States which will bring this about."

The patent office which originally was a section of the state department when created in 1790, has been a part of the interior department since 1849. It is now issuing more than 55,000 patents and trademarks each year.

DAWES DETERMINED TO CHANGE SENATE RULES

Washington, March 19—Vice President Dawes to go into the states of senators who have expressed open opposition to his proposal to revise the senate rules to prevent the one-man filibuster, and in public addresses attempt to build up sentiment there in support of his views.

Before the senate adjourned, Mr. Dawes conferred with most of the senators, and quite a number of them were reported to have pledged their support in the effort to facilitate senate procedure.

With this block of senators as a nucleus he now hopes to draw recruits among the others by taking the issue to their constituents, and during the summer he plans to deliver a series of speeches at a number of points throughout the country in an effort to arouse public sentiment to such an extent that opponents of the plan will have to yield.

The vice president opened his fight against the senate rules in his inaugural address in which he denounced the power of one senator to obstruct legislation. Immediately after its delivery, a cry of protest went up from numerous senators, and it was complained that the dignity of the senate had been outraged.

Mr. Dawes expects a different sentiment to prevail when the next session of congress begins.

CHURCH IN NEW HAVEN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

New Haven, March 19.—Just after 500 children had left St. John's Roman Catholic church in Davenport avenue today, a bolt of lightning shattered the wooden spire of the building and part of it crashed to the ground. While there was considerable excitement following the crash no one was injured.

Policeman Carlo D. Michales, who was standing in front of the church building, was thrown to the street when the lightning hit the church, and received lacerations of the knee. He turned in a fire alarm but as the lightning did not set fire to the building, the firemen were not needed. The children had been attending mass in connection with the feast of St. Joseph, a Lenten service, but all had left the building before the lightning struck.

The loss will amount to several thousand dollars, it was said tonight, inasmuch as steeple-jacks will have to remove practically all of the tower which will be replaced by a new one.

The tower, which was the tallest in that section of the city, had been struck by lightning on four other occasions, the last one being about six years ago.

MISSING MAN FOUND BEHIND SLIDING PANEL

Glace Bay, N. S., March 19—A sixty-day search for Justin Bennett, who disappeared coincidently with the discovery that the Royal bank of Canada, of which he was teller, was short $20,000, ended today when Chief of Police Costey found him smuggled into a secret chamber behind a sliding panel in the home of his parents.

Bennett was popularly believed to have escaped to Mexico. Police Costey had searched the home of his parents several times without results. Today he went over the premises again, as Mr. and Mrs. Bennett trailed him, uttering volumble assurances that their son was not there.

After considerable tapping of walls, the police chief found a loose panel in the parlor. He removed a divan, slid back the loose panel, and there lay Bennett, cozily curled in a tiny cabinet-like space.

"I'm glad it was you, George," was Bennett's greeting to his captor. He was taken in custody.

BIG LIQUOR SEIZURE IN HOBOKEN SALOON

Hoboken, N. J., March 19—Federal prohibition agents today raided a saloon here, seized liquor worth $50,000 to $100,000 at bootleg prices, and arrested Carl Peterson, said to be proprietor of the place.

The agents said they found 10,000 quarts of whiskey, 1,000 quarts of wine, 20 barrels of beer and 100 quarts of other liquor.

GENERAL EXPANSION OF ACREAGE FOR FARM CROPS

Washington, March 19.—A tendency toward general expansion of farm crop acreages this year was noted in an "intentions to plant" report today by the department of agriculture, which issued with it a virtual warning that two great production would result in lower prices.

"It seems doubtful," the statement said, "if the general expansion of production contemplated by the farmers would be to their best interests. Increased returns for the crops of 1924 were largely due to reduced supplies, either in this country or abroad, rather than to any increase in demand. The outlook indicates that any marked expansion in most lines would tend to lower prices and result in less satisfactory returns to farmers.

"If reported intentions are carried out, the acreage in spring wheat will be increased 1.4 per cent, or nearly 2,500,000 acres. Winter wheat seeding last fall were increased 6.5 per cent over the previous year. Allowing for average abandonment, however, the increase in winter wheat area to be harvested would be about 4.5 per cent greater than last year, and the increase in all wheat would be about 7 per cent or about 3,800,000 acres.

"If farmers generally carry out their intentions as reported March 1, corn acreage will be increased by 2.3 per cent above that grown for harvest last year. This would make the corn acreage in 1925 3 per cent above the 1923 acreage and more than 4 per cent larger than 1922. Farmers who are intending to produce corn in excess of their own feeding requirements should not expect to receive as high a price for their surplus as has prevailed for the 1924 crop."

Farmers intend to plant 4 per cent less area to potatoes, the report states, and 3.3 per cent less to flaxseed; 5.6 per cent more oats, 2.3 per cent more grain sorghums, 9.9 per cent more tobacco, 4.5 per cent more peanuts, and 11 per cent more rice. The tame hay acreage planned appeared to be the same as last year.

COOLIDGE SENDS MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY TO JAPAN

Washington, March 19.—Secretary Kellogg made public today the text of cablegrams sent to Ambassador Bancroft at Tokio instructing him to express the sympathy of President Coolidge to the Japanese emperor because of the fire disaster there and to ascertain whether relief from this country was needed for the victims.

"The Associated Press reports major conflagration in Tokio," the message said. "You may express to the foreign office the profound sympathy of this government that this misfortune has fallen upon a city which was already struggling so gallantly against previous adversities. You may further make plain our hope that the Japanese authorities will have no hesitation in calling upon us if there is any assistance we can lend.

"Present the sympathy of the president to the emperor and his government. Ascertain and report at once extent of fire loss and need of relief. American Red Cross instructed to give every desired assistance."

BELATED HONOR FOR SANTIAGO NAVAL HERO

New York, March 19—When Hobson sank the Merrimac at the entrance to the harbor of Sanitago, Cuba, June 3, 1898, to bottle up the Spanish admiral Cervera's fleet, Frank Kelly was one of the Merrimac's crew.

At the closing of the Spanish American war he left the navy. He continued to follow the sea, however, although more and more of his time in recent years has been spent in Snug harbor at the local sailor's home.

Today Kelly was informed, through a telegram from Washingotn to the American Seaman friend society, that congress had passed an act whereby "in consideration of gallant and heroic services," aboard the Merrimac, he had been placed on the navy retired list as a chief machinists mate, with retirement pay for life.

WILLIMANTIC

Agent Don H. Curtis stated Thursday that there was nothing that he could say relative to the strike of the operatives of the American Thread Company, which went into effect on March 9. "The plant remains closed and that is all there is to say," said Agent Curtis.

About the same reply was received from Miss Amy Hooker, local president of the textile workers. She remarked that the situation remained unchanged. No developments of outstanding importance for the future were expected as yet. The work of giving relief to needy workers is progressing from local people and organizations. No attempt has been made to call a conference by either the Thread company officials or the striking body.

The final payment of wages was made from the paymaster's office on Thursday. This broke the last tie between the operatives and the concern and brought to a close the income which has been sustaining the 1,500 workers. The wages were mainly for two or three days of work and will offer but slight relief to those in straits. Whereas some of the strikers will find means of earning money for the time being the strikers' committee has given assurance that anyone in need will be given help, and that there is no cause for suffering.

The usual morning parade was omitted Thursday due to the rain storm. A number met at the Gem theatre, however, where a short conference was held.

At the Little theatre, formerly the old gym at the Normal school the Junior Prom was given Tuesday evening by the girls of the class of 1926 with the seniors and faculty as guests. The programme was arranged by the committee of the three divisions of the Junior class and delightfully original. Junior One was the creator of the first number, "Tony, the Shoe Doctor," with Florence Beers as the fashion proprietor of a cobbler's shop, Mary Keenan as the cop on that beat, and Ethel Comi as the actress, who roamed across the street.

"The Progress of Civilization" was presented by Junior III, showing the development in civilization from the amoeba to the flapper. Each number was shown in tableaux with an accompaniment to selectedly inappropriate music of two ukeleles, played by Rose Welch and Olive Warrender, and a mandolin, by Emily Thumm. The Amoeba was impersonated by Florence Topham, with an accompaniment of "Gone Are the Days." Blanche Stack appeared as Cleopatra, to the tune of "Crinoline Days." Doris Robinson as "Puritan," to "Just a Girl That Men Forget." Rowena Smith as "Colonial Days," to "Limehouse Blues." Sally Robinson as "Mother," to "Mother McCree," and the Flapper, Christine Shanahan, with Helen Terrell as "the boy friend," to "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Junior II then consigned "Pal That I Loved," to a mock funeral, with a medley of popular songs, Sally," sung by Peg Conway; "My Best Gal," by Abbie Coleman; "Me and the Boy Friend," sung and impersonated by Helen Aberg and Uetite Bergin; "All Alone," by Tessie Bellecki, Mae Botham and Grace Connelly; "Where's My Sweetie Hiding?" by Helen Botham, and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," by Dorothy Cooke.

Junior II gave a Plantation scene with Mildred Johnson, Hazel Jones, Elizabeth Hagstrom, Marion Keeney, Mary Keenan, Emily Monson, Doris Johnson, Shirley Jackson, and Bernadette Hoey, appearing in costume as darkies, and Junior III gave "Something That Would But Couldn't," a take off on Paul Revere's Ride.

The part of Paul Revere was taken by Marion Schackley, the horse by Roslyn Stoddard and the Candle-Bearer by Jean Yurkowitz. Refreshments were served and dancing followed.

The death of Mrs. Susan Warren, 90, occurred at her home in Ashford on Wednesday night. She was born March 23, 1924, a daughter of Thomas and Lydia W. Wentworth Warren. Besides her husband, Luther Warren, she leaves a son, Webb Warren. Mrs. Warren's husband is ninety. He has been a member of Uriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., for over fifty years.

Funeral services were held from 62 North street at two o'clock Thursday afternoon for Clifford E. Bradley. Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield officiated. Burial was in the new cemetery at Mansfield. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

At the Baptist parsonage on Pros-pect street, Tuesday morning, Miss Marjorie Case of 34 Lewiston avenue, this city and Clarence Adams of Windham Center were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. F. P. Foshay. Attending the bride was her sister and Miss Mary Tourkko. The bride was gowned in blue beaded crepe de chine. Her going away gown was of blonde canton crepe. Her attendants were green satin and beige canton crepe respectively. A lunch was served at the home of the bride after which Mr. and Mrs. Adams left on a wedding trip to Providence, Boston and New York, traveling by automobile. They will reside at the home of the bride upon their return.

Percy Segur of Lebanon pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving in the Mansfield town court recently as the outcome of a violation on the night of February 28, in the town of Mansfield. The witnesses were State Policemen Hardisty and Huiburt, of the Stafford Springs barracks, who testified that while they were riding in their Ford roadster Segur passed and quickly outdistanced them in a high powered machine. His car went wrong in Eagleville and there the officers caught up with him and placed him under arrest. Judge George H. Andrews imposed a fine of $5 and costs, which was paid.

President Lena Tripp was in charge of the meeting of Francis S. Long post, Women's Relief corps, held in G. A. R. hall this week. G. A. R. Day will be April 6 and Clara Barton Tree Day will be observed April 15. The state officers will make their annual visit here the first of April.

City Health Officer Dr. W. P. S. Keeling states that in the past week he has no cases of scarlet fever reported to him and he believes that the mild epidemic has completely abated. The scare at Storrs is also becoming a thing of the past and for th elast part of the week Town Health Officer Dr. William Cramm has had no cases reported to him.

But very few applications for mo-tor vehicle driver's licenses appeared before Acting Inspector State Policeman Edgar S. Abild of the Stafford Springs barracks who was at the town building here Thursday.

STOLE NEW LONDON CAR HELD IN BROOKLYN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 19.—Two young residents of this city, William Richer, 19, and Charles Lachappelle, 18, were arrested on a charge of theft of an automobile, late Wednesday, 25 minutes after they had abandoned the Ford coupe, owned by Ralph Beeman of Alexandra, Madison county, Indiana. In the police court on Thursday morning the boys pleaded guilty through their guardian ad litem, First Selectman Russell A. Andrews. They were bound over to the next criminal session of the Windham county superior court under bonds of $1,000 each. The bonds were not furnished, so the youths were taken to Brooklyn jail.

The car was stolen in New London early in the afternoon. Some hours later a resident of South Windham road, near Willimantic Camp Ground, notified the local police that a Ford coupe had just been abandoned by two boys. The police went out and found the young men.

The mystery of the theft of a Ford coupe, owned by Edward Fiyod of Norwich from the yard of the Willimantic State Normal school here on February 17, last, was cleared up, when Richer confessed to that theft, in connection with his uncle, Adolph Richer, now in parts unknown.

Half the world is half asleep

It is terrible to feel all dragged out — to live from one day to the next in a constant state of weariness. Yet thousands do, because constipation is destroying their energy—even their interest in life. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings sure and safe relief from this disease.

"Nothing seemed to interest her"

BY THE end of the second act she wished she were home in bed. She was tired—always tired. That fact showed in her face. And "she" may be multiplied by tens of thousands of women in America. For it was the world's most universal disease that was sapping her strength and killing her interest. . . . It is good to know that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has brought permanent relief to thousands of sufferers from constipation.

When ALL-BRAN travels through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it can sweep the intestine clean. It can absorb and carry moisture through the intestinal tract and stimulate it to natural, healthy action. ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delightful with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals; cooked with hot cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on every package. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Be sure to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN

To be effective, bran fiber must go through the various digestive processes without submitting to any of them. It must pass through the entire alimentary tract without its form being changed.

What happens when a bran food is eaten?

After the saliva has acted upon it, it passes through the stomach and into the intestines, where every part which is not fiber is absorbed.

In ALL-BRAN the quantity of fiber is so great that it furnishes bulk enough to prevent and relieve constipation.

In a part-bran food the quantity of fiber is so small that there is only a puny amount to do a herculean task.

ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Demand it.

Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. You can see that a part-bran product can, at best, be but partially effective. It may not be effective at all.

Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. Doctors recommend it. Accept no other if you would be sure. All grocers sell it. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it. Buy a package today.

Broadway Theater

Never was there a greater, bigger or better show given in any theater than the one you'll see at the Broadway theater today and Saturday. We cannot stress you too urgently not to miss the best program of the year. Just think seven big acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville and a fine picture for the regular price of admission.

Gaby Leslie & Co. starting things moving with a bang. It's a great novelty dancing turn with three people.

Jim Stacy & Julia Faye in Just Nonsense offered the kind that is relished by the best of men.

Bert Cody and Ruth Day formerly features of McIntyre and Heath, Hello Alexander and E. K. Nodel's, Keep Kool Co., have re-entered vaudeville with a new vehicle by Paul Gerard Smith entitled, Wednesday Night. Miss Day is doing the kid character for which she is noted. Unusual and original funny situations are introduced and an effective rain storm is a beautiful surprise.

The Gray Family followed with a cycle of songs and dances and variety at its best. There are six in the family.

Fred Weber followed up with a ventriloquial comedy. At the Stage Door, which proved to be a riot of fun.

Gene Winchester and Sammy Ross held down the major spot on the bill. These men of the Hour know how to put over song, dance and comedy to perfection.

Live Model Show.

The doors of the Turbidy-Weldon Company, 750 Main Street, Willimantic, will be thrown open at 6.30 o'clock this Friday evening for the second annual live model show of spring fashions which will be staged from 7.00 to 9.00 o'clock. Admittance will be granted to ladies and gentlemen. There will be four live models from New York including the slim, average, and stout figures. These models will display to advantage the newest creations in gowns, coats, and the feature of this spring's new styles—the popular ensemble suits. Displayed with these suits will be the attractive ensemble fur chocker representing the latest wearing apparel as seen on Fifth avenue. Articles worn in the promenade will be taken from the extensive stock of the Turbidy-Weldon Company and will include varied assortment of hats, furs, hand-bags, and the like. This is a season of high shades and these will be found to predominate in the show. The sporting apparel appears in pleasing blends of multi-colored materials. Models will be on the floor throughout the day Friday to meet with customers and discuss the new fashions. The management will be greatly pleased to greet gentlemen who were barred from attending the recent successful corset show.

Metropolitan Life Advertisement.

An attractive advertisement by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company appears in this paper headed "Hearts and Dollars." We are glad to tell the people in this locality that this company has an office here and we shared in the achievements spoken of in the advertisement—Frank R. Murdy, manager Shannon building.

Palace Theatre.

At the initial performances at the Palace yesterday Al Barlow's Revue entitled "Bits of Hits," scored a big hit. Everything in the revue is changed. It has new musical numbers, songs, dances and a complete change of scenery, the show goes over with a bang and is full of pep all the way through.

In addition to Al's Revue there are three big vaudeville acts. The Musical Kellogs, a novelty musical act, every instrument represents a piece of furniture and each number is rendered with perfect intonation.

Frank Shields, the man who tells a story with a rope also does some very clever balancing on top of a ten foot ladder, doubling up on both tricks.

Laura Bennette and Co., is an act of four people and also very novel. There is singing, wrestling, fencing and boxing. The boxing is real, honest to goodness and every blow is a hard one.

The feature picture is "Born Rich."

Jimmy and Chaddy were a puzzle in the eyes of their friends and acquaintances for, although they were members of the wealthy set of New York, they were very much in love in spite of the fact that they had been married a year. That was a strange state of affairs, for in the opinion of the young and blase society youths and misses it was no longer the fashion to be "in love." They were farther advanced now, and romance was superseded by devotion to Freudism and other isms.

Jimmy and Chaddy are the central figures in "Born Rich," now the feature at the Palace theatre. This First National picture, which was directed by Will Nigh for Garrick Pictures Corporation, is based on Hughes Cornell's novel, which is a revelation of the inner life of the New Yorkers who have been "born rich" and the majority of whom lead lives bizarre and exotic in nature.

The characters are played by Claire Windsor and Bert Lytell, who are supported by a notable cast.

Breed Theater

You will enjoy every minute of The Man Who Played Square which is the current attraction at the Breed theater. This is a William Fox production starring Buck Jones, supported by Wanda Hawley, Hank Mann and a well-balanced cast. The picture is a story of the mining west written for the screen by William Cook and directed by Al Santell.

In the character of Pronto Black, Buck Jones assumes a role in which he is confronted with the dilemma of love and the carrying out of a pledge to a dying pal. The two duties conflict.

How he played square is worked out in an absorbing manner with many dramatic incidents which include pistol and fist fights, a realistic mine explosion, beautiful scenery and a pretty love story, nlike many "westerns" it is real, not trashy.

The third chapter of The Iron Man, with Albertini, the king of daredevils, the Pathe news and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Strand Theater

Tonight at the Strand will be country store night, twenty presents as well as a real genuine J & C Fischer upright piano will be given away. The double feature picture program will be Yakima Canutt (The World's Champion Cowboy) in Romance and Rustlers a picture of exceptional appeal—providing entertainment above the average. The picture is a straightforward portrayal of a clean upright Westerner, wrongfully accused of cattle rustling. Several scenes filled with action and suspense and this young screen star in the above pictures displays his art of horsemanship and after seeing him perform on the back of a horse it is easy to understand why the late President Roosevelt awarded him the title of the world's champion cowboy. The companion feature will be a five reel comedy, featuring Raymond Griffith, and Billy Franey in When Winter Went. The story concerns a young rooming house dweller who nds that after taking a stove to bed with him it will not protect him against icy blasts of that hall room. This picture was made for laughing purpose and should please all those fond of screen comedy. Because of the length of the program tonight only one show will be given starting at seven. The country store will be held at about eight forty-five.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The United States government is most considerate. For one thing, it sends out an endless chain of notices, that really amount to advertising, and asks that they be printed without charge. At the present time a notice is desired relative to examinations to be held here to fill positions as stenographers and typists at entrance salaries varying from $1140 to $1320 a year. But to explain how the government is so considerate. If it paid for these notices, as others do, the newspapermen would earn a legitimate profit on the insertions, thus swelling their income to a point where they would have to pay what they received back to the government in income taxes. Now the government knows that there is nothing to be gained by overworking the people that get out the papers, so why pay them money and then put them to the bother of writing a check to pay it back again, when income taxes are due. There's a puzzle that would challenge the combined ingenuity of Pierre Petac and Cluey Watson! It is such a puzzle that the government probably will continue to get something for nothing, which is something of an unusual experience for it, after all.

Simultaneously with its release through many papers in the east and other sections, this paper will publish tomorrow (Saturday) the 73rd semi-annual weather prediction of the Cloud Digger. Those who look for the promise of six months of tranquility of the elements appear to be doomed to disappointment. The prediction is for some phenomenal occurrences, but of that e n the morrow, the first full day of spring.

Explanation was made Thursday that much o f the flow from the sewer outlets on the borough farm may be charged against a special use of an unprivileged pipe of the sewer system, and not from its legitimate functioning. When a main sewer line was being put through Main street at a depth of over 20 feet, a bubbling spring that could not be controlled was encountered, just about opposite the business place of W. J. Craig. The flow from this spring was sufficient, probably to keep a 3 inch pipe filled at all times. The flow was so rapid that the cement work could be done in the immediate vicinity of the spring, so the device of turning the flow into the s'd and letting it go was adopted. That spring alone will account daily for scores of thousands of gallons rated as sewage at the filter beds.

Attention was called Thursday to the fact that some property owners here, without authority, it is claimed, have rigged connections carrying water from the eaves of their homes into the sewer system, which also gathers much other surface water from the borough.

The funeral of Albert Catnoir, who died as the result of injuries received when he fell from a bicycle at Moosup, was held from his home in the place Thursday morning with a service conducted by Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy at All Hallows' church at 9 o'clock. The requiem mass will be sung at the church this (Friday) morning. Burial was in All Hallows' cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Mary Bodo, 76, died during Wednesday night at her home in Moosup, where she had been a resident for many years. Mrs. Bodo was a native of Canada, but the greater part of her life had been spent in this country. She leaves three sons, Frank, Louis and Joseph, and a daughter, Miss Mary Bodo. Henry Bodo and Leo Bodo of Danielson are her grandsons.

There were those who insisted in describing the downpour of Thursday as the line storm. Well, maybe it was. It was severe enough at times to be described in some special manner and left nothing to be desired in the volume of water it precipitated within a few hours. As it was a southerly storm, there were those prophets who hinted this signified continued comparatively mild weather.

Real interest is being aroused in the borough caucus scheduled for next week because of the fact that there are two candidates for the nomination for t he office of tax collector and because there will be need of finding a candidate for warden. Finding a man who wants to be warden and who can command the necessary support to be elected may prove more difficult than first appears. Few like to accept the responsibilities, do the work,fi take the kicks, much more numerous than the expressions of good will, and receive nothing at all but the experience. There is no salary attached to the position of warden in Danielson.

Cargill council, K. of C., is coming into Killingly to hold its annual Easter ball this year. Unlike Putnam lodge of Elks, will not use the state armory here, but has selected the dance palace at Wildwood park. The park pavilion will thus come into use for the holding of a formal ball for the first time. Though a heating plant is installed there, the pavilion has not been in use since last fall.

In observance of its fifth anniversary, the Alice-Eleanor shop will allow a 20 per cent. discount, Saturday only, on the entire stock, no reservations, in appreciation of the patronage it has received.—adv.

Members of patriotic societies here expressed Thursday their appreciation of the increase by the town of the appropriation for meeting expenses of Memorial day observance. It has been difficult for several years for the organizations interested in the work to finance the arrangements for the day with the limited appropriation heretofore allowed by the town.

The theft of a car here last week has made more cautious, as to locking parked machines, owner who have been careless in this respect in the past. Locks do not always prevent thefts, but car thieves do not always have time to experiment with them.

Inspection of the Service Battery, 192nd Field Artillery by a visiting officer at the state armory this (Friday) evening will be of interest to the public. Captain F. O. Armington of the battery made the announcement Thursday that Captain Yvsely, stationed with the New Hampshire National guard will be the inspecting officer.

Sales of horses in this county are far below the record of sales of these animals made last spring, it was stated here Thursday by one in close touch with the business. There appears to be no other explanation so satisfactory as the one that not so many horses are needed in htis territory this year as was the case early in 1924, when carload after carload of horses was placed with eager buyers.

In recounting the long public service rendered to the borough or town in various capacities, it is recalled that Edward S. Carpenter, soon to retire as tax collector after 50 years in office, was for 40 years a constable, of chief of police, in Danielson.

Walter I Chase reports having seen another automobile turn over on Dark Lantze hill while traveling there Tuesday. The occupants of the car were not injured.

Thunder was a feature of the heavy rainstorm Thursday morning in Danielson.

Today (Friday) is the last day of winter. Spring begins officially at 10:13 tonight.

Prosecutions of delinquent personal taxpayers is going on in the town of Plainfield, much after the manner in which the records were cleared in Killingly early in the winter.

Taxpayers in Killingly appeared to be generally pleased Thursday that no advance in tax rate is required this year and that there is a probability of a margin of surplus that will allow of reducing the debt by several thousand dollars.

Hundreds of parishioners attended the masses at St. James' church Thursday morning, in observance of the feast of St. Joseph.

Somewhat in advance of the usual date, suckers are being taken by spearing from the rivers here, and hunting the fish in a sport in which numbers indulge each night.

W. A. Burrows, who served the borough for many years as a burgess or warden, asserted that he is not a candidate this year.

Rain interfered to some extent with the attendance at the Windham County W. C. T. U. institute held at the Methodist church here on Thursday.

James Caffery, of High street, remains as a patient at Backus hospital in Norwich.

AD. BROUGHT RESULTS, THOUGH WOMAN WAS FRAUD

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, March 18.—With the arrest of a woman, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in selling a 1925 automobile for "a late 1924 model," the Providence police announced that they are after dealers in used cars who misrepresent models. This town's interest in the matter is in the fact that the arrest of the woman, Mrs. Thelma Daley, 32, of 1466 Westminster street, was brought about through the sale of a car in this town. The warrant served upon Mrs. Daley alleges false representation to Mrs. Gustina Gamache of Goodyear, in the amount of $350.

According to the Providence police, Mrs. Daley had inserted in the Norwich Bulletin an advertisement offering for sale a "brand new sedan." Mrs. Gamache, led to Mrs. Daley's address by the advertisement, is alleged to have purchased the sedan for $350, the price advertised.

The engine numbers of the car, traced by the police, show that it was built in 1922, according to the investigators. Although the sale was advertised in this state instead of in Rhode Iseland, where Mrs. Daley is resident, the Providence police say that the claims made in the advertising were substantiated in Providence and therefore they had no hesitancy in bringing action against Mrs. Daley in that city.

Odelon Gamache of Goodyear has been engaged for some time past in conference with the Providence police in an effort to bring about the arrest of Mrs. Daley. The advertisements, such as he alleges resulted in the purchase of the sedan in question, have attracted widespread attention in this section of eastern Connecticut.

After the degree work a chowder was served and the lodge orchestra furnished music. Visiting brothers from Webster, Danielson and Central Village were present. The second degree will be worked by the Central Village lodge sometime in April.

The weekly meeting of the Hi-Y club was held at the Second Congregational church. After a short business meeting there were readings from the booklet "The Fellowship of Prayer," which the club is reading during the Lenten season. Announcement was made of the fact that there would be a supper at the next meeting of the club which will be held at the Second Congregational church. Several members of the Hi-Y club will go to Meriden Saturday to participate in the indoor track meet at the Meriden Y. M. C. A.

Peter Doucette, 14, was riding a bicycle down th chill on Pomfret street just as Victor Lapointe, who drives a motor tuck for the City Fruit Co., was coming up Meadown street. It is a dangerous corner and Lapointe was blowing his horn. He saw the boy in time to bring his car to a stop on the pavement at the corner but Doucette's wheel crashed into it. The boy has a deep cut on his leg. Lapointe took him to a physician and then to his home. These who saw the accident say that Lapointe was not to blame.

The forty-third division headquarters company of this city held its first ladies' night programme in the State Armory Wednesday evening. There was a basketball game between a team of the non-commissioned officers and one of privates, The N. C. O. team was made up of the following men: Childs and Bennett, forwards, Murphy center, Auger and Davison guards. The privates were: O. Valade and Kilborn forwards, Phaneuf center, J. Valade and D. Beausoliel guards. Second Lieutenant White acted as referee.

Next on the programme was a song by E. E. Labeau, followed by a boxing match between Phaneuf and Rome and wrestling by Mayotte and Pendergast, then a song by L. Bouley. Dancing was enjoyed for an hour followed by refreshments.

After refreshments another son by A. Auger, preceded a boxing bout between O. Valado and Dupre and a wrestling match between Allard and Murphy. Sergeant Bennett was referee for the boxing and wrestling matches. The evening ended by all singing America.

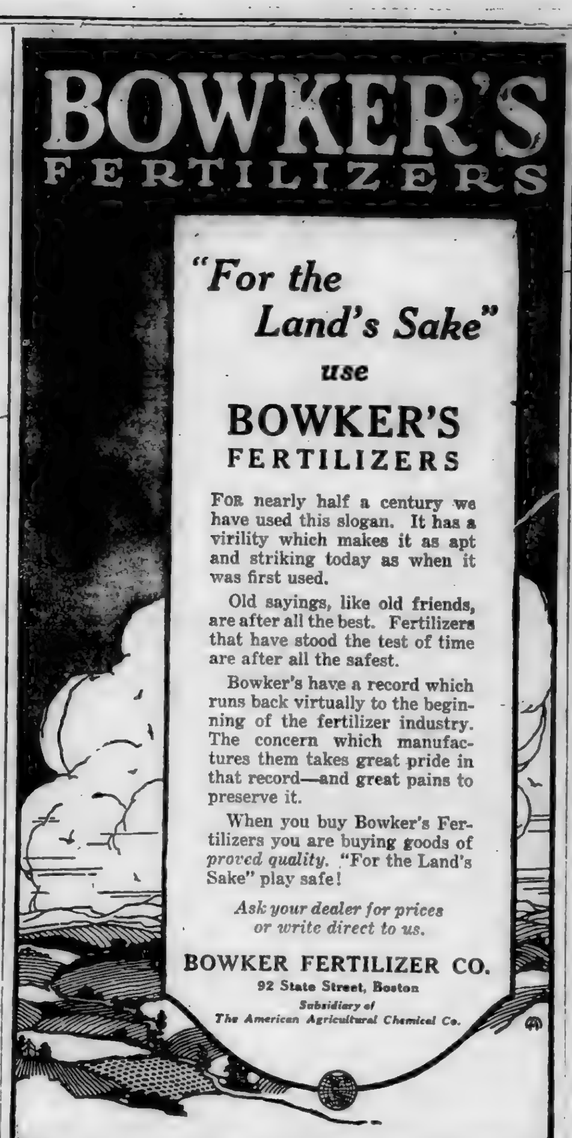
BOWKER'S FERTILIZERS



"For the Land's Sake" use BOWKER'S FERTILIZERS

For nearly half a century we have used this slogan. It has a virility which makes it as apt and striking today as when it was first used.

Old sayings, like old friends, are after all the best. Fertilizers that have stood the test of time are after all the safest.

Bowker's have a record which runs back virtually to the beginning of the fertilizer industry. The concern which manufactures them takes great pride in that record—and great pains to preserve it.

When you buy Bowker's Fertilizers you are buying goods of proved quality. "For the Land's Sake" play safe!

A WEEK OF DISASTERS.

The fury of the midwest wind storms has been fully established in the past, but that of this week seemed to be bent upon breaking records and death and destruction in its wake are enormous.

The relief forces that were at work at Sullivan, Ind., administering to those who had suffered from the mine disaster have little to contend with compared with the new problems that were created by the tornado.

It will be several days before it can be definitely told what the exact loss of life is, but whatever it is, whether the estimate of 1500 is too large or too small, it will be too great and the sympathy of the entire country will be extended to that section. No one knows when a severe storm of that character is to make a visitation, but when it does it raises havoc. It is merciless. Whatever is in its path goes. Directly and indirectly it creates a disaster that emphasizes the impotency of humanity when battling with the elements on the plains of the middle west.

Not only sympathy but such other aid as is required in meeting the distress conditions will be forthcoming from other communities and other states. Perhaps the full story of the wreckage remains to be told, though the country would be willing to accept any explanation that early reports were exaggerated and excuse it on the ground of haste and excitement. Unfortunately this does not appear to be possible. The horror of the storm which razed towns, killed and destroyed in even much worse than on numerous other cyclonic visitations.

But distress prevails not only in this midwest locality but in Florida from the destructive fire at Palm Beach, in Japan where fire also made thousands homeless and in Peru where flood conditions have caused much loss and trouble.

It makes little difference whether it is an overwhelming amount of wind, flood, fire or disease, the results are invariably such as to quickly bring the thoughts of the world to those who care in trouble or suffering.

THE CAREFUL SENATE.

Throughout the whole contest between the president and the senate concerning the nomination of Charles B. Warren as attorney general, there was pointed out by the group of opposing republicans that they were standing for the interests of the country and exercising their best judgment after a thorough investigation.

Quite in contrast thereto is the manner in which they disposed of the largest nomination. It wasn't necessary to go into a long and elaborate investigation of the Vermont man's career. There was no attempt to find out if he had had any contact with corporations, with the sugar or any other trust, and there was no thorough investigation such as was emphasized in the Warren case. It was rushed through in the manner that most of such nominations are disposed of, and as if the president had a right to name his advisers. Mr. Sargent was accepted with the feeling that the responsibility rested upon the president, but that it will be remembered was not permitted to serve concerning Mr. Warren. The senate in fact failed to do just what it took so much credit for doing in the Warren case. It showed its hand completely by the diametrically opposite actions.

And now as if to indicate that advantage had been taken of the senate the claim is made that the new attorney general is a "wet" and that he opposed the dry amendment. Whatever may be his views upon prohibition he certainly had the right to be a "wet" or a "dry" and he had the right to be for or against the amendment. That is a great American privilege, but when it comes to upholding and enforcing the law now that the amendment has been adopted by the country there can be no doubt that Attorney General Sargent will prove just as alert and efficient and if he had been a "dry" worker, and perhaps more so. It isn't for him to make or unmake the law ,but to act under the law. That he will do, whether the senate obstructionists scrutinized his record or not, and when Wayne B. Wheeler expresses confidence in his support of the law, while it is the law, it shows the impression that is made by his selection even though the senate couldn't confirm him too soon without any investigation, even as Fall and Daugherty were confirmed.

THE ST. PAUL'S TROUBLE.

For some time there has been a question whether the St. Paul could pull itself out of the financial difficulties in which it had become involved. It has been obliged to face some of the problems that other roads have but it has been unable to accomplish the same results. Conditions have not been the same for the road has been unable to increase its business in a manner that would better its prospects. It has encountered ruinous competition and it has been obliged to shoulder the burdens imposed by the war until it became impossible to throw them off.

It was for the relief of just such roads that legislation was sought in the last congress whereby there would be a reduction in the rate of interest charged to roads by the government on money which had been loaned to them. The St. Paul would not have been the only road aided, but it is indicated that it would have helped. It cannot be urged that that actually forced the receivership, but railroads in distress could be materially helped through such relief.

New England roads have been hard hit in the past decade or so. The St. Paul has dropped from a high position. The receivership has not developed over night. It has been feared for some time. Studies of the situation of the road have been made and it has been disclosed that the system has made large loans to subsidiaries, that it hasnt been able to earn a surplus over expenditures to put back into the road, to say nothing about dividends and that it has suffered from business which has been withdrawn to go through the canal and from the depression which has prevailed in the agricultural section of the country through which it operates. With its debts, its obligations, and its poor business there is call for a reorganization. This can be effected under the receivership and when that is accomplished the St. Paul should stand relieved of handicaps which could have been removed in no other way, and such relief will permit it to face competition on better terms.

INCOME TAX REFORM.

In connection with the efforts to bring about tax reduction and tax reform there have been strenuous attempts made to reduce the surtaxes on incomes so that those with large incomes will not hasten to put their funds into tax exempt securities, but will employ them for industrial purposes. This it has been urged would have resulted in a larger return to the government under reduced surtaxes than is now obtained under high ones.

It is significant, therefore, that Secretary Mellon and former Secretary Glass should be advocating this same policy from the same platform. Secretary Mellon has long since had his plan for accomplishing this reform. He has urged and continues to do so that there should be a scientific basis for the federal taxes, that partisanship should be eliminated and the best interests of the country served. But for partisan views he has clearly demonstrated the desirability of such a change.

Valuable support is now being given to his effort to get considerationand action from an economic and business basis, by the stand which Senator Glass is taking. The latter is working shoulder to shoulder for the needed reform. He even favors cutting the surtax to 20 per cent as the maximum and at the same time reducing the burden of the man of moderate means, and when he declared that Secretary Mellon regards the treasury as a great business institution and not a playground for partisan politics he renders a telling blow as a democrat against those who have been preaching to the contrary.

GOING TO THE COUNTRY.

The announcement that Vice President Dawes is going to take his recommended reform of the senate rules to the country will certainly create interest. He told the senate what the country believes the senate needs to know, as representing the feeling of a large number outside of that body. He has told them what many have given expression to in the past but what has not been told to it in the manner adopted by the vice president. He spoke as vice president and he spoke in the belief that he was voicing national sentiment.

In that he is unquestionably right and when he makes addresses throughout the country it can be expected that he will have something to say that will be worth listening to.

In carrying o[illegible] the senate to rid itself of conditions which have [illegible] criticism, it is to be realized that [illegible] continuance or the elimination of such conditions rests to a large degree with the people. The senate can if it will make the needed changes in a short time. It may require a longer time for the people to accomplish it, but with the demand accentuated by the people at the polls it is to be realized that the question of senate reform need not go on indefinitely.

It is this that the vice president can bring home to the voters as he speaks on the conditions that prevail and that ought to be stopped. The senate ought to be ready and willing to remedy its ills, but when it isn't there are beneficial possibilities through the placing of such matters before the people, whose representatives the senators are.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, March 19—Secretary Hoover forecasts what the headline writers were quick to epigrammatize into "public ownership of public utilities." In that he is doubtless right. But he must not be interpreted as meaning government ownership. Instead, he means the strongest possible barrier to government ownership, namely, ownership by the people as individuals. Toward such a consummation we seem to be moving rapidly. Statistics show that the number of owners of railroad and other "public utility" stocks has doubled in the last seven years. In 1918 they were 2,500,000, and now they are 5,000,000. That means that in one family out of every five there is a stockholder in a railroad or some other utility; beside, of course, millions of stockholders in factories, shops and other establishments. It means that there are approximately as many stockholders in public utility corporations as there are men employed in all the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the country; that there are nearly twice as many such stockholders as there are men employed on all the railroads and other transportation services of the country; that there are three times as many such stockholders as there are men employed in all sorts whatever of clerical occupations. Such ownership of the business of the country by the people of the country means, of course, that business will more and more be conducted in the interest of the people, and that more and more the people will regard the integrity and prosperity of great business corporations as their own concern. And it means that the people will not turn the businesses they thus own over to the government to be politically mismanaged.

The New Jersey legislature, under republican control, having declined to ratify the proposed child labor amendment to the Constitution, as an undesirable invasion of state rights, commendably refused to abate or relax in any degree that state's laws for the protection of children. In like manner every state that rejects the amendment should vindicate its action by safeguarding the welfare of children as efficiently as could properly be done under the amendment. Thus demonstrate that there is no need of congressional meddling, and there will be none.

Our trade with British Empire.—Are you aware of the fact that nearly 35 per cent. of our foreign trade is with the British empire? Will it surprise you to learn that 75 per cent. of our entire favorable trade balance last year, totalling $380,000,000, was in exchange of goods with England and her dominions? This suggests a paradox: "The sun never sets in British dominions," but it hatched a nest egg of $732,000,000 for Uncle Sam in 1924. To those dominions we exported $1,912,000,0 worth of goods and from them we imported $1,181,00,000 worth. That is merchandise exchange only. We paid British boats for transporting our overseas goods approximately $240,000,000 and there were other invisible balances which made quite a large sum.

Let us view this trade from the grand divisional standpoint, beginning with Europe. The figures cited refer to imports and exports, respectively: The Gibraltar trade shows $10,000 and $907,000; that of Malta, Gozo, and Cyprus, 112,000 and $1,259,000. The United Kingdom, (England, Scotland, and Ireland) $366,000,000 and $982,-000,000.

In the North American division Canada, $399,000,00 and $524,000,000; Newfoundland and Labrador, $2,569,-000, and $9,98,000. Canada is the largest seller in our market in the world, eclipsing the Mother Country by $33,-000,000.

Now for the area known to us as Latin America: British, Honduras, $2,-155,000 and $1,836,000; British West Indies, $15,200,000 and $21,300,000; British Guiana, $931,000 and $1,565,-000. (The rum fleet trade is not officially listed in our imports. Let us call it an invisible balance, against us financially, and against the British Empire morally.)

Switching to the Far East: Aden, $2,186,000 and $471,000; the British East Indies, $276,700,000 and $44,290,-000. Hence come our vast supplies of rubber, tin, jute, tea, etc., etc. Hong Kong, $16,490,000 and $17,476,000. And over in the antipodes: Australia, $32,-868,000 and $125,178,000; New Zealand, $12,525,000 and $29,306,000; British Oceania, $649,000 and $681,000.

Last comes British Africa: West, $12,300,000 and $8,000,000; South, $7,-727,000 and $36,000,000; and East, $1,-657,000 and $2,562,000. Egypt, $30,-090,000 and $5,866,000. Over $28,000,-00 of the imports from Egypt consisted of long staple cotton.

Considering the character of our imports from the British empire as a whole, and that of our exports thereto, it is probable that we derive less revenue from the trade than does the empire.

President very properly refined from even the appearance or the suspicion of meddling in the organization of the senate. But there would have been no occasion for concealing the gratification he felt at the manner in which it was affected. Unlike some others, he is profoundly impressed with the obligation of both the executive and legislative departments faithfully to fulfill the platform pledges upon the strength of which they were entrusted by the people with the conduct of the government, and he rightly thinks that such fulfilment would be rendered difficult if not possible by retaining in influential places men who had repudiated those pledges and were intent upon preventing them from being carried out. That is why he is pleased, and properly pleased, at the expulsion of party traitors from the camp, and organization of congress by men loyal to the platform upon which they were elected.

Under the American principle and practice, the party in power is morally responsible to the people for the conduct of the government. But it could not properly discharge that responsibility if it tolerated in its councils those who were constantly "boring from within" to hamper its work and to prevent it from executing the programme of legislation promised to and desired by the people. It was because of such marplotry that the late congress failed to meet the expectations of the people. The republican leaders in the present congress do not intend to have that discreditable experience repeated. In a great crisis of the Revolution Washington commanded "Put none but Americans on guard tonight!" If the republican administration and congress are to be held responsible for the government, and if they desire satisfactorily to discharge that responsibility, they will do well to put none but republicans on guard.

In the first vote on the confirmation of Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general, Senator Lee Overman, of North Carolina, voted for the president's nominee on the ground that the president had the right to select the members of his official family. On the second vote, that of Senator Walsh's motion to table the motion of Senator Reed (Penna.) to reconsider the vote, Overman switched over, saying that since it was obvious that his party was opposed to Warren he would stand with his party. This action was not without precedent, and from the standpoint of party regularity it was commendable. The late Senator Hoar, on one occasion voted with the opposition for a measure. Finding that this was the sole republican "aye," he arose and asked that his vote be changed to "nay," saying that he regarded the combined opinion of his party colleagues as of superior wisdom to his own, and he was nothing if not regular. Overman's action was such an exception to the modern rule that one is reminded of Holman Day's line: "They ain't-a-making them there kind, sir, now-a-days, you know."

EARNEST EFFORTS

"Listen!" began the young man who was terribly in earnest, after he had succeeded in marooning the cute little thing in a secluded corner, "I expect I've got just about three seconds before some dub will come breaking in to say it's his dance or you promised to go for a ride or something like that!

"I'm not accusing you, Maruna, of arranging it purposely, but if you will recollect for the last six months every time I get a chance to see you alone somebody calls you to the phone or your mother wants to know if you won't come upstairs a minute, or some girl floats in — to say nothing of ever succeeding in talking to you in the evening when we've out, like this—"

"Whatever are you so excited about Jonas?" asked the cute little thing, in great surprise. "We are now alone, nobody's bothering, go to it!"

"Well," said the earnest young man gloomily, "we won't be alone more'n two seconds longer I bet, because two fellows saw us when we drifted down here in this corner! It's always that way—just as I get started or maybe in the middle of what I am saying everything goes floosy from some interruption! I tell you it is fierce!

"Take Lem Custard, for instance—he's so crazy about you that he can't bear to have anybody else get in a word! At the Phippses' dinner, when I sat next to you and he was across the table, it was utterly disgraceful the way he talked across the rosebushes at you and neglected that very sweet girl who was his dinner partner—"

"Illyria is terribly nice," the cute little thing mused. "I have often wondered why you didn't run around with her—"

"Maruna," the earnest young man interrupted passionately, "that would be utterly impossible! Not that I blame you in the least for any wrong idea you may have for how is a person to know a thing if he is never told? That is why I am so glad to have this chance to talk, without being sure that I am going to be cut off in the middle of my first sentence the way I was the other night at your house! Just as your brother shut the front door after him, and your father practically passed out of existence at the radio, and your mother was tied down by your Aunt Nellie, and I had heaved a long sigh of relief in came Wardie Ploppe and that Biggie fellow—though what you can see in him is beyond speculation! And you acted just as glad to see them as though—as though you were glad—"

"I was glad" the cute little thing told him calmly, looking very much surprised. "I am always glad to see my friends. You are awfully funny, Jonas! Did you want to say something?"

"Did—did I wants say something?" almost gasped the earnest young man. "My heavens, Maruna, can't you realize that I've been wanting to say something for months, literally months? and every time I start to say it I get interrupted!

"Now when we went to that theater supper, I thought that my opportunity had certainly come. You were portioned off to go with me in my roadster. And then what happened? Everybody was crowded and they made Biggie perch on my runningboard—and he was on your side of the car, too! He didn't have politeness enough to hang on my side, but had to hop up where he could talk a blue streak to you! Could I get in a word? I should say I couldn't! You even walked on in with him while I was locking the car, and I never got near you again all evening! I tell you I've got to the point where I can't stand it any longer and now that I've really got you alone and all to myself, maybe I'll have the chance to say something without—"

"Oh, here you are!" said the young man, who at the moment parted the curtains between the two rooms. "C'mon, Maruna, they're playing our jazz!"

"I knew it!" growled the earnest young man in deep despair as Maruna danced off. 'Gee whiz, I'll just never get a chance to tell her what I want to, never!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Charles D. Hilles, who has been mentioned for a high diplomatic appointment under the present administration in Washington, was, little more than fifteen years ago, guarding the interests of several hundred orphans in a juvenile asylum of which he was the superintendent. His rapid rise in public life is a dramatic story and intensely American in its illustration of the opportunity that, even in these days, awaits the young man who does his job well. Mr. Hilles is a native of Ohio and began his career as a newspaper reporter in Lancaster. Then he obtained a position as secretary in the state industrial school in that city and a few years later became head of the institution. His great opportunity came when President Taft made him his private secretary. So well did he do his work that when the president was renominated Mr. Hilles was chosen chairman of the republican national committee and instructed with the management of the national campaign.

Some people owe their goodness to the fact that they have never been tempted.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE POTATO

Ireland had a poor potato harvest last fall, and as a result parts of the island are reported to be on the verge of famine.

"It takes such tragic occurrences as Ireland's food shortage to bring home to the average man the tremendous importance of the potato," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Half a dozen other countries of Europe would be in a dimilar plight if their potato crops failed!" continues the bulletin, "although a few centuries ago potatoes had not ever been heard of in any of these lands.

"The potato is one of the many valuable gifts of America to the world. Most histories, busy chronicling wars and elections and perhaps inventions, fail to emphasize the introduction of the potato from America to Europe, or else mention it quite incidentally. Economists and sociologists, however, could make a good case for the potato as the new world product which has most deeply affected life in the old world.

"When Spanish and English explorers and settlers found the potato it was grown in a desultory sort of way along the Atlantic coast of parts of North America and the Pacific coast of South America. It had probably spread to those regions from Peru, for it is believed to have been developed into a domestic plant in the mountain valleys of that land some thousands of years ago by pre-Incan farmers. The world did not take to the potato at first either in America or Europe. Not until well after the American Revolution did it become a crop of major importance in North America; and about the time of the French Revolution a Parisian philanthropist, Parmentier, found it up-hill work to induce the poor of the French metropolis to eat the tubers in free soup kitchens.

"The popularity of this 'apple of the earth' grew with a rush when its virtues once became known. Ireland was converted early, so much, so that a knowledge of the tuber spread from that island to other European lands and it thereby acquired the misnomer, 'Irish potato.' The potato created an agricultural revolution in northern Europe and soon became the dominant crop. It even made possible an increase in population in a number of European countries. Now it is to that part of the world what rice is to the Orient. It is more truly the staff of life in large areas of the west than wheat itself. But for the potato Germany could not have remained in the great war more than a year or so.

"Europe has made much greater use of the potato than the land of its discovery. Approximately six billion bushels are now grown in the world each year. If this production could be brought to one place it would fill a gigantic bin ten miles long, a mile wide and 25 feet deep. If a partition were placed across such a bin at the nine mile post the potatoes in the larger compartment would represent the production of Europe and Great Britain. Seven-tenths of the potatoes in the smaller division would represent the contribution of the United States to the world crop; and the remaining three-tenths would represent those produced in the rest of the world. Germany, Russia (it had a greater acreage than Germany before the Great War), the lands that made up Austria-Hungary, and France, each produces more potatoes than the United States.

"One of the outstanding virtues of the potato which has made it the leading vegetable product in northern Europe and northern United States is that it grows to perfection in regions too cool and too moist for satisfactory wheat culture. Another advantage is the tremendous amount of food material per acre contributed by potatoes. A hundred bushels per acre is an average yield in the United States, but in Germany the average is nearly twice as great. The greatest yield in any country is in the Netherlands where more than 250 bushels per acre are produced. Under exceptionally favorable conditions a single crop has been known to produce 600 bushels.

"As a world crop the potato, the upstart vegetable from the new world, has shouldered its way ahead of both rice and wheat. More pounds of potatoes have won first place in the world, too, in the matter of diffusion. They have become an important crop in the temperate and cool portions of every continent—from France to Scandinavia, in Siberia, the Americas, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand.

"Potatoes are not alone a food vegetable. They already fill an important place in industry and undoubtedly will become more important in that field. Starch, flour, glucose, alcohol and cattle feeds are some of the important products made from potatoes. The starch finds an important function in the textile industries in sizing yarn, in sizing the woven fabrics, and in thickening colors.

"Germany has gone farther than any other count ry in the utilization of potatoes. The surplus portion of that country's billion and a half bushel crop goes to factories where the tubers are cooked, mashed into flakes and dried. The drop flakes, not unlike American corn breakfast foods in form are sacked and keep perfectly in dry storage. The flakes may be prepared for human consumption as a vegetable, may be milled into a flour for combination with wheat in breadmaking, may be incorporated into feeds for domestic animals or may be used as a basis for the preparation of alcohol or whiskey.

"If it becomes profitable to drive farm machinery with alcohol it is probable that in most agricultural countries potatoes will furnish the best source of the fuel."

Stories That Recall Others

Keeping Good Natured

The famous Job who played with distinction one of the major roles in ancient times, was an irritable, hot tempered, blues-singing old crab compared to several of those who have to take telephone calls As a case in point listen to the persiflage of this kittenish correspondent, which comes over the telephone at one public office regularly and is generally received with remarkable tolerance:

"Is this ——?"
"Yes."
"Hello!"
"Well, what is it you want?"
"Well, don't you know who this is?"
"No, I'm afraid I don't."
"Well, guess who it is"
"No I haven't got time to guess."
"Oh, come on, honey, and guess!"
And then the l. c. hangs up and business is resumed as before.

He Looked Ahead.

An aged man in a car going through the country planted out of the window at a clump of new trees and, growing reminiscent, said:

"When I was a youngster mother said that the back 80 acres would be mine some day. I thought if it was going to be mine I'd do something for it. I gathered two bushels of fine walnuts one day and, taking them to the 80 acres, planted them all over the farm—wherever I thought they would be able to grow without future molestation.

"Fifty years later when the farm was sold, the walnut timber on the farm brought as much as the land itself."

All of which goes to show that reforestation may be more profitable than is indicated by the oriental proverb which, viewing it from a slow-growth angle, runs: "He who planteth a tree loves others than himself."

The Largest Buddha

The bronze Buddha of Yokohama is commonly thought to be the largest statue of that god in the world, but there is one in Burma that exceeds it in at least one dimension and gives an impression of far greater size.

When the English were building the railway from Rangoon to Mandalay they searched the vicinity of Pegu for stone with which to make the embankment through the great swamps. In the whole area there was only one elevation of any importance. The engineers thought that this hill might provide the necessary material, so they dug into its base and were surprised to find some artistic brickwork. On clearing away the earth further they found an enormous stone statue that represented Buddha in a reclining position. The statue is about 190 feet long and, including the brick base, it is more than 40 feet high. The Yokohama Buddha is 55 feet high, and 110 feet in circumference. Although the Burmese statue is not so artistic as the Japanese, it is a wonderful piece of work.

Not the least remarkable thing about it is the way in which so huge a monument had disappeared absolutely from Burmese history and legend. The news of the discovery at once brought numberless Buddhists to the place, who gilded and decorated the gigantic image as a work of devotion. The soles of its huge feet were ornamented at great cost with an elaborate glass mosaic and each toe was embellished with a separate decoration.

Store Within Store

A remarkable feat of engineering has been accomplished in the construction of an addition to a Philadelphia department store. A 14-story structure has been erected inside the original building in the space originally devoted to a rotunda. The addition was built entirely through an 8-foot door, which was the only opening used for the introduction of steel beams, machinery and all the other material used.

Amethyst's Powers

Amethyst is traditionally supposed to have the virtue of warding off or curing drunkenness. The word itself, which comes from the Greek, literally means "not intoxicating." The amethyst also has been held to have have the power to make men shrewd in business deals.

Host the Parisienne Attains the Smart Silhouette
One French woman lost 50 pounds in three months. Explains the secret of gaining this celebrated figure charm, without diet or exercise.
A French woman now in America reveals at last a new treatment for obesity that has found favor with well-known French aristocrats; it is a simple, harmless combination of ingredients put up in one small tablet called "SAN-GRI-NA," which helps nature in throwing off unnecessary fat-forming elements, thus making it impossible for fat to form and accumulate on the body. Already surprising reports from all parts have been received. Cases of reducing vary from 10 to 50 pounds, in a remarkably short time, with complete restoration of health and marvelous change in general appearance. While "SAN-GRI-NA" is mostly recommended for reducing it is also an invaluable help to get rid of all-over-me, tired feeling—does away with puffing, and in many cases entirely relieved high blood pressure. IT'S A PLEASANT AND ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS. Recommended by specialists, physicians and nurses as a safe, positive and simple way to take off from 5 to 6 pounds a week. Can be had from leading drug or department stores.

GOV. TRUMBULL ISSUES FAST DAY PROCLAMATION

Hartford, March 19—Good Friday, April 10, has been designated as a day of fasting and prayer by Governor Trumbull in a proclamation issued today. All persons, without distinction of creed, are urged to assemble on that day in places of worship to rededicate themselves to the high principles "without the inspiration of which no nation can long endure." The proclamation is as follows:

"In common with other states of the union we observe the several anniversaries of the great days of the nation; the day which marks the beginning of our free institutions; the birthdays of our chief national heroes; the memorial day for those who died for their country. It is well that we commemorate also on one day, the ideals which have made possible these national traditions which we so revere; to turn our thoughts to Him who by his life and death taught that the worth of liberty lies in the opportunity for service; that humility is the true test of greatness; that a man gains most who gives all that he has.

"To this end, and in conformity with ancient custom, I hereby designate Friday, the tenth day of April, as a day of fasting and prayer, and I earnestly urge all persons, without distinction of creed, to assemble on that day in their several places of worship, there humbly and solemly to re-dedicate themselves to those high spiritual principles of service and sacrifice, without the inspiration of which no nation can long endure."

DR. HONLINE COMING FOR LECTURE COURSE

Dr. M. A. Honline, who gave a series of five lectures on Religious Education topics in this city one year ago, is coming for a second series, beginning next week. This return engagement has been arranged because of the great popularity of last winter's series.

The lectures are held under the auspices of the church schools of the city. They will be given in the vestry of Trinity Methodist church.

The course will be upon the life of Christ. All the church school teachers and workers are looking forward to the series but the public is also invited to attend.

In order to make the work of more permanent value to the class members everybody will be invited to register for the lecture course and those who wish may buy a text book.

The sessions will be held at 7.45 p. m. each Thursday, beginning March 26th and closing April 23rd. There will be no registration fee.

WEDDING

Whipple—Whipple

Miss Doris R. Whipple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Whipple of Ledyard, was married Monday evening at the Ledyard chapel in Ledyard, to Floyd E. Whipple, son of Mrs. and J. Alfred Whipple of Waterford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. Hubbart of Boston.

The bride wore white canton crepe and carried white carnations. Miss Muriel Whipple, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. She was attired in pale blue crepe de chine and carried pink carnations. Ralph N. Whipple brother of the bridegroom was best man. Mildred and Dorothy Whipple cousins of the bridegroom and Eleanor and Marie Watrous, nieces of the bride were flower girls. Two of them were dressed in green and white and two in pink and white. They carried baskets of jonquils and pussy willows. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Gertrude Watrous.

The ushers were Frank Shafer, brother-in-law of the bride, and Alfred Whipple, Jr., brother of the bride groom. An informal reception was held after the ceremony. About 60 guests were present from Ledyard, Gales Ferry, Mystic, Old Mystic, Waterford, Boston and Jersey City. Mr. and Mrs. Whipple left for New York on their honeymoon.

The principals in the cast of Bimbo, the American Legion theatrical given recently at the Palace theatre by Fletcher Post, No. 4, entertained the patients and staff at the tuberculosis sanatorium Thursday evening. The evening proved a delightful one for all.

Cleared $400 For Fr. Quinn's Church

A former Montville priest, Rev. J. F. X. Quinn is pastor of St. Michael's church, Westerly, where this week St. Michael's players cleared over $400 by two presentations of the drama, "Human Hearts." The assistant pastor, Rev. J. J. Keane directed the players.

MERCHANTS' WINDOW DRESSING PLAN BRINGS BEAUTIFUL SPRING DISPLAY

Lavishly dressed windows in over three score Norwich stores representing all lines of merchandise, herald the annual spring opening. This year cooperation on the part of the leading merchants of Norwich has resulted in considerable interest on the part of the buying public who thronged the streets in the shopping district Thursday evening to view the store windows. Practically all the leading stores in the city have entered the window dressing contest and there is keen competition in the race for the nine silver cups offered for the best trimmed windows. It was expected that the winners of the prize cups would be announced Thursday evening, but when the three judges, Mayor Milo R. Waters, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell and Miss Mary Henderson, started in on their work they found themselves confronted by a difficult task. They found so many beautiful, attractively arranged and unique windows that it was next to impossible to make the final selections Thursday evening so this part of the spring opening celebration had to go over until Friday evening when the final selections will be picked and the names of the winners announced. Paul A. Brown, chairman of the spring opening celebration committee, said Thursday evening that without doubt the names of the winning stores will be announced this (Friday) evening.

Never have the stores of Norwich appeared so attractive as they did Thursday evening when the windows were thrown open for public inspection. Practically every line of merchandist is to be seen in the windows. Spring time millinery, the newest in woman's and misses' coats, dresses and suits, the latest in men's clothing and furnishings, beautiful furniture, handsome floor coverings, garden tools, hardware of every description, springtime silk, house cleaning appliances of all kinds, electrical supplies, radio outfits and supplies, musical instruments, all kinds of jewelry, drugs, tonics and medicines, candy and cigars, and flowers, stationery supplies, Easter novelties, etc., are seen on display in the windows of the Main street, Broadway and Franklin street stores.

It would be difficult to single out any one store as the most attractive. This is the work of the three judges and they themselves are somewhat perplexed in making their decisions. In justice to the merchants it may be said that they are to be complimented on the excellent results attained by their window dressers. The merchants have entered wholeheartedly into the movement to "dress up" their windows in true springlike style and from the interest shown by the window shoppers Thursday evening it was plainly evident that their efforts to please have been appreciated.

An attractive number on the spring opening celebration programme was the style show at the Palace theatre Thursday evening. Through the courtesy of the management Al Barlow and His Sunshine Girls staged the attractive fashion show for the local merchants. All the latest creations in suits, frocks, gowns and coats were displayed by the Sunshine Girls who acted as models. The large and appreciative audience was delighted with the fashion show.

The merchants who displayed suits, gowns, frocks and coats at the style show were Porteous & Mitchell, J. B. Caron, L. J. Bruette, The Princess Shop, Barney's, Mandel's Shop, Paul A. Brown, Manhattan Ladies Shop and the Worth Specialty Shop. The cooperative spring opening movement is being engineered by a committee of local merchants comprising, Paul A. Brown, chairman; M. W. Kirsch, Louis Gotthelf, Joseph Lahn and Alexander Sharpe.

Free theatre tickets were offered for the assembling of a sentence made up from letters found in the various store windows. The complete sentence was as follows:

"By buying now in Norwich you render times better bye and bye."

Today (Friday) and Saturday are the spring opening days and shoppers from all the towns in eastern Connecticut have been invited to visit the stores. Extra street car service was provided Thursday evening and there will be extra car service Saturday evening. An important announcement to those living north of Norwich is the extra service provided on the Central Village line. Saturday evening a late car will be run to Plainfield and Central Village, leaving Franklin square at 9.45 o'clock.

Following is the list of merchants who have joined hands in the co-operative spring opening movement:

LIONS ARE TOLD OF WASTAGE FROM FIRE

The Norwich Lions club held their weekly meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregun hotel and in the absence of President C. Edward Carpenter, the vice president, Louis J. Fontaine, presided. An interesting five minute talk on fire insurance was given by Mr. Fontaine. In the course of his remarks he said:

I am going to place before you today, a matter that many of you men are not familiar with, and yet you would be much more interested if you knew the tremendous loss and damage that is being made by carelessness every single day of the year.

This was brought to the attention of nearly every man in the insurance field by the Actuarial Bureau of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. They have asked us all to make an appeal to such clubs as this and all community welfare organizations that can do a great deal to educate in this serious problem.

The property loss in 1903 was $145,302,155; in 1913, $203,763,550; and in 1923, $535,372,782. This makes an average of $1,468,775 daily, this in turn reduces to precisely $1,019.00 a minute, every dollar of it wasted.

The bureau tells us that 75 per cent. of these property losses are due to carelessness and should have been saved. This is the title that we have gained and leads directly away from our national glory and towards national wastefulness. The United States set a new record, one that no country in all the long course of history ever allowed itself to attain, these figures rise well above the mark set during the San Francisco disaster year. It represented the actual wastage of $428,298,226 as tabulated day by day, to which is added the customary allowance of 25 per cent. to embrace unreported and uninsured losses, bringing up the total to precisely $535,372,782 for 1923.

Is it not the duty of you men and every good citizen to do everything in his power to lessen the peril and wastefulness? So let us be useful and prevent and not destroy.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, superintendent of the Norwich Tuberculosis Sanatorium and president of the Norwich Rotary club, gave a timely and interesting talk on tuberculosis work. He held the close attention of all as he related some of his experiences during the course of his work. Dr. Campbell was given a hearty vote of thanks at the conclusion of his talk. The meeting closed in the usual manner with the Lion's roar and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

DESCRIBES TRANSFORMATION OF PALESTINE UNDER ZIONISM

Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of the Zionist organization of America, told the iZonist get-together Thursday evening at the Community house that the marvelous results in Palestine speak eloquently for the Zionist movement. Anybody who comes into contact with Palestine becomes an advocate of Zionism.

Mr. Lipsky has spent five months in Palestine and he gave an intensely interesting picture of the transformation of the country where he said nothing short of a miracle is happening. The Arab opposition is a myth, the anti-Zionistic sentiment is fast being dissipated, and the land is awakening to fertility under the work of the Jews from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia who constitute the agricultural communities. Anything that grows in the world, he said, will grow in Palestine. As an example, the cultivation of oranges has been introduced there and the fruit is sold in London, while tobacco growing has also been introduced and it will soon be possible to buy cigarettes that are made in New York from tobacco grown in Palestine.

Mr. Lipsky also described how the cities of Haifa and Tel-aviv are being built up as Jewish communities and the whole of the Mediteranean seaboast is being occupied by a chain of Jewish settlements where the dominant culture and language is Hebrew.

Rabbi J. N. Rosenberg introduced the speaker and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Rookies Arrive at Barracks.

Six of 15 rookies due to enroll arrived at the Groton state police barracks, Thursday for training as state policemen. They were Earl R. Morin of Fairfield, Frank W. Kulouski, of West Hartford, Rufus C. Grant of Waterbury, James Carmony of Southington, Irving H. Nelson of New Haven, and W. R. Murphy of New Haven. The remainder of the newly enlisted men are expected at once and upon completion of their training they will be drawn upon by other barracks in the state.

LENTEN SERMON BY RECTOR FROM HARTFORD

Rev. Frederick H. Nason, rector of Grace church, Hartford, preached the sermon at the united Lenten service Thursday evening at Christ church. The service was led by Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, rector of the church, and prayer was offered by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity church. Rev. Mr. Nason took his text from St. Matthew 27:36—And sitting down they watched Him there. In part he said:

The crowd watched with indifference the agony of the Divine Son on the cross. As our Lord was lifted up on the cross He realized He was dying for the sins of the whole world. The eternal son of God was paying the price for their salvation. None of us need to be told how indifferent most of us are. We pat ourselves on the back and say if we had been there we would not be indifferent. Yet today we have the same group indifferent to the Holy Sacrament. The holy sacrifice is still being offered on the church altar. We only approach God the Father through God the Son.

In many of us our hearts are still cold. We are indifferent. We often wonder why there are people who are so indifferent. Those who watched Him on the cross did not realize who was dying on the cross. Why are our churches so empty at the Holy Sacrament? God dwells with us and we with Him at the Blessed Sacrament. What a joyous world it would be if we all realized when we go to the Holy Sacrament that God is really there. Until He comes we must see Him through the veil of bread and wine.

Let each one of us ask ourselves if we had been at Calvary where we would have been. Would we have been with St. Mary and St. John at the foot of the cross or would we have been with the other group playing dice? It is God on the cross offering the sacrifice.

Next Thursday evening the preacher will be Rev. John H. Deming, rector of St. George's church, Newport, R. I., for the service at Trinity church.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jacob King.

Mrs. Zoe Parent King, wife of Jacob King, died Wed. evening at her home in Uncasville following a long illness from complications. Mrs. King was a native of Canada and spent most of her life in Danielson. She came to Montville to live about two years ago.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters, Mrs. David Crotty, of Montville, Mrs. Harry Archer, of New London and Miss Eva King of Montville, and four sons, Fred King, of Goodyear Conn., Clarence King of Williamstown, Mass., Louis King of Central Village, and Robert King of Putnam.

She also leaves 14 grandchildren.

John T. Cruttenden.

John T. Cruttenden, of Niantic, who died at his winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla., Saturday was born in Guilford, Aug. 9, 1856, one of the descendants of the Abraham Cruttendens colony of 1638. At the age of 21 he left the old homestead for the great west but while in New York he saw an opportunity to rent a small store at 2 Fulton street. This he secured and opened up with a line of sporting goods. With his own hands he carved out a huge fish which he gilded and placed over the store front. He was so successful in his venture that the R. H. Ingersoll & Brother Co., dealers in sporting goods, made him such a generous offer that he closed out his business and became manager of one of their large stores His business and executive ability caused the company to put him at the head of another store until he had the managership of six of the Ingersoll stores.

Possessed of tremendous energy but lacking in physical ability for such a strain, his health broke down, and he left the city to buy a farm at Durfey Hill, Waterford, where he engaged in raising fancy poultry and was so successful that he was made president of the Southern New England Poultry Association. He received scores of medals and blue ribbon prizes and his offerings of fancy settings commanded a high figure.

But again in this venture he overtaxed his strength and finally sold out about 1916 and opened a store in Niantic, selling fruits and vegetables Here again his natural good judgment brought such a busy life upon him that for the past three years his daily tasks brought him to the point of exhaustion. A few years ago Mr. Cruttenden decided to spend his winters in Florida and the new environment and climate of Halifa and Tel-aviv are being built up as Jewish communities and the whole of the Mediteranean seaboast is being occupied by a chain of Jewish settlements where the dominant culture and language is Hebrew.

Rabbi J. N. Rosenberg introduced the speaker and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

ALCORN MEETS OBJECTIONS TO WHEELER BILL

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn of Hartford who is the chairman of the committee of state's attorneys which has in charge the conduct of the Wheeler enforcement bill at the hearing before the judiciary committee on April 14, and before the general assembly, offered this week to discuss the chief objections he had heard of the bill. Mr. Alcorn said, in part:

"I do this although at this time I cannot undertake to give you an extended discussion of these objections, but I hope to answer these fairly and effectively although necessarily briefly Before meeting these objections specically let me get a running start by a few general observations upon the Wheeler bill.

The four years that have intervened since the passage of our state enforcement act have revealed certain defects in the law which need to be remedied in order to make its operation more uniform and effective. It has been found, for instance that the treatment of armed transporters should be more severe; that the use of stills be restricted to the end that the unlawful distilling of liquor might be prevented; that the use of poisoned denatured alcohol for beverage purposes should be stopped; that vehicles used in the unlawful transportation of liquor should be confiscated upon the order of the court; that the issuance of search warrants should be simplified and strengthened; that the padlock law should be incorporated into our statute; and that the penalties for first and successive violations of the act should be increased. None of these provisions can be objected to by any reasonable person who understands the situation, but we find it necessary to go further than that if a reasonable enforcement of hte law is to be obtained.

The provision in the proposed law which has drawn the fire of the well-to-do violator is the one which makes the purchaser of liquor equally guilty with the seller. It is this provision, already a part of the Volstead law, that meets with disfavor, not from the bootlegger alone but from his customer from that class of citizens of admitted wealth, influence and high social standing, who, thus entrenched, circumvents the law as it is and opposes any change which seeks to bring them within the reach of its penalties. We should be perfectly frank with this privileged class of our fellow citizens and they should be equally frank with us. This provision of the bill is aimed directly at them. Do they admit the fairness and logic of it, or do they believe in inequality before the law?

"The bootlegger today assumes all the hazards of the game. He is paid directly or indirectly by citizens of acknowledged standing in the community to violate the law. Advantage is freely taken, by them, of his necessity or of his cupidity. When he is caught and sent to prison, his customer leaves him, and perhaps a destitute family, to make the best of their misery. This is unfair and indefensible. Obedience to law should be voluntary; but if this particular class of our citizens cannot otherwise be called to repentence, they should be outlawed with the bootlegger who serves them.

"We have reached the point where greater respect for law and order is imperative. This respect will be attained when our citizens, otherwise of good repute, cease giving and aid comfort to the enemies of decent and orderly government. It is many years since Connecticut has been so thoroughly aroused over a subject affecting the public interest. Churches of all denominations, civic organizations and individuals are awake to the peril, and the demand for relief should not be ignored. The period of indifference and toleration has passed and our eighteenth amendment irreconcilables must choose whom they will serve. It was to this class that President Coolidge spoke last week, when he said that:

"Those who want their rights respected under the constitution and the law ought to set the example themselves of observing the constitution and the law."

"If the Wheeler amendments are adopted, the constitution and the law will, in my opinion, be more generally obeyed. Their restraining influence will be felt at once and to that extent we shall be brought appreciably nearer the goal wic so many of our loyal citizens are striving to reach."

MONSIGNOR MAY'S WELCOME TO BE PLANNED BY MEN

This (Friday) evening, following the Lenten service of the stations of the Cross at St. Patrick's church, about 30 of the leading men of the parish will meet in the church assembly rooms. They will confer with Rev. Myles P. Galvin relative to a formal welcome home to the rector, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael Henry May.

The first monsignor appointed in eastern Connecticut Father May's home-coming will have more than mere parochial significance. Father Galvin has been notified that he plans to leave Rome the last of March, sailing from Naples on S. S. Conte Rosso, due in New York about April 6th, it is probable that neighboring Catholic parishes may join with the Norwich congregation in the formal demonstration which will let Monsignor May understand how pleasing his deserved advancement is to the entire territory of eastern Connecticut. Mgr. May is a native of New London, he came to Norwich after a successful pastorate in Rockville, so that the honor conferred upon him concerns many outside his own great flock, for whose spiritual and temporal interests he has labored so modestly and so well.

Tonight's meeting will formulate preliminary plans for the reception to him.

FUNERALS.

Timothy Proteau.

The funeral of Timothy Proteau was held Thursday morning at 8.15 o'clock from his home, No. 178 West Thames street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Mourners were present from Wrentham, Mass., Worcester, Mass., Manchester, N. H., and other places, and there were numerous beautiful floral forms.

At 9 o'clock a solemn high requiem mass was celebrated at St. Patrick's church by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, with Rev. James O'Meara, of Uncasville, deacon, and Rev. Charles Brennan, sub-deacon. Prof. Frank L. Farrell presided at the organ and at the offertory Mrs. Farrell sang Pie Jesu. As a waiting hymn she sang When Evening Comes.

The bearers were William J. Counihan, Frank Cashen, Michael King, Michael Galvin, Edward Proteau and Thomas Enright. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, Father Galvin reading the committal service.

Undertakers Cummings & Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Party For Helen Sullivan.

Little Helen Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Sullivan of McKinley avenue, entertained on Saint Patrick's day, her fifth birthday, a party of little friends. The colors in the dining room were green and white.

In the center of the table was a decorated birthday cake with green candles. There were favors for each little guest, baskets of candy with little American and green flags. Mrs. Sullivan was assisted in entertaining the children by Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Benjamin Sullivan and Miss Nellie Harrington.

Games provide amusement. The winners of the prizes were, in the peanut hunt, Alice Driscoll and in the donkey game, Annette Comerford. Those present were: Anna Drew, Annette Comerford, Alice Driscoll, Anna Foley, Myra Heuschel, Audrey and Alma Jones, Barbara and Shirley Fellows, Mary and Eileen Dynon.

Never Let a Cold Get a Start
Vapors Check a Cold Overnight
There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way — with vapors that can be inhaled.
Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.
Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like "a vapor lamp in salve form."
When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poltice or plaster.
This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL STARTS AT STORRS THIS AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, March 19—Preparations for the state high school basketball tournament, to be held at the Connecticut Agricultural College tomorrow and Saturday, were completed today, according to the statement of Roy J. Guyer, head of the department of physical education at the State college. Ten teams of "C" and "D" high schools are expected to arrive in Storrs tomorrow morning, and the games that will decide the state championship of the schools in these classes will begin tomorrow afternoon. Play will be resumed in the evening, and Saturday morning, but there will be no games Saturday afternoon, as this time will be taken to allow the teams plenty of rest before entering the finals Saturday night.

Teams will be entered in this tournament from Branford, Collinsville, Deep River, Litchfield, Westport, West Hartford, Terryville, Stafford Springs, Woodstock, and Tourtelotte High of North Grosvenordale. These teams were invited to participate in this meet on the basis of their excellent records during the past season, and the selections were made by a committee of the State interscholastic athletic conference, which is sponsoring the tournament.

Officials will be furnished by the Connecticut Agricultural College, and two men will work in each game. Those who will officiate include R. J. Guyer head of the physical education department at Storrs; Sumner A. Dole and L. A. Alexander, varsity and freshman coach respectively, at the State College; and W. Makofski, G. Allard, C. Kadomski, W. Thomson, P. Bitgood, and W. O'Brien, advanced physical education students at Storrs.

Tomorrow morning a schedule of games will be arranged by a committee of the Interscholastic conference, and this schedule will be followed throughout the tournament. During their stay at the college, the high school athletes will be quartered in the fraternity houses and dormitories, and every effort will be made to provide for their convenience and comfort.

Immediately after the finals Saturday night, President Charles Lewis Beach of the college will present a silver loving cup, suitably inscribed, to the team winning the state championship for the "C" and "D" schools. A dance will be held in honor of the high school teams after the presentation of the championship cup.

Tourtelotte High of North Grosvenordale, with a record of but 1 defeat in 18 games for the season, should be able to furnish plenty of opposition in the tourney. The Tourtelotte boys have rolled up an impressive total of 489 points, as against 347 for their opponents, and among others they hold victories over Pomfret academy, Woodstock, Stafford Springs, and Putnam. The North Grosvenordale school will take the floor with Coderre and Ravenelle, forwards; Chubbuck, center; Robbins and either Kennedy or Smith, guards. This is a veteran team, and during the past two years, this outfit has lost but 5 out of 40 games. Rudolph Keyes of Bates is the Tourtelotte coach.

West Hartford High comes to Storrs with a record of 17 games played 12 of which resulted in victories, and 5 in defeats. Teams defeated include Windsor, Farmington, East Hartford, Simsbury, Middletown, and others. The West Hartford lineup in the games at Storrs will be Banks and Birge, forwards; Dowling center; Lindell and Osterling, guards. With the exception of Lindell, this is a veteran combination, and one that is at present tied with Collinsville for first place in the Farmington Valley League.

The boys on the Deep River team must be gluttons for work, for they have already played 25 games this season, 16 of which resulted in victories. A total of 752 points were rolled up, as against 710 for their opponents. This team will take the floor with O'Brien and O'Leary, forwards; Hamilton, center; Mozzochi and Captain Carlson, guards. Deep River is credited with victories over Middletown, Chapman Tech and Bulkeley High, and other schools of the state. In a game at Deep River, they held the strong New Haven Commercial high to a 36-32 score, which is a creditable performance, considering the record of the New Haven five. Deep River is coached by B. Tourville, who is also principal of the high school.

Terryville comes to Storrs with a record of 8 victories in 12 starts which is a splendid showing considering the schedule played. Victories were obtained over Litchfield, Farmington, Watertown, Thomaston, and other high schols, and at present Terryville is tied with Litchfield for first place in the Litchfield County League. It has been suggested that this deadlock between these two schools be played off at Storrs, but pending a conference of the respective coaches, nothing definite can be announced. The Terryville team, which is coached by Walter Morris of Massachusetts Aggies, will lineup with Jablonowski and Cook, forwards; Pickett, center; Captain Martin and Szamier, guards.

Complete records with lineups for the other teams entered are not available, but the number of games won and lost are as follows: Collinsville, won 8 of 10 games; Litchfield, won 8 of 12 games; Westport, won 6 of 9 games; Stafford Springs, won 9 of 11 games; and Woodstock, won 6 of 10 games.

ROBIN'S SECRET

'Tis the brightest, bonniest weather for a bird to flit a feather,
For a bird to trill and warble, all his wee red breast a-swell.
I've a secret. You may listen till your blue eyes dance and glisten,
Little maiden, but I'll never, never, never never tell.

You'll find no more wary piper, till the strawberries wax riper
In December than in June—aha! all up and down the dell,
Where my nest is set, for certain, with a pink and snowy curtain
East or west, but which I'll never, never, never, never tell.

You may prick me with a thistle, if you ever hear me whistle
How my brooding mate, whose weariness my carols sweet dispel,
All between the clouds and clover, apple blossoms drooping over,
Twitters low that I must never, never, never, never tell.

Oh, I swear no closer fellow stains his bill in cherries mellow.
Tra la la! and tirra lirra! I'm the jauntiest sentinel,
Perched beside my jewel-casket, where lie hidden—don't you ask it,
For of those three eggs I'll never, never, never, never tell.

Chirp! chirp! chirp! alack! for pity! Who hath marred my merry ditty?
Who hath stirred the scented petals, peeping in where robins dwell?
Oh, my mate! May Heaven defend her! Little maidens' hearts are tender,
And I never, never, never, never meant to tell.

TEX RICKARD CONVICTED BY JURY OF VIOLATING PRIZE FIGHT PICTURE LAW

Trenton, N. J., March 19.—George L. (Tex) Rickard and four of his co-defendants in federal court, charged with conspiracy to violate the law to illegally transport prize fight films, were found guilty by a jury at 11.30 p. m., tonight. A sixth defendant, James Dougherty of Philadelphia, was acquitted.

The verdict was handed in after the jurors had been locked up for the night. Faced with the prospect of a night spent on hard court benches, the jurors informed the bailiff after 11 o'clock that they had arrived at a verdict. Judge Bodine, communicated with by telephone, gave his consent for the acceptance of the verdict by the court clerk.

Those convicted, beside Rickard, were Fred C. Quimby, New York motion picture producer; Teddy Hayes, of Los Angeles, former secretary to Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey; Jasper C. (Jap.) Mums, Washington and New York newspaperman, and Frank B. Flournoy, Madison Square Garden matchmaker.

Two of the defendants, Mums and Flournoy, were not in court. They had returned to New York at the time the jury was locked up. Rickard, Quimby, Hayes and Dougherty were found at a local hotel, called from their beds and hurried to the court room.

Rickard was held guilty on one count of conspiracy and on two charging transportation of films of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight from New Jersey to New York and later to Chicago. Quimby and his corporation, Fred C. Quimby, Inc., were held to be guilty of conspiracy on one count and on three counts charging transportation.

Hayes was held on two counts, conspiracy and transportation; Muma on two counts charging illegal transportation and one alleging conspiracy, and Flournoy on one count only, that of conspiracy. Dougherty, a manager of prize fighters, was found not guilty. At the conclusion of the government's case, but one charge, that of illegal transportation, remained against Dougherty.

BOXING EXHIBITION AT WESTERLY LAST EVENING

One good bout featured the boxing exhibition at Westerly on Thursday evening while the other three on the card proved to be flivvers. The feature bout was a six-round slugging match between Jim Ross and Young O'Day in which O'Day scored a technical knockout in the sixth. O'Day knocked Ross down once in the third round and again in the fourth but in the fifth Ross came back and had O'Day covering. In the sixth O'Day badly punished Ross and the bout was stopped.

Young Reta won the decision when Mickey Fain gave up the fight in the second round of the six-round preliminary.

Chief Stanton won the referee's decision over Smiler McCormick in six rounds of fast boxing at 140 pounds.

Kid Romeo of Baltimore hurt his knee in the first round of his six-round bout with Jimmy O'Dowd of Danielson and was forced to quit the ring. This bout had the making of a star attraction.

INTERCOLLEGIATE WRESTLING TOURNEY STARTS TONIGHT

New York, March 19—Eighty varsity wrestling teams come to grips at Columbia University tomorrow to determine the 1925 champion of the intercollegiate wrestling association.

Penn State, with six straight victories to its credit this season is favored to take the title, although Yale Cornell and Lehigh are expected to furnish stubborn opposition. The other teams entered are Columbia, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Syracuse, the latter a newcomer in the league.

Of the twenty-one meets that have ben hld since the association was organized, Cornell has won nine Yale and Penn State have taven five each. Penn State's victims this year include Pennsylvania, Cornell, Syracuse and Lehigh. Two present association champions—Captain Black, 145 pounds, and Carey, 115 pounds—are on the State team.

The preliminaries are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, the semi-finals for tomorrow night with the finals Saturday afternoon.

FRENCH SOCCER TEAM HOLDS S. A. CHAMPS TO TIE

Paris, March 19.—A French soccer team today held the famous Uruguayan champion Olympic team to a tie score. Neither side made a goal. Tonight everyone considers that the result was equivalent to a victory for France.

Thirty thousand spectators attended the match, which was played in the Buffalo stadium. Everyone expected the Frenchmen to be beaten, but the hope prevailed among the partisans of the French team that the defeat would not be a crushing one. At the final whistle there were demonstrations of wild enthusiasm such as never before had been witnessed at the termination of a sporting event in France.

FINAL GAME IN EASTERN BASKETBALL TOURNEY TONIGHT

The final game in the Eastern Connecticut basketball championship will be played this evening at the Baltic gym when the Taftville Army-Navy club clashes with the Baltic Wanderers. This game will bring together two teams made up entirely of local talent and taking the game last Tuesday evening as an example tonight's encounter should be one of the best games of the season.

Baltic will use the regular line-up with Ridgeway and Simonsen, forwards, Charron, center, the Robertaille brothers, guards with Sullivan and Coady as subs. Taftville will have Pure Algimy or Joe Beaulr in the forward berths, Harry Mills at center, and the Coleman brothers at guard.

MARTIN-ROSENBERG BOUT SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

New York, March 19—Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, world champion bantamweight, meets Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg, New York bantamweight, in a 15 round title match at Madison Square tomorrow night.

It is Martin's first big battle in New York since he won the title from Abe Goldstein, former champion.

Lewis Loses to Milligan.

London, March 19.—Tex "Kid" Lewis, of England, lost to Tommy Milligan, the Scottish welterweight, in the fifth round of a 20-round contest at Albert hall tonight. Lewis was disqualified for persisting holding.

Nurmi Resumes Training.

New York, March 19.—Paavo Nurmi, who was forced to leave the track during a 5,000-meter race against Willie Ritola at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night, today resumed training and stated that he felt fit to tackle the schedule which will take him into Canada and the middle west and later to the Pacific coast.

Wood Wins Boat Race.

Miami, Fla., March 19.—Gar Wood of Detroit, piloting his Baby Gar IV., gained a second leg on the Fisher-Allison gold speedboat trophy here today. He won three straight 50-mile heats in the feature event of the first day's program of the annual Miami Beach mid-winter regatta.

"Capital" vs. "Capitalism"

Capitalism must not be confounded with the accumulation and use of capital. This is a very common mistake made by the masses. Capitalism means operation of industry and commerce for profit, while capital represents the result of years of thrift and self-restraint. As self-gratification is at the bottom of capitalism, so self sacrifice is the basis of capital.—Roger Babson.

Biggest Waves

The tides are simply vast waves with a length from crest to crest equal to half the earth's circumference. As the tidal wave approaches the shore the water encroaches more and more on the land until the crest arrives when it is high tide. Similarly, the arrival of the trough of the tidal wave brings low tide.

Natural Soap Factories

Most of the raw material procured from the interior of the earth must go through various processes before it may be utilized, though much is delivered ready for use. Coal and salt are familiar examples and in some localities ready-made soap is found. One natural "plant" is at Ashcraft, British Columbia, another in Nevada, and a third at Oken's Lake, Cal., soap from which places has been used in quantities for many years.

Early Printing

The oldest known printed book, according to a well-known authority, is the "Diamond Sutra," which dates from 868 A. D. The printing in the "Diamond Sutra" was made by use of block prints similar to our woodcuts. The first type printing was done some time between 1051 and 1058. It was by means of type made of earthenware.

Worse Luck

It was in Twin Peaks tunnel. Something happened to the lights and they all went out for a moment. When they came back a woman complained to the conductor. "Somebody kissed me!" "Gwan," growled a workman. "You ain't got no kick. Somebody swiped me veal cutlet. Now, what do yuh think o' that?"—San Francisco Bulletin.

A Musical Bar

The word bar when applied to music between two vertical lines of the score, is not correct. The bar simply divides the music into portions of equal duration. Such portions are really measures of music, or as it was called in ancient times, "musica mensuratis," to distinguish it from the old "musica choralis," in which all the notes were of the same length.

First Great Clockmaker

Chauncey Jerome was the noted American clockmaker who originated the one-day brass clock movement, which enormously increased the American clock business and opened a market for American clocks in Europe. He was born in Canaan, Conn., in 1793.

Sheep Leads 'Em Chase

After following a sheep 23 miles in an effort to capture it, officials of the board of agriculture of Britain finally had to shoot the animal, which was supposed to have been subjected to the foot-and-mouth disease.

DIVERSIFICATION AND CONCENTRATION

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Eastern farmers, who have learned that their only hope for "making a little of it" depends on diversification of products, have small excuse for and less sympathy with western wheat orangiers, who grow wheat, just wheat, and nothing else.

We discovered, long ago, the economic danger of putting all our eggs in one basket. Especially when that egg-basket was handled by gangs of outsiders who had no earthly interest in the safety of its contents or the price they brought.

In truth, it seems to most of us as if this lesson of diversification is so self-evident, so manifest, so clear that even a fool of a wayfaring man should not need to be taught it: he should know it, off hand, and as he knows wet from dry or day from night.

Consequently, when the wheat-wrangler whines and whimpers over his own bankruptcy, we are inclined to tell him that it's his own fault and he ought not to snivel about it. If he preferred to put all his precious eggs into one over-packed basket and hand them over to peripatetic speculators and wheat-pit gamblers and transportation sluggers to handle, allowing him only for what was left after all the various breakages and damages and fees and commissions and mishandlings had been deducted,—if he really preferred that sort of "plunging" to honest-to-goodness farming, why, it was his own look-out. But he needn't come to more foresighted and forehanded farmers for sympathy.

In that feeling I confess that I share. I don't see why, when a farmer deliberately flies in the face of all reason and despises the teachings of all experience, he should expect others to cry over his resultant hurt. Nor do I see any excuse for his attempt to blame his own troubles on to others, whether government or railroads, or bankers, or blacksmiths, or anybody else.

Even the wheat-wranglers themselves are coming to see this. That is, the portion of them who are really farm-minded are so coming. A good many of them are not farmers at all and nothing in the way of farm sense is to be expected from such. But those who really have the makings of a farmer in them are turning towards diversification with commendable energy.

In any industry whose profitable product depends upon so many and so uncertain factors as farming,—the seasons, the daily wreather, the bugs and birds, the cinch-worms and the grasshoppers, the world-markets, etc., —in such an industry simple common sense bids its practitioners keep several irons in the fire so that, if one burns out, he may have another to hammer on.

And yet,—

There's almost as much danger of falling over backwards by trying to stand up too straight as there is of toppling forwards by too much leaning that way.

When, in the old fable, Ulysses headed his small bark through the Dangerous Straits, Charybdis roared on his right and Scylla barked on his left. If he steered too wide of the one, he fell into the other's jaws. It took a stout heart to dare the narrow passage and sharp eyes and a steady hand to steer through safely.

Whatever may be the case in the west, here in the east I am inclined to think there is actually more danger of our diversifying too much than too little. That is, we're more apt to have too many irons in the fire than too few. We tend to keep so many hot, all at the same time and in the same forge, that we don't get best results from any.

It's an old dispute that between diversification and concentration. Considered theoretically, about as much can be said on one side as on the other. But in our case, as farmers, it is not a theory but a condition which confronts us. As President Cleveland once remarked about something in politics. The question with us it not so much Mendelian laws or Freudian theories or Einstein hypotheses indicate, but, What do common sense and experience tell us is the best way to get biggest results from our land and labor?

It is perfectly clear that, if we put our eggs in one basket and that basket gets smashed, we shall have to go without eggs.

It is just exactly as self-evident that, if we put our eggs into two dozen separate baskets, we can't carry them all at once, nor even keep track of where they are, all the time.

Now to come down to Gen. Dawes' famous "brass tacks."—Say, didn't you enjoy that tongue-lashing he gave the senate old women, at his inauguration? I own up that I did. I wish they had to hear it again and again, not only from him but from their outraged constituents, day by day, till sheer fright should drive them to action which their own alleged intelligence is never likely to inspire. Of all the inefficient, incapable, interminable gabble-parties this suffering country has ever known, the high and mighty U. S. senate is about the worst. It really needs something more drastic than a scolding. It needs a good cat-o-nine-tails thrashing, administered by "No" votes filling the ballot-boxes.—

Whoa, there! Let's get back into the road again. We're trying to talk about something practical and sensible, and how the U. S. senate got mixed in with such a subject is something of a mystery. Oh, yes, it was a reference to Vice President Dawes' "brass tacks" that started the team off in a tantrum. Let's get back to 'em.

In practical farming it isn't so much what theory tells us "ought to" happen as what observation and experience tell us does happen, which counts. The farmer simply must have more than one iron in the fire; more than one arrow in the quiver; more than one basket for his eggs. He must produce more than one crop a year lest, upon failure of that single reliance, he have to take the way over the hill to the poor-house.

How many different crops are possible to a farmer, even right here in Connecticut? There's hay and sowed grains and corn and potatoes and vegetables and fruits and berries and milk and butter and pork and broilers and eggs,—say, you borrow the fingers of the family and count 'em up for yourself! The man who could start them all and take care of them all and market one-half of them would be pretty fairly certain to have something jingly in his pocket most of the time.

But, — and that's a great-big "but," —the farmer who could do all that hasn't been invented or created. By hard work and constant practice a man can become a first-class blacksmith. He can get so that he can accomplish the seemingly impossible with iron, hot or cold. Yet that same super-blacksmith couldn't set ten lines of brevier in a week. A man may make of himself the first violinist of the world, and still not be able to turn a Ford car around in traffic. A farmer may, by long study of his hens, get so they will give him eggs by the bushel in early winter when fresh eggs are worth their weight in gold, and yet prove a fizzling failure in a berry patch.

Side lines the farmer must have, as a sort of insurance against utter loss. But he must, even more certainly, have one main line,—and stick to it.

Ah, friends, in that last homely phrase lies the secret of most successes, in farming as in all other fields of human endeavor.

"Jack of all trades and master of none." And it is always "Jack" who does the work and "master" who takes the pay. Don't keep too many irons in the fire at once." Some will get too hot and some not hot enough. Or, in the words of a quaint old English saying: "Dogged does it." Steady adherence to one main road and dogged determination in following it, regardless of the temptations of enticing side trails, are requirements if one really wishes to reach the goal.

Every practical farmer knows that there are some kinds of farming which won't "hitch" with other kinds. For instance, you simply can't run a hennery and a vegetable garden at the highest efficiency of each on the same farm at the same time. You might as well try to mix oil and water with a feather. On the other hand, there are some branches of farm production which can be carried on, side by side. The farmer whose main reliance is on his dairy can, at the same time, usually do something profitable with fowls. The farmer whose chief crop is potatoes can also, — and will if he is ordinarily bright,—manage a worthwhile side line of clover.

But, in either case or in any other case, he ought to have one special form of production to which he shall give his best thought, his shrewdest foresight, his hardest work.

The always present temptation is to give up that line whenever some other seems to show fairer promise. For instance, pork was so low, a few years ago, as to preclude all possibility of profit in producing it. As a result so many farmers gave up their piggeries that now pork is soaring upwards. There isn't enough to go 'round. It promises to bring even higher prices. And a whole lot of farmers, whose true line is potatoes or hay or corn or cabbages or something of the sort, will be tempted to "go in" heavy on pork. Whereby they will batter the price down again.—Last year potatoes sold for less than their true value, because there had been an overproduction. The temptation is for many potato-growers, this year, to put in something else.—By which restriction a potato shortage may well be caused, which shall send the price of spuds sky-rocketing again.

There are ups and down of the market; there are ups and downs in production. In the end, the most successful farmer will be the one who pays scant heed to these whimlings of chance, but sticks to one main line of production, in bad weather or in good, in the face of low as well as high markets.

When a schooner sets out from Eastport, Me., for Key West, Fla., it sets a general sou-sou-west by south course,—and keeps to it, as close as possible. If it should head south-east every time the wind blew from the north-west it might hit the coast of Africa but would miss Key West. If it should head west every time a gale came out of the east it might run into Barnegat sands, but not Key West. It may, indeed, have to trim sail many times, and sometimes go off its course many points for a while, driven by head winds, but, in the main, it holds true to its destination. Whereby it gets there, sooner or later, and discharges its cargo to the consignee.

What's good seamanship is also good landmanship. The skipper knows what port he wants to make and heads for it. The farmer, likewise, should have a definite purpose, a well-thought plan, a fixed goal, and head for it, making the winds serve him as best he can.

In other words he should stick to it. Put as a paradigm the first lesson in farm grammar might look something like this:—

"I'll stick to it;
"You'll stick to it;
"He'll stick to it;
"We'll all everlastingly stick to it;"
etc.

The butterfly goes about where the wind happens to blow. And doesn't live long. Old Man Black Crow goes where the grub is. And they say he lives a hundred years.

DOUBLE SERVICE from this SIMPLER PLANT

Electric LIGHT

Engine POWER

Here, at last, is a Home Light Plant that gives double the usual service, yet is completely free from all intricate concealed mechanism. It is not only more useful, but also more simple.

The Fairbanks-Morse Home Light Plant supplies current of electricity for lights and electrical conveniences, and also gives power for operating a line shaft or other machines at the same time you are charging the battery. Or you can use the plant for electricity alone or for engine power alone, just as you like.

The engine is a famous Fairbanks-Morse "Z" Type, now used by more than 325,000 farmers. All other parts are equally dependable.

Come in and see this more useful plant.

NEW MARRIAGE LICENSE BILL IS REJECTED AFTER MUCH DISCUSSION

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, March 19.—The marriage license bill, introduced by Judge Peck of Bristol and supported by Protestant and Catholic churches of the state, was unfavorably reported by the judiciary committee today in the house of representatives. Mr. Bell of Salisbury in making the report saying that the meritorious features of the bill were overbalanced by the bad features. The bill was rejected after debate.

Judge Peck got the floor in an effort to save the measure.

Judge Peck argued for the admittedly good points in the bill, said the proponents had recognized at least one of the defects in the bill—invalidating marriages made outside the state in order to evade the provisions of the proposed law—and had wanted that cut out. Judge Peck moved to table the bill for a week and have it printed in the files. Miss Cheney of Manchester said she thought the judiciary committee ought to take out the objectionable features and report the rest favorably. She said she had always thought people should be very careful about getting married. Her remarks caused a laugh. The motion to table was strenuously opposed by Floor Leader Alling and Judge Johnson of Manchester. Mr. Lavery of Fairfield made a plea to have the bill printed so it could be read by each member of the house and they could know what they are voting on. Mr. Bell argued that the judgment of the judiciary committee—which was unanimous—should be considered. Mr. Hill of Shelton regretted that he had to disagree with Mr. Lavery, and he opposed the motion to table. Dr. Higgins moved the previous question. The motion to table was lost and the bill was rejected by viva voce vote.

SENATE.

The senate was called to order at 11.25. Chaplain Lewis of the house offered prayer in the absence of Chaplain Ayers.

A resolution was passed recalling from the office of the governer senate bill No. 131 amending the charter of the borough court of Naugatuck. Senator Shaw was appointed on the committee of recall.

The committee on public health and safety reported unfavorably on a bill making the vaccination of school children compulsory. The bill was rejected.

The bill for a plumbers' code was unfavorably reported by the committees on public health and safety and the bill was rejected.

The bill for the filing of notices of liens, for federal income tax with town clerks, was unfavorably reported by the committee on the judiciary and rejected.

The committee on military affairs reported favorably on a substitute bill creating a war memorial commission. It provides for a commission of five persons to be appointed by the governor. The commission shall secure plans, specifications and an estimate of the cost of a suitable memorial or memorials to be placed on the capitol grounds to perpetuate the memory of the men and women of the state who gave their lives in the service of their country during the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and the World war and shall report its findings and recommendations to the general assembly at its January session 1927. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation but their necessary expenses shall be paid by the comptroller. Tabled for calendar.

The committee on public health and safety reported favorably on senate bill No. 511 concerning dentistry. It provides that a candidate for a dental hygienist license shall present a certificate from the state board of education that she has completed a four years' course at an approved high school or has an equivalent academic education. No license shall be issued to a dental hygienist unless she shall present a certificate of graduation from some reputable institution conferring diplomas. From July, 1926, no widow, heir at law or legatee of a deceased registered or licensed dentist shall operate any dental office for a period longer than one year following the decease of such registered dentist. The bill was tabled for calendar.

THE HOUSE.

The house was called to order by Speaker Darbie at 11.30 and prayer was offered by the house chaplain, Rev. Arthur F. Lewis.

Petitions were received asking that favorable action be taken on H. B. 341, an act including the highway from East Hampton to East Haddam in the trunk line system.

S. B. 157, an act incorporating the Bozrah Electric company in concurrence with the senate was rejected. S. B. 304, an act concerning soliciting persons to institute actions for damages, providing penalty for soliciting and taking legal cases on speculation was also rejected.

The judiciary committee presented a list of bills with unfavorable reports. Among them were four bills concerning the suppression of billboards. H. B. 79, introduced by Judge Peck of Bristol, an act regulating marriage licenses and marriage, provoked a discussion of some length.

Mr. Bell of Salisbury presented the report of the committee and as usual vigorously supported the report of the committee. Judge Peck of Bristol said that this bill was one that had been carefully considered, the provisions being the suggestions from the churches of all denominations and welfare workers of the state. He felt that the bill should not be acted on without a further study of the bill and moved that it be laid upon the table and printed in the journal. This motion was opposed by House Leader Alling, he claiming that when bills had been reported after careful consideration, action should be taken. This will have to be done and why delay and thereby prolong the session of the assembly. The motion to table was supported by Representatives Cheney of Manchester, Johnson of Manchester, Lavery of Fairfield, Hill of Shelton was of the opinion that action should be taken now and moved the previous question. The motion to table was lost and the bill was rejected. H. B. 951 that confers the powers of a justice of the peace was rejected.

All the petitions for charters and permits to purchase the Norwich municipal gas and electric plant and H. B. 805 an act incorporating the Thames Power company were on the unfavorable report of the incorporations committee, rejected. Senate bill 57, incorporating the Bozrah Electric company was rejected as was S. B. 205, providing for abolishing of compulsory vaccination and imposition of penalties where vaccination is required and S. B. 512, concerning the quantity of vaccine serum or antitoxin were on the report of committee on public health and safety; rejected.

The petition of Arthur King for restoration of rights forfeited was rejected.

The claim of Charles L. Crowe of Willimantic was favored by the committee on claims and the comptroller was directed to pay the claimant $68.26.

Bills taken up from the calendar and passed were No. 460 providing for co-operation of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station with the agents of the United States department of agriculture in the control of plant pests; No. 584, eliminating European hares from the protection of the closed season for wild hares and rabbits; No. 616 requiring license from the superintendent of the state board of fisheries and game for the practice of taxidermy; No. 657, requiring applicants for a license to practice veterinary medicine to submit to an examination in surgery and meat inspection; No. 14, providing for an examination of the qualifications of jurors in criminal cases.

Adverse reports from the committee on roads, bridges and rivers resulted in rejection of the following bills: No. 920, providing for sidewalks on state highways; No. 923, providing for an appropriation to improve the trunk line highway from Pomfret to Killingly; No. 924, providing for adding certain highway in Voluntown to the trunk line system.

House bill 951 concerning the leasing of streams which was laid on the table yesterday, was called up by Chairman Wheeler, who offered amendments that would eliminate the objectionable features that were offered yesterday. The bill even then called forth vigorous opposition, the opponents being led by Representative Bell of Salisbury. The bill on motion of Mr. Wheeler moved that the bill be recommitted on fish and game.

The house adjourned at 1.05 to 11.30 Friday.

Java is to have a 10,000 horsepower hydro electric plant which will furnish power to many industries and cities.

A Cold on the Chest Doesn't Worry Mr. Perry

He Has Found That Allen's Lung Healer Soon Breaks It Up. Read His Letter.

"I can recommend Allen's Lung Healer for severe cough. Several times I have had occasion to use it for a severe cold and cough in the chest, and it has proved wonderfully effective in relieving the congestion and soreness and curing the cough in a remarkably short time. Before I knew of the Lung Healer these coughs would drag along for weeks and weeks, but now I can get rid of them in as many days. It is a great comfort to know of a remedy for these chest colds that I can depend on to cure them quickly. It is the best cough medicine I ever used and I heartily recommend it as a wonderful lung healer."

JEWETT CITY

An exceptionally pleasant evening was spent by those who attended the second get together meeting of the new Jewett City Chamber of Commerce.

The proprietor of the Jewett City hotel outdid himself in the fine serving of the full course roast lamb supper. Among the speakers of the evening was Warden Matthew J. Geary, who talked in an informal way about the affairs of the borough. Few of his predecessors have been possessed of as thorough a knowledge of its needs and possible benefits. The economy idea has been taken over by the borough government, and there is evidence of feasible plans to decrease its bonded indebtedness.

Warden Geary was a sort of pinch hitter, when he first assumed the office, for Dr. J. Bryon Sweet was nominated, and would have been elected. Death removed the doctor before election, Mr. Geary being nominated by the democratic borough committee, which was followed by ratification by the republicans, and Mr. Geary became the first warden to be elected by a unanimous vote of the borough, with no opposition.

Other interesting remarks were heard from P. W. Chase, welfare superintendent of the Ashland Cotton Co., Secretary William M. McNicol, Rev. J. W. Payne and Supt. F. H. P. Clement, of the Griswold schools. Tentative plans are under consideration for a chicken supper for the chamber.

Thursday opened up in this section with a close to an inch rainfall. Following the clearing in the afternoon the mercury rose to 60 degrees.

Arthur D. Tripp, attended the meeting of the corporation committee of the Odd Fellows' home, held in New Haven, Wednesday. Mr. Tripp was a delegate from Reliance lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F., of Jewett City.

Not a few in the borough and vicinity, can look today with complacence upon the letters they received from that poor dying "Spanish prisoner," who has been caught at last. The letters that reached this town contained no allusion to the "young and beautiful daughter" a tender charming girl, so soon to become an orphan, and helpless in a wicked world, unless the American should come to the rescue. Although it is claimed the fake deal netted millions, not a single iron man went from Jewett City. The letters which reached here, were cold cash deals, and put $130,000 within easy grasp. No knowing what accesses might have been attained, had the poor Spaniard handed in some of the "young and tender" argument.

A local man reports seeing six freshly arrived spring birds, within the borders of a nearby farm in Lisbon, all on a single morning this week. Among these, the most recent to arrive, are Mrs. Phoebe and her dashing young husband. The pair was reported as extra pert, after their trip to Florida. Local winter visitors to the southern states say that when the familiar Phoebe's note is heard from the heart of a Florida hummock, it seems strangely out of place. The housekeeping ideas of Mrs. Phoebe of today have suffered no change, if one looks under the old bridge that spans the meadow brook, there may be found a big bulky nest of moss and mud, being prepared for the coming family. Some years ago, a pair of Phoebe's built under the "Nigger" bridge, so called, in the upper section of Ashland Pond. There was always some evidence given by the few baby birds the mother was able to get to the flying stage, that one or possibly two, from each brood, fell out of the nest into the water. There was other evidence that looked as though the toppling over of a young bird would be a welcome occurrence to the finny tribes below, after passing under the bridge in a boat, and into its shadow, one could shade his eyes, and then, on peering down into the water near the bridge abutment, there could be made out the slowly moving dim forms of two and sometimes more, great bass. No baited hook ever seemed of interest to them, evidently there had been hand-outs from above.

Those who attended the whist for the Masons and their families and the O. E. S. members, report an unusually pleasant evening Wednesday. The ladies' first prize went to Mrs. Harold Field and the second to Mrs. Robert MacCrea. The gentlemen's first prize was a tie between three—L. G. Buckingham, Robert MacCrea and Christine Marshall, the latter receiving the prize. Charles Cornell took the second prize. Cake and tea were served. There were seven tables of players.

Hearts and Dollars

Two Statements—one of which has to do with Health and Welfare, the other with Financial Strength

AN OPEN LETTER

(Name on Request)

MR. HALEY FISKE, President
METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE CO.
NEW YORK CITY

My Dear Mr. Fiske:

Why don't you publish a Heart Statement along with the regular Financial Statement you put out each year?

Any company can publish impressive figures of financial strength, financial growth, etc. But figures don't stick. All I remember from your last year's Statement is that the Metropolitan has several million policyholders and is the biggest life insurance company in the world.

I've been following some of your magazine advertisements lately that tell of work you're doing to help people live longer. It isn't entirely clear in my mind just how you're doing it or why you do it, but since you are doing it, give us the facts and figures on that. Call it a Heart Statement or a Welfare Statement, or anything you like, but—give us the facts.

Perhaps other Metropolitan policyholders like myself would be interested in a Statement of that kind.

Very truly yours,
C. N. S——

WE are indebted to Mr. S. for his suggestion. It is an excellent one. We publish an annual Business Statement of the Metropolitan, not because we think that the figures will be remembered, but because they offer conclusive evidence of unusual growth and strength to its 22,000,000 policyholders.

And it is this extraordinary financial strength that makes it possible for the Metropolitan to carry on a nation-wide campaign for better health and longer life.

People now live longer

Records kept by the Metropolitan show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its policyholders. Compared with 1911, for example, there were nearly 62,000 fewer deaths in 1924 among its Industrial Policyholders than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

While the average life span in the United States is 5½ years greater than it was 12 years ago, the life span of the Industrial Policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years—a betterment of three years over the general average—in the same interval.

These increases in longer life are due in large part to the Metropolitan's Health and Welfare Work among its policyholders.

You are the gainer

You and all the other 22,000,000 policyholders—one out of every six people in the United States and Canada—reap the benefit through better health and decreased cost of insurance.

The wealth of the Metropolitan belongs to you and to no one else. The Metropolitan has no stock and no stockholders. It is owned solely by its policyholders. You, as one of the policyholders, share in the ownership of all its investments; in its railroad bonds, its real-estate mortgages, its loans to farmers, loans to states, cities and towns for public improvements and similar enterprises.

You, as a part-owner of over $1,000,000,000, should read the two statements on the left with a feeling of pride in what your company has achieved.

The efforts as well as the assets of the Metropolitan are dedicated to protection against future want—to greater happiness, better health and longer life.

Haley Fiske.

Wednesday morning the brand new coast guard boat, "C. G. 2367" Capt. Arthur Larkin, came up the Pawcatuck river to moor at the Sherman lower dock. The craft which was spic and span, besides the captain carried a crew of three men and was on its way to its home station at Gay Head, Mass. The craft is 36 feet in length and capable of high speed, having come east from Gloucester City, N. J. Previous to the departure Capt. Larkin was able to visit local relatives before returning to his regular duties at the Massachusetts Coast Guard station.

By deeds filed in the office of the Westerly town clerk, March 17th, Moise D. Provost of New Bedford, Mass., conveyed to Ada Jackson lots Nos. 11 and 17 in the Franklin Gardens plat. On the same date Samuel H. Davis transferred to Tony Magnetto of Bradford, R. I., lot No. 22 on Clark avenue at Pleasant View.

Bertha Mae Nugent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Nugent of Commerce street, Westerly, on March 7th in Pawtucket, R. I., became the wife of Arthur George Lussier of that place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Dion.

Following attendance at the Twelfth International Flower show, in New York, Councilman and Police Commissioner Farquhar Smith and Mrs. Smith returned home Thursday. A Westerly exhibitor of dahlias at this exhibition was George L. Stillman.

In the series of bridge whist matches between teams representing the Mistuxet club of Stonington and the Westerly Masonic club, in the latter's rooms on High street, Wednesday evening, the Connecticut visitors were victorious, 22,177 to 15,604.

Concerning the two-masted fishing schooner, Viking, a total wreck on Fishers Island, report was received in Westerly Thursday morning from New London that the wrecking firm there would make no attempt to go to Fishers Island to assist in salvaging the crude oil Bolander engine on which the Fishers Island Coast Guard crew, under Capt. Clarence E. Peckham, an dthe five-man crew worked all day Wednesday.

The members of Amos P. Chapman post, Sons of Veterans, Albert F. Lawton, commander, were hosts for the evening to the auxiliary of the post. Included in the invitation were members of Connecticut Sons of Veterans camps as well as the local members of patriotic societies. Following the evening's program, light refreshments were served.

After an illness of but ten days, at her home, 5 Grove avenue, Mrs. Nancy Healy, 79, died Wednesday evening. She was born in Ireland, the daughter of Michael and Anne Sullivan. Mrs. Healy came to this country when but 14 and has practically spent all her life in Westerly. She was united in marriage about 60 years ago with Patrick Healy, and they had ten children, four sons and six daughters. Three of the sons died in infancy, and Dr. Michael Healy died in 1906.

The surviving children are Mrs. John W. Fanning of Providence, Mrs. Patrick H. Morrison, Mrs. William F. McGrath and Misses Kathryn T., Helen V. and Delia L. of Westerly; also five grandchildren, William J. McGrath, Walter Fanning, Miss Edna Fanning and Mrs. Joseph Lynch, of Providence.

Mrs. Healy was a devout member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception and was a member of several of its societies.

The third annual Auto Show, under the auspices of Harold Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, Westerly, opened at the State Armory on Dixon street, Wednesday night with a paid attendance of about 400.

At the right of the entrance in the company room is an accessory exhibit by five Westerly deaers which includes paints, tires ,electrical equipment and the innumerable devices with which the up-to-date car is equipped.

Decorations in the main drill shed, where fourteen Westerly automobile dealers have on exhibition thirty-four models representing twenty-four makes of automobiles, are by a Norwich florist. From a centerpiece, a miniature model auto, are festoons blue and gold bunting with electric festooning and decorations.

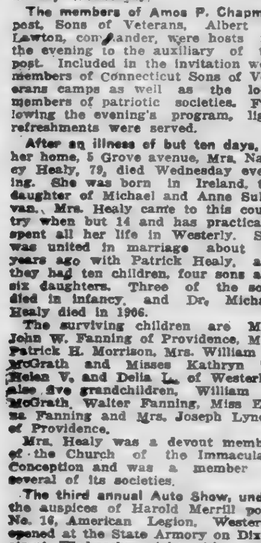
Work of sewage installation began the first of the week on Vincent Carr hill on High street and automobile traffic from Westerly has to detour by way of Pierce and Pearl streets to the top of the hill.

Metropolitan newspapers and early morning mails from the west were delayed about four hours Thursday, caused by a freight wreck at Woodmont, five and a half miles west of New Haven. When one track was cleared through the wreckage of 18 cars which blocked the four tracks, the following express trains passed the Westerly station beginning at 9 a. m. closely following each other. The Owl, the Federal express, the Evergades and the New England express, the last named making its Westerly station four hours late.

Workmen in the employ of Samuel Nardone Thursday morning began cutting the trees at the rear of the house on High trseet occupied by Dr. John Ruisi. Other men demolished a part of the stable in the rear of the May property on Canal street. This will give room to move back the garage in the rear of Dr. Ruisi's, so that a new theater can be built on the site; it will have the north wall close to the south property line on the May lot. The south wall of the proposed theater of rectangular shape will run close to and parallel wit hthe real ell on the Ruisi house and in a straight line to Canal Street, leaving just room at the back of the east theater wall for a driveway out into High street.

Low carbon content in the steel rails of the lines in Java has caused outer rails on curves to split from top to bottom.

Has New Powerful Antiseptic



Dr. Veader Leonard, of Baltimore, Md., who, from the Johns Hopkins Hospital there, announces his discovery of a new powerful antiseptic, 50 times the strength of Carbolic Acid, and yet safe to drink. The new antiseptic, called Hexylresorcinol, took ten years to perfect, but is said to work wonders in killing germs.

LEBANON

The school savings for the town of Lebanon amounted at the time of the last report to $152.59. This is an average of 55 cents for each pjupil in the grades. There is little interest in the local high school regarding savings. The Exeter school No. 15 has every pupil enrolled, and some of the others have most of the children saving. The two which have saved the most this year are Babcock Hill School and No. 10.

Schools will close for the spring vacation Thursday, April 9, at regular closing time, and will reopen on Monday, April 20.

James W. Frost is supervising agent of these schools.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck Boasts to Peter Rabbit

Unless you're looking for a fall
'Tis better not to boast at all.
—Polly Chuck.

Of course, news of Johnny Chuck's great fight soon traveled through the Green Forest and over the Green Meadows down in the dear Old Briarpatch. Peter Rabbit heard it. Early next morn-

"We are going to miss you down on the Green Meadow this summer," said Peter ing he was up at the new home of the Woodchucks, in the upper corner of the Old Orchard, to find out how Johnny was and to congratulate him on winning the great fight. In fact, he was up there before Johnny Chuck came out. You see, Johnny was so stiff and sore that he dreaded getting out of bed. When he did come out he merely grunted good morning to Peter Rabbit and then hurried over to the nearest patch of sweet clover, for Johnny was very hungry. You know, he had had nothing to eat before the big fight the day before, and afterward he had been too stiff and sore to get about much. Peter went along with him, and as they ate they talked. Polly Chuck joined them.

"We are going to miss you down on the Green Meadows this summer," said Peter. "What was the matter with your old home down there?"

"Nothing," replied Johnny Chuck. "It was a very good home, but we thought we would like a change. The Green Meadows are all very well, but we like the Old Orchard better. So we decided we would make a new home up here."

Polly Chuck's eyes twinkled, but she said nothing. She kept right on eating sweet clover and turned her head aside now and then to hide a smile.

"I heard you were going to make your home over toward the Big River," said Peter.

"You mustn't believe everything you hear," replied Johnny. "There is nothing over there to compare with this place here. I always did like the Old Orchard. You'll go a long way, Peter Rabbit, before you'll find such a perfect place for a house as where we have made our new one."

Polly Chuck chuckled under her breath. "To hear him," she said to herself, "you would think that he was the one who had insisted on coming up to the Old Orchard. And to hear him boast about that new house of ours you would think that he had picked out the place and helped dig it, when all the time he didn't have anything to do about it."

"In building a new home, Peter, the first thing to think about is safety," continued Johnny Chuck. "Now just look at that new home of ours. Can you think of a safer place? It goes right down under the old stone wall, and no one bigger than ourselves can possibly get into it. Reddy Fox can't possibly dig it open if he wears his claws out trying. Then see how handy it is to this sweet clover. Did you ever in your life taste any sweeter? We haven't got to go more than a few feet from our own doorstep to get all we want to eat. And what a place to bring up a family! There are all sorts of hiding places for the youngsters in the old stone wall. We won't have to worry much about them while they are growing up. We knew what we were doing when we picked out this place. Yes, sir, we knew what we were doing."

"We!" murmured Polly Chuck under her breath, and chuckled again. "I do believe the dear old fraud has really begun to think that he had something to do with the making of this new home."

In England a patent has been granted for a process by which cardboard pressed into the shape of kitchen utensils, such as kettles and saucepans, can be made waterproof and acid resisting. The cardboard utensils are dipped in a solution of one part asphalt, two parts resin, three parts shellac in five parts of spirit, and allowed to dry slowly in the air.

When the Westchester county park commission opened bids at White Plains, N. Y., for the removal of Money Hill, on the Hudson river at Croton, it inserted a clause in the contract that if any of Captain Kidd's treasure was unearthed from the hill it was to be turned over to the commission. Money Hill was so named owing to a legend that Capt. Kidd buried some of his treasure there. Residents thereabout have frequently reported finding Spanish pieces-of-eight and other coins of ancient mintage.

To Encourage Japanese Exports.

For the purpose of encouraging Japanese export trade, bills were introduced into the Diet on Feb. 5, 1925, entitled Exporters' Association Act and Export Manufacturers' Act, providing exemption from income and business taxes, and combining some of the features of the American Webb-Pomerene and Edge laws, according to a cable from Acting Commercial Attache Frank Rhea, Tokio.

Predatory Animals' Preserve

A wild life preserve, not for deer and fish, but for predatory animals such as mountain lions and wolves has been proposed by Professor Charles C. Adams, of the Roosevelt Wild Life Forest Experiment Station, at Syracuse, N. Y. Professor Adams points out that at present all the protection goes to the game animals and live stock, and that the beasts of prey, which are in their own way very interesting animals are in danger of being wiped out. He suggests that some isolated spot far from cattle ranges and game preserves, be left to them and to the animals on which they prey, as a sample of absolutely primordial wilderness as it was before man arrived on the scene. Such a thing is not possible, he pointed out, in the national forests, which are organized and run for economic purposes. Neither is it possible in the national parks, which are set aside primarily for the recreation of great numbers of people whose presence necessarily disturbs natural conditions. Such a reservation, he concluded, would have to be in an entirely new category, though it might well be administered by either the forest service or the national park service.

Portugal Purchasing Agency.

There has been established in Lisbon, Portugal, a general agency for the purchase of all construction materials for the colonies. This should be of interest to American firms interested in furnishing Portuguese colonies with material for the construction of roads, railroads, water systems, buildings, and all kinds of machinery for public works, reports Consul Francis H. Styles, Loanda, Angola.

Necklaces of Eggs

Necklaces of wild birds' eggs are now being made. The eggs are pared for size, and after blowing are treated by a chemical process and the insides filled with a light composition to give them solidity. As the shells have different markings, novel effects are produced.
